FARMERS UNION MEETING HELD AT DIMEN SCHOOL

A Farmers Union meeting was held at the Dimen school house on August 26. The program for the evening included a vocal duet by Victor Erickson and Knute Iverson, and a solo by Wofert Ramstrom of St. Hilaire, which were followed by a brief business session. The county organizer, Geo. Blake, addressed the gathering, and Iris Ayers and Minnie Joyce sang. Lunch was served by the refreshment committee.

Businessmen Favor Postponing Trade Event Till Later Date

Paul Lundgren Resigns As C & C Secretary

Combined Event Will Be Staged In New Skating Rink Building

A fall festival to be held in conjunction with the Automobile Show during the middle part of November was decided by the Civic and Commerce association at the open meeting held Thursday evening of last week.

The merchants didn't show much enthusiasm for an earlier event which some had planned for the earlier part of October. As the new big skating rink building is expected to be ready by the 10th of November many thought the fall bargain days could be held in connection with the auto show and probably a dedication of the building.

Chairman Carlisle presided at the meeting, calling on chairmen of the various committees of the club to tell of their activities and the need of a businessmen's club of this kind. Paul Lundgren, who has been the efficient secretary of the club for the past seven years, tendered his resignation because his own business took all his time. He explained that more and more demands have gradually made the duties as secretary a more important one than in former years. A successor has not as yet been chosen.

BLACK RIVER LOCAL UNION

The Black River Local Union met Wednesday evening and had a very interesting meeting there, they made an application for a Charter and elected the following officers: chairman, Henry Melin; vice-chairman, Clarence Anderson; secretary, Edward Naplin, and county committeeman, Carl A. Anderson.

George W. Blake discussed the principles of the Farmers Union and the importance of standing by the cooperative movement.

KRATKA LOCAL UNION

The Kratka Farmers Union local No. 1 of Pennington county met Wednesday, Sept. 2, in the Jasperson school where they had a program of music furnished by the Juniors.

George W. Blake, state organizer, gave a talk on the importance of standing by the cooperative program. J. W. Erlandson spoke on the importance of studying history.

Resolutions were passed instructing the county committee to buy or build an oil station at once and also make an arrangement for the pooling and sending their sweet clover seed to the Farmers Union Grain terminal.

Otto Rehm resigned as Local Chairman, due to the fact that he is chairman of the Farmers-Union County board. Succeeding him as chairman was J. W. Erlandson.

Skating Rink Benefit Will Be Held Friday

The first of a series of dances to provide funds for equipment for the skating rink will be held in the city auditorium Friday evening this week. The event is sponsored by the American Legion post and Abbie Andrews orchestra of Fargo will furnish the music.

Equipment is needed at the new big rink, such as seats and lockers, a warming room, a dressing room, a close-wove wire netting around the rink to protect the audience when hockey is being played, etc. Local funds must be obtained to pay for such and the Legion post has assumed the burden of raising this money.

River Valley Club Presents Play Sunday

The River Valley Community club will present a three-act play "All A Mistake" in the River Valley tent next Sunday, Sept. 13. There will be two performances one at two p. m. and one at eight p. m. Proceeds from the presentation will be used towards the erection of a new community hall.

The play is a comedy with every act filled with amusing complications. Comprising the cast of characters are Jack Radnieki, Anne Kolstrand, Irene Gustafson, Peter Mandt, Edwin Gordon, Olaf Dahlen, Mildred Gustafson, and Geneva Korupp. Musical selections will be presented between acts.

The same play will be given at Smiley hall Saturday, Sept. 19.

BORGEN PLAYERS WILL OPEN SEASON WEDNESDAY

The Borgen Players, a group of actors forming a stock company, under the management of Pete Borgen, will open the stage season here by presenting a comedy, "Know Your Groceries", at the Sons of Norway hall next Wednesday evening. The cast is well known to local people as the group gave many stage plays here last winter.

ARRANGE CLINIC FOR CHILDREN

State Medical Examiners Will Be In Thief River Falls On Saturday. Oct. 3rd

An opportunity for medical examination and advice will be available to crippled children in Thief River Falls and in other parts of the state in a series of six orthopedic clincs to be held this fall as a part of the Social Security program. The schedule for these clinics, which will be in charge of the division of Crippled Children's Services, State Board of Control, follows:

Rushford, Sept. 19th.
Fergus Falls, Sept. 26th.
Thief River Falls, Oct. 3rd.
Bemidji, Oct. 17th.
Worthington, Oct. 31st.
Mankato, Nov. 14th.

Co-operating in arrangements for these clinics is the Minnesota Public Health Association, which up to the time Federal funds were made available for this work conducted orthopedic clinics as a part of the Christmas Seal program.

These clinics are for physically handicapped persons under 21 years of age. In addition to medical examination by physicians, who specialize in the diagnosis and treatment of deformities, services will include consultation with the family physician, advice on hospitalization where it is needed, arrangements for transportation to school of children unable to walk, and consultation on training for employment. Vocational advice will be provided through the Division of Re-Education, Minnesota Department of Education. Following up of cases needing attention will be carried on after the clinic by the nursing staff of the division of Crippled Children's Services.

LOCAL ROAD CONTRACTORS ARE AWARDED $38,987 BID

H. P. Lund & Sons, local contractors were given the contract for grading 5.1 miles of highway between Birchdale and Manitou, 25 miles west of International Falls, at the awarding of contracts last week by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner. The amount of the bid was $38,987. The grading will be on Route No. 11 between Baudette and International Falls.

Grygla Young Man Shoots Ferocious Lynx

Ervin Vigen of Grygla became quite noted as a "big game" hunter last week when the news became known that he had shot and killed a lynx with a "twenty-two" rifle. There seemed to be some disturbance among the sheep and, armed with his rifle, he went to see what the trouble was. The animal had already killed three sheep. However, it left the sheep to attack him upon his arrival at the scene. Ervin quickly aimed and killed the lynx on the spot. Ervin took it to Grygla where much comment was made on his bravery. The lynx was later taken to S. K. Sandland's for mounting.—Grygla Correspondent.

SEN. BENSON TO OPEN CAMPAIGN AT APPLETON

Gubernatorial Nominee To Open Election Drive On Monday, Sept. 21

Special Train Will Bring Big Audience

Speech Will Be Broadcast By Several Station In Minnesota

Senator Elmer A. Benson is going home to Appleton to deliver the keynote address of his campaign for the governorship of the State of Minnesota on Monday, Sept. 21st, and the home town folks are preparing a tribute to their first native son to be a candidate of a major party for the chief executive's office. The event promises to be the highlight of the present campaign in this state.

A full day's program of entertainment will climax in the keynote address at eight o'clock in the evening. Six bands and drum corps will be brought there from over the state to provide the music and participate in the parades. Fitting decorations will be placed for the occasion over the entire town. The speech will be broadcast over a statewide radio hookup and news reel photographers will record the happenings of the day in pictures.

A special train will bring delegations from Minneapolis and St. Paul and intervening points along the Milwaukee road to Appleton. Automobile caravans are being organized to come from all other parts of the state.

Local arrangements for the occasion are being made by the Benson-For-Governor Volunteer Club of Appleton, an organization of Senator Benson's home town people, set up to assist in his election to the governorship. The club is headed by F. E. Wright, with Mrs. Alice Arntzen, as vice-chairman and R. G. Risch, secretary.

Berve Speaks at Warren; Engen Will Speak Here

H. O. Berve of this city addressed a large gathering of members of the Warren Farmer-Labor club in the city hall at Warren Tuesday evening. Gust Nyquist of Roseau also spoke to the group. Nels Engen, chairman of the Warren club, presided over the meeting. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the ladies of the club.

At the next meeting of the local Farmer-Labor club, which is scheduled to be held next week, the chairman of the Warren club will be the principal speaker. This is announced by Herman Kjos, of the Thief River Falls club who also attended the meeting at Warren.

Judge and Party Return From Extensive Trip

Judge and Mrs. M. A. Brattland, daughter Lois and Joan Neset returned Tuesday evening from an extensive trip that took them to the New England and Atlantic Coast states. They visited relatives in Massachusetts, Connecticut and with friends at several other points enroute, the point farthest south being at Williamsburg, Va. They also spent some time in such cities as Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Washington. They made the 6,000 mile trip in four weeks, making good use of their amply-equipped trailer.

New County Auditor Is Chosen In Red Lake

Arthur Prenevost of Terrebonne was named as the new auditor of Red Lake County by the board of commissioners of the county. Mr. Prenevost will fill the vacancy which was caused by the death by drowning of Miss Emma Dupont Wednesday, last week.

Mr. Prenevost was county commissioner from the second district from 1917 to 1921 and was a candidate for judge of probate in 1934. He has furnished the necessary bonds and has been duly sworn into office. Charles Wheaton, Red Lake deputy county auditor, will continue in that capacity.

Former County Resident Buried at Grand Forks

Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon last week at the Hanson-Anderson Mortuary in Grand Forks for Andrew Brovold, 94 year old pioneer of North Dakota and Minnesota, who died on Tuesday, Sept. 1, at his home, in Grand Forks. Pallbearers were six grandsons. Rev. O. T. Ness of Grand Forks officiated.

Mr. Brovold was well known to many people in Pennington and the neighboring counties as he resided near what is now the River Valley community.

Andrew Brovold was born on March 23, 1842 at Kinservik, Hardanger, Norway. He died after a venturesome and pioneering life in several continents and over the seven seas. Until last winter he had been in good health.

At about the age of 14 years he hired out as a deck boy to start his 20 years as a seaman, captain and ship owner. He sailed all of the seven seas and called at most of the world ports. Shipwrecked in the North Sea, and breaking his collarbone and shoulder, he clung to some heavy planks for 24 hours before finally being rescued. Numerous fights with pirates in the Mediterranean Sea and off the North African coast have been related by the deceased.

In the seventies Mr. Brovold came to the United States on the first of several trips. He decided to remain here and went to Chicago, late rto Council Bluffs, Iowa, and then to Bismarck, N. D., and

Farmer-Labor Group Stages Lindsten Banquet

A banquet was held by the Thief River Falls Farmer-Labor club on Monday evening at Sorensen's cafe in honor of Gottfrid Lindsten who was a visitor here that day. About thirty were in attendance.

Mr. Lindsten, who is the F-L. candidate for lieutenant governor, told of the activities of the campaign and tactics employed by the opponents. Erick Friberg of Roseau, also spoke briefly. H. O. Berve was the toastmaster.

BALL TEAM WINS 2 MORE GAMES

Warren and Grygla Are Defeated In Close Encounters Held During Week

Thief River Falls scored two victories in both games played this week. On Sunday Grygla was taken into camp by the score of 14 to 10, and the following day Warren was taken into camp 7 to 6.

The local boys autoed to Grygla Sunday when a rather listless pastime was engaged in. After holding the opposing team to two runs in six frames, the local boys fell into difficulties and, while they had a lead of several scores, the uncertainty of the outcome was somewhat endangered as Grygla tallied eight scores in the last three innings. Thief River Falls had a lead of 8 to 2 as the seventh opened. It was in the last inning that put the game "in the sack" when the Thief River boys tallied four runs which was too much for the Marshall county town boys to overcome. Orvalla's arm is not as yet in condition which may be the explanation for some of the Grygla scores in the latter part of the game.

The local team was unusually heavy at batting, finding the delivery of Williams, the Grygla twirler, good for nineteen bingles. Battelson and Eide were the best of the lot, the former getting four and the latter three. Bernstein, for Grygla, garnered three of the ten hits which his team made in the encounter.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS R. V. PICNIC MONDAY

G. T. Lindsten, Minneapolis Gives Oration on Labor

Local Civic Group Assist In Celebration

Cong. Buckler, Mayor W. Prichard, Paul Lundgren Also Speak

A large crowd estimated at more than one thousand people attended the annual Labor Day celebration at River Valley. Monday afternoon. The event was sponsored by the community club there in conjunction with the Thief River Falls Civic and Commerce association.

Gottfrid Lindsten, of Minneapolis, was the main speaker, giving a comprehensive outline why Labor Day was observed. Mr, Lindsten has been a member of the state senate and of the Minneapolis City council for a number of years. He is a prominent leader in organized labor in Minnesota. He is the Farmer-Labor nominee for the office of lieutenant governor.

Congressman Buckler of Crookston also spoke, giving an account of the struggle for farm monetary legislation in congress, especially in regard to the Frazier-Lemke farm re-financing bill.

Mayor W. W. Prichard of Thief River Falls spoke briefly of the Red Lake River project, stating that all preliminary work has been carried out and that main work of digging the channel is expected to begin soon.

Atty. Paul Lundgren was the chairman of the day, explaining the sponsoring of the event, and that the businessmen of Thief River Falls were glad to associate in putting on the event. A sound-system was reproducing the talks over a loud-speaker.

There were several sport events, including a baseball game in which the local Junior Legion team defeated the River Valley team.

Traffic Safety Drive Planned for This Month

Reduction of traffic accidents on Minnesota highways in September is now the object of one of the most determined safety campaigns ever to be conducted in this country.

Sponsored by the Minnesota Public Safety Committee, the drive will be supported by industry as a whole and by civic organizations and other groups of every type.

The campaign, actuated by the fact that September is the most hazardous month of the year, was outlined at a meeting of the Minnesota Public Safety committee at Duluth.

In commenting on this latest drive of the committee to save life and property, A. V. Rohweder, the chairman, pointed out that traffic mishaps took 64 lives in the state in September of last year.

"Because of the strenuous efforts of safety leaders, assisted by public cooperation, the toll was reduced to 64 in 1935 from the 83 fatalities of 1934," he pointed out. "But, 64 persons lost their lives in unnecessary mishaps."

The plan of the battle against the toll usually taken by accidents in September includes widespread publicity in newspapers and from radio stations and distribution of thousands of circulars and bulletins by the Minnesota Public Safety committee.

Cooperative Store Is Opened at Middle River

A cooperative store has been organized at Middle River and is already in operation. A group of stockholders grouped themselves together and purchased the building and stock of the Johnson Supply Company, which has been located there for the past several years.

The officers are: Jacob Karvonen, president; John Antilla vice president; John Korski, secretary, and Thomas Maijala, treasurer. John Neimi and George Wappula are the manager and asst. manager, respectively. The company is capitalized at $5,000, with shares sold at $10 each.

A big picnic and rally is planned by the Farmer-Labor party committee in Pennington county for Sunday, Sept. 27th, according to H. Halland, the secretary of the club. No exact place has been as yet selected, but it is planned either to be held at the Heinze grove or at the city auditorium.

There is a possibility that Sen. Elmer Benson and Ernest Lundeen may be on the program. Mrs. Olaf Lundquist and Mrs. Marian LeSeur will also be here, these ladies planning to spend one week organizing women's clubs in the Ninth district. A loud-speaker system will be used at the meeting.

SORENSON'S CAFE ADDS SPLENDID NEON SIGN

A spick-and-span new neon sign, decorated in every color of the rainbow, now adorns the corner of the recently opened Sorensen's cafe. As it was lighted for the first time Friday evening everybody noted the change as the new sign stands up there to light up everything "high, wide, and handsome."

NEW TABERNECLE DEDICATED HERE

New Structure On Duluth Ave. Is Filled In Exercises Held Sunday Afternoon

(Contributed)

Last Sunday afternoon, the new Tabernacle on Duluth avenue was dedicated by Rev. Daley, pastor, and the accordian gospel team. Evangelist Alta B. Clift directed the church officials and congregation to lay hands on the walls, doors, seats, and pulpit which were in turn dedicated to the Lord thru prayers and tears. Many denominations took part in this service and several near-by towns were also represented. The Salvation Army band brought special music.

The Tabernacle's 400 seats were filled to capacity in the evening with scores of people standing outside unable to get in. Both the afternoon message, on "The Value of Your Soul", and the evening message of "Pay Day" brought conviction to many hearts and the altar was filled. Twelve definite conversions have taken place during the last two weeks. These will choose a church home among the churches of our city.

Services continue each night at 8 P. M., except Monday and Saturday and two services next Sunday at 2:30 and 8 P. M. Many illustrated messages are planned for this week.

Young GOP Organizes; County Meet Sept. 18

A Young Republican club was organized for Pennington county at a meeting at the courthouse on Friday evening. Orrel Leen, the G. O. P. organizer for the Ninth Congressional district, was present and spoke of the set-up in his territory, and the prospects of the party this fall.

Richard Mabey was elected chairman; A. M. Campbell, vice-chairman; and Lester Ihle, secretary-treasurer. Kenneth Lindberg was named chairman of the First Ward, Donovan Mattson, for Second Ward, and Leigh Anderson for the Fourth Ward. A chairman for the Third Ward will be chosen later. Elmer B. Berg and Mrs. Glenn Anderson were chosen to represent the county at large.

A banquet for all Republicans in Pennington county will be held at the Evelyn Hotel, Friday evening, Sept. 18, when a representative of the state G. O. P. headquarters is expected to speak. The Young and the older Republicans will convene in separate meetings following the banquet.

FORUM STRAW VOTE TO CLOSE NEXT WEEK

The final vote in the Straw Ballot campaign sponsored by the Forum the past several weeks will be announced in the next issue of this paper.

The Literary Digest has begun its poll and for that reason we expect to close the Forum vote. If you haven't voted as yet and you have enough sentiment for any of the presidential candidates, send in your straw ballot by next Wednesday.

CITY AND RURAL SCHOOLS PLAN YEAR'S WORK

Thief River Falls Schools To Open Next Monday Morning

Many New Teachers Seen In City Faculty

List of the Rural School Teachers Announced by Co. Supt. Matheson

Arrangements for the opening of the public schools of this city next Monday, Sept. 14, are now almost completed after several weeks of preparation on the part of the board of education, together with Supt. Morris Bye, and Principal W. G. Claffy.

With the election of Mrs. Clara Gay Paulson of Minneapolis as school nurse at a meeting of the board of education Tuesday morning, there remains only one vacancy in the city public school faculty. The position of part-time kindergarten teacher has yet to be filled. Mrs. Paulson completed nurses training at St. Francis hospital, LaCrosse, Wis., and took a public health course at the University of Minnesota. She has been employed in the public health department at Oshkosh, Wis., for five years.

Other new members of the faculty include B. W. Gabrielson, Chicago, physical education and biology; Tora Marie Larson, Northfield, commercial; Ronald G. Riggs, St. Cloud, history and band; Lois E. Thoreson, York, N. Dak., home economics and general science.

Vincent S. Schneider, Davenport, N. Dak., social studies and music; and Maynard L. Tvedt, Newfolden, general science and physical education; are the new members of the Central school faculty. Miss Theone E. Folkedahl of Erie will be second grade instructor in the Knox school and Merle L. Bryant of Tenstrike is the new second grade teacher in the Washington building.

Changes in the curriculum for the high school include the introducing of Agriculture II for sophomores and juniors, and household mechanics for junior and senior girls. Changes in the commercial studies include changing bookkeeping from a sophomore to a junior subject, offering typewriting I, less shorthand, in the sophomore year, and offering of shorthand I and transcription and shorthand II with transcription.

The same plan of issuing text books to students as that used for the past few years will be followed this year. Text books are furnished free to grade school students. High school students will be charged a rental fee of $2.50 for the use of the text-books for the year. One dollar of the rental fee will be refunded at the end of the school year if and when all text-books are returned.

Practically every rural school in Pennington county will be in session by next Monday states A. C. Matheson, county superintendent. Some of the schools opened this week but the majority will open Monday, Sept. 14. A few schools will transport their pupils to near-by schools.

Expect Big Football Squad This Season

Coach Lee is rapidly whipping his football material into shape for the football season which opens Friday evening, next week, against Red Lake Falls. The flood lights are here and Coach Lee expects that these will be put up the first part of next week so as to enable his team to have a couple of evenings' practice under the arc lights before the opening game on Lincoln field.

Twenty-five players have been out for practice the past several evenings and, with the opening of school next Monday, the coach expects that a dozen more from the rural districts will be on hand to furnish much weight and power. Among the material that shows much promise in addition to those mentioned last week are: Westley Johnson, guard; Don Lorentson, end; Lynn Green, backfield; and Robert Hanson, center.

SOCIETY AND INVENTION

Labor Day was observed Monday in all parts of the United States. While the day is generally celebrated by all the organized units of labor, it is becoming a holiday to be observed by all our people. The River Valley community picnic was such an event where organized and unorganized labor, as well as farmers, gathered to renew acquaintances and review the ideas and sentiments they have in common.

But while such is good and well enough we wonder how many of those assembled fully realized the gravity of the problems of labor. The invention of machines has replaced laborers in immense numbers so we have had millions upon millions of unemployed. The shortening of the hours of labor has enabled some to find re-employment. But industrial leaders are opposed to shortening the day and disputes and strikes because of these dissentions are found in every section of the country.

A recent event of much importance to the economic conditions among laborers occurred near Stoneyville, Miss., a picture of which Forum readers will find on our pages this week. We refer to the perfection of the recently invented Rust Brothers cotton picker. It is an assured success and, if put on the regular market, will in short order replace seven million cotton pickers and associated workers.

During the past generations other labor saving devices have been perfected and millions of workers have been put out of employment. These workers had to find jobs elsewhere or, if there was none, they had to get public relief. During the past several decades when everyone had to do his own grabbing in our economic system, those who didn't succeed in getting anything as they tried to grab a job or anything else, are out of employment, getting public relief in one form or another.

Our government or society as a whole has done very little to benefit those who have been thrown out of work by modern machines. Those in power were so busy grabbing for themselves that they didn't hear and cared less for those who clamored for a change so they could take care of themselves. We are supposed to have eleven millions unemployed now, none of whom can support their families and who have no chance to get ahead until a change in our economic system is brought about.

Now, when the Rust Brothers cotton picking machine is put on the market there will be seven million more taken out of employment. There will then be almost twice as many unemployed as now. What is to be done? The Rust Brothers are fully aware of the consequences if their invention is put on the market. They are social-minded persons who, unlike Rockefeller, Morgan, Mellon, Hoover, etc., want to get rich at the expense of the common people. Whether the Rust inventors can keep their machine off the market until social conditions are changed is doubtful.

But what will the United States begin to do to take care of these cotton pickers and others who will lose their jobs? Certainly seven million more unemployed is going to be a problem that cannot be laughed at. There must be some re-adjustment where the profits of these inventions must accrue to the benefit of those put out of employment.

The benefit of inventions must go to all people. If the inventions bring a benefit let mankind as a whole derive that benefit. The only remedy is to shorten the day to less working hours, be it six, five or four hours, so all can have jobs. In order that this can be brought about we must have a more regulated economic system, not the laissez faire policies of Hoover or other conservatives who still adhere to the antiquated rugged individualism so popular with the exploiters of the human race.

The control of government for the benefit of society is the only solution to the problem. The right to own an unlimited amount of wealth at the expense of the others must be thrown into the discard and the sooner the better.

PEACE TO END WAR

Recalling that patriotic phrase of 1917, "the war to end war," doesn't it seem just about the height of ridiculousness and an illustration of how completely people can be diverted from the truth when the hysteria of conflict grips them? After all, the only remedy for war is peace and peaceful habits of thinking.

It is refreshing to find a national figure actually talking peace while the nations seethe with war talk and war threats. No less than Smedley D. Butler, retired major-general of the U. S. Marine Corps comes forward in the September "Woman's Home Companion" with a concrete proposal to keep this country out of the impending world conflict. His proposal is an "Amendment for Peace" to the Constitution.

It would prohibit land armed forces moving outside the continental limits of the United States and Panama Canal Zone for any cause whatever; restrict the navy to within 500 miles of our coasts except for errands of mercy, and keep U. S. army, navy and marine aircraft within 750 miles of our shores. In addition to this amendment, he urges congressional action giving independence to Porto Rico, and letting Guam, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa, Wake and the Midway Islands take their chances alone; as he says they are not indispensable to our national life. Hawaii and Alaska cannot be set loose; but as they cannot be defended from a military standpoint without prohibitive cost, their defense would have to be by economic pressure only.

With these guarantees that we could not be maneuvered into an offensive war, even the "peace at any price" people would be first in line to protect our country in case of attack. This peace amendment is the only way of arousing confidence of the people in the ability of the government to remain out of war, for regulation of munitions can be easily avoided by clever smugglers, General Butler points out.

In the same way, "taking the profit out of war" is an idea that financiers find easy to juggle out of, Butler goes on. And the referendum or plebiscite is open to the same weakness as we have now, with skillful propaganda persuading the populace into the conflict..

"Let's pass all our suggested anti-war legislation," advises Butler, "but if we really want to make it impossible to have our young men sent abroad to fight the wars of others, then let us by all means insist upon adding the Peace Amendment to the Constitution."

Add to all this, President Roosevelt's recent declaration that "The effective maintenace of American neutrality depends today, as in the past, on the wisdom and determination of whoever at the moment occupy the offices of President and Secretary of State." and you can realize without further ado how slight is the string on which our peace hangs. The Peace Amendment would replace it with a stout chain in which the fervent desires of our 130 millions would be the sinew.—Litchfield County News.

"SHOW HANDS" PLEASE

Here is the angle of approach of the Stillwater Gazette to the new Governor, Hjalmer Petersen, who took office last Monday following the death of Governor Floyd B. Olson.

> "The new man, former Lieutenant Governor, was one of the leading members of the legislature who advocated and aided in the passage of the state income tax law, which added to the government income and made a double load for all business and professional men, as well as many others, to carry, dig down and bring to the surface."

It is respectfully submitted that this is only half of the story. The other half is the encouraging one that the farmers and small home owners are relieved of a certain amount of taxes and that their children (and those of the "business and professional men" mentioned) are given the same, if not actually greater educational advantages, for let it be known that the returns from the income tax as cited above go direct to the schools on the basis of school children population.

Here is the way the income tax has benefited Dakota County, every county paper carrying this story either last week or a short time ago.

The amount allowed each pupil at the recent division of the income tax returns in Dakota county was $6.15 for 5773 pupils. More money will come in the fall. Although it was given in this newspaper recently, the actual figures will be given again "just to keep history straight".

Dist 1, South St. Paul	$10,848.60
Dist. 2, West St. Paul	4,618.65
Dist. 26, Hastings	3,997.50
Dist. 40, Farmington	1.599.00
Dist. 100, Lakeville	731.35
Dist. 111, Burnsville	498.70
Dist. 19, Rosemount	399.75
Rural schools totaled	$12,810.40

Another angle of the case might be to have all those "business and professional" men and women in Hastings, Hampton, Farmington and elsewhere in Dakota county who pay anything at all in income taxes a year, hold up their hands.

Most people are willing to pay a tax on income if they have any income, especially if it is high enough so that there is something left after all exemptions are counted out.—Hastings Gazette

FORGOTTEN MEN

In his campaign for the office of United States senator, Hon. Theodore Christianson has been laying it on heavy about the awful squandering of public funds. Where does he expect to get his votes? In nearly every city and village in this state there have been public works projects that have been a boon to the unemployed and to the merchant as well.

If Mr. Christianson assures these people that he will do his best to put an end to these projects, do you suppose they will rush to the polls to elect him? We sometimes wonder how his attitude sets with the people of his old home town of Dawson, where large sums of public money have been spent for a swimming pool, a recreation park, an addition to the school house, and other public works.

It looks as though Theodore would have to seek the support of the moneyed men, and they happen to be in the minority. It would be rather poor taste for him to solicit aid from those whom he has forgotten in years past.

TRUE CO-OPERATORS

Many farmers look upon their co-operatives as institutions to serve them without a feeling of co-operative obligation on their parts, and are only willing to support them when they can do better than someone else is willing to do for them, which really means that when markets are active and prices advancing the private competitor gets their support and when markets are weak and surpluses can only cause losses to the distributor, whether co-operative or private, they come back to the co-operative and take the benefit of its services that have been maintained.

The true co-operator stays with his association on both the "ups" and "downs". Fair weather co-operators are not the backbone of the co-operative marketing movement.—Land O' Lakes News.

The Washington Commentator

A WALL STREET PROPHECY

If this pose is natural and isn't caused by adenoids, it occurs to your ex-doughboy commentator that Ham should by all means have been a soldier.

Think of the relief of medical officers if, instead of barking to Private Hamilton, "Open your mouth and say 'Ah-h-h-h'!" all they had to do was to give the order—

'Say 'Ah-h-h-h'!"

However, it may be that the camera caught him at a moment when he was predicting a landslide for Landon. At frequent intervals he breaks out with some such prediction.

In fact, he claims just about the whole country for his candidate except Puyallup, Wash., Nacogdoches, Tex., and Punxutawney, Pa. And he'd probably claim these as well if he were able to pronounce the names.

Some of the newspaper polls seem to lend some slight semblance of color to his claims; for with the popular vote running 48 percent for Landon and 52 percent for Roosevelt, it looks as if F. D. R. may well need to borrow Jimmy Durante's 'schnozzle' if he would lead by a nose at the November finish.

• • • •

Your commentator, however, is not too much impressed, either by Hamilton's claims or by newspaper polls. For he has gotten inside information on what the outcome is going to be in November.

He got it straight from Wall Street!

And it isn't that the 'wise' money there is being bet at odds of 8 to 5 on Roosevelt to win. For the 'wise' money can be wrong, as witness the recent downfall of our favorite Ethiopian, Joe Louis.

There is another angle . . . the current price of utility stocks.

Roosevelt's dislike of the public utilities is well known. He has allegedly tried in various ways to make life as tough as possible for the electrical gentlemen.

This antipathy was known to the speculative fraternity even back in 1932; so that when it became certain, along in the summer, that the White House would be occupied by one unfriendly to the utilities, prices immediately began sagging.

According to Associated Press averages, the utilities reached a low of $23.90 per share in 1932.

The same tables gave industrial shares a 1932 low of $17.50 per share.

Today, the average price of utility stocks is $52.10 per share. That of industrials is $89.80.

In other words, while industrial shares have gone up over 400 percent, utility stocks have only a little better than doubled their panic low.

An authority estimated that in 1929, there were 25 million people playing the stock market. The current number is probably somewhat lower, but it still runs into many millions.

And to judge by the continued unpopularity of utility stocks, these millions are convinced that there is not going to be a change in the White House. If they believed that Landon was going to win, the prices of utility stocks would go sky-rocketing.

So, there is the concensus of opinion in Wall Street. And if 50 million Frenchmen couldn't be wrong during the war, how can 25 million speculators be wrong now!

(By A. I. Harris)

Congressman Ernest Lundeen, who succeeds the late Governor Olson as the Farmer-Labor nominee for United States Senator, is one of the very few who dared to speak his mind during the hysterical years of the world war....

True to the dictates of his conscience, Lundeen voted against our entering the war against Germany. He knew he was going against public opinion of the time, but believed that when sanity returned his judgment would be vindicated....

Time has not only vindicated Ernest Lundeen but greatly increased his stature. Today he stands out as a real statesman. It is easy to go along with the majority opinion, but to express yourself freely and frankly when the frenzied mob is ready to tear you apart requires far more than ordinary courage....

It would have been far better for the world and the nation if the honest opinions of men like Lundeen had prevailed. Then there would not have been the humiliating peace of Versailles that sought to shackle and humiliate the entire German nation. The nations that compelled Germany to sign on the dotted line in the hall of mirrors at Versailles are now beginning to realize their folly. But Ernest Lundeen saw the handwriting on the wall at the time when most people were blind....

The Minnesota Farmer-Labor party is fortunate in being able to replace its great leader, Floyd Olson, with a true liberal of the type of Lundeen.

Republican leaders who expected that the Farmer-Labor party would go to pieces and be "easy pickings" on the death of their great leader, Floyd B. Olson, already are beginning to wonder whether they did not err in their deductions....

Surely, all evidence points to the fact that they erred. With their chief gone, Farmer-Laborites are feeling themselves charged with the task of carrying on in Olson's name. The spirit to "carry on for Olson" pervades their ranks and the determination they manifest is not too heartening to the opposition. Reaction in Minnesota thought that the movement to which Olson devoted his life and energies could be buried with his mortal remains, but they failed to take into consideration how a man of Olson's ideals can imbue his followers with the stuff it takes to win.

• • • •

The magnetic appeal had by the late Gov. Floyd B. Olson is evinced from the sea of editorials still appearing in the Minnesota weekly press, lamenting his untimely death. The editorials are written by both politically friendly and unfriendly newspapers, but all express deep sympathy and admiration for the late governor's unquestionable sincerity.

After six weeks, Martin A. Nelson, Republican gubernatorial candidate, is still mute on his stand relative to what he and his party propose to do should their advocated Amendment No. 2 to eliminate the state tax on real property be adopted at the November election....

Challenged by United States Senator Elmer A. Benson six weeks ago to announce whether or not he was in accord with the Republican party's secret plan to push enactment of a sales tax at the next legislature as a substitute for the tax, Mr. Nelson has thus far failed to reply.

The Western Guard, Madison, Minn., on May 8, 1936, published an editorial stating that United States Senator Elmer A. Benson "should get a feather in his hat" if it was his expose that the proposed sale of the M. & St. L. Railroad was framed by an eastern capitalist....

"Benson", the editorial states, "deserves congratulations for unearthing a sordid scheme—if he did."....

Well, the "if he did" no longer is necessary—Senator Benson's expose was accurate, as subsequent events have shown. So—where's the feather?

Republican gubernatorial candidate Martin A. Nelson, it has been observed of late, has taken a defensive attitude on his stand on co-ops. Through his press agent, R. W. No longer the "happy hunting grounds" for bank robbers is Minnesota, it is revealed in a report of the state bureau of criminal apprehension, which shows that robberies of banks during the past two years has dwindled to three per year. Their work during the past few years alone has definitely established their worth.

"Nuisance on the highway" will be the new charge against intoxicated persons found on the state highways, according to instructions issued to members of the state highway patrol by John P. It has been found that plain intoxication is not a violation of the traffic code, Mr. Arnoldy said, but a charge of being a nuisance, which would include endangering life, is a traffic law violation.

A new drive against glaring headlights on the highways has been ordered by N. W. Elsberg, commissioner of highways, according to a bulletin to the highway patrol. AIR STREAMS GONE WRONG KEEP RAIN FROM FALLING

The heavenly set-up this summer has been all wrong for adequate rainfall between the Rocky and Appalachian Mountains, according to C. L. Mitchell, forecaster for the Washington, D. C., district of the Weather Bureau. From the first of June till the latter part of July the air streams that make weather persistently followed abnormal paths. Unchecked by polar air, a great current of tropical air went round and round in a vast irregular circle—up the western part of the Great Plains and the Rocky Mountain and plateau regions, across southern Canada, down the eastern part of the central valley region, and back across the continent.

There was no lack of moisture aloft, Mr. Mitchell says, but the machinery for squeezing it out was lacking. Nature produces rain by bringing together two air masses—a cold mass and a warm, moist mass. When the two opposing masses meet, the warm air is forced up over the cold, denser air. The warm air is soon cooled to a point at which it can no longer hold all its moisture.

To keep the United States cool and moist, cold air masses ('highs') must either come down from Canada or they must come in from the north Pacific Ocean. This year the "highs" have been in the south and the "lows" in the north—a situation that makes normal summer weather impossible.

Mr. Mitchell ascribes the summer's unusually high temperatures, in large part at least, to the failure of "highs" from the north Pacific to move often enough inland over Washington and Oregon and thence eastward over Montana, Wyoming, and the Dakotas. These polar air masses from the Pacific effectually interrupt the northward movement of tropical air over the western half of the United States, and, if they occur at least once every 6 days, prevent the development of a heat wave over northern areas west of the Mississippi River.

VIEWS AND REVIEWS

We Move Forward

The National Publisher, official organ of the National Editorial Association, decries the spread of consumer co-operatives in a recent editorial, and charges the U. S. government with a heinous crime—that of spreading knowledge of consumer co-operatives and assisting in their formation. The fact that many states exempt co-operatives from all taxes, including income taxes, affects the National Publisher with particular horror. "It is easily conceded that a widespread development of the consumer co-operative movement would eventually drive out business most retailers, jobbers, and wholesalers. It strikes at the heart of the profit system."

The NEA having always been reactionary, the ideas expressed are not new or surprising. What is surprising is the statement, "It strikes at the heart of the profit system." The world has moved a long, long way when reactionaries have to use socialistic lingo to describe a current phenomenon!

—O—

"Freedom of the Press"

The NEA and its state counterparts practically control the editorial policies of the small country weeklies. Most country editors are so busy being independent in other things that they forget to be independent in their thinking. The consequence is that they form the best market in the world for second-hand opinions.

George Seldes in his book "Freedom of the Press", which your reviewer just finished reading, shows successfully that our daily newspapers are leading sources of misinformation, and that their chief function is suppression of the news. Any news story, no matter how innocuous, can be colored to bolster a certain set of prejudices. But Seldes admits that most city newspapermen know what they are about, and concoct their minisformation with their tongue in their cheek.

The same cannot be said for the majority of small country newspaper editors. They really have faith in the bunk handed down to them by the American Bankers Association, the Liberty League, the Industrial News Bureau, the National Republic News Bulletin, etc., etc. Often the swill is dished out in handy plate form, so that the editor can "plug" a hole in the form with his eyes shut. Even if he had them open, he would not be capable of passing judgment on the social worth of the "boilerplate."

As a reporter of the comings and goings of his fellow villagers, the omnipresent country editor is "tops", but as a guide to political thinking he rates zero. Yes, the country newspaper is free, as George Seldes contends, but its freedom consists in being exploited by special privilege.

Journey's End — by A. B. CHAPIN

(From Minnesota Leader)

It intends to force a sales tax upon the people of the state, increasing the tax burden of the small income groups to the end that wealthy interests may escape their fair share of taxation.

That this is the Republican goal was made clear recently in the unequivocal statement of State representative W. R. Youngquist of Minneapolis that " anyone who knows the tax history of this state . . . knows that the retail sales tax is inevitable."

Makes Statement to Club

Mr. Youngquist's statement was made in an address before the Minneapolis Kiwanis club. His talk was in reply to a challenge issued late last month by United States Senator Elmer A. Benson, Farmer-Labor candidate for governor, in an open letter in which he demanded that his Republican opponent, Martin A. Nelson, disclose the nature of the Republican tax program.

Senator Benson attacked the proposed constitutional amendment No. 2 (drafted by Representative Youngquist) which is sponsored by the Republican party. He pointed out that the Republican party had up to that time declined to disclose what form of taxes it would substitute for the state property levy, which the Youngquist amendment would abolish.

Charges Sales Tax Plan

The senator charged that the Republican leadership was secretly working to force a sales tax on Minnesota.

"We have very definite information," he said, "that the Republican party proposes to substitute a sales tax for the state real estate tax—a tax similar to the one which Gov. Olson vetoed.

"Do you deny that this is so? Continued silence on your part will make you equally guilty with the voters of this state of not playing fair with the public."

Denied by Hitchcock

Shortly came the rejoinder from Minnesota's Republicanism's chief press agent. R. W. Hitchcock, which was given wide publicity in the reactionary press throughout the state.

"Mr. Benson's charge that the Republican party proposes to substitute a sales tax for the real estate tax is made out of whole cloth," said Hitchcock.

"The Republican party in Minnesota has made no such proposal and its leaders are furthering no such plan."

Youngquist Gives G. O. P. Away

But along came Mr. Youngquist, one of the Republican leaders in the legislature and representative of large mortgage holders and owners of business property and other real estate to give the whole secret away.

"Anyone who knows the tax history of this state and the condition of the state treasury, and the obligations to which the state is committed, knows that the retail sales tax is inevitable.

"The Farmer-Labor candidate for governor, leader of the socialistic communistic opposition to Amendment No. 2, wants to know of his Republican rival what new taxes he proposes. I have no aucan candidate. I can tell the Farmer-Labor gentleman, however, that the new tax bill in the next legislature will very closely resemble the Omnibus bill which was vetoed at the last session, and which would have removed the entire state levy from property and given schools three million dollars more than they ever received before. I know the tax program will take substantially such form because there is no other form it can take."

Would Aid Wealthy

Thus the Republican tax program stands exposed by one of the Republican party's own leading spokesmen.

It is revealed as a program which would permit wealthy tax dodgers to escape still more of their share of taxation by shifting it on to the shoulders of the thority to answer for the Republipoor.

It is a program which would make the person of small income pay more than he now pays in property tax, while taking much of the load off real estate holdings and income producing business properties and other real estate holdings of wealthy groups and individuals.

It is a program which would injure the small independent merchant, both by reducing the already limited purchasing power of his customers and by causing many of them to buy through mail order houses in other states whose sales would not be subject to the sales tax.

Gottfrid Lindsten, Railroad Man, Makes "Run" for Lieutenant-Governor of State

GOTTFRID LINDSTEN

A railroad man is making his "run" for Lieutenant-Governor of Minnesota and his friends-the common people—are confident that election day will find him "on time."

Gottfrid Lindsten of Minneapolis, Farmer-Labor candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, has had a career filled with service to the underprivileged man and woman, the downtrodden worker. A pioneer in the Farmer-Labor movement. Mr. Lindsten is one of the few railroad labor men to seek high office in the history of Minnesota.

As a member of the late Minnesota Crime Commission, he told that organization at the outset that crime could not be successfully reduced until economic conditions were drastically improved, and, while co-operating actively in its labors, he maintained that position thruout the life of the Commission. As a member of the Minneapolis City Council, Mr. Lindsten's services combined a broad humanitarianism with progressive improvements in municipal government.

Gottfrid Lindsten was born in Minneapolis, June 27, 1887. Difficult economic circumstances surrounding his early life compelled him to work as a messenger boy while still attending school, and his meager earnings helped his family thru trying days. He is still the sole support of his mother, Mrs. Ida M. Lindsten, a member of a pioneer Watertown, Minnesota family, who makes her home with him.

At the time of his graduation from the eighth grade, he took part in a successful strike of his fellow messenger boys, his first participation in the struggle between capital and labor. He entered railway service as a call boy in 1904, working twelve hours nightly. Later, he became a brakeman and was in turn promoted to conductor, which position he now holds.

Entering public life in 1921, Mr. Lindsten was elected to the Minneapolis City Council, the only labor alderman ever elected from his ward. At once he plunged into characteristic activities which were crowned by outstanding achievements for the common welfare.

He secured preference in city work for needy individual team owners as against contract team owners. He was instrumental in establishing, with the assistance of the City and County Employes Union, the "seniority" system for workers in his ward, based on the seniority system in railway service thus abolishing favoritism in the way of "preferred jobs" and substituting a fair opportunity for all. Mr. Lindsten assisted the City and County Employes Union (American Federation of Labor) in organizing the workers of his ward.

Regarding Mr. Lindsten's work in the creation of the Minneapolis City Planning Commission, Herman E. Olson, Minneapolis City Planning Engineer, says that "during his entire membership in the City Council Mr. Lindsten advocated progressive measures with regard to the improvement of the city along sound city planning lines, and gave his whole support to the work of the City Planning Commission, which was largely established by his initiative."

"Mr. Lindsten was familiar with the difficulties of the city in the matter of private property problems and took an early part in the creation of the zoning ordinance of the city in order to provide protection for home owners and other private property holders," Says Mr. Olson. "This zoning ordinance is still in effect, and maintains protection to all property holders in Minneapolis. Such questions as the openings of streets, necessary traffic improvements, the location of municipal auditorium, the widening of the Grant Street Mall, and similar important public improvements were supported by Mr. Lindsten.

"Without the help of men like Mr. Lindsten, in the early days of city planning in this city, it would have been very difficult to make the progress that was made. His work should be apreciated."

As one of the aldermanic sponsors of the Minneapolis Municipal Auditorium, Mr. Lindsten worked steadfastly for the construction of this building which is outstanding of its kind in the country.

Mr. Lindsten served as chairman of the Minneapolis Council Committee on Legislation and represented the council at the state legislative sessions of 1923-1925. With other labor aldermen he advocated and worked earnestly for a municipal market, and the final fruit of those labors is the present P. W. A. market project which will result in a fine municipal market for Minneapolis.

Enlisting the assistance of local musicians and music lovers, Mr. Lindsten established, during his term as councilman, weekly noonday free concerts in the Court House rotunda. The large crowds attending these concerts were privileged to hear the noted Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, local choirs, soloists, men's choruses, and other musical organizations, including on one occasion a splendid Mexican Government band.

Reactionary interests waged an intensive campaign against Alderman Lindsten which resulted in his defeat for re-electoin to the Council by a very narrow margin.

In 1917 he was elected by Minneapolis Lodge No. 102, B. of R. T., as their legislative representative and shortly thereafter was elected to his present position as Chairman of the Minnesota State Legislative Board of the Brotherhood. As a delegate to the Toronto Convention of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, he proposed a merger of the three train service Brotherhoods, and has consistently advocated and worked for the promotion of the movement since that time.

In his continuous contacts with the State Legislature since 1917, both as Brotherhood and aldermanic representative, he has held at all times the respect and esteem of its members.

In 1922 Mr. Lindsten was unanimously endorsed by the Non-Partisan League and the Working Peoples Political League on the Farmer-Labor ticket for Lieutenant-Governor, but declined to run because of his Council incumbency.

Mr. Lindsten served for several months as assistant state labor director of the Works Progress administration, during which period he was instrumental in preparing a grievance appeal system for W. P. A. workers, probably one of the first such systems devised in the country.

Mr. Lindsten is well known as a fraternal member and in many speeches has urged affiliation with fraternal societies.

An able speaker, Mr. Lindsten has made progressive speeches in Illinois, Maryland, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Texas, Virginia, Wisconsin, District of Columbia and Toronto, Canada.

Mr. Lindsten was married to Miss Clara H. Bernhagen of Otisco, Minn., and they have two children, Donald, 18, and Doris 15 years of age.

Mr. Lindsten's experience with successive legislatures, his ability and fairness furnish an excellent background for the dutie of presiding officer of the state senate, which devolve upon the lieutenant-governor. Labor and the public in general would be assured of a square deal by the election of Gottfrid Lindsten.

Plans for Third Party Outlined

Liberals of Wisconsin and Minnesota held a session in Madison recently and began the first spade work in the formation of a national Farmer-Labor third party for 1940.

The executive committees of the Wisconsin Farmer-Labor Progressive federation and the Minnesota Farmer-Labor party, meeting in what may turn one to be a historic gathering of national importance, went over the ground carefully, gave each a full opportunity to express his viewpoint, and before adjourning agreed on three important steps toward their goal.

The following important points were agreed upon:

1. A joint legislative program between Wisconsin and Minnesota embodying Gov. La Follette's gigantic works program which would provide a "practical" and "dramatic" example to the United States of what a third party can do.

2. Absolute renunciation of the Union party of Cong. William A. Lemke, N. D., and Father Charles Coughlin and indirect support of Pres. Roosevelt.

3. Immediate movement following the November elections to precipitate third party sentiment in other states through formation of Farmer-Labor federations.

With the press barred, liberals freely gave vent to their ideas on what should be done to put over a third party in 1940. Divergence of opinion was obvious from the start, the Minnesota labor group feeling that it was more imperative to capture the legislatures than to elect leaders.

Gov. Philip La Follette, who was present as the leader of the Progressive party, urged the group to take a "practical" view of the matter.

"I learned my lesson about third parties in 1924 when my father was running for president", he said. "A third party will get no place overnight. We must first give a practical and dramatic demonstration of what we can do before we can get people from other states to come along with us."

Wholehearted applause greeted the governor's "practical" suggestions. "We have a nucleus in Wisconsin and Minnesota," Gov. La Follette said. "Our two states should work together and aid each other, not so much during the elections but through a combined legislative program that will prove to the nation that what can be done by third parties in two states can be done by a national third party".

Although Gov. La Follette did not mention his $209,000,000 works program which was killed by the 1935 senate, he emphatically said the program he had in mind must be state-wide and all-embracing.

"If Wisconsin and Minnesota through their legislatures can get together on a combined works program, this dramatic proof of what can be done for the people in both states would be far better than all the prenunciamentos and resolutions you could pass," he said.

His coat off, Gov. La Follette, who is not a member of the Wisconsin FLPF, pounded at his idea for joint legislative action by both states as the "only" manner of accomplishing the goal that dominated both the Wisconsin and Minnesota liberals.

"To sell the third party to the country you must not promise what will be done." Gov. La Follette said, "you must do it and we in Wisconsin and Minnesota have a chance of combining and putting over a program that will prove just what we are after and what we stand for."

While there was much sentiment for the group as a whole to attack the Republicans, Democrats, and the Union third party, cooler heads prevailed and the liberals voted not to support any third party candidate in 1936 (meaning Lemke) and not to endorse any other group as a body.

Although it was obvious the liberals gathered in the Loraine were for Roosevelt they would not come out openly and endorse the Democratic standard-bearer. However, to insure his election, they decided not to stir up any third party movement in 1936 nor to lend support to any anti-Roosevelt groups.

Tactics to be pursued will be emphasizing the platform upon which the liberals will campaign in Wisconsin and Minnesota so that in comparison the Lemke platform will seem weak and ineffective.

Another bone of contention over which the Minnesota representatives were ready to fight was the usurpation of leadership by politicians.

"The minute the Progressives and farmer and labor groups get together the politician steps in and tries to control the group," a Minnesota delegate said. "If this happens the labor groups will pull out and form their own third party. We will not stand the 'bandwagon boys."

The warning was left with the meeting, however, that unless a third party was formed labor would withdraw from the federation and form one of its own.

Among those present at the joint meeting were Gov. La Follette; U. S. Sen. Elmer D. Benson, Minn.; Lieut. Gov. Hjalmer Peterson, Minn.; Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, Milwaukee; Cong. Thomas Amlie, (P), Elkhorn; Cong. George Schneider (P) Appleton; Henry Rutz, state organizer for the FLPF; and Harry Jack, Hortonville, of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk pool.

Otto Hauser, Mayor Hoan's secretary; Henry Oal Jr., president of the Wisconsin federation of labor; Thomas Duncan, secretary to Gov. La Follette; Howard Y. Williams, Minneapolis, general organizer for the American Commonwealth federation; and representatives of the Workers alliance and farm group.

ALONG THE FARMER-LABOR FRONT

H. O. Berve
Thief River Falls, Minnesota

The Governor is dead. Floyd B. Olson is no more. Since his death much has been said and written in praise of the departed governor by both friend and foe, and there is no need for us to add to the praise that has already been heaped upon him. The thousands that flocked to his funeral to pay their last respects to him, proclaim more forcibly and eloquently than words the high esteem in which the man was held. Floyd B. Olson was a great leader, and a great man, and his untimely death was a great loss not only to the Farmer-Labor movement, of which he was the recognized leader, but also to the people of the state as a whole. But at this time while we mourn the passing of an able and courageous leader, let us remember that the Farmer-Labor movement, and the principles for which it stands, and for which Governor Olson fought are still here. The Farmer-Labor movement is founded upon the need for economic and social reform, and the movement and the principles for which it stands will continue to exist and follow the onward march of humanity though leaders may come and go from time to time.

Floyd B. Olson is gone. Physically he can no longer be with us in the movement, and in humanity's struggle for economic freedom and social reform. But the spirit of Floyd B. Olson is still with us, and will continue to march at the head of the movement for many years to come. His spirit will continue to inspire the people not only of the state of Minnesota, but of the entire nation to greater efforts in the struggle for human progress. Floyd B. Olson would not want us to sit idly by and mourn his passing. Were he able to come back and speak to us he would tell us all to go out and fight for the principles for which he fought until his final summons came. Keeping this in mind, let us all strive earnestly to carry on the cause for which he gave his full measure of devotion.

One of the most urgent necessities of the campaign now is harmony and co-operation, in the rank and file, and among the candidates. Let us all put our shoulder to the wheel, and let the slogan be "One for All, and All for One." Friction and discord have ruined many a Republican and Democratic campaign. At this time let us lay aside all petty little differences, both local and state, and let us get behind our candidates and our movement with a united front. Let no man attempt to go around and foment friction and discord within the party at this time. We can offer no greater tribute to the memory of Floyd B. Olson than to present a united and harmonious front to the opposition.

In order to impress the names of the Farmer-Labor candidates, we mention them all again at this early date. Their names are as follows:

Ernest Lundeen, for U. S. Senator.

Elmer E. Benson, for Governor.

Gottfrid Lindsten, for Lieutenant Governor.

Paul C. Hartig, for Secretary of State.

C. A. Halverson, for State Treasurer.

Hjalmer Petersen, for Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner.

R. T. Buckler, for Congress, 9th District.

W. E. Day, for Representative 65th District.

J. O. Melby, for Representative, 65th District.

By no means let us forget our Legislative candidates. If we are going to accomplish anything we must elect a friendly Legislature as well as governor. Let us Make the Vote for Day and Melby so strong this time that there will be no chance for the House to count them out. Marius Waldal has been one of the bitterest critics of Governor Olson. Let the people of this district go out and show what they think of Mr. Waldal's criticisms of Governor Olson by giving an overwhelming vote for Day and Melby. The Day and Waldal fight is back in the hands of the people of this district again, and they will have to settle the struggle. Day and Melby have served the people well and they should be re-elected.

They were attended by the bride's sister, Mrs. Clerdina Terrian, and nephew Arthur Terrian. Following the service a wedding dinner was served in the dining room of Sorensen's Cafe. Covers were laid for thirteen at a table decorated in a color scheme of yellow.

Mr. and Mrs. Eklund left on a trip to Sacramento, Calif., and other points. After September 20 they will be at home in this city at 309 North State Ave.

Mr. Eklund has for a number of years served as clerk of court of Pennington county. His bride has been employed as operator with the local branch of the Northwest Bell Telephone Co.

ANNE ROHRER AND JOHN BAGNE SPEAK VOWS SUNDAY

The marriage vows of Miss Anne Rohrer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rohrer of Goodridge, and John Bagne, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Bagne of Park River, N. Dak., were spoken at two o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Mavie church, before an altar lighted by tall white tapers and banked with baskets of autumn leaves and flowers. Reverend Bauman read the service. Nuptial music was played by Mrs. Bauman who also sang a solo before the service was read.

The bride's wedding gown was an ankle length one fashioned of white satin. Her bouquet consisted of white and yellow snapdragons and sweet peas. A white floral spray banded over her hair formed her head dress. Miss Alma Blackstad of Bronson, a cousin of the bride, attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a light blue crepe gown and carried deep rose snap dragons. Miss Emma Johnson of Goodridge, the bridegroom's cousin, was bridesmaid. Her gown was of pale pink chiffon, her bouquet was of pink snapdragons. The bride's brothers Clifford and Frank Rohrer were groomsmen. Marion and Muriel Geving, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Geving of this city, were flower girl and ring bearer respectively. Each wore yellow organdy. The little flower girl carried a basket of sweet peas and nasturtiums. The two matrons were gowned in blue. Mrs. Rohrer wore a gown of a delicate blue, and Mrs. Bagne wore a navy blue crepe gown. Each carried a matching bouquet.

The bride's parents were hosts to 150 guests at a supper after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Bagne left on a motor trip through southern Minnesota, after which they will reside at Park River, N. Dak.

Those from this city who attended the ceremony were Mrs. Barbara Overum and son Clifford and daughter Geneva, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Rambeck, Miss Ethel Rambeck, and Mrs. I. R. Geving. Others present from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. D. Bagne of Park River, N. Dak., D. Legve of Park River, and Mrs. Anne Krebbs of St. Paul. Dr. and Mrs. J. McCoy, Mrs. Gunder Grovu mand family, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Moe and family, all of Grygla.

GEORGE JORGENSON

George Jorgenson of Oklee, died at his home in Red Lake County September 2. Mr. Jorgenson was born in Norway July 9, 1877, and came to the United States at the age of two years, living during his boyhood years at Fergus Falls, Minn. From there he moved to Oklee where he has since made his home. He was married thirty years ago to Cara Nelson, who survives. Other surviving relatives are his daughters, Mrs. Art Kramer of Grand Forks; Mrs. Chas. Wentworth of East Grand Forks, Mrs. Charles Fraseth of Watertown, S. Dak., Clara, Edna, Olga, and Cleo, all of Oklee; and his two sisters, Mrs. Oscar Sven of Erskine, and Mrs. Ole Nelson of Nymore, Minn.; also two grandchildren. One son preceded him in death. Funeral services were held September 5 at the Walle church, Rev. Lerohl officiating, and interment was made in the Walle church cemetery.

A THOUGHTFUL DAUGHTER

Mrs. Josephine Rehak, Detroit, Michigan writes: "Mother has just finished her first bottle of Dr. Peter's Kuriko. She thinks it is much better than any medicine she ever took. She had a bad cold, which is completely gone. She also sleeps better and is not constipated any more." Dr. Peter's Kuriko is a valuable family medicine compounded from herbs, roots, and leaves of recognized medicinal value, according to Dr. Peter Fahrney's original formula. It has been used to combat constipation, indigestion, common colds, insomnia, nervousness, headaches and skin impurities. Do not ask the druggist for it; it can only be obtained from authorized local agents. For information, write to Dr. Peter Fahrney & Sons Company, 2501 Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Adv.—

4-way relief from ACID-INDIGESTION

This famous formula contains four antacids that work in relays to remove gas and normalize acidity. By the time one antacid has done its work, another has started. In this way, acidity is controlled for a prolonged period. In addition, Bisma-Rex soothes irritation and aids digestion of foods most likely to ferment.

And, suddenly, he let the newspaper fall, and leaned forward, with his wrists on his knees.

"It's queer, though," he said, almost aloud, to the click of the wheels. "Very queer. Very damned queer."

At the station, he stopped for a time-table. "Is there one," he asked, "that gives all the trains out of here?"

The man grinned at him, thrusting forward three thick folders.

Ten o'clock found him at Winslow's office.

"Mr. Winslow won't be in today," Peter's secretary announced. "Mrs. Winslow had a bad heart attack last night. So bad that Mr. Winslow telephoned to the Hambidges. They're with Mrs. Winslow now."

"Was that your last news?"

"No. Mr. Winslow called up half an hour ago to say that Mrs. Winslow's a little better."

"Had he seen this?"

Barry indicated the headline in the Times.

"Yes. He talked to Mr. Colton about it. Mr. Colton's one of the young men in the office, you know. He's gone to the district attorney to ask for Rogers' release. Mr. Winslow said if you called I was to tell you that would be only a matter of hours. Should you like us to phone you when there's anything certain?"

"Please. I suppose there's no use of my going to the Tombs now?"

"Not much. Mr. Colton's going there from the district attorney's. We'll phone you."

Barry phoned Peggy, and then strolled across Forty-second street. It was a delightful morning, and his rather comic bundles had been dispatched to his hotel from the station.

"No sense in my following 'em yet," Barry told himself. "I don't want to sit around that cursed room all day."

He didn't want to walk all day, and he did want to see what the other papers had to say of last night's events in the Cocoanut Bar. At Fifth avenue, therefore, he turned into the public library. The reports were much alike—"Night club proprietor killed resisting arrest" and "The indictment against Jay Rogers, now held for the Kelly murder, probably will be dismissed today." Barry sat, almost alone, in the "newspaper room," turning the case over in his mind. Then he asked for old files of one of the tabloids.

He was nearly an hour finding an account of the Winslow wedding. Without any definite knowledge of the date, it was a bit like looking for the proverbial needle in a haystack. Barry's curiosity was rewarded, at last, when he stumbled upon a pictorial front page headed, "Lawyer Weds Convict's Widow." The ceremony had taken place at St. Stephen's. There were pictures of the church and of the convict—"George Selby (inset) and Love Nest Where He Took His Birde." The smudgy little "inset" might have been a portrait of Nicholas Murray Butler or Jack Dempsey, and the house might have been any house, anywhere. There was an obviously faked photograph of a hold-up, and an obviously genuine one of "Mr. and Mrs. Winslow Leaving St. Stephen's." "Gosh," Barry reflected: "No wonder Mrs. Winslow had a nervous breakdown!"

The story, on the second page, was in the best tabloid tradition. "Five years ago," it began, "Peter Winslow, obscure young attorney, secured the acquittal of George Selby, charged with participating in the robbery of a candy store in the Bronx. Yesterday, Peter Winslow, rich and famous criminal lawyer, and George Selby's widow were the principal figures in what was to have been a secret ceremony at St. Stephen's."

The present Mrs. Winslow had run away with George Selby while he was a cadet in a military school. They had come to New York, rented the "love nest," and been "blissfully happy" until Selby ran out of money, and was compelled to take his wife to a boarding house. He had been arrested there, for the candy store robbery, in April, 1921. Peter Winslow had got him off, but, the following June, he was caught in another robbery in Philadelphia, and sentenced to a long term in the State Penitentiary. With two other convicts, "Lefty" Miller and "Mugs" Scanlan, he had escaped in October, 1923. Penniless, the men "staged a hold-up that same night in Fairmount Park. The victim called for help, and Selby killed him. Scanlan was shot dead by a police officer, and Selby, attempting to get away, jumped into the river, and was drowned. His body was found two weeks later, entangled in an anchor chain."

Winslow had given Mrs. Selby work in his office, and "three years after Selby's death, love culminated in the ceremony at St. Stephen's."

That explained a good deal, Barry thought remembering the soft, [illegible] little woman with worried eyes. It explained Peter's protective attitude. It might explain his quick interest in the Rogers case, in which, Barry had told Winslow, Peggy had been "putting up such a game fight to make a man of her husband."

"That sort of thing always gets me," Peter had observed. "A woman tied up to some man who's not worthy of her, and in love with him."

Peter's "Julie" had been in love with her first husband, then. And he with her, evidently, to judge by what the tabloids said of their happiness. "Must have been something good in that chap," Barry reasoned. "Probably realized what his wife was trying to do for him. We're a curious mixture."

He was still brooding over curious mixtures, and other things, when a clock struck somewhere, and reminded him that, by now, there might be a message as to young Ridder's release awaiting him at his hotel.

There wasn't.

All Thursday afternoon Barry sat in his room and, at five o'clock, he called Peter's secretary. "Nothing definite yet," she informed him. "The District Attorney's making the motion all right, but it'll be tomorrow now before anything comes of it."

Against his better judgment, then, Barry phoned Harwood. "Don't worry," the city editor said. "Have you seen tonight's Globe? Whole first page one loud yell for this kid's release. They'll be so glad to get him off their hands—"

In spite of his friendliness, Barry noticed that Ernie didn't say, "Come on down; we've something else for you." Nor even, "Of course, we'll expect you to cover Rogers getting out of jail." Why should he? "The big beat" was Harwood's "beat," not Barry's and, anyway, the old man would be at his desk the day after tomorrow. Harwood did say that, at last. "You'd better see him. I'll phone you when. Probably not before Monday. He'll be pretty busy for a day or two. Of course, you'll be around for your salary on Saturday. Might look me up then."

He was still on the pay roll, at least. That was important, what with over-drafts and hotel bills, and such things. Sober reflection, backed by experience, had persuaded Barry that he couldn't get much on his wardrobe. The studs and cuff-links were rather cheap stuff. He had sold an overcoat once—in this very town—for three dollars.

Saturday's money would just square the bank account. As for the hotel bill—"Well, I'll give them my clothes," Barry decided, "and I'll have something left in my jeans when I move out of here."

He phoned Peggy again, and then dined frugally and went back to his room. Step by step, he went over its details, seeing everything in the new light cast by the events of the past few hours. At midnight, for the fifth or sixth time, he re-read the story in the Globe. "Well, that's that," he said aloud, tossing the paper into the waste-basket and winding his silver wrist-watch. "Morano's dead, young Ridder'll be free tomorrow, old Ridder'll be home Saturday, and that's that. Wonder where I'll be a week from now."

It didn't matter much. "Nothing matters much," he told himself again, dwelling on Pat's phrase, "Not without Pat, it doesn't. She's a grand girl. Out of my class, though. A week from now, she'll be playing tennis and going over to dinner at the Ridders. Wonder if Peg'll be there. Wonder what's going to happen to those two young people?"

In Friday morning's paper, under "Personal Intelligence," he found a mention of the Winslows. "Mr. and Mrs. Peter Winslow are sailing on the Aquitania next Wednesday," the item read, "for an extended tour of the Continent." That was that, too. Barry's drama was ending with all its principal characters disposed of, as well-made drama should end.

Winslow's secretary called him just before noon. "Mr. Winslow wants me to tell you that Rogers will be free in an hour or two."

"How's Mrs. Winslow?"

"Much better. Mr. Winslow's still with her, though."

"And the Hambidges?"

"No; they went back to Southampton last night."

Once more, that was that, Barry thought, getting his hat and making tracks for the subway. He reached the Tombs well in advance of official orders for the release of "Jay Rogers." It was nearly five o'clock, indeed, when "Jay Rogers" appeared, looking very white and haggard, and the last train had left for Southampton. "You can talk to Peggy on the phone," Barry told him, "and then you'd better have dinner with me, and a good night's rest at my hotel. The Bremen gets in very early, and you'll want to be on the dock."

Jack looked at him quizzically.

"Will I?"

"Won't you?"

"I suppose so. I'd like to see my mother."

"I'd like to see her myself," Barry said. "She's been swell to you, all right."

"Yes."

At dinner, Jack declared, "I'll take that job on the paper now, if my father'll give it to me."

"Why not?"

"You started me thinking. I can see the old man's viewpoint. He's got to be decent to Peggy, though. It's both of us, or neither. . . . What's going to happen to you?"

"Search me!"

"Look here," Jack blurted. "I'm Ridder now. Who needs to know that I was ever Jay Rogers? I've been at Southampton all the time, writing letters to my mother, and everything. You've been Barry Gilbert, working on the Globe, and likely to go on working there. What's the matter with that?"

"Willetts is the matter with it," Barry answered—"Willetts, and Evans, and Winslow, and all the camera-clickers on the newspapers. There've been several pictures of you already. I can't understand why you weren't identified long ago."

"Maybe I was," Ridder admitted. "Your old college chums don't exactly run after you while you're in jail. They don't get to be college chums until you're in Who's Who."

"Anyway," Barry continued, "your scheme's out. I want to come clean. Don't ask me why. I was going to run away a week ago, and I could not make it. 'Gentlemen don't do that,' I said. I've got a new picture of myself as a gentleman."

"That's what does the trick, I guess," Jack speculated. "Most of us spend our lives trying to live up to the portraits of ourselves that hang over our mental mantel-pieces. Yours was of a reckless, devil-may-care young vagabond. Then you moved into a house, and company, where that picture didn't fit. You hung up a new one, and you've got to live up to that now. It was the same way with me. The picture of myself I liked was of an irresponsible, slightly dissipated young genius. The family portraits didn't appeal to me. Yours did—your new picture of yourself, I mean. I'm going to try to be like that the rest of my life."

"Maybe I Was," Ridder Admitted.

They were lingering over cigars and coffee now.

"What is a gentleman?" Barry asked.

Jack smiled.

"The fellow who gets the right portrait."

"I suppose so," Barry said. "Family and clothes didn't make you one—not when you were getting drunk and forging checks. I wasn't one when I took another man's name, and money, and made up to a girl who thought I was somebody else. . . . Pictures over mantel-pieces. That's another word for tradition, I guess. The tradition that makes men defend women, and go down on sinking ships, and all that sort of thing. When that stops being our picture of ourselves, 'God help all of us,' I told Pat once . . . Come on; let's go to a movie!"

Sale of State Lands

State of Minnesota,
Office of Commissioner of Conservation
St. Paul, Minnesota,
September 5, 1936

Notice is hereby given that on October 13, 1936 at 4:00 P. M. at Thief River Falls, Minn. in the office of the County Auditor, at Pennington County, in the State of Minnesota, I will offer for sale certain unsold state lands and also those state lands which have reverted to the State by reason of the non-payment of interest.

Terms of Sale:

Fifteen per cent of the purchase price is payable to the County Treasurer at the time of sale. The unpaid balance is payable at any time in whole or in part within forty years from the date of sale, interest being at the rate of four per cent per annum, due on June 1st of each year; provided, that the interest can be paid at any time within the interest year without penalty. In effect, this means that the interest money may be paid at any time between June first and May thirty first without penalty.

The appraised value of timber and improvements must be paid in full at the time of sale.

All mineral rights are reserved to the State by the laws of the State.

All lands are sold subject to any and all ditch and road taxes thereon.

Lands on which the interest has become delinquent may be redeemed at any time up to the hour of sale or before resale to an actual purchaser. Lands sold after January 1, 1934, are subject to the provisions of Chapter 39, Laws Extra Session 1933.

No person can purchase more than 320 acres of land, provided, however, that State lands purchased previous to 1905 are not charged against such purchaser.

Agents acting for purchasers must furnish affidavit of authority.

Appraisers' reports showing quality and kind of soil are on file in the office of the Division of Lands and Minerals, 14 State Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Lists giving legal descriptions of lands to be offered may be obtained of the Director of Lands and Minerals, 14 State Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota, and of the County Auditor at the County seat.

A COTTON-PICKING MACHINE THAT MAY REVOLUTIONIZE ONE OF THE WORLD'S GREAT INDUSTRIES

The Rust Brothers Cotton Picker undergoing official tests at Stoneville, Miss. In operation, 1,344 spinning paddles detach the cotton from the bolls, to be sucked into the sack at the right. The general adoption of this device would affect from 7,000,000 to 9,000,000 workers in ten cotton States and the use of 5,000,000 horses and mules during the picking season.

Mack Rust (left) demonstrates the picker, while his brother, John D., is in Russia explaining its use to Soviet officials. Since cotton is "graded" by the amount of leaves, parts of bolls and other foreign matter present, the true value of the new device depends upon the purity of its "pick"; likewise upon the completeness with which it gathers the crop.

THE OUTSTANDING PATTERN STYLE SUIT OF THE SEASON

Each season there is always one style and one pattern upon which smart dressers focus their attention. This season it is Glen Plaids, that family of patterns created by putting one plaid over another, creating a colorful effect, yet because of overplaid, subdued enough to appeal to the average dresser. We show GLEN PLAIDS in a wide variety of color combinations.

The favorite model of the season is the Drape, with its Broad Shoulders and Tapered Waistline, giving added height to the wearer. We show the model in Smart Single and Double Breasted Models. Step in and try them on.

One of the younger members remarked: "My, I've seen more today than I've ever seen in my life."

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Murphy of Grand Forks, with their two children, arrived here on Wednesday of last week. Mr. Murphy, who is a brakeman on the G. N., had to return to his duties that same evening, while Mrs. Murphy and the children are making an extended visit at the Stephens and Carr homes.

Mrs. Gundhill Hanson died Tuesday evening, Sept. 1. She was 84 years old and was the mother of Mrs. Anna Risberg and Mrs. Sam Kezar. Funeral services were held in the Lutheran church here conducted by Rev. Trelstad, and further services were held at Roseau where the body was taken for interment.

Charles Hanson, aged 81 years, an old settler of this community, died in Crookston on Wednesday of last week and was brought here for burial in the Whiteford cemetery. He was the father of Bennie Hanson of Middle River. Rev. Trelstad conducted funeral services in the Whiteford church Sunday afternoon.

Walter Peltola and Elmer (Tug) Rostad departed westward Sunday morning. Walter went to Augusta, Mont., to resume his job of teaching, while Tug, a recent graduate from Concordia college went to Stanton, N. D., where he has been engaged as assistant principal in the schools.

Orville Risberg is visiting for a week at Max, N. D., at the home of his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Sustad, whom he accompanied home after their attendance at the funeral of Mrs. Hanson on Saturday.

Harold Berg of Duluth, and Mr. and Mrs. Truman Schaaf and their three children of Grand Rapids, visited Thursday and Friday at the Berg home in Middle River.

Alton Carlson has gone to Moorhead to resume attendance at Concordia college.

Herbert Peltola will leave next week to attend the N. D. State Teachers college.

Miss Dorothy Evans, of Honor Bright 4H club, having won the position of county style queen on the basis of exhibits, story and records, left for Minneapolis on Sept. 4 to represent Marshall county in the 4H exhibits and activities at the state fair this week.

Miss Fay Bakken has accepted an office position in the rehabilitation office at Warren and has entered upon her work.

Miss Fern Peterson left Sunday to resume attendance at the State Teachers College at Moorhead.

Louis Anderson and his daughter Rachael drove to the twin cities Sunday. Miss Rachael has entered Minnehaha college.

Eddie Peterson and Olof Anderson, of Lancaster, brother and brother-in-law of Mrs. M. S. Nordine, both of Lancaster, were visitors at the Nordine home Sunday, and on their return home Loyal Nordine, oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Nordine, accompanied them for a weeks visit. A. W. Nordine, wife and baby, of Karlstad, were also guests at the Nordine home here that day and Mrs. A. W. and baby are spending the week here.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Schmidt, who have been visiting Mrs. Schmidt's parents, Rev. and Mrs. Trelstad, left for home Monday accompanied by Mrs. Trelstad, who is visiting them for a few days.

Mrs. Emma Wright returned on Monday from her visit at Fairmount.

Walter Stephens and family of Grygla, and Oscar Aarnes, and two children of Crookston, were guests at the Albert Stephens home Sunday, and Mrs. Aarnes and children remained to spend the week.

The scheduled meeting of the Women's Club for last week was cancelled owing to the absence of several members and the club will not meet until Friday, Sept. 17.

Baseball Team Wins Two More Games

at first to be a walk-away for Thief River Falls as the local team tallied seven scores in the first two innings. However, the visitors then buckled their belts and there was no more scoring on them from then on. Warren scored one run in the first, another in the fourth and still another in the fifth, to be trailing 7 to 3. "Tiny" Schell of Bemidji, who had been engaged by the local manager to pitch for Thief River Falls, kept the visitors well in hand up until the eighth.

The Warren team went to bat in this inning with strong intentions. H. Stroble sent a fast grounder through third. Mr. Stroble and Rosendahl singled to put H. Stroble across for a score. Rosendahl was out trying to stretch his base running on Michalski's foul fly caught by Johnson at first. Robinson, at third for Warren, however, lifted a drive to deep right field for a home-run, scoring M. Stroble ahead of him.

With the score 7 to 6 against them in the ninth, Warren made a determined effort to tie the count as L. Hill, the first man at bat singled. He stole his way around to third, but was stranded there as Schell caught M. Hills pop fly and struck out the other two.

Thief River Falls scored three in the first inning on hits by Ekeren and Jaranson, a fielder's choice and two errors on fast drives through shortstop. Four more were added in the second on five hits, a walk and an error., But Stroble, the Warren twirler, pulled himself together from then on and pitched air-tight ball. Ekeren and Jaranson, however, took well to his delivery as the former batted out two doubles and two singles, while the latter garnered three singles. Schell and Stroble each whiffed ten batters.

The same teams, Warren and Thief River Falls, will meet again in another hair-raising encounter at Warren next Sunday. The local boys have won two of the three games played so far this year and Warren is going to try hard to even up matters before the season ends.

worked on river boats. He carried supplies by boat from Bismarck to Fort Benton, near Williston at a time when the Indians were troublesome and few boatmen dared to make the trip. He was working on the river in 1883 when the North Dakota state capitol was built at Bismarck. In 1886 he went to Portland, N. D., where he operated a business until about 1897 when he homesteaded in Polk County in Johnson Township near Wanke.

A few years later he left this place to his son, Jacob Brovold, who died several years ago, and homesteaded near Rhoda in Pennington County where he farmed for 14 years. He then moved to Crookston with Mrs. Brovold and resided here at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Anna Hagen, for several years. They later moved to Grand Forks to reside until this time. Mrs. Brovold died in July, eight years ago, at the age of 87 years.

He is survived by three living daughters, Mrs. Anna Hagen, Mrs. Gertie Brand of Mayville, N. Dak., and Agnes Brovold of Grand Forks, and 30 grandchildren, and 3 great-great-grandchildren.

Harold Hagen, secretary of Congressman Buckler, and George Hagen, of Crookston, chairman of the Ninth District Farmer-Labor committee, are grandsons of the deceased.

SAVED... 730 HOURS ... A YEAR!

Of all the nice things customers tell us about Pyrofax Gas Service, nothing is mentioned as often as "time-saving." Woman after woman writes how much more time she has had for other things since she started to cook with this finest of all fuels. "My cooking time is reduced more than half." "I have so much more time now to spend with my children." "I even have time to take up golf now."—These, and remarks like them, come in every day.

Think what you could do with two extra hours of freedom a day! Just think, 730 hours a year, that now are wasted! It's so easy to have Pyrofax, and it costs so little. Equipment is leased for only $9.75—and the gas itself costs as little as 3 to 4 cents a meal! You can get a beautiful Pyrofax-Magic Chef Range—with automatic oven control, complete insulation, a smokeless broiler and scientifically-designed top burners—a small down payment and convenient terms. Come in soon, and select the range you like.

GRID SEASON OPENS UNDER FLOODLIGHTS

Red Lake Falls Will Oppose Prowlers In First Game of Season

Floodlights On Lincoln Field Will Be Novelty

Coach Lee Has Good Sized Squad Out For Daily Practice

The 1936 football season for the fans in the Thief River Falls vicinity will get off to a flying start Friday evening, according to plans now in readiness. The Red Lake Falls football squad will be here, prepared to turn the tables on their ancient opponents, the Prowlers.

The flood lights for night football are in readiness at Lincoln field and local fans will thus have their first glimpse of seeing their home team in action under artificial lights, a system so much in vogue in the larger cities. It affords an opportunity for those to attend who cannot during the daytime. The expense of the new field equipment will be borne by the Junior Civic and Commerce association, which is cooperating with the athletic department in putting in the flood lights.

Coach Lee has been drilling his team consistently for the past two weeks. He now has a squad of more than thirty men, the number being considerably augmented after the regular school term opened Monday. Unless something unfortunate occurs, the Prowlers should have a good season. Next week the Prowlers go to Crookston for a game.

According to Coach Lee, the starting line-up for Friday's game will be as follows: center, Robert Hanson; guards, Jack Adkins and Ray Bredeson; tackles, Loren Stadum, and James Peterson; ends, Alfred Nelson and Donald Lorentson; backs, captain Milton Nesse, Roger Wessling, Pomeroy Hill and Selmer Dicken.

Others who will probably see action in the game are Gordon Caldis, Orville Eide, Wesley Johnson, Henry Thews, Clarence Mattson, Clarke Mickelson, Robert Micaulsky, Clifford Olson, and Robert Smeltzer, linemen; Lynn Booren, Wallace Tunberg, Lowell Nesse, Jewell Stadum, and Harley Lumke, backfield.

Promising new men this week are Wesley Johnson, Lowell Nesse, Lynn Booren, and Henry Thews.

Magnus Johnson Is Laid to Rest

Magnus Johnson, former United States senator from Minnesota and one of the most prominent progressive political leaders in the state, passed away Sunday at a Litchfield hospital following a lingering illness from pneumonia.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at Litchfield and at Kimball, the home of the late senator. All state offices in St. Paul were closed in memory of Mr. Johnson. Gov. Petersen was one of the active pallbearers. Other pallbearers were Senators Elmer Benson, and Henrik Shipstead, former Congressman Henry Arens of Jordan; Emil Regnier of Marshall and Aaron Litman, St. Paul, secretary to Johnson while the latter was representative in congress.

Honorary pallbearers include: Congressman Paul Kvale, United States Senator Lynn Frazier of North Dakota; Congressman William Lemke of North Dakota and Congressman R. T. Buckler, of Crookston.

The Swedish-American immigrant, a one time Wisconsin lumberjack and a leader in the liberal movement in Minnesota, was

Workmen to Stage 'Shin Dig' Monday

Twenty minute speeches by Judge M. A. Brattland and H. O. Chommie, together with humorous readings and musical numbers, will feature a "shindig" being staged by the Workmen's Protective League at their hall in the basement of the Union State Bank building next Monday evening.

The last feature of a program, which is replete with enjoyment, is to be an I. W. W. Auction, the committee in charge of arrangements stated. Asked what an I. W. W. auction is, the chairman looked enigmatic and assured the reporter that it is worth attending. Some articles of special merit and value are to be sold for what they will bring, however, he stated.

The "Shindig" is to begin at 8:00 o'clock and all members of the league, their wives, and friends are invited to attend. A lunch will be served after the program. Admission is free.

COUNTY HEALTH SURVEY IS NOW BEING DIRECTED

Local Association Have Assistance of Mabel Johnson, State Health Nurse

A health survey of the rural school children of Pennington county is being conducted under the auspices of the Pennington County Public Health Association. Miss Mabel Johnson, Christmas Seal nurse of the Minnesota Public Health Association, began the survey last Monday.

The purpose of the survey is to fill out health record cards of the school children for permanent county files and also to discover boys and girls who have unsuspected physical defects or who are not physically up to standard. Slips will be sent home to parents of children in need of special attention.

Education in health is an important factor of the survey and Miss Johnson will place special stress on the importance of proper health habits and the prompt correction of defects which if neglected may retard the child's growth and progress in school. She will also discuss the importance of protective measures against preventable disease such as vaccination for small pox, immunization for diphtheria, and the tuberculin test to seek out early infection from tuberculosis. This survey is made possible through the annual sale of Christmas Seals.

While in Pennington county Miss Johnson will also assist in organization work for the orthopedic clinic to be conducted in Thief River Falls October 3 as part of the state Social Security program conducted by the Division of Crippled Children's Services, State Board of Control, with the Minnesota Public Health Association cooperating.

RURAL AND CITY SCHOOLS ARE IN SESSION HERE

Enrollment Shows Attendance Will Be As Large As Previous Years

Majority of Schools Began Last Monday

A. C. Matheson, Co. Supt. Submits List of Rural Teachers

On Monday morning, youth of all ages were seen hieing themselves off to begin another school year, as the city and rural schools began the 1936-7 school term. Some rural schools had opened a week earlier but the majority began this week, as did the Thief River Falls schools and those of the surrounding villages. The enrollment has been larger than usual, to show that people are more vitally interested in education than ever.

C. A. Matheson, the Pennington County Superintendent of schools, announces the following list for schools under his charge:

Because of the fact that all of those who are vitally interested in the presidential straw vote conducted by this paper have sent in their ballots and there seems to be a slack in the arrival of any more ballots the Forum editor has decided to end the poll published weekly in these pages for the past six weeks.

Other polls are in progress on a more extensive scale, as the Digest poll, so it is felt that the results of the newspaper poll have run their course. As discovered here, friends of the various newspapers participating are the chief remitters in the poll so the returns may not be truly representative.

Ballots received at the Forum office, mainly from the Thief River Falls vicinity, are as follows on the presidential candidates: Roosevelt 88, Lemke 64, Landon 35, Thomas 28, Colvin 21, and Browder 16.

The vote in newspapers in Minnesota reporting on the poll is as follows: Roosevelt 6,375; Landon 8,373; Lemke, 2,078; Thomas, 216; Colvin, 28, and Browder, 324.

With a total of 360,302 votes tabulated at the close of the final week in the nation wide Presidential poll, now being conducted by 3,000 weekly newspapers, Landon continues to pull away from the field. Even though slight this gain in lead is maintained in all three of the major analyses on a percentage basis.

Herewith are the vote totals from 41 states, as cast for the six

Waterfowl Season From October 10 To Nov. 8 Approved

A full 30-day waterfowl hunting season to conform with the federal season was fixed by the state Conservation Commission at its regular meeting last week.

The waterfowl season will begin at noon, October 10, and end November 8. The daily bag limit is ten, with ten permitted in possession.

Hunting at Big Stone Lake will be permitted from 7 A. M. to 2 P. M., except on the opening day when shooting begins at noon.

John R. Foley, of Wabasha, former chairman of the Commission, was authorized to make plans for a memorial to Governor Olson. In its resolution the Commission called attention to the late governor's keen interest in and understanding of conservation problems.

Governor Petersen has been asked to present his views on conservation to the Commission.

Bennes Resigns From Local School Board; Teacher Is Engaged

The board of education of the local school District No. 18, at a session held Monday evening adopted a budget and fixed the tax levy for the coming year, accepted the resignation of one of the board members, appointed a new member to fill the vacancy, and elected a teacher for the kindergarten department of the city schools.

The amount allowed by the budget was apportioned as follows: $98,314 for current expense, $3,300 for capital outlay, and $7,375 for debt service.

The total school tax rate for the coming year has been reduced one mill, the total tax rate for the coming year being 38.5 mills as compared with 39.5 mills during the present year. The tax rate is divided into the regular mill tax of one mill, a maintenance tax of 34.5 mills, and a bond and interest tax of three mills. The past year the rate was divided into the regular mill tax of one mill, a maintenance tax of 30 mills, and a bond and interest tax of 8.5 mills. The increase of 4.5 mills in the maintenance tax had to be made because the state aid this year, due to the legislature's failure to appropriate sufficient money to pay the aid in full as provided by law,

WARREN WINS FINAL GAME

The Thief River Falls baseball team closed the 1936 season last Sunday at Warren when a reinforced Marshall county seat team turned the tables on the local boys in a ten-inning game by the score of 2 to 1. This left the series between these two teams at two victories each for the season. As the football season opens this week-end, it was thought that the lateness of the season would not be favorable for another game.

The survey of the season of 1936 shows that the national pastime was highly successful for the Thief River Falls team. It won the Northern Minn. League title by a percentage of .928 and thruout the season won 17 games and lost 4. The material at the opening of the year appeared inexperienced and weak in spots, but, each and every player developed as the season went on so that at the close there was no weak position on the team. The local Junior Civic & Commerce association sponsored the ball club and feel amply rewarded for their efforts.

While Sunday's game was lost it was to a much reinforced Warren team. It was a pitcher's battle that lasted for ten innings. A mighty swat by Michalski of Oslo

BROADCAST OF BENSON SPEECH IS ARRANGED

F-L Candidate For Governor To Give Keynote Address On Monday

Immense Crowd Is Seen For Appleton

Senator Chooses Home Town For Opening of Fall Campaign

As stated in these pages last week, Elmer A. Benson, Farmer-Labor candidate for Governor will give his keynote address on Monday, September 21st. The message will be carried over eight radio stations, including KSTP, and WDAY; and will begin at 8 P. M. It will be broadcast from the Armory at Appleton, which is the home town of Senator Benson.

The Benson for Governor Volunteer Club of Appleton is arranging to welcome Senator Benson back to his home town for the keynote address of his campaign for the governorship of the state of Minnesota. They are preparing to make the occasion the high-light of the 1936 campaign and a fitting tribute to a distinguished native son. Entertainment and accommodations will be provided for the greatest gathering ever assembled in western Minnesota.

Seven bands and drum corps will play during the day and there will be a huge parade which will include auto caravans from various parts of the state. Caravans already scheduled include places as far north as Crookston and Duluth, and more are expected from points farther north, including Thief River Falls.

A special train from St. Paul will carry Twin City friends to Appleton for the celebration. The committee expects the largest political gathering ever had in a state campaign.

The Appleton Armory has the largest seating capacity of any building in the western part of the state and amplifying equipment will carry the address to other buildings and parts throughout the city.

All are invited to Appleton for the day and those who wish to join the Polk County Caravan should communicate with Fred R. Crane, Campaign Manager, Crookston, Minnesota.

STATE BUDGET HEAD WILL SPEAK OVER RADIO SEPT. 24

Paul Rasmussen, state budget comissioner, will speak Thursday, Sept. 24, at 9:30 p. m. over radio stations WCCO and WDAY. Mr. Rasmussen's subject will be based on state expenditures tax funds, and tell of the manner in which these have been handled in the past. It will be of interest to all tax payers to listen in on his talk.

Senator Elmer A. Benson Flays Radio Keynote Speech of Martin A. Nelson

Martin A. Nelson's keynote attack on the administration of the late Governor Floyd B. Olson and the Farmer-Labor party Saturday evening brought a vigorous reply from United States Senator Elmer A. Benson, Farmer-Labor candidate for governor.

"Let me tell Mr. Nelson that Governor Olson's record of genuine and unselfish service to the common people of Minnesota—not to Mr. Nelson's wealthy friends—will constitute glorious chapters in the future history of this state and nation long after he, the puppet of the steel trust and the public utility corporations, will have been forgotten," Senator Benson said in a statement Monday.

Nelson and Citizens Alliance

Sen. Benson's statement called attention to Nelson's close association with the Citizens' Alliance, reactionary Minneapolis labor-baiting organization.

"Mr. Nelson says the Republican party is in favor of the principle of collective bargaining by working-men," Senator Benson stated. "The fact remains that Mr. Nelson and the Republican party support the anti-labor policy of the Citizen's Alliance and the Citizens' Alliance in exchange supports Mr. Nelson and the Republican Party."

Senator Benson atacked Nelson for refusing to take a stand in the sales tax, asserting that the Republican party has openly favored the tax and now attempts to evade the issue.

Senator Benson's Reply

The statement of Senator Benson follows in part:

"The vicious and unprincipled attack made by Martin A. Nelson in his keynote Saturday night on the late Governor Olson, I can assure him, will be fully and completely answered. Floyd B. Olson, is unable to answer for himself, but his friends will supply the answer for him—and so will the voters on November 3.

"Mr. Nelson may say that Governor Olson was a charlatan, a demagogue, a betrayer of the public

H.S. Lyceum Program Will Be Given Friday

Following last year's plan of providing a series of assembly programs for the entertainment and education of local high school students, the first of a series of six such programs scheduled for this school year will be given in the municipal auditorium Friday afternoon at three o'clock.

Featured on Friday's program will be Merton Overing, reader of poems, impersonator of odd bits of character taken from his studies of persons in real life, and fabric painter. His work deals with the poetry and characters of the New England states, and his act is considered one of the best entertainment features being presented for high school audiences today.

The series of programs, which is sponsored by the Lincoln high school student body, are secured through the Northwest Assemblies Inc., of Minneapolis, states W. G. Claffy, high school principal.

COUNTY AUDITOR ISSUES NOTICE OF DELINQUENT TAX

All 1926-7-8-9 Property Taxes Must Be Arranged For By Oct. 8th, Says Mr. Senstad

Attention of property owners having delinquent real estate taxes for the years 1926-7-8-9 is again called to the fact that unless these taxes are paid prior to October 8, 1936 their property will forfeit to the State on that date. There is still time for property owners who have such delinquent taxes and who cannot pay the full amount at this time to take advantage whereby they may pay down one tenth of the original tax and have the balance spread over nine more annual payments with 4 per cent interest on the unpaid balance. Under this law property that is delinquent for 1933 or any prior year may be placed on the installment plan up to November 1st, 1937 However if the property is delinquent for either 1926-1927-1928-1929 such property will forfeit to the State October 8, 1936.

There have been numerous compromise delinquent tax settlements made in this County with the County Board and the Minnesota Tax Commission especially on property that has been burdened with heavy special assessments. All applications of this kind that have come before the County Board up to and including the last County

LUNDEEN WILL HEAD SPEAKERS AT BIG RALLY

Candidate for U. S. Sen. To Head List of Speaker, Sunday, Sept. 27

Hartig, Lindsten, And Others Also To Speak

Pennington Committee Arranges Big Event For Heize's Grove

The big rally that has been planned by the Pennington County Farmer-Labor crowd will be held Sunday afternoon, Sept. 27th, at Heinze's Grove, a mile southeast of this city. Three prominent candidates on the state ticket will be here to speak and several others will also be here and may be called on if time allows, states H. O. Berve, the county campaign manager.

Ernest Lundeen, the congressman from the Third District, chosen to run for U. S. senator in place of the late Gov. Floyd B. Olson will be the main speaker. Cong. Lundeen is an eloquent speaker and for years has been one of the leading progressives in Congress. His appearance here should be of much interest to people of northwestern Minnesota.

The two other state candidates to appear are Dr. Paul Hartig, candidate for secretary of state, and G. T. Lindsten, candidate for lieutenant governor. The latter candidate spoke at River Valley Sept. 7th, when he gave a fine Labor Day speech. Dr. Hartig is likewise a very able speaker.

Two women speakers who are well known in the state Farmer-Labor circles will also speak at the meeting. They are Mrs. Marian LeSueur and Mrs. Chas. Lundquist, who are assisting in organizing Women's Farmer-Labor clubs in the Ninth Congressional district at this time. Other speakers who may be called on are Cong. R. T. Buckler, Rep. J. O. Melby, and Walter E. Day, candidate for representative in this district.

The speeches will be reproduced over a loud-speaker system so that all will have an opportunity to hear. If inclement weather prevails at the time it is expected that the meeting will be held indoors. People are asked to look for further details next week.

County Republicans Will Have Banquet

Pennington County Republicans will meet Friday evening in the Evelyn Hotel to perfect their county associated club for the coming campaign. Their business session will include a discussion of the aims and purposes of the Club, and election of officers, including a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer and at least three directors.

The matter of a large public rally later in the fall will also be considered, probably Oct. 13th in the evening when Theodore Christianson and Arthur E. Nelson will speak in Thief River Falls.

Speakers at the Friday night dinner rally include Senator Alfred Solstad and Elmer A. Haugen, candidate for Congress in the ninth district. The Young Republicans have been assured either one of two speakers, George Etsell of Clarissa or Alfred Winberg of Duluth, on the same program. There will be music, community singing and other entertainment.

LOCAL FARMER-LABOR CLUB POSTPONES MONTHLY MEET

The Thief River Falls Farmer-Labor club has postponed its club meetings indefinitely, due to the fact that the court house is being occupied, Herman Kjos, secretary of the club, announced today.

Entered as Second Class matter April 27th, 1932 at the post office at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, and re-entered under new title at same office on February 21, 1936, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1897.

IF LANDON IS ELECTED——

If the American people should act so unwisely at the polls in the election this fall that Alfred Mossman Landon will be elected president, let us beforehand consider what he would do and what he couldn't do.

The main fact to consider is what he cannot do if elected. He may want to talk a lot about what he would like to do but the chances are so remote of him being able to enact even one of his pet ideas that it is really useless to consider any of his proposals.

The reason we say this is because the control of Congress will be in the hands of the Democrats. The Republicans were so far in the minority in Congress at the last session that trying to vote anything down which President Roosevelt called "must" legislation was useless effort, doomed, in fact, was such long in advance. Out of 435 members in the House of Representatives the Republicans had barely a total of 100. Out of the 96 senators there were only 25 Republicans. There wasn't even enough Republicans to prevent a two-thirds vote. And it must be admitted that a score of the members in the House and a half dozen senators were not Republicans in anything else than name. Such Republican senators as Norris, Nye, Frazier, and Couzens, or such Republican congressmen as Lemke, Burdick, Marcantonio, and others were such insurgent Republicans that they supported the Democrats more often than their own party.

As every member of the House is elected every two years, the Republicans have an opportunity to get a majority here. But they have expressed themselves sincerely enough by admitting that the best they could hope for is fifty more than at present. This will be sixty-eight less than a majority. In the senate, only one-third of the members are up for election this fall. The Republicans have confessed that at most they cannot hope for a half-dozen more than at present. This will give them only 31 out of 96, one less than even a third of the total.

If the people are good enough to Landon to elect him president yet it is certain they are going to be good enough to the Democrats to return the control of congress to them. Even if people oppose the Roosevelt ideas they do not associate their Democratic congressmen in the same sense, who, as a result, will be re-elected this fall.

If Landon will thus succeed in becoming president he will virtually have his hands tied. After four years of bickering with congress he will come out for re-election on the idea he was not responsible for what hadn't been brought about because congress was blocking his efforts.

It would therefore be better to re-elect Roosevelt and let him have the responsibility. Avoid a do-nothing situation which would otherwise be evident. If Roosevelt and his party then prove unsatisfactory they can be turned completely out and full responsibility left with the opposing party then in existence.

WHY MANKIND IS MUCH SEX INCLINED

A comment on social conditions that promote sex outrages appeared recently in a Minneapolis paper, written by a subscriber, which we believe is well worth considering. The article is as follows:

"Decent people everywhere are horrified at the recent epidemic of attacks on women in Minneapolis. More police is the cry. They may be right, but might there not be underlying causes of another nature? Consider these: 1. Style of dress unquestionably emphasizes sex. 2. Bathing beaches that are, practically, nudist colonies. 3. News stands overflowing with pornographic literature so vile that Uncle Sam won't carry it in the mails. 4. Book publishers printing and selling books on sex under the pretense of scientific inquiry. 5. Advertisements that depend for their effectiveness on display of the female form in more or less degree undraped. 6. Of course, the stage, especially burlesque, and movies capitalize the same theme. All of these, undeniably, have done much in the last years to degrade womanhood.

"We ought not, nor should we permit others, to play with and cheapen the powerful urge of nature, so beautiful when controlled and rightly used, but when uncontrolled so frightfully destructive and degrading. Remember Sodom and Gomorrha! Unless society will destroy the forces that are breeding crime in high and low places, it cannot protect itself, no matter how many policemen there are.

"That which a man soweth, that shall he also reap.' "

A psychologist will certainly attest to the truth of this comment. We may also add: As a person thinks, so will he also act; think no evil and you will do no evil, policeman or no policeman.

FARMERS AND LABORERS HAVE MUCH IN COMMON

Some opponents of the Farmer-Labor party in Minnesota are trying to split the party in twain. They say to the farmer that he has nothing in common with the laborer in the cities who, they say, doesn't want to pay the farmer what he should have for his produce and, who, in turn, wants high wages for making the things the farmer needs. These politicians add "Your interests are entirely opposed to those of the city worker. It is to your benefit to oppose the city laborers in politics".

Likewise these politicians go to the city worker and tell him he has nothing in common with the farmer who wants big prices for the stuff he raises for the city worker and who, in turn, protests at the prices the city worker wants for labor in making the goods the farmer needs. "Your interests are entirely opposed to those of the farmer. It is to your benefit to oppose the farmer in politics", these politicians say.

While the shallowness of such thinking is indicative of many of these "peanut" politicians, yet a majority of them are so shrewd as to use the argument to divide the ranks of the Farmer-Labor party. Undoubtedly there are many who listen to such argument without analyzing it and eventually vote anti-Farmer-Labor.

However, anyone who analyzes the situation a little carefully will think and act differently. They realize that all are not laborers and farmers but that there is a class of middlemen who want to extract as much as they can out of what the city laborer makes and out of what the farmer produces. Some of these middle men are quite necessary as they perform a useful task in aiding in the distribution of products in both directioss. They are entitled to pay for their part in the transaction so as to enable them to live comfortably.

But, there is a portion of this middlemen's class which is entirely unnecessary. It consists of such as the brokers, stock gamblers, speculators, commission-men, etc., etc., who do nothing to aid in the process of producing or distributing goods. They are the group who want the farmer and laborer to oppose each other. They extract an undue profit which causes the farmer to get less for what he produces and the city laborer to pay higher prices for what he buys. Similarly the racket reacts on the goods the laborer makes and what the farmer has to buy.

Just because these middlemen's profits have been excessive is the reason why the farmer and the laborer should continue together in politics. The fortunes of the greater part of our wealthy class were amassed because the system allowed the racketeering to continue. If the Farmer-Labor party is permitted to grow it will eventually force these useless middlemen or racketeers out. These are the politicians who are mainly urging a split in the ranks of our Farmer Laborites.

MAGNUS JOHNSON

Death of Magnus Johnson takes from the public life of Minnesota one of the most striking figures of the state's history. For many years he had been prominently before the people. There was scarcely a campaign in more than a decade in which his name had not been on the ticket for high office.

His readiness of speech, his wit and fine sense of humor, his homely philosophy, his frank innocence, his earnest simplicity, his undisguised pride in being just a "dirt farmer" were a combination that easily fashioned the picturesque character whose fame once stretched across the nation.

Magnus Johnson made no pretense to rank among the intellectuals. But he was a man of good sense. He was ruggedly honest. He possessed an apt phraseology. His sterling qualities drew neighbors to him for leadership and he was a pioneer in the movement we now know as the Farmer-Labor movement.

Magnus Johnson frequently enjoyed marked preferment. He served in both houses of our state legislature and was accorded the highest honor in the gift of the people of Minnesota when elected to the United States senate. The last year of his life saw him a disappointed man as he realized his cherished ambition to be governor of his state was gone with his defeat for nomination for that office and continuing ill health.

Often he had been, as a candidate, close to that office, but never quite made it. But he took it all philosophically and approached the end grateful for honors received and conscious he had fulfilled every duty, public and private, devotedly and to the full extent of his ability, and that his integrity never had been questioned.—Minneapolis Daily Star.

RECORD OF A SOVIET PROJECT

For a hundred years the Czar's government talked about a project of constructing a canal to connect the Baltic and the White Sea, making it unnecessary to round the Scandinavian Peninsula. The Soviet government undertook this project in 1931 and gave twenty months to it. The work was done according to schedule and the canal is now completed.

The plan called for what is now named Belomer canal, 227 kilometers long, to be cut through mountains, swamps and rivers, in a region where the frigid climate made cement work almost impossible.

The digging of this great trench was also utilized for a great social laboratory experiment. The plan called for a program to reclaim the outcasts of society—those whose conducts and attitudes called for isolation in prison camps. It was hoped to "reforge" them into social beings. Tens of thousands of prisoners—thieves, murderers and public enemies—were handed over to the canal authorities. Coercion was not used in this labor experiment, and no guards were put over the men. Clubhouses, schools and homes were built and each worker was permitted to learn the trade of his choice, to study music and dramatics and to participate in the social life of the camps. If his development warranted, he received a reduction of sentence. He was impressed with the fact that he was not being punished but was learning to be a useful citizen.

The story of the building of the canal, and of the results of the social experiment, is told in a book called Belomor which has been one of the best sellers in the Soviet Union. From it an edition was printed in England. It has now been reprinted in the United States. Thirty-four of the men who worked on the canal were asked to contribute a chapter each. These men tell their experiences with a freshness and a passion that makes the book remarkable.—Minneapolis Journal.

United States Senator Elmer A. Benson, Farmer-Labor candidate for governor, will deliver his keynote address in the armory of his home town, Appleton, at 8 p. m. Monday, Sept. 21.......

The address will be broadcast over radio stations KSTP, St. Paul-Minneapolis; WTCN, St. Paul-Minneapolis; WEBC, Duluth-Sperior; WMFG, Hibbing; WROC, Rochester; WNAX, Yankton, S. D., and WDAY, Fargo, N. D. The talk will go on the air at 8 p. m.......

A special train will carry Twin Cities persons to Appleton stopping at virtually every town to pick up passengers. More than 300 reservations already have been received for the special train, which will travel over the Milwaukee road carrying 16 coaches.

The train is scheduled to leave the St. Paul union station at 10:45 a. m. of the keynote day, reaching Appleton at 6:45 p. m. Before proceeding to Appleton it will stop at Minneapolis.

Virtually all Farmer-Labor candidates in the November election will be among the special train's passengers for the occasion.

Following the keynote, Senator Benson will begin an intensive state-wide speaking tour which will occupy him for the remainder of the campaign.

Home town arrangements for the event are being made by the Benson-for-Governor Volunteer Club of Appleton, headed by F. E. Wright and Mrs. Alice Arntzen.

The armory, largest public building in Appleton has a seating capacity of 3,600.

The Younger Republicans are making a bid for the support of young people in this state, but some of the older ones are speaking out of turn. Just after a Republican organizer had been thru Nicollet County telling what his party was to do for the young, Judge Frank C. Barnes of Fergus Falls spoke down there at a meeting attacking not only the Benson-Amlie Youth Bill but the younger generation itself, by implication. "Are we," he asked, "to pamper our youth by paying their way through schools and making them grow up a nation of loafers?"

Unfortunately he had not read the bill, which provides for a means of allowing youth part-time work so that it can go to school. Young folks who have been having a hard time of it lately trying to find jobs on which they can earn enough to go to school do not take kindly to the judge's criticism. They realize that the only youths who are being pampered are the sons and daughters of the very rich—and the Republicans are not attacking them.

The conference of progressive leaders called by Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin in Chicago over the weekend is of tremendous importance to the future of the liberal movement of America.

In addition to defining the proper stand of progressives towards the present presidential political situation, the conference has a far-flung objective for the future... to bring together the progressives for united action.

With fascism threatening this country through the reactionary channels, America is in danger of a form of government foreign to our soil. Fascism does violence to the history and tradition of America; it repudiates the Pilgrim fathers, Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln. The history of Europe of very recent years already tells its lesson, and that is that democracy must be prepared to meet this menace. To rest content in the belief that the Middle Ages are gone forever never to return may be fatal.

For that reason, the Chicago conference might well become, with Labor's Nonpartisan League and other groups, the means of sparing America from the blight of fascism.

Senator George Lommen of Eveleth, speaking over the radio in Minneapolis this week, declared that records in the U. S. Dept of Agriculture show that Iowa with a sales tax pays a higher tax rer acre than Minnesota. The average acreage tax in Iowa is 85c; in Minnesota it is 59c. He also showed how two large insurance companies would save $466,900 a year and $463,620 a year respectively.

Paul Rasmussen, State Director of Personnel and Budget Commissioner, reveals that state expenditures under Republican rule are responsible for the majority of debts which the state must now pay. The largest single item in the list of debts is the $60,000,000 of the rural credit bureau acquired under a Republican rule. Approximately $21,000,000 of this may be lost because the Republicans loaned too much money to their banker friends instead of to the farmers in order to liquidate their frozen assets.

Out of a total indebtedness of $124,345,683.93, $110,844,769.93 is self-liquidating. In other words, more than 90 per cent of the state's debt will pay for itself without any additional real property taxation. A good portion of the state's debt is in highway bonds, and these were matched by Federal funds, so that the state got two miles of paved road for the price of one.

A comparison of state expenditures under Republican and Farmer Labor administrations reveal that the only year in the last four bienniums that could rightly be called an economy one was the biennium of 1933 when the Farmer Labor Party came closest to being in power. In that year it had partial control of the legislature. And in that year state expenditures for all departments were less than in any other year.

The Nobel prize for the strangest discovery of the age should go to none other than our contemporary, R. W. Hitchcock, Republican publicity spokesman and apologist. At least, we nominate him for the coveted award.

Mr. Hitchcock made the discovery that the Republican party of Minnesota in 1917, through the then governor, J. A. A. Burnquist, proclaimed the principle of collective bargaining for labor and union recognition. The only thing which did not make recognition of that principle effective was the fact that the Republican party in 1917 did not have a publicity man of Mr. Hitchcock's ability to inform Republican employers of the Republican position on labor.

Just think of the number of costly industrial disputes which would have been prevented had Mr. Hitchcock been the publicity spokesman for the Republican party in 1917! The people of Minneapolis would have been spared the anti-union propaganda of the Citizen's Alliance, of that city. Maybe there wouldn't even have been a Minneapolis Citizen's Alliance, because there wouldn't have been any reason for its existence.

And, may we whisper something privately into Mr. Hitchcocks' ear: As one member of the newspaper profession to another,, Hitchcock, I'm tipping you off to something. Your friend, Martin Nelson, whom you are trying to elect as Governor on the Republican ticket, does not know a darn thing about this Republican pronouncement of union labor recognition and the right of collective bargaining. He was an invited guest (and attended) the Minneapolis Citizen's Alliance annual dinner, and said a few words, we believe. If he had known about this 1917 stand of his party—a stand which was never repealed—he unquestionably would not have gone to that dinner, or at least he would have told the Alliance that they are all wet and had better fold up. You better not tell anybody about his hobnobbing with the Alliance crowd.

The New Russian Constitution

One understands from the daily press that under the Bolsheviki, Russia is a somewhat uncomfortable land in which to live. If one may believe current newspaper stories, one section of the population spends most of its time hanging or shooting other sections of the population.

* * * *

It is, of course, quite understandable that to the recipients of such emphatic attentions, the procedure can become a bit annoying in the long run.

* * * *

Since this same daily press had but little of a critical nature to say of the rule of the Romanoffs when they were in power, one gathers that everything then was quite delightful ...

... Which was also the impression your commentator had. He always imagined czarist Russia as a place where the whole populace went about in long whiskers and high boots and lived a genial and easy life.

In the summer, they spent their time eating caviar, dancing their awkward, squatting dance and drinking vodka—

"Here's mudski in your eye!" one heard frequently—

—While in the winter most of them had nothing to do except to indulge in the season's national pasttime of starving to death.

* * * *

And there was also more political freedom in Russian than one might imagine. Malicious tales to the contrary have of course been told, but the evidence is quite the other way.

Who, indeed, but a free people could go about like the Russians without even bothering to tuck their shirts into their pants!

* * * *

In truth, the Russians led an idyllic existence until the Revolution spoiled it all by coming along and introducing a lot of very preposterous ideas... the notion, for example, that those who, through their labor, created wealth, were entitled to some small slice of what they produced ...

"In the sweat of thy brow shalt thou eat thy bread!" they proclaimed ... and, quite unreasonably, proceeded to enforce the rule.

The nobility, at least, thought it unreasonable. They promptly took to the woods. The few who remained found themselves compelled to hunt their own collar buttons when they rolled under the dresser.

* * * *

The complete list of atrocities is far too long to be given here. It is suggested to those who wish details that they inquire of Mr. Hearst. He will probably be, not only eager to oblige, but may even throw in a couple of shudders for good measure.

(Mr. Hearst's high frequency shudders are too well known to require comment.)

Russia, in short, became a land of very dubious repute ... so dubious, in fact, that it was soon acceptably horrible as a place to which those who fell under the frowning displeasure of the 100 per cent Americans could be invited to banish themselves ...

"Why don't you go to Russia, then!" became the brilliant and devastating retort of the 100 per centers.

* * * *

But now, with the surprising and illogical suddenness with which they do things, the Russians are adopting a constitution ...

It provides for universal suffrage, by secret ballot, for all over 18 years of age, and guarantees freedom of speech, freedom of the press and of religious worship.

Full protection for certain forms of private property is assured, and all citizens are granted the right to employment and payment "in proportion to the quantity and quality of the work performed."

The duty of every citizen to work is declared on the principle that "he who does not work, does not eat."

It contains, in short, provisions for all the essentials of a real democratic government, probably more liberal in its conceptions than any other now existant.

* * * *

Your observant commentator notes only one small deficiency in their set-up ... They have neglected to provide a snug and permanent appointive berth for political lame ducks.

However, it may still occur to them to add a postscript providing for a Supreme Court, in which case all will be well.

VIEWS AND REVIEWS

By B. C. HAGGLUND

A Lincoln Steffens Story

Lincoln Steffens, who died recently, was one of our first liberals to see the basic truth of Russia. He went there in 1917, the moment the revolution occurred. He went again in 1919 and in 1923. "Back in Paris", writes a chronicler, "he burst into the studio of his friend, Jo Davidson, who was sculping Barney Baruch. 'You've been to Russia?' Baruch asked. 'Oh, no,' said Stef, 'I've been further than that. I've been 'way over into the Future—and it works!' "

Strike Against War

Back in the days of the caveman, they tell us, a man could fight or not as he chose. Only when in imminent personal danger was the problem put up to him. The clever retreater and trouble-avoider lived longer than the fighter. From these grew the bourgeois class of later years.

In modern times we struggle for food, shelter, clothing, health, learning—struggle more desperately than the oldest cave-man. Added to this, we struggle for the right not to be killed in a war. It is not enough that we scrap for our daily bread; the Retreaters and Trouble-Avoiders sometimes stir up a Big Scrap so they can make some money, and they pass laws making it a crime to avoid fighting. It has now come to the point where we need to achieve the simple freedom enjoyed by the cave-men. From that point we shall perhaps some day work up to civilization.

Terrible Conditions in Spain

Word comes that a certain Signor Malferrati, an Italian capitalist who exploited the gullible Spaniards at Talavera, Spain, for twelve years, resides in Spain no more. The esteemable Signor Malferrati regretfully left Spain behind him, also his house, a factory, and two automobiles. According to his account, he was lucky to take his head along, right on his shoulders, where it belongs. "Political enemies and owners of wealth were immediately arrested and executed regardless of their nationalities," he reports.

Further on in his report, however, we come to the real reason for his ire. The bloodthirsty, terrible "reds", instead of neatly despatching him by removing his body from his head, put him to work. One week was enough for Signor Malferrati, factory owner and gentleman. At the end of that time, according to his own account, he rebelled. Strangely enough, the "reds" did not execute him even then. They simply set him on the road to Italy, giving him 50 pesetas for traveling expenses.

So, after twelve years of comfortable living as an exploiter of the Spanish people, this pitiable capitalist had to work a full week. No wonder the Signor was sore—

The Black Legion in Michigan

Judge George B. Hartrick, in Circuit Court at Pontiac, Michigan, recently presented a grand jury report on the Black Legion, in which it was charged that sixty-four persons in public employ in Michigan were members of the secret terrorist organization. These members ranged from state representatives to patrolmen.

Prosecution of the few Black Legion members who have been indicted for murder, drags its weary course, its every move hampered by petty politics. The judge's disclosure proves that the Black Legion is strong—stronger, perhaps, than any local government. It has been suggested that the Federal Government take a hand, and set its G-men on the trail of the secret organization, to ferret out its political connections. But then, there are dangers in such an unveiling. One cannot tell to what renowned dignitary the trail will lead—and right now American capitalism hates to lose itself in the face!

School Is In Full Session

School has been in session a week and everyone is adapting him self to the changes.

The enrollment by grades is as follows: First, 17; Second, 15; Third, 20; Fourth, 12; Fifth, 21; Sixth, 17; Seventh, 17; Eighth, 15; Ninth, 29; Tenth, 15; Eleventh, 25; and Twelfth, 19.

The enrollment in the Jr. and Sr. High school is not complete. More are expected to enroll later.

The program for the Jr. and Sr. H. S. is arranged on an hour basis this year. The change provides for a supervised study period of each subject and frees the last period in the day for the extra activities.

The girl's glee club of the Sr. H. S. is already meeting for regular rehearsals under the direction of Miss Burke.

The school band, too, is organized and has seven new candidates. If it is possible to secure the right instruments for all the enlarged band will have a more balanced instrumentation. Mr. Ohnstad, who is in charge, is anxious to get in touch with anyone who has or knows of a band instrument for sale.

Mr. Jaspers, basketball coach, is making personal contacts with the expected members of the squad.

The commercial department, in charge of Miss Albrecht, has received several additional typewriters. These were necessary because of the large number in the Jr. class who enrolled in this department. The seating in the commercial room has been arranged to accommodate them.

Last Friday the school board met and took up those matters which usually come before it before or shortly after the opening of the new school year.

Mr. Ohnstad drove to McIntosh Friday evening to visit his parents who are recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident some time ago.

Miss Macki's room contains a vase of gorgeous gladiola. These were grown by Mr. Jacobson. Some of them equal those exhibited at the State Fair in everything except size of spike.

MANY FARMERS IN THIS COUNTY REPAYING LOANS

Continual and heavy repayments of loans obtained by farmer members from their Production Credit Associations indicate an increasingly truer understanding and keener appreciation of credit, in the belief of George Susens, president of the Production Credit Corporation of St. Paul.

Illustrating his point, he cited the Thief River Falls Production Credit Association, which serves farmers in this county.

"Secretary-Treasurer Robert J. Lund reported cash repayments of $18,000 during the first 6 months of this year," Mr. Susens said, "while up to that time the association had made 75 new loans, and after the cash repayments had been deducted still had $114,000 outstanding in loans to its members. It has been one of the cardinal principles of the PCA's to emphasize the real function of credit and in this they have been remarkably successful." Mr. Susens said.

As a result of his policies, he said, Production Credit Association members are generally a forehanded group of farmers. In support of this he cited total cash repayments in this state of $1,962,000 during the 6 months, with total loans still outstanding aggregating $4,685,000.

"Swing Time", a picture with a 4-A rating, starring Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, and a silly symphony in technicolor, combine to make the entertainment at the Avalon Theatre next Sunday and Monday an unusually appealing one. Two matinees have been arranged for by the theatre management, one at 1:30 p. m. and one at 3:30 p. m., Sunday.

"Swing Time" introduces five new hit songs and new dance steps and is considered the best Astaire-Rogers production to date. The supporting cast includes such notable actors as Victor Moore, Helen Broderick, Eric Blore, and Betty Furness.

The guests played games during the afternoon and the gifts presented to the honor guest from those present were opened. At five o'clock lunch was served. Covers were laid for thirteen at a table which had for its centerpiece a birthday cake with pink and white decorations and lighted candles. Miss Dorothy Johnson and Miss Edna Gilchrist, assisted Mrs. Williamson in serving.

FERN FLATTUM IS BRIDE OF MINNEAPOLIS MAN

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Flattum of 409 North Atlantic Ave. this week announced the marriage of their daughter Miss Fern to Donald Risberg, son of Dr. and Mrs. John Risberg of Minneapolis. The ceremony took place August 15 at 8 p. m., at the home of the groom's parents.

The service was read by Rev. Milton G. Nelson, pastor of Central Lutheran church, Minneapolis, before an improvised altar in the living room of the home, which was decorated with palms and ferns. Those present to witness the ceremony were the attendants, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Bartult of Minneapolis, and members of the groom's family.

The bride descended the winding stairs to the living room on the arm of Dr. Risberg, and was met at the foot of the stairway by the groom who escorted her to the altar. She wore a floor-length gown of pink satin with matching cap and veil. Her bouquet was of pink and blue flowers. Her attendant wore a long blue gown and carried a pink bouquet.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Risberg left on a motor trip to Hudson, Wis., and this city. They arrived here last Saturday and will leave Saturday for Minneapolis where they will be at home at 1828 Park Avenue. The groom is foreman of the Excelsior Baking Co. The bride attended the local schools and was employed in this city before leaving for Minneapolis where she has been employed with the company of which her husband is foreman.

FOR MRS. GUST CROWN

In honor of Mrs. Gust Crown, who left Wednesday to make her home in Minneapolis, Mrs. Richard Joringdahl and Mrs. Ralph Aaslund entertained at the former's home Friday evening. Guests present included the Mesdames Gust Crown, honor guest, E. O. Iverson, Clifford Storholm, Robert Johnston, Allen Ulrich, William Froiland, and Haakon Grindahl. Mrs. Crown was presented with a gift. The evening was spent informally and lunch was served by the hostesses.

EPWORTH LEAGUE HOST TO DEPARTING MEMBERS

The Epworth League of the Community church entertained at the church Friday evening at an informal get-together honoring those members of the League who are leaving to enter college. The guests of honor were Arthur and Robert Douville, who will attend the University of Minnesota, Francis Engle who will attend Hamline University, Miss Evangeline Douville, who will teach, Miss Dorothy Traver, who will attend the Northwest Institute of Medical Technology at Minneapolis and Miss Eleanor Harris, who will return to study at Concordia college. The guests played games throughout the evening and refreshments were served. Assisting in arrangements for the affair were Mrs. Charles Engle and Mrs. G. H. Mayer-Oakes.

FOR RECENT BRIDE

Mrs. Enga Lindberg, assisted by her daughter Mrs. Louis Cheney, was hostess at her home at a shower for Mrs. Alfred Bakke (nee Mildred Jacobson) a bride of a few months. Cards formed the evening's diversion and refreshments were served by the hostesses. A shower gift was presented to Mrs. Bakke from the group. Those present in addition to the guest of honor were the Mesdames Mary Wold, Mary Soards, Emma Gustafson, Dahle, Oscar Emeren, Lester Lindberg, Dorothy Grindeland, Ward Long, Bill Medderigh, and Sena Larson and the Misses Hattie Gustafson, Lillian Erickson, Rose Erickson, Virgine Dahle, and Helen Jacobson.

FOR MR. GROW

Assistant county agent Howard Grow, who left Tuesday for the Twin Cities where he will be engaged for three months as government seed grain buyer, was honored Monday evening by a group of his friends and co-workers in county 4-H club work who entertained for him at a dinner in the Log Cabin Tavern of the Palm Garden Cafe. Covers were laid for the following guests: Mr. Grow, guest of honor, Miss Emma Bakke, Miss Myrtle Gulseth, Mr. and Mrs. George Biskey, Stanley Doten, Miss Bernice Woolson, Miss Alda Gunderson, Swan Bennoit, Ward Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fredrickson, Miss Thelma Solie, and Elmer Stanghelle. Fred Fredrickson presided as master of ceremonies and toasts were proposed by the master of ceremonies, Mrs. Biskey, and Miss Bakke. Mr. Grow responded. Following the dinner in the Cabin, the guests were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fredrickson where they spent the evening playing monopoly.

A. presiding Miss Esther McGinnis of the Child Welfare department of the University of Minnesota will discuss problems in her field. Co. Supt. Sorvig of Crookston will address the group on the subject "The Last Frontier". Mrs. Hazel Halgrim, local librarian, will talk of rural library service, and a discussion will be given by Mrs. A. L. Lathers, state pres. of M. C. P. T. Mrs. Lathers, assisted by Mrs. Jones, will have charge of a "Question Box". at which time questions will be asked and answered pertaining to school problems. At 4:00 o'clock tea will be served by the St. Hilaire Parents-Teachers and at 6:30 a dinner will be served in the parlors of Norwegion Lutheran church.

Supt. Graham of St. Hilaire will preside at the evening session which begins at 7:30 o'clock. Supt. Morris Bye of this city will deliver the address of the evening. Musical numbers on the evening program will include a concert by the St. Hilaire band, community singing, a cornet solo by LaVaugham Skatrud of Argyle, selections by the Hazel Men's chorus and by the Mother's Singers of this city, and a vocal solo by Mrs. C. M. Ostby of McIntosh.

Eighteen 4-H boys and girls returned home last week-end after attending the State Fair, having been there under the guidance of County Agent, Douglass' force.

Marjorie Matheson of the Rocksbury club placed first in Meal Planning and Food Preparation demonstration. She received a beautiful bronze plaque. Marion Green of the Rocksbury club placed second on her third year clothing exhibit. Dorothy Noper took part in a style review and in the clothing judging contest. Esther Hetland of the Rocksbury 4-H club demonstrated the canning of peaches. She placed in the red ribbon group. Anna and Florence Hanson of the Rocksbury 4-H club winners at the sub-district took part in the State contest and placed in the red ribbon group. Donald Johnson of the River Falls club took part in the State Health contest. Donald Johnson and Robert Jepson of the River Falls club gave a Cream Grading demonstration. Myrtle Fimrite of the Highlanding 4-H club entered her dairy calf at the state fair. Margaret Dowacter of the Steiner club took part in the purebred Beef Heifer. Ray Oen of the Rocksbury club entered his dairy calf at the state fair. Elmer Ona of the Norden 4-H club and Carl Lindblom of the Bray and Polk Centre club were representatives at the Farm Boy's camp. Helen Johnson of the River Falls club won her trip to the State Fair on her poultry, and Isabelle Rosendahl of the St. Hilaire club took part in the Room Furnishing contest. She demonstrated the "Laundering of Linens".

While the Pennington club members didn't garner so many prizes, it must be understood that there were nearly a thousand entrants from every section of the state. The trip was highly educational, and adds much to the knowledge in work which these boys and girls have already acquired.

Band Instructor Offers Course To All Pupils

R. G. Riggs of St. Cloud, who assumed his duties as band instructor in the local high school and graded schools this week, has announced a new arrangement for teaching band music at the various schools here.

Mr. Riggs will spend one hour in each of the graded schools of the city every school day. There will be an opportunity for every pupil who wants to join the classes, the instruction being free but the child or its parents will have to furnish the instrument.

With all having the opportunity to join in band instruction it is possible, states Mr. Riggs, that in two or three years a band of sixty or more instruments may be readily trained. Mr. Riggs states that musical training along this line have two aims, ie, to train for continuous band playing and for the finer appreciation of music. Training of this kind builds character he states, as delinquents are seldom found among such groups.

LITERARY DIGEST POLL BALLOTS ARE RECEIVED

Individual ballots have been mailed to voters of Thief River Falls and nearby communities in a new Literary Digest poll of over 10,000,000 persons to ascertain who will be the next President of the United States. The votes should be distributed by the Post Office locally within a few days, according to advice received to-day from the magazine's publishers.

Minnesota's returns in this 1936 referendum will be tallied as a unit so they may be compared with the voting in other states, it is announced.

The voting of the post-card ballots is secret as no signature or other identification is required and the return postage is paid by magazine. To guard against tampering and counterfeiting a specially manufactured card-board is used for printing the ballot, according to the sponsors of the poll, and all spurious votes can be detected immediately and destroyed.

The ballot asks the voter's choice of the seven officially nominated candidates and for whom he or she voted in the 1932 election to reveal the general drift from one party to another.

This is announced as the fourth quadrennial national Presidential poll conducted by The Literary Digest. The three previous polls have forecast the Presidential winner with "uncanny accuracy".

HAS OUTSTANDING RECORD

Ina Anderson of the Silverton club had the most outstanding Junior Leadership report in Pennington County for 1936. Her report was selected and sent to the State 4-H Club office. The five club members who have the best Junior Leadership reports in the state will be awarded free trips to the National Club Congress.

1936 BREAKS MANY WEATHER RECORDS

Although only the first eight months have passed, 1936 has already broken all records for cold, heat, and drought. R. S. Dunham, agronomist and weather observer at the Northwest Experiment Station, points out the following facts in his summary of weather conditions since January 1:

The lowest temperature recorded in 36 years of weather observation occurred February 15, 1936, when the thermometer dropped to 51 degrees below zero. January was the coldest January ever recorded and February was the coldest month ever recorded. For 38 consecutive days, January 15 to February 22, the maximum temperature did not rise to zero. For 45 consecutive days, January 10 to February 24, the lowest temperature remained below zero. The snowfall was nearly twice the average and the largest since 1922.

The highest temperature recorded at the Northwest Station is 108 degrees which occurred July 28, 1917. However, July 1936 was the hottest month on record. The maximum temperature of the month was 10 degrees, which maintained for three consecutive days. On ten days, the mercury reached 100 or more and on twenty-one days it reached 90 or higher. The average of the highest temperatures for July is 92.5 degrees and of the lowest temperatures, 64.9 degrees. The mean temperature for the month is 78.7 degrees, 4.5 degrees above the highest mean recorded for any month in 26 years of observations.

July 1936 has been the dryest July ever recorded. The rainfall for the month was 0.52 inch. The total rainfall since April 1 has been 4:01 inches which is 6.36 inches below the average for that period and is the least for any year except 1917. In 1917 there were only 3.65 inches for the same period. The total precipitation since January 1 is 6.83 inches and the average for the same period is 12.17 inches.

Soil at the Experiment Station contained more moisture to a depth of 36 inches in the spring of 1936 than in 1935 or 1934. The percentage of water at three depths under each of four crops at the present time (August 3) is compared with the percentages at the corresponding dates in 1935 and 1934.

ADVISES CUTTING DROUTH DAMAGED CORN FOR SILAGE

Although corn is standing at various stages of growth development in Minnesota and the extent of damage done by heat and drouth is difficult to estimate, it is advisable in some sections of the state to cut damaged corn for silage, to conserve all available feed.

The advisability of early cutting for the silo is something the farmer himself must decide. However, the production of the ear depends largely upon the extent pollen was killed by heat and lack of moisture. By pulling back the husk and examining seed development, a farmer can obtain some idea of the present condition of his crop.

In cases where ears are not developing but the plants are still in a good state of green vegetation, it is advisable to allow the corn to continue growth to produce as much green material as possible. But where leaves have been burned crisp, the stalks are becoming dry and there is little prospect of recovery, the crop may as well be removed and the ground prepared for seeding fall pasture or fallowed.

For the farmer who has no permanent silo, preserving silage in the trench or crib silo is most economical according to extension farm management specialists. Both can be constructed quickly and with small cash outlays. A trench silo large enough to furnish ensilage for a herd of 15 to 20 cows can be constructed by five or six men, with two teams, in 2 or 3 days.

The corn-crib or slat-fence silo is constructed of corn-crib slatting or regular snow fence slatting, lined with water-proof building paper. It should be at least 16 feet in circumference and 20 feet in height.

Folder 49, "The Corn-Crib or Slat-Fence Silo," and Folder 47, "The Trench Silo", both tell how these temporary silos may be constructed. They may be obtained through the county agent, high school agriculture teacher, or by writing to the Bulletin Office, University Farm, St. Paul.

FIVE MAY SEEK GOVERNORSHIP OF NORTH DAKOTA

North Dakota today presents a many-sided political picture as campaigners made ready for the November election which may see five candidates seeking the governor's chair.

The decision of former Governor William Langer to re-enter the race after losing the June primary election by a few hundred votes, an action long anticipated, set the stage for another involved campaign.

Three Are Certain

Langer, leader of one faction of the Nonpartisan League, will run as an independent against another factional chieftain, Governor Walter Welford, Republican nominee, and John Moses, Hazen attorney, Democratic nominee.

These three definitely were ready to launch their fall campaigns, but at least two other contenders have indicated their intention to step into the gubernatorial cast. They are a veteran leaguer, R. H. Walker, member of the workmen's compensation bureau, and L. J. Wehe, Bismarck attorney, also one time member of the compensation bureau under league administration.

Wehe announced organization of a new "Progressive Party" under whose banner he said he will be a candidate for governor while Walker sometime ago threatened to enter the race if "the Langer and Welford factions could not reunite."

Democrats Seek Victory

On the Democratic side a drive is ready to swing into the campaign against the divided league forces to regain control of the state administration.

Democrats two years ago elected Thomas H. Moodie as governor. He remained in office only a few weeks until the state Supreme Court ousted him on an eligibility count. Lieutenant Governor Welford took over the reins and will attempt to be reelected to that post.

Langer's stormy two year term in office was interrupted in 1934 when the State Supreme Court ousted him after he had been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of soliciting political contributions from federal relief workers. He was convicted, won a new trial on an appeal and later was freed.

VIKING COUPLE OBSERVE GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

(Crowded Out Last Week)

Mr. and Mrs. John Halverson, for forty-seven years residents of Viking, were honored Sunday afternoon by relatives and friends who gathered at the Zion Lutheran church at Viking in observance of Mr. and Mrs. Halverson's fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Halverson were ushered into the church to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, and were presented with a bouquet of gladioli. A program was given which included vocal, piano, and coronet solos, choir singing, and short talk by Rev. H. O. Peterson, pastor of the church.

Others who spoke briefly in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Halverson were H. C. Hanson, who spoke in behalf of the congregation, and August Peterson who spoke for the Farmer's Cooperative company of which Mr. Halverson is president of the board of directors. Carl Hanson of Newfolden, representing the board of New Solum township, also spoke, as did Carl Johnson of Warren in behalf of the Scandinavian Mutual Fire Insurance company. Kermit Greenly, grandson of the guests of honor, Martin Anderson of Hendrum, Mrs. Bergstrom of Warren, and Mr. Nestrud of Rosewood also expressed a few words of congratulation.

H. C. Hanson, acting in behalf of the relatives and friends assembled, presented a purse of money to Mr. and Mrs. Halverson, and Mr. Halverson responded with a few words of appreciation.

After the program, refreshments were served in the church parlors which were decorated for the occasion. Out-of-town relatives who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Martin Anderson and sons Edwin and Rusty, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Riste and daughters. Marjorie and Doris, Miss Marie Riste, and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Wick, all of Hendrum; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jacobson, Mr. and Mrs. William Jacobson and children Doris and Clayton, George Jacobson, Mrs. Mollie Distad and Mildred, Mrs. Overpeck, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Brattland, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Newton, Mrs. Martin Lee, Holbert Halverson, all of Thief River Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dokken, and Mr. and Mrs. George Stiner, all of Grand Forks, N. Dak.

TWO N. DAK. OFFICIALS DROWN NEAR MAHNOMEN

W. M. Backstrom, county state's attorney, and Deputy Sheriff Balkan, both of Hillsboro, N. Dak., drowned Sunday afternoon in Twin Lakes, east of Mahnomen, while out on a fishing trip. The boat capsized as it was struck sideways by big waves. Three other Hillsboro men who were in the same boat managed to keep themselves above water until rescue came. Two years ago, Hillsboro and Traill county lost its states attorney in a car accident.

ALONG THE FARMER-LABOR FRONT

H. O. Berve
Thief River Falls, Minnesota

The Republicans and the Republican newspapers appear to be very sad and sorry that Hjalmer Petersen did not get the Farmer-Labor endorsement for Governor. This sentiment has appeared so frequently and so persistently among the republicans and in the republican newspapers that we have a suspicion that they are trying to foment friction and discord in the Farmer-Labor ranks. They are harping on this little friendly rivalry so as to stir up Hjalmer Petersen and his friends. We are not much worried about this republican sympathy, but we think the rank and file of the Farmer-Laborites should know the object and purpose of this little republican sob. Hjalmer Petersen and his friends are good sports, and it will not bother them we are sure.

* * * *

Senator Elmer E. Benson, the Farmer-Labor candidate for governor is gaining strength wherever he goes. People cannot help but like this clean cut, capable man. He started out as a young attorney, has served his state as Securities Commissioner, Commissioner of Banks, and as U. S. Senator. He comes from one of the small country towns of Minnesota, which is a fine thing, and gives us a chance to elect a governor outside of the big cities. If we should venture a prediction at this early stage of the campaign, we would say that the vote for Elmer E. Benson on election day will be equal to that of Floyd B. Olson.

* * * *

When we think of the Legislative campaign in the 65th District, we cannot help but think of W. E. Day and J. O. Melby. When the Day vs. Waldal legislative contest was completed two years ago, Judge Torrance in his decision said:

"And from the foregoing, I do find that the total number of legal votes cast for each one of the said respective candidates at said election is as follows:

Melby	5301
W. E. Day	5225
Jones	4289

In his conclusions of law in the same case, Judge Torrance says:

"That said contestant, Plaintiff, W. E. Day, received one of the two highest total votes legally cast for representative in said 65th Legislative District at the General Election held Nov. 6, 1934, and that said W. E. Day was duly elected as one of the representatives for the 65th Legislative District in the State of Minnesota.

"That the certificate of election heretofore issued to Marius Waldal is null and void, and that said contestant, Plaintiff, W. E. Day, is entitled to receive a certificate of election for the Office of Representative from the 65th Legislative District.........."

* * * *

After this decision in Court by Judge Torrance, why did the republican controlled House allow Waldal to retain his seat?

* * * *

The people of northwestern Minnesota should remember the big Farmer-Labor Rally in Thief River Falls on September 27th. This will be one of the largest gatherings in this part of the state. We hope and expect to have Senator Elmer E Benson, and Congressman Lundeen with us, and Mrs. LeSeuer and Mrs. Lundquist will speak and others.

* * * *

From now on it is important that all committee members should do their work. But the individual members should also do their part. We all have a part in this campaign for the Farmer-Labor candidates and the party.

LET US ALL REMEMBER TO CARRY ON FOR FLOYD B. OLSON FROM NOW UNTIL ELECTION DAY. HE WOULD EXPECT US ALL TO CARRY ON THE FIGHT.

MARRIED WITH LICENSE OBTAINED 26 YEARS AGO

In April, 1910, more than 26 years ago, the fancies of a Detroit Lakes couple lightly turned to thoughts of love. Hopping into a buggy, they made a hurried trip to the marriage license bureau and rushed home. From that time on their story is not known. Time marched on. Wars were fought. Governments changed hands. Depressions came and passed. Cupid was apparently too busy keeping the wolf from the door to shape the affairs of men. On August 12, 1936, came the license of C. B. Connell, present clerk of court. Yellowed with age, brittle with the accumulated dust of over a score of years, the license served its purpose, for on that date the couple agreed that they fully understood each other, and that they were not rushing into a hasty marriage. They secured the consent of their parents, bought the ring, and having thought the matter over for 26 years and 109 days, they were married.

"Get Out the Woman Vote."

This is the purpose of a statewide cavalcade now being conducted by two Minneapolis women, both leaders in women's activities in the liberal movement.

They will appear in Thief River Falls at the F-L picnic Sunday, Sept. 27th and at Middle River on Saturday Sept. 26th at 8 p. m.

Conducting the tour are Mrs. Marian LeSueur and Mrs. Charles Lundquist, both members of the state Farmer-Labor Women's Committee.

Mrs. LeSueur is one of the best known women in Farmer-Labor circles in the state. She has spoken in practically every corner of the state and has a reputation of being one of the finest speakers in the movement.

She was named by the late Governor Floyd B. Olson to the State Board of Education and her fight there for real education in the schools brought down upon her head the wrath of the reactionaries in the state senate, who refused to confirm her appointment. But she had already served for more than a year and had been able to secure the appointment of a liberal commissioner of education, so that educational history is being written in Minnesota today - education in the interest of the people, not for special privilege.

For more than two years Mrs. LeSueur has been the lone woman member of the Minnesota State Planning Board. She also is chairman of the Committee on Education and a member of the Power Committee of the board. As a member of the latter group she has taken especial interest in rural electrification and has battled so successfully that Minnesota now has 59 counties with Rural Electric cooperatives and the state already has been allocated nearly a million and a half dollars of federal funds for the building of power lines.

Mrs. LeSueur has studied the reports of the State Planning Board to good effect and in her speech will tell what has happened in Minnesota in 75 years of rugged individualism - to the natural resources of the state, the land, the timber, the iron ore, the water resources and also to the human resources, the people of the state. She contends that something is wrong when of 600,000 families in Minnesota, 65 per cent of whom are of thrifty Scandinavian and German stock - 115,000 families are on relief and only 41,000 paid an income tax this year on a family income of $2,000 a year, or a single person's income of $1,200 a year. She presents a great many facts which every Minnesotan should know, no matter what their political views may be or their program for solution of our problems.

Mrs. Lundquist also is an "old-timer" in the Farmer-Labor movement, being at present president of the Farmer-Labor Women's Federation. She is also Minnesota chairman of the Mandate Committee of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, and a member of the board of directors of the magazine, WOMEN TODAY. In addition, she is a member of the national board of directors of the American League Against War and Fascism.

She will conduct a conference with women following the cavalcade meeting.

Warbasse Says Cooperation Is Basis of World Peace

By J. P. WARBASSE, President, Cooperative League of U. S. A.

The following address was delivered by Dr. Warbasse at the celebration of International Cooperative Day at Glenwood, Minnesota, July 4.

It is appropriate that we celebrate Cooperator's Day in the United States on this Fourth of July. One hundred and sixty years ago our ancestors fought a long and bloody war—presumably for liberty and democracy. They were shot down at Lexington, they froze at Valley Forge, they starved at Yorktown; and in the end they were cheated of victory. They won the war and they got only a change of rulers who granted them less liberty and less democracy and proved no less rapacious than their British forebears. The Revolution, as is usual with political and military revolutions, produced no revolution.

We who are assembled here in the name of Cooperation are also waging a contest—peaceful, constructive, and beneficent, and promising, in the end, results more revolutionary than all the revolutions that have watered the earth with the tears of the despairing and manured the soil with the blood and bodies of deluded men.

Plato said that two gifts of the gods equip man for living. One is the arts and inventions to supply him with means of livelihood. The other is justice and cooperation to put him in harmony with his fellow men. The first have carried man far and made it possible for him to supply in abundance his every need. The second has been but imperfectly developed. Man's injustice to man is a basic product of the competitive system, which prevents man making use of science and invention to supply his needs.

Cooperation Penetrates Every Country

The cooperative method aims to release the arts and place them at man's service. It has expanded now for more than a century, and has penetrated to every land. The remotest corners of the world have been reached by Cooperation. In forty countries 88,000 societies with 26,000,000 members, are federated into the International Cooperative Alliance. Among these united national organizations is the Cooperative League, which binds us in this great brotherhood. Outside of this world federation is an equal number of societies and members. The total represents more than one-fourth of the population of the world. These 150,000,000 families are moving on to supply their needs through their own agencies of distribution and production. Out of the thousands of functions, let us look at one in each of a few of the outstanding cooperative countries to get an idea of their diversity of services.

In England, where close to one-half of the population are thus united, we se many industries such as shoe factories which are the largest in the country.

In Scotland, where more than half of the population are in cooperative societies, we see in Glasgow a consumer-owned bakery with 130 ovens producing for the consumption of the owners of the bakery 800 tons of bread a week.

In Belgium are the social centers called "houses of the people," dedicated to education and recreation.

Switzerland exhibits to the world cooperative control of the meat industry, which in other countries is in the hands of profit business.

Scandinavian Cooperation

Denmark, with 20 per cent of its retail distribution carried on by consumers' societies, is a land where cooperative thing prevails.

Iceland, with only 100,000 people has a number of societies with more than 1,000 members; three-fourths of its population are in cooperative societies, and more than three-fourths of its business is carried on cooperatively.

Finland, besides its own efficient movement, has given to America men and women who, without fanfare of trumpets, are making more contribution to a real revolution than did George Washington or Patrick Henry or any of that galaxy of heroic figures whose deeds are today recited to ten thousand audiences across the breadth of this land.

Norway has a cooperative movement to which the government looks for standards to regulate labor.

In Sweden, where cooperative education is placed at the summit of co-operative activities, one may behold from the palace of the King cooperative institutions which represent the greatest business in the realm.

When we turn to the less known cooperative countries we see in each some striking evidence of man's ability to serve himself in the spirit of mutual aid.

Jugoslavia has health societies which reward physicians for preventing disease.

Japan is showing the world how poor farmers have set up 250 hospitals for their own cooperative health service.

China exhibits cooperatives stores among people so poor that they rarely see money, but who come and exchange an egg for a few handfuls of rice for other things they need.

Palestine has cooperative transportation as the prevalent method of public travel.

In Columbia, in South America, the government has become so conscious of the value of cooperation that a new law now gives to the cooperatives preferential shipping conditions, retail cooperatives fix retail prices, credit societies determine interest rates, and cooperative have a large voice in the regulation of industry and commerce.

In Poland the priests in many parishes assemble to attend the meeting of the cooperative credit society.

Autocratic Violations of Cooperation

But there are dark spots. The cooperative societies have been struck down in Russia, Austria and Germany. The confiscation of property has not destroyed Cooperation. This is something more than brick and stone and goods and money. All of these may be taken away but Cooperation still survives.

I once knew an old New England country house with a garden of flowers. The house burned. The garden seemed destroyed. I went back there five years later and found the flowers had sprung up and were invading the surrounding countryside. After another five years I went again and there were phlox, verbena, sweet william, and delphinium penetrating still farther beyond the old garden and invading the rocky slopes of the surrounding hills. The expansion of Cooperation is a process of nature, inevitable where human beings are. It can be stopped by only two things: stupidity and selfishness. Stupidity in no society lasts forever, and selfishness destroys itself. The very forces of nature conspire to promote Cooperation. If man is to survive upon the earth he must yield to the pertinacity of this power. It will spring up. It will revive itself. It has a capacity of survival greater than the autocratic violations of democracy of Russia, Italy, Austria, and Germany. It will spring up and invade their rocky slopes again.

In the United States our mistakes lie at the door of inadequate cooperative education. We have devoted ourselves to commercialism. We have often confused advertising and salesmanship with education. But we have insisted upon the neutrality of our movement. The political show is interesting even though attendance is compulsory and the box office steadily increases its rates, but we have refused to take our movement on the stage. Our leaders of cooperative thought have taught pure Coopeartion and have guided our movement away from the shoals of stateism.

Cooperators, organized as consumers, are changing the motive and method of industry. They are doing it gradually—slowly, I am glad to say. The slow way is not only the sure way but in the end it is the quick way.

Society is said to be at the cross roads, or at the parting of the ways, or at some crisis every few years. New names are given to old things. The great change comes, and is characterized by the absence of change. Tribute becomes taxes. Feeding the hungry to keep them quiet is called relief. Politicians become commissars. But the old methods go on. The surface of the waters is ruffled and sputtering and beneath the superficial din is the great silent current of steadily moving events.

Of the two forces which defy time and place and affect society as a fourth dimension, science and invention steadily move on. They bring the telephone and radio and hand them to us as a gift to change forever the relations of human beings to one another. No political party can overthrow the victories of science. We make our changes and social speculations but science will in the end tell us which way we shall move.

Fundamental Change

There is, for example, much talk of agriculture and the position of the farmer in society. Our agrarian ancestors plucked their clothing from the plants and from the animals, as we now win our food from the same sources. They lived in houses wrought by nature. But I have no hesitation in predicting that within the next fifty years the production of foods will have passed largely from the farm and become an industry. It is going the way of production of clothing, shoes, and houses. The raising of foods will be artificially carried on in buildings, with artificially controlled nourishment, rain, sunshine, and climate, instead of leaving food production to the crude forces of nature. The chemists and biologists are already doing just these things. The people who are now producing foods are destined to take their place with those other useful workers who are producing in the industries the other essentials of life. This may not be what we would like to have transpire. But we should have the honesty to face the facts that confront us.

Along with this moving current of change, effected by science, is the fundamental change of economic events. This is influenced by a significant fact: production is done by machines; consumption is done by men. The consumers' cooperative movement is reversing the whole stream of production and consumption and turning the current into the pleasant ways of human needs supplied.

Instead of production and distribution for the purpose of selling something above cost to get the money difference, cooperation developes industry for the direct purpose of supply human needs. And in doing this it makes all people producers and promotes production for the service of all.

Celebration World Wide

On this Cooperators' Day we can look across the world and see in forty lands celebrations like this dedicated to Cooperation. In the far northern reaches of Iceland, in the warm stretches of the Mediterranean countries, and in the Argentine of the South, men and women are gathered together today to renew their allegiance to the principles of mutual aid. They greet us and we greet them in spiritual handclasp across the oceans and across the contnients.

This world-wide brotherhood is united in method and purpose. It can perform every useful service performed by profit business. All talents are at the service of Cooperation. Every genius, every executive, is a consumer and eligible to serve in this movement.

Cooperation is evolutionary and not sudden nor confiscatory It trains as it goes. It is democratic and equalizes opportunity. It is concerned with the home and the places where things are enjoyed. It stands for the administration of things and not for control of men. It lessens governmental functions. It is wholly constructive. It stands for the private ownership of property. It is voluntary and promotes freedom of the individual. It offers to the world a way of peace. In the International Cooperative Alliance is the most effective league of peoples the world has yet created. The international commerce which is growing up under the guidance of this organization represents the international traffic that carries no seeds of war.

Virtues Beyond Money

Cooperation is proving that there are values beyond money. When the conqueror Demetrius captured the city of Megara, he learned that the philosopher Stelpon was one of its inhabitants. He sent for the great man and expressed to the philosopher the hope that his soldiers had not pillaged him of his property, Stelpon assured him that the soldiers had done him no harm because he carried upon his person his only possessions that were of value. They were benevolence, wisdom, and justice; and he defied all of the generals of the Roman army to rob him of these.

It is to these virtues that we dedicate this day. The predatory generals of the world contend against us in vain. Under the cooperative standard—this far-flung flag of the seven seas, woven out of the fabrics of the sun, the banner emblazoned across the heavens by the hand of nature itself—we unite with the peoples of the world in a mighty host to exalt these values and to place them in triumph upon our altars in the market and in the home.

THE KING ON VACATION

PAYMENT BY U. S. MARKS BEGINNING OF JOB INSURANCE

A check of $15 has started America on its first real unemployment compensation system, a system which, observers believe, marks a new era in the social obligation of the Government.

Frank Bane, executive director of the Social Security board, pointed out that the check paid August 17 "represents the first payment out of a Government unemployed compensation system anywhere in the United States."

"The check which was handed to an unemployed worker in Madison, Wis., as compensation because of his unemployment, not as relief," Mr. Bane said, "has special significance for about 8,000,000 other American industrial and commercial workers. That is the number already protected by unemployment compensation systems in 15 states and the District of Columbia.

Mr. Bane added: "Though it is not generally realized, the 8,000,000 workers represent close to 45 per cent of all the industrial and commercial workers who will be eligible for unemployment compensation when all states have such laws meeting the minimum standards of the Social Security act. That day is not far off.

"Already officials or other representative groups in 12 other states have indicated their intention to introduce unemployment compensation legislation in the next session of their respective legislatures.

"The 16 states already having unemployment compensation legislation represent more than one third of the population of the United States, and the states in which unemployment compensation measures soon will be introduced represent almost one third of the population of the country."

It is explained here that 13 of the existing 16 state unemployment compensation laws already have been approved by the Social Security board. In states having approved unemployment compensation laws, the cost of administration is borne by the Federal Govern ment Employers deduct from their federal payroll tax, to the extent of 90 per cent of that tax, the amount of their contribution to the state unemployment compensation fund.

PRESIDENT FAVORS CONFERENCE TO STUDY CROP INSURANCE

A post-election conference of farm organizations to study an effective approach to the problems of crop insurance and rural credit was suggested by President Roosevelt last week as he continued to survey drouth relief needs.

Crop insurance and rural credit are two of the key items of the legislative program of the National Grange, and Louis L. Taber, master of the Grange, said they had been emphasized, along with drouth problems, in an hour's conference with the president and Secretary Wallace.

Is Grange Proposal

"The president and Wallace," Taber told the reporters, "suggested it might be a good idea to call a conference of farm organization and other interested parties after the election to consider an intelligent approach to both these problems, crop insurance and rural credit.

"The president gave assurance that the administration was studying something sound in this regard."

The Grange, Taber said, is advocating a crop insurance program carried out through federal state co-operation at a cost of around $25,000,000 a year. The cost would be much lower than for the present method of drouth relief, he said.

Backs Rural Credits

Taber asserted that "crop insurance would be better for agriculture and the consumer than present methods of seed loans, work relief and similar methods" of helping farmers hit by drouth or other disaster. He added, however:

"It would give the farmer a more business-like solution to his difficulties and guarantee the consumer an agriculture that was prepared to produce in following years".

PATROL ADDS $129,372 TO STATE'S REVENUE

The Minnesota Highway patrol was instrumental in collecting $129,372 in motor vehicle license corrections for the state treasury, in the first six months of 1936, according to a report by John P. Arnoldy, chief patrol officer, to N. W. Elsberg, highway commissioner. Of this amount, $837 was for cars operating with only one plate, $79,889 for cars operating without 1936 plates, $18,170 for vehicles operating with wrong class plates and $30,474 for cars operating without Minnesota plates.

In the six-months period, the patrol tagged 24,417 drivers for operating with illegal equipment and 14,301 for operating with improper license tags. In the same period, 4,409 violaters of various traffic laws were arrested and paid fines totaling $39,140. The report shows members of the patrol have driven 2,156,855 miles in six months. In this time 877,159 motorists have been given aid on the highways and 65,002 have been warned without arrests, following up the patrol's policy of conducting an educational traffic law campaign whenever possible.

"I GET A BETTER PRICE by TELEPHONING"
DAVID ROAT

"I wouldn't want to get along without the telephone. It saves me a lot of time and trips to town. And it makes it easy to keep in touch with folks I don't get to see very often.

"Quite frequently," says Mr. Roat, "I have made one or two cents a bushel extra when selling small grain by calling different markets and selling to the one that offered the best price. Calling like that helps make the telephone pay for itself on the farm."

CHAPTER XII

THE next afternoon — around three o'clock—Harwood phoned.

"The old man wants to see you. Here at his office. I'd come quick if I were you."

So Jack had told him.

Or Evans.

"I'd be glad if you'd tell Willetts, and the rest," Barry had said to the chauffeur. "It'll save me introducing the subject." It would, too. He had dreaded his first few moments with Ridder—beginning his story with a pair of cold, calm eyes boring into him. They would be cold eyes; he felt sure of that.

And they were.

"The big chief" sat at his big desk in a big, richly-furnished office with a big door and a little one. The big double door opened into the reception room. Barry entered through that, and found himself facing Ridder and the smaller, single door behind him.

Ridder was reading a radiogram, and he went on reading. A tall, thin man, with New England written all over him. A youngish man for his age, which might have been fifty. He wore gold-rimmed spectacles. His long, thin, absolutely straight mouth was higher at the right end, and his right eye was longer and narrower than his left. He had a sharp chin; and a thin nose, and a broad forehead, with thin, graying, sandyish hair. The kind of man who could say "Good morning" as though that ended the discussion.

"All right," Barry repeated to himself. "I'll take my medicine. It'll soon be over, anyway. He isn't going to give a damn what I did for his son. If I can say anything to make it easier for those two youngsters and Jacky — Wonder what's back of that little door."

He was still wondering when the big chief looked up.

"You're Gilbert?"

"Yes, sir."

"Alias Ridder, eh?"

"Yes, sir."

They were cold eyes. Very cold. Mostly to end the silence, Barry said. "I suppose your son told you."

"Nobody told me. I've known all about you for two months."

"You've known—"

"I heard my wife's talk with my son the day before we sailed. Through the door to my bedroom. I heard her invite him to Southampton. Next morning, I arranged with Willetts to give me a full report of his doings there."

"And—?"

Barry was thinking in monosyllables.

"And, in his first letter, he mentioned your red hair."

Barry grinned.

"He also mentioned your taking a hundred dollar bill out of an envelope addressed to Mrs. Ridder."

The grin faded.

"You haven't made a move that I haven't known about."

He waited.

"Why didn't you have me arrested?"

"Because I knew that my son was in prison, accused of this murder. I read about that less than an hour after I'd satisfied myself that you weren't my son. Jay Rogers. I'd had a man following him all about Florida. The man's report agreed perfectly with the newspaper account of Jay Rogers."

"Still—"

"What was I to do? Sail? The doctor said that was out of the question. I wired Harwood 'Rogers didn't kill Kelly. Find out who did.' Twenty-four hours later, I knew you were on the Globe, and why, and that you'd succeeded in interesting Winslow."

He wiped his glasses, and went on.

"I'd written a cable ordering your arrest. There didn't seem much sense in sending it. I was stuck in Bad Nauheim. My son was locked up in the Tombs. You seemed bent on getting him out. It was a chance. I telegraphed Harwood to give you every possible aid. I told him to raise your salary, and I signed a check for my wife to send you. She didn't know that you weren't her boy, and she didn't know I knew anything. Nobody did. I kept my mouth shut, and the wires busy.

"Two weeks ago, I learned that you'd accomplished nothing and that the date of the trial was set. I went to my doctor, and he said I could make the trip. After I'd booked passage Harwood cabled about the Morano clew. Then I told my wife everything, and came home."

"To deal with me?"

"Yes."

Apparently that was all. Ridder had made his statement, coldly, calmly, as a judge might have spoken in charging a jury. The charge over, he waited again—so long that the pause became unendurable. Barry was standing—like a prisoner in the dock. After a moment, he said: "What are you going to do?"

"Listen to your explanation."

"I haven't any."

"There's a police officer in the next room."

"Yes," Barry answered. "I felt sure there would be."

"Is there any reason I shouldn't turn you over to him?"

"None that you don't know about."

He was as cold and as calm as Ridder. Two cold, calm men, looking at each other. Ridder knew everything. He knew what Barry had done for his son, and had "a police officer in the next room." Knowing everything, he waited until Barry could be of no further use and then sent for "the cops." A hard man and a mean one. That was that.

"I'm not going to beg off, if that's what you want," Barry blurted. "You know what I did—"

"I want to know why you did it."

"I don't know myself."

"No?"

"No."

"I think I do know," Ridder said. His glasses were still in his hand, and he was scrutinizing Barry through naked, narrow eyes. "Half a dozen people have been here to plead for you. One of 'em's still here. To listen to them, anybody'd suppose you broke into my house to do me a good turn. You didn't exactly do that, did you?"

"No," Barry answered. "I didn't."

"The obvious thing seems to be that you broke in to help yourself. The servants arrived and mistook you for my son. That enabled you to stay on. Then my son's wife appeared. You silenced her by undertaking to get the boy off. That's your story, isn't it?"

"Pretty nearly."

"And then you remained to face me because you thought you could bluff your way out. That was the game, wasn't it? Blackmail?"

Barry was getting angry. It was unbearable; this hard, mean old man twisting his motives, incapable of admitting that a single one of them might have been honest. Why should he remain silent? He was in for it, anyway.

"As a matter of fact," he found himself saying, "that isn't my game. The story you told isn't my story. It's merely what happened, with all the truth left out of it."

"Then why don't you tell me the truth?"

"You wouldn't believe me. You couldn't, because you couldn't understand. I broke into your house because I was cold, and wet, and hungry. I stayed, at first, because I was nuts about a girl, and wanted to be near her. Then Peggy came—she's your daughter-in-law, you know—and told me her story. I was sorry for her. Terribly sorry. But, of course, you don't believe that."

"Why not?"

"Because you knew the story, too. You had 'em trailed all about Florida. You knew the fight he'd made, and she'd made for him, and you didn't give a damn. 'I haven't got a friend in the world,' she said. 'Just a sick kid, and a husband I'm strong for shut up in the Tombs.' That's why I stayed on in your house, using your name, to help her. At least, I think it is. You don't. You couldn't. You never felt sorry for anybody. You've got the truth now—the whole truth. Send for your cop, and let's have it over."

The old man sat watching him.

And then, suddenly, he thrust forward the paper he'd been reading when Barry entered.

"How do you explain that?" he asked.

"What is it?"

"The wireless you sent my wife two days after you broke into my house. To make her think that you were her son. When you wrote that, you'd never seen Peggy. You didn't know you could help anybody. You were perpetrating a cruel hoax to stay on in my house, and feather your nest. Is that true, or isn't it?"

"It isn't."

"Then why did you send that message?"

Barry didn't answer.

How could one answer—to that hard, mean old man—"I sent it because I never had a mother, and liked pretending that I had?" How could one say, "I felt sorry for her, too. I wanted her to believe that her boy loved her?" One simply couldn't, and so Barry remained silent.

The old man was waiting.

"Go on," Barry said. "Get your cop."

"If I have you arrested, the cat's out of the bag."

"I don't get you."

"Every one's going to know that the man in my house wasn't my son—that my son was in the Tombs."

Barry's eyes flashed.

"You would think of that. Well, go ahead; ring. My mouth's shut, too. I did this to give those two kids a break. I'm not likely to spoil it now, am I? Go on, ring, and let's have it over."

The old man's hand descended upon the button.

Then the big door opened, and a secretary entered.

He glanced at Barry, and whispered to Ridder.

"All right. We're finished."

The secretary glanced at Barry again and left the room.

With cold, calm eyes, Ridder indicated the door behind him.

"In there," he said, rising and walking away.

Barry looked after him.

"Tough guy," Barry muttered quite audibly, quoting Peggy. His hand was on the knob now. "Tough guy—that bird."

Then he braced himself and opened the door.

It was dark in the next room.

Quite dark, after the dazzling sunlight of Ridder's office.

Barry closed the door behind him and stood trying to accustom himself to the new dimness.

There was only one window here, and that heavily curtained. No way in or out, except that by which Barry had come. A smallish board room, this was, for staff meetings. Barry made out a long table, with chairs about it, and several file cabinets. Besides these, some one was waiting.

The "cop"?

Before Barry could answer his own question, the figure turned and came forward.

Patricia.

Patricia Hambidge, in a blue tailored ensemble.

Barry laughed.

"Pat!" he exclaimed, "I thought you were a policeman."

"No," she replied, grimly. "There's one outside, though. My father warned you about Mr. Ridder but I didn't think anybody could be as —as granite as that old man."

"You're tellin' me?" Barry grinned.

"We've been at him ever since he arrived—his son, Peggy, father and I, Peter Winslow, his own wife. We didn't expect friendship to count—not after the way his paper went after father. But we talked reason. Peter, with his wife sick at home—Peter said you couldn't've worked harder for your brother."

"What was Ridder's answer to that?"

"'He had to. This girl'—meaning Peggy — 'This girl wouldn't've kept her mouth shut if she hadn't thought he was her one chance.'

"'Yes,' Peter argued, 'but he was really working.'

"'He was getting a good salary for doing it. And good clothes, and a good home, and servants he wasn't paying for. I'd've worked in his place.'"

"So my mother pleaded, too," Barry reminded himself, swiftly, with curious satisfaction. Then he grinned again at having thought of that old man's wife as his mother.

"I'd like to meet Mrs. Ridder," he said aloud. "I'd like to thank her. And Winslow, of course, and all of you."

"It didn't do much good," Pat responded. "But Peter's going to take your case, and fight to a finish. He says he'll stay home from Europe, if necessary."

"I don't want to fight," Barry answered. "I'm not exactly eager to go to jail, but it looks as though I was booked for it. And I don't want to make any rumpus. That would only hurt Jack and Peggy. I want to wipe all this off the slate, and start fresh."

Pat nodded.

"I know. You kept saying, 'Let's have it over.'"

"You heard?"

"Of course. I listened shamelessly."

"Did it matter so much to you?" And then was sorry he'd said it.

MANY HOME ECONOMICS COURSES WILL BE GIVEN

A wide variety of courses in Home Economics will be offered at the Northwest School during the coming school year under the direction of four specialists in cooking, sewing, household art, nutrition and home nursing, states a recent circular of the school.

Miss Retta Bede, a graduate of the University of Minnesota, will have charge of the work in elementary and advanced cooking, house planning and furnishing, and home management, while the work on household art will be given by Miss Fanny Lippitt, dining hall matron.

Miss Elsie Mae Kingston, a graduate of the House Economics Department at the Iowa State College, will supervise the work in elementary and advanced dressmaking, textiles, and art needlework. Physiology, home nursing and public health will be offered by Miss Lydia Dahlen, a graduate of the University of Minnesota nurses' training department.

The Home Economics building has been completely remodeled and refurnished, with one floor devoted to practical home management work, where the Senior girls take complete charge of arranging menus, cooking and serving meals and familiarizing themselves with the art of being accomplished hostesses.

The fall term will open September 28, and close the last week in March. Students are thus available for work at home throughout the crop growing season.

EVERYBODY SHOULD BE SKILLED IN BREATHING AID

One of the most important first aid measures for every layman to be familiar with is artificial respiration.

Members of the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association urge everybody including boys and girls to take the following simple instructions and practice them immediately so that they will be able to put them to use without delay and without losing their heads in case of need. The emergencies in which artificial respiration may save a life include not only drownings but asphyxiations from gas and even failure to breathe in the presence of some disease conditions.

1. Lay the patient face down, one arm extended, the other bent at the elbow. Turn the face outward resting it on the hand or the wrist of the bent arm.

2. Kneel, straddling the patient's thighs.

3. Place the palms of your hands on the small of the patient's back, the little fingers just touching the lowest ribs.

4. With your arms straight, swing forward gradually, bringing the weight of your body to bear upon the patient. Take about two seconds for this operation.

5. Immediately swing backwards to remove the pressure.

6. After two seconds, swing forward again. Repeat the operation 12 to 15 times a minute.

7. While you are applying artificial respiration, have some one else loosen tight clothing. Keep the patient warm and give nothing to drink until the patient is conscious.

8. Continue until the patient breathes again or until expert help arrives to relieve you. Sometimes it is necessary to continue artificial respiration for four hours or more.

LEGAL NOTICES

Sale of State Lands

State of Minnesota,
Office of Commissioner of Conservation
St. Paul, Minnesota,
September 5, 1936

Notice is hereby given that on October 13, 1936 at 4:00 P. M. at Thief River Falls, Minn. in the office of the County Auditor, at Pennington County, in the State of Minnesota, I will offer for sale certain unsold state lands and also those state lands which have reverted to the State by reason of the non-payment of interest.

Terms of Sale:

Fifteen per cent of the purchase price is payable to the County Treasurer at the time of sale. The unpaid balance is payable at any time in whole or in part within forty years from the date of sale, interest being at the rate of four per cent per annum, due on June 1st of each year; provided, that the interest can be paid at any time within the interest year without penalty. In effect, this means that the interest money may be paid at any time between June first and May thirty first without penalty.

The appraised value of timber and improvements must be paid in full at the time of sale.

All mineral rights are reserved to the State by the laws of the State.

All lands are sold subject to any and all ditch and road taxes thereon.

Lands on which the interest has become delinquent may be redeemed at any time up to the hour of sale or before resale to an actual purchaser. Lands sold after January 1, 1934, are subject to the provisions of Chapter 39, Laws Extra Session 1933.

No person can purchase more than 320 acres of land, provided, however, that State lands purchased previous to 1905 are not charged against such purchaser.

Agents acting for purchasers must furnish affidavit of authority.

Appraisers' reports showing quality and kind of soil are on file in the office of the Division of Lands and Minerals, 14 State Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Lists giving legal descriptions of lands to be offered may be obtained of the Director of Lands and Minerals, 14 State Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota, and of the County Auditor at the County seat.

MIDDLE RIVER

Farmers Cooperative Store Organized in Middle River

The Johnson Supply company's stock of merchandise was taken over by the new co-operative organization on Monday last and the new management at once assumed control and the conduction of the business.

The general purposes of the corporation as outlined in article one of its articles of incorporation are to be the marketing of the farm products produced by its members and patrons and the purchasing and manufacturing of supplies, equipment and other necessities, and the distribution of such goods to its members and patrons.

The capital stock is $5,000 in 500 shares of $10 each.

The governing body of seven directors are: Jacob Karvonen, president; John Antilla, vice president; John Korpsi, secretary; Thomas Maijala, treasurer; Chas. Waltonen, John Isaacson and Sam Filppula.

The Co-operative store is now established and commenced business last Monday. The place of business is the former John Supply Company's location and the manager and assistant manager are John T. Niemi and George Wappula. The stock of the Johnson Supply Company was taken over. Mr. Johnson has accepted a lucrative position as manager of a cooperative institution in Walla Walla, Wash., and will leave for that place in the near future.

Creamery Association Held Interesting Meeting

A stockholders meeting of the creamery association was held last Friday for the purpose of amending the by-laws so as to permit a substantial raise in the limit of indebtedness the board of directors may incur. The amendment was passed with little opposition. Hans Anton, vice president of the Thief River Falls creamery, a man of many years experience in creamery management made a heartening address. He complemented the Middle River association on the record it has made in a business way, and predicted hat the splendid building being erected here will prove a profitable investment and will be a lasting monument to the village. He declared it to be the duty not only of the farmers, but of every business man and citizen of the village to loyally co-operate in advancing the patronage and prosperity of the creamery. John Lager, fieldman for the 17th District of the Land O' Lakes, also addressed the meeting. Secretary Evans read the eport of the previous meeting which was adopted without discussion.

School Work Again Begun

The Middle River schools commenced Monday with the following named faculty: Supt. K. L. Halvorson, of Gary; Prin. Arthur M. Myrum, Thief River Falls; Asst. Prin., Miss Mildred Remmen, who taught here last year; 6th, 7th and 8th grades, Marjorie Stowmwn, of Dazey, N. D.; 3rd, 4th and 5th, Marie Espeland, Henning, Minn.; 1st, and 2nd, Dorothy Gunstad, St. Hilaire.

Middle River young people who are commencing teaching or resuming former positions are the following: Walter Peltola back to Augusta, Mont., where he is assistant principal and has taught for seven years; Alice Hall resumes her work at Warroad; Lillian Olson, a graduate from the Bemidji Teachers college has a position at Badger; Elmer (Tug) Rostad has a position as assistant principal at Stanton, N. D. Those who left to attend school are: Raymond Carrier and Oscar Isaacson to N. D. U.; Herbert and Oswald Peltola to Fargo A. C.; Alton Carlson, to Concordia; Fern Peterson to Moorhead and Clifford Wood, to Minnesota university.

George Breese and Victor Anderson are at work measuring up the acreage of the lands in Cedar and Spruce Valley, listed in the soil conserving project. George is working in Cedar and Victor in Spruce Valley.

There is a lot of optimism noticeable among the farmers who have sweet clover and alfalfa. The price on sweet clover seed is now 7 cents per pound which figures out to $4.20 per bushel. We hear that some who have threshed have received from seven to ten bushels per acre.

A news item that escaped us but was gleaned from last weeks Marshall County Star is to the effect that Deputy Sheriff Marshal Kays was over here on Tuesday of last week and took into custody Nuncio Pigotti, of Omaha, Neb., a boy who had run away from his home with the intention of seeing the world. The Star said that authorities from Omaha were expected to come and get the boy.

O. H. Dovre, manager of the local co-operative shipping association trucked a load of cattle to the cities Monday. The marked improvement in the pasturage attribable to the copious rains and warm weather is reflected in the condition of the live stock. Hence, as the market is good there is quite an outgo of cattle from this point. Mr. Dovre has been making two trips per week and informs us that from now on for the next ten weeks or three months he will probably make three trips a week. His son Hilliard drives the truck to St. Paul while O. H. canvasses the country contracting stock for the next load.

LONDON HAS ITS OWN POLICEWOMEN

INCREASE IN STATE CCC CAMP QUOTA IS GRANTED

A federal water conservation authority for the Red River Valley comparable to the Tennessee Valley Authority is favored by President Roosevelt, according to Governor Hjalmer Petersen, who returned last week from the Des Moines drouth conference.

At the same time it was announced through state relief administrator, L. P. Zimmermas that Minnesota's CCC quota has been increased by 2,000 enrollees, entailing an additional expenditure by the federal government of approximately $50,000 a month.

Governor Petersen asked the president to consider a drouth relief program for Minnesota that included the following points:

Increase the WPA quota for Minnesota by 10,000, making a total of 70,000 workers.

Provide employment for 30,000 farmers and grants for 10,000 additional farmers who have lost all or part of their crops because of the drouth.

A comprehensive water conservation program.

Temporary relief for non-farmer drouth victims.

Increase of Minnesota's CCC quota by 1,000, preference to be given to sons of drouth sufferers.

Immediate proects in northwestern Minnesota to insure an adequate water supply to owns, including the Red Lake river project.

Funds to permit immediate purchase of seed by drouth-stricken farmers.

Governor Petersen said President Roosevelt is keenly aware of the necessity for taking immediate constructive steps to alleviate the drouth situation in Minnesota and promised him full cooperation.

The new CCC quota announced by Mr. Zimmerman will bring enrollment in Minnesota's 64 camps to capacity. The 50 camps limited to Minnesota residents now have an enrollment of approximately 150 each. Under the new quota, each camp will have nearly 200 enrollees. There are at present 8,064 boys enrolled in Minnesota CCC camps.

Benson Flays Nelson For Keynote Speech

trust, and that his administration was the most corrupt in the history of our country, but let me tell Mr. Nelson that his millionaire friends did not possess enough money to bribe him. And let me tell Mr. Nelson further that Governor Olson's record of genuine and unselfish service to the common people of Minnesota—not to Mr. Nelson's wealthy friends—will constitute glorious chapters in the future history of this state and nation long after he, the puppet of the steel trust and the public utility corporations, will have been forgotten.

"What does Mr. Nelson mean by saying that during the administration of Governor Olson a Minnesota resident was ashamed of his state! or that outsiders thought it was unsafe to be here! I admit that Colonel Bertie McCormick, of the Chicago Tribune, spread propoganda to that effect, but evidently Mr. Nelson himself did not feel any physical jeopardy in remaining in Minnesota. If he did he could easily have gone to the state of Kansas which is not far off and the means of transportation between the two states have not broken down. I have no doubt that Mr. Nelson preferred Kansas with its Landon and its public schools ranking the lowest in the union, with school teachers receiving starvation wages and the aged receiving pensions of $5.30 a month. Its highways in a state of disrepair and its governor sponging upon federal funds as no other governor in the United States, than to Minnesota, under Olson.

"Mr. Nelson will have you believe that the Farmer Labor Party has no respect for law and order. Let me remind Mr. Nelson that it was not a Farmer Labor mob which, during the darkness of night, descended upon the home of Charles Lindbergh, Sr. and painted it yellow; it was not Farmer Labor mobs which raided book stores they did not like and destroyed private property; and it was not at the Farmer Labor headquarters in Detroit where the Black Legion met and plotted killings of those who disagreed with their political views, but it was at the Wolverine Republican Club of Detroit where they met and where they plotted and where they planned to elect Republicans to office.

"And to sharpen Mr. Nelson's history of Minnesota, I might call to his attention that it was not a Farmer Labor administration that persecuted our German American citizens in 1918 without respect to law and order; it was not a Farmer Labor administration which formed the notorious commission of public safety that preferred charges against L. A. Fritchie and Albert Pfaender, who were mayor and city attorney respectively of New Ulm; neither was it a Farmer Labor governor who removed these two respected men from public office. This happened during a Republican administration.

"What Mr. Nelson really objects to when he speaks of law and order under a Farmer Labor administration is that troops were called out to protect the rights of the working men on strike to better their economic conditions—rights guaranteeed them under the law. Had the troops been called out to bayonet these strikers or to shoot them down, he would find no more objection than he found when the Minneapolis police, under Mike Johannes, shot innocent working-men in the back. That kind of law and order meets with Mr. Nelson's approval."

Touchball League To Be Formed Here

Touchball, a sport very similar to football except that the opponent is touched instead of tackled, will be played by local young men this fall. Its popularity is well known in the intra-mural leagues of our colleges, universities, and high schools. It is the outstanding intraumural sport at the U. of M. where the fraternities have several touchball leagues. Toward the close of the season eliminations are held and the All-U touchball champs are determined.

A touchball league of six or eight teams will be formed, depending on how many players sign up. Former Lincoln High School gridders are expected to form the nucleus of the different teams. Those wishing to sign up should get in touch with Marvin Benson at the local NYA office.

Pictures From Norway Will Be Shown Here

Moving pictures of Norway, depicting the country, its people, and customs, will be shown in the assembly room of the Lincoln high school building by Joseph Hanson of Milwaukee, Wis. at eight o'clock Monday evening, Sept. 21. Arrangements for the program are being made by Rev. J. O. Jacobson of this city. Mr. Hanson is in this city to attend the annual conference of the Western Association of Evangelical Free churches, which convenes here, beginning today and continuing through Sunday.

County Auditor Issues Delinquent Tax Notice

Board meeting, have been approved by the Minnesota Tax Commission and are now in the County Auditor's office for payment. Such approved applications cannot be placed under the ten year installment law; but can be paid for cash only, the full amount in the application.

All property that forfeits to the State on October 8, 1936 will, after that date be handled as outlined in Chapter 387-Laws of 1935, which chapter is too lengthy to be included in this article. Any one desiring to know the proceedure required of the County Auditor in the disposal of these forfeited may read this law at the office. In a few words, the land will be classified and appraised by the County Board, the list of forfeited lands will be published and the date of sale set. On payment in full of the purchase price, appropriate conveyance in fee, in such form as may be prescribed by the Attorney General, shall be issued by the Minnesota Tax Commission, which conveyance shall have the force and effect of a patent from the State.

Sale of forfeited lands will take place some time this winter after all provisions of the law have been complied with, and will be done in plenty of time before spring work starts.

stricken with the fatal illness on August 23, the day after Governor Floyd B. Olson, died at a Rochester hospital of a stomach ailment. Johnson had tried to visit Olson shortly before the latter's death, but was denied admission to his hospital room due to the governor's serious condition.

Born at Varmland, Sweden, September 19, 1871, Johnson worked as a sailor and a glass-blower before coming to this country when he was 19. He became interested in the labor movement in politics while in Sweden, and carried that interest with him to America.

Succeeded Knute Nelson

When the Nonpartisan league became a factor in Minnesota politics, in 1916, Johnson joined the movement and was elected to the senate, where he served four years. With the growth of the Farmer-Labor party he continued his allegiance to the liberals, and it was as a member of that party that he was elected to serve out the unexpired term of the late Senator Knute Nelson in 1923.

Obtained Butter Survey

One of his major accomplishments while in the senate was that of obtaining a survey of butter imports and a protective tariff against those imports in the interest of the American farmers whom he consistently championed.

He was defeated for re-election to the senate by the late Thomas D. Schall, but went back to Washington as a representative in 1932, when Minnesota's congressmen were elected at large. In 1934 he was again defeated, this time by Representative Harold Knutson. He became supervisor of public stockyards and in 1936 filed for governor, but was defeated in the June primaries.

Warren Wins Final Game of 1936 Season

became a home-run and broke the 1 to 1 tie in Warren's favor.

Thief River Falls scored its run in the second inning as Bakke singled, went to second base on an error and was brought home on a hit by Ness. Warren scored its tally in the fourth when H. Stroble singled and tallied on two hits that followed. From then on the battle was just about a one-two-three-out affair. Schell, pitching for Thief River Falls, struck out ten batsmen and outside of the fourth inning held the Warren team at bay until the swat came that cleared the fence. Palmer, for Warren, had the local boys hitting grounders for easy outs at first the greater part of the time. Twenty-one assists featured this kind of play, Palmer making eight assists alone.

Manager Lee's absence from the line-up due to an injured hand materially weakened the Thief River Falls offense.

Abundant Rain Comes; Near Frost Reported

A shower of rain that netted nearly one inch of precipitation fell in this vicinity Monday at about 4 o'clock. The shower was quite general in the northwestern part of the state so much benefit was gotten for late potatoes and pastures. A shower of nearly half-an-inch had fallen early Monday morning, which in all, relieves drouth conditions materially.

The mercury fell considerably Tuesday and near freezing temperatures were reported but without and damage.

Local Teacher Injured Enroute Here To Duties

Miss Joyce Tice, fourth grade teacher in the Knox school here, suffered serious injuries in an automobile accident last week near St. Cloud while enroute here to begin her teaching duties. Miss Tice was confined at a St. Cloud hospital, and, according to the latest word received here, the extent of her injuries had not as yet been determined by her physicians.

was pro-rated at 66 2-3 per cent, making the deficiency in state aid for this school district $12,000 for the coming year. However, to offset the increase in maintenance tax, a reduction in the bond and interest rate from 8.5 mills to three mills was made possible through the increase of proceeds from the income tax which are used for payment of debts.

E. M. Bennes, who has served continuously on the board of education for almost twelve years, tendered his resignation on the advice of his physicians that he eliminate from his duties as many extra responsibilities as possible because of his health. Mr. Bennes was elected to serve out the unexpired term of T. L. Melgaard, and has served on the board continuously for almost twelve years. He was president of the board for nine years. The board selected Dr. A. E. Jacobson, local dentist, to fill the position left vacant by Mr. Bennes' resignation. Dr. Jacobson will serve for the remainder of Mr. Bennes' term which expires in July, 1937.

The school board elected Miss Evelyn M. Augur of Minneapolis to teach in the kindergarten department. Miss Augur, who studied at Miss Wood's School of Kindergarten and Primary Instruction at Minneapolis, and at Columbia University, will teach the kindergarten class of the Knox school in the afternoons.

Permission was granted by the board of education to the Northwest Bell Telephone company to lay their wires underground across the Knox school grounds.

BENSON OPENS FALL CAMPAIGN IN HOME TOWN

Support of Roosevelt Is Urged By Nominee

Also Discusses Platform of Party at Appleton Meeting

Criticizing his Republican opponent for failing to take a definite stand on any issue, including taxes, Senator Elmer A. Benson, in his keynote address as Farmer Labor candidate for Governor, presented the Farmer Labor program for reducing taxes on farms and on city homes and outlined the Farmer Labor position on other issues. The address was delivered Monday night at his home town of Appleton.

An audience, numbering several thousand people, was present to honor Appleton's leading citizens and hear his important message for the campaign for the governorship.

Senator Benson referred to the achievements of the Olson Administration as an outstanding national accomplishment. These achievements, he emphasized, were carried through despite a reactionary legislature which prevented carrying out of the entire Farmer Labor program.

Senator Benson charged outright that Martin A. Nelson his Republican opponent, had deliberately misrepresented the matter of state finances, adding that an honest presentation of governmental expenditures would disclose to the voters "that the Farmer Labor Administratios was more economical than even the so-called economy Governor Theodore Christianson." The Senator also declared himself in favor of Governor Olson's pledge to lend support to the re-election of President Roosevelt. He declared:

"It is not that I subscribe to everything that President Roosevelt has done or approve all policies which his administration has promulgated. I always supported the Frazier-Lemke bill and voted for it as Senator Frazier's amendment to the tax bill in the U. S. Senate. I believe in it now as firmly as ever. I am an admirer of Congressman Lemke. If I were in North Dakota, I would vote for his reelection to Congress, and Father Coughlin has done a great public service in arousing the people to the abuses of our monetary system.

"This is not an issue between Roosevelt and Lemke, but between Roosevelt and Landon. It is whether we shall have a National Administration whose outlook is lib-

Democratic "Sound Wagon" to Be Here

The Roosevelt Caravan, sent out by Democratic National Headquarters in New York to campaign the State of Minnesota in behalf of the re-election of President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner, will be in Thief River Falls next Saturday, Sept. 26, on its flying tour of the State.

The caravan, equipped with a microphone and voice amplifiers for speaking as well as an electrical sound reproduction unit to play records of band music and songs, will have "covered" 504 Minnesota cities and towns in 42 days up to noon Saturday, Oct. 31.

At each stop in the state the audience hears a message from President Roosevelt reproduced from a metal disc record especially made by the president for the Minnesota caravan.

The caravan's crew consists of its director, Thomas Gallagher of Minneapolis, Democratic nominee for Attorney General; Frank Dvoracek of Minneapolis, representing the Younger Democrats, and the Roosevelt First Voters League, and the driver, Don DeVol, former resident of Hibbing now living in Washington, D. C.

FORMER TEACHER COMMITS SUICIDE IN NEW YORK CITY

Art. Laemmle Is Found Dead From His Own Hand Monday at Columbia U.

Arthur H. Laemmle, 31 years old, a former instructor in the high school here, is reported to have committed suicide in a dormitory at Columbia University in New York City, Monday. What the cause of his rash act has not as yet been ascertained.

He was a high school instructor here during the school year of 1928-9, teaching biology and physical education. He was unusually capable and was well-liked by the members of his classes.

Arthur Laemmle arrived in New York last Sunday to register for a post-graduate course in Columbia, where he had studied in the summer of 1935.

His note, police said, asked that certain bills be paid and that his personal effects be given to his brother, John, a sister, Mrs. S. C. Brayton of Mio, Mich., and Edith M. Miles of the Henry street settlement in Grand Forks.

Miss Miles, a social worker, identified herself as a friend of Laemmle, and said she and he were born in the same town, Ashley, N. D.

Laemmle, doctors said, had died from cuts on the wrists and a stab wound in the neck. The souvenir dagger found by the body bore the inscription, "Bemidji, Minn."

Laemmle attended the University of North Dakota for two years and then went to the University of Minnesota, graduating in 1928 with high honors. He came here to teach the following fall, teaching for one year. Since then he had been a science instructor at a Watertown high school. He held the campus discus throw championship in track; was a former track captain at the University of Minnesota and big ten conference heavyweight boxing champion.

Harold MacKenzie, superintendent of schools at Watertown, said Laemmle left there in the best of health and spirits.

K. L. Klevland, well known resident of this vicinity, returned on Monday morning from a three-months' visit to Norway, his fatherland. Mr. Klevland has many important facts to relate from his tri

Shoemaker To Speak Here Next Week

Former Congresman Shoemaker of Red Wing is making a campaign in the state at this time in the interest of the Farmer Labor ticket, traveling with a combined house trailer and broadcasting plant, an equipment he built himself.

Mr. Shoemaker will speak on the streets of Red Lake Falls next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. On Tuesday he speaks at St. Hilaire at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, at Holt at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and at Thief River Falls at 8 in the evening. On Monday at 11 a. m. he will be at Middle River, going from there on northward to Greenbush and Roseau.

His broadcasting equipment permits the reproduction of phonograhphic records, such as speeches by Senator Benson, Ernest Lundeen and others. All of his meetings are conducted out on the streets.

REPUBLICANS ORGANIZE AT FRI. BANQUET

Haugen, Solstad, Grady Address Dinner At Evelyn Hotel

Delegations From Nearby Counties Also Present

Youngdahl and Steining Will Speak at Future G O P Meetings

Reorganization of the Republican party in Pennington county was brought about at a banquet at the Evelyn hotel Friday evening. Delegations were also present from nearby counties.

Elmer Berg was named president of the organization, known as the Associated Republican clubs. Dr. J. N. Nesse was elected vice president, Paul Lundgren secretary and Miss Effie Hamry, treasurer. Theo. Quale, chairman of the county committee, presided.

Among the speakers were Lowell Grady of Crookston, State Senator Solstad of Polk county and Elmer Haugen of Otter Tail county, the Republican candidate for congress from this district.

Arrangements were made for the appearance here next Tuesday, Sept. 29, of Oscar Youngdahl, the Republican candidate for attorney-general, and also for a meeting here Oct. 13th of Theo. Christianson, candidate for U. S. senator, and Arthur E. Nelson, candidate for lieutenant governor.

The banquet was held at the dining hall at the hotel and about one hundred persons attended. Mrs. Chillstrom of Warren led the singing and H. F. Harrison rendered several piano selections.

O. R. Knutson of Warren will speak at a Young Republican League meeting Friday evening at the Commercial Club rooms, beginning at 8 o'clock. Richard Mabey, the group's chairman, announces that cake and coffee will be served and that all interested are invited to come.

Mr. Mabey states also that arrangements are being made for another meeting by the same group Oct. 9th, when the Polk and Red Lake county groups will be guests. Henry Steining of Moorhead, state senator from Clay county, will address this gathering.

F. A. Pike, Progressive Leader Dies At Capitol

Frederic A. Pike, deputy state attorney general and prominent Farmer-Laborite, died Thursday, a few minutes after suffering an attack of heart disease. He was 73.

Pike, who has been on the attorney general's staff since 1933, gained wide recognition in appearing before the United States supreme court in the litigation centering around North Dakota's famous industrial program which he had originally helped shape. The constitutionality of the legislation was upheld.

Born in Wisconsin and graduated from the university of that state, Pike spent all his professional life in Minnesota.

The Hazel and West Rocksbury locals of the Farmers Union will have a joint meeting at the Aubol school, Thursday, Oct. 8th. F. J. McLaughlin, fieldman for the F-U Activities will be the speaker. A full program will be rendered.

District Presbyterians Meet In Red Lake Falls

Red Lake Falls is host this week (Wednesday and Thursday) to the Adams Presbytery which includes elders and clergy from churches in northwestern Minnesota.

Sessions opened with a fellowship dinner at 6 P. M. Wednesday, followed by a popular service with Rev. L. P. Warford of Bemidji presiding. The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. Harry Noble Wilson of St. Paul. Rev. V. A. Woodworth presided at the communion service. Devotionals were held this (Thursday) morning by Rev. George McLeod of Blackduck and a business session followed.

Women of the church served dinner at noon after which concluding sessions are to be held.

Former Local Physician Dies at Watertown, S. D.

Dr. Andrew J. Paulson, aged 63, former physician of this city, passed away at Watertown, S. D., Friday afternoon after an illness of only two days. Dr. Paulson was associated with Dr. Mellby of our city while here, assuming his local practise in 1918 and leaving for Watertown three years later. Before coming here he was located at McVille and Flaxton, in North Dakota.

Local Cooking School To Be Held Oct. 13-14

The Oen's department store will sponsor a two-day cooking school Oct. 13th and 14th. The hardware department is staging the event to locally advertise the well-known Pyrofax gas ranges. As complete arrangements will be made next week readers are asked to look for full details next week.

The Cooking School will be conducted by Mrs. Edna Clemenson, well-known Sioux City (S. Dak.) dietition. She will demonstrate the convenience of Pyrofax (real gas for gasless homes) and show how simply and easily cooking, baking, roasting, broiling, and canning can de done on this fine Magic Chef range.

H. S. Enrollment Is 561; Classes Elect Officers

The High School enrollment is now 561, as compared with 580 last year, this was announced Tuesday by William Claffy, principal of the school. The Senior class now is a student body of 110. These figures are still behind those of 1934-35, when the high school had the largest enrollment ever to be known in this city. The enrollment of that year was 618. It is expected that more students will enroll within the next week or two.

Election of the Senior class officers was held in the assembly hall of the high school Monday, Sept. 21. The following officers were elected: president, Donald Olson; vice president, Lois Morell; treasurer, Bruce Prichard; secretary, Alfred Nelson. The class advisors are Miss Greenland and W. G. Claffy.

PROWLERS WIN OPENER 33-6

Thief River Falls Will Play Pirates At Crookston Under Flood-Lights Friday Evening

The Thief River Falls high school football team opened its 1936 season with a smashing 33 to 6 victory over Red Lake Falls on Friday evening under the flood-lights at Lincoln field. The Prowlers showed unusual strength at times which should make the team a formidable opponent for any aggregation to be met this fall.

The regulars, in the line-up from the very start, made good-sized advances on all plays against Red Lake Falls. This led to three touchdowns in the first quarter which ended 19 to 0. The Red Lake Falls boys were a trifle smaller and failed to gain much against the first string players. They are a fast bunch, however, which bids fair to be a good team before the end of the season.

The most outstanding players among the Prowlers were Captain Nesse at fullback, Adkins at the tackle position, Stadum at guard and Hanson at center. The best of the Red Lake Falls boys were Martell and Kiefenheim in the back field and the DuCharme brothers and Columbus in the line.

Both teams showed up well for being the opening encounter, as all plays were well executed and many being completed for early high school teams.

Red Lake Falls stopped the onward march of the Prowlers as Coach Lee sent in his less seasoned substitutes. The visitors penetrated deep into the Prowler territory in the second quarter, aided by penalties and long end runs. On

WORKERS PLAN BIG CONVENTION HERE THURSDAY

State Alliance To Conduct Convention At City Auditorium

Local Workers League Decide Upon Joining

Visiting Officials Making Organization Thruout Minnesota

The state Workers Alliance of St. Paul has announced that an organizational meeting will be held Thursday evening, Oct. 1st at the City Auditorium here, beginning at eight o'clock. The Workers League of Thief River Falls will meet jointly with the visiting organizers. All local people interested are invited to attend.

A circular announcing the local meeting states:

"The Workers Alliance of Minnesota is the state organization which coordinates and assists local organizations of the unemployed and the WPA project workers. The aim of the national, state or local branches of the Workers Alliance is to improve the living conditions of the needy unemployed and employed project workers.

"The Workers Alliance knows from the past experience of victories won, that the economic condition of the unemployed and project workers can be improved only if the unemployed are united in organization and only if they struggle for their demands. The stronger the organization, the more members enrolled, the wider the support from the rest of the community, the greater the gains will be. We give the farmers our support in their struggles, for better livelihood and the farmers will support us in our struggles. For this reason the Workers Alliance is conducting a state organizational tour, to assist all local organizations to build their membership, and to form new local organizations in every locality throughout the state. The Alliance is also carrying on an educational program to help all employed workers, farmers and small merchants to understand the program of the Alliance and to enlist their support in our struggles."

Red Lake Falls To Stage One-Day Fair

Red Lake county will again have a fair this fall as a result of a decision made at a meeting of farmers and business men at which steps were taken to revive the dormant Red Lake County Agricultural society.

A one-day fair in the nature of a 4-H event will be held this fall when approximately $800 will be awarded for exhibits.

A nominating committee from the Red Lake Falls Commercial club, the Red Lake County Farm Bureau and the Red Lake County 4-H club organization recommended a list of officers for the fair organization and the meeting ratified the committee's selections.

Erie Young Lady Wins Play Writer's Contest

Miss Ethel Parnow, of Erie, was awarded first prize in an International Talent quest, a contest sponsored by the Walther League, international organization of the German Lutheran Young People's societies. The prize was a scholarship good for a correspondence course in journalism, through the Valparaiso University in Indiana, and a two-weeks' outing at Camp Arcadia. Miss Parnow won the prize with her originally written 2-act play, entitled "Youth's Difficulties." The local Walther League of St. John's Lutheran church received a trophy because of Miss Parnow's splendid work.

RED CROSS PLANS DRIVE HERE FOR MEMBERSHIPS

Mrs. H. A. Brumund Is Elected To Chairmanship of Membership Drive November 11 to 25

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Pennington chapter of the American Red Cross on Monday evening, Mrs. H. A. Brumund was unanimously elected as county chairman to conduct the Roll Call drive which will be held this year from November 11-26. Mrs. Theo. Quale is the chairman of the Pennington chapter. Mrs. H. A. Brumund has long been an interested person in Red Cross service in this community and should receive fine support from those interested in seeing Red Cross work carried on in this community.

According to Mrs. Quale the chapter is planning to bring a Red Cross picture entitled "Red Cross to the Rescue" which is an accurate account of the work done by the Red Cross during the Spring floods in Johnstown and Pittsburg last year. This picture was highly recommended by Alfred Wardley, national representative of the Red Cross, who attended the meeting. In addition to this feature the local chapter has planned to secure a one minute film recently made by Shirley Temple called "For Their Sake." This picture will be shown at the Avalon theatre the week of November 11.

Mr. Wardley gave an excellent account at the meeting of the fine record made by the American Red Cross during the last year. In 1935-36 the Red Cross went to 138 major disasters in the U. S. This is an average of two major disasters a week. In the devastating Spring floods which affected 20

Dance Promoters Must Observe Law, Says Berve

Strict observance of the law by dance promoters is cautioned by H. O. Berve, county attorney, who states that numerous dances are being sponsored by persons thruout the county without any dance permits.

The state law specifies that permits for public dances must be obtained in advance of the time of the dance. Severe penalties will be inflicted on those failing to observe the law, so Mr. Berve is issuing th warning to anyone hereafter to be careful in observing the law before staging a public dance.

Enrollment of CCC Boys Planned For Oct. 1-15

Another enrollment of CCC members will be made in Minnesota beginning Thursday, Oct. 1st, and continuing until Oct. 15, states L. G. Larsen, local enrollment officer. There is no fixed quota set for the northwestern district of Minnesota, states Mr. Larsen. Enlistment will be made only for six months.

Young men wishing to enlist may obtain preliminary application blanks now at Mr. Larsen's office at the courthouse. This will speed the regular enlistment procedure which is more carefully rechecked at the state headquarters in St. Paul. Parents or guardian of the applicant must sign the application, states Mr. Larsen.

FARMER LABOR RALLY SUNDAY ALL SET TO GO

Lundeen, Lindsten, and Hartig Will Head List Of Speakers

To Be Biggest Gathering In This Part Of The State

Event Will Be Held At Heinze's Grove, Southeast of City

Everything is in readiness for the Farmer-Labor rally which will be held at Thief River Falls next Sunday. It is believed that this will be the biggest gathering of the Farmer-Laborites in the northwestern part of the state this fall. The rally will be held at the Heinze grove, southeast of town. If inclement weather prevails, the meeting will be held at the local auditorium.

The speakers will include Ernest Lundeen, candidate for U. S. senator, G. T. Lindsten, candidate for lieutenant governor, Dr. Paul Hartig, candidate for secretary of state, Mrs. Marian Le Sueur and Mrs. Chas. Lundquist, the two ladies who are conducting a drive in the Ninth Congressional district for the Farmer-Labor party at this time.

If time permits there will also be talks from local men and from Congressman Buckler, J. O. Melby and Walter E. Day, the last two being candidates for representatives from this legislative district. A loud speaker system will be used so there is no doubt about anyone not being able to hear the speakers.

The fine array of speakers is very unusual, all of the principal persons being noted for their ability on the platform. Especially outstanding is Mr. Lundeen, who ranks as the best orator in Minnesota today. People who haven't heard the arguments of the Farmer-Labor ticket this fall have a fine opportunity to hear them Sunday.

The local committee in charge of the event is H. O. Berve, the county campaign manager, Paul Harris, and H. Halland, the last mentioned being secretary of the Pennington County Farmer-Labor club. The committee states that there will be added attractions, such as musical numbers on the program, there will be refreshment stands on the grounds and that signs at the three river bridges will indicate the road to Heinze's grove which adjoins the city limits at the southeast corner.

From downtown, the grounds are reached by going east across the Bridge Street bridge near the Ro-

Roseau Man Slain In Dance Brawl

Three men are held in the Roseau county jail pending investigation into the death of Artaud Peterson, 31, shot and instantly killed early Sunday during a brawl at a dance in Pine Needle Inn, 25 miles southeast of Roseau. A fourth man may be arrested, according to Coroner Dr. D. Berge.

Bert Wideman, constable who was policing the dance and who was held after coming to Roseau to give himself up to authorities, was released late Monday, following a coroner's inquest. The jury, according to Dr. Berge, cleared Wideman when it handed in a verdict that Wideman shot in self defense. Nine witnesses testified.

The three men in jail are Greeley Halcomb, Alfred Sherman and James Howell all of the Wannaska district. They were held without charge pending further investigation by sheriff Rice and County Attorney Knutson.

According to testimony at the inquest, trouble developed during the dance and as Wideman was being beaten he shot, killing Peterson, who was one of the men attacking him.

The bullet struck Peterson in the chest and went through his heart.

The victim is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Peterson and four sisters. He lived on a farm with his mother, seven and one-half miles south of Roseau. His father is employed in Minneapolis.

WHAT MARTIN NELSON DIDN'T SAY

Vagueness as to his definite program marked the keynote speech of Martin A. Nelson, GOP candidate for governor, at St. Cloud, Saturday evening, Sept. 12th. Mr. Nelson made plenty of absurd criticisms of the present administration which became such because these were lacking in detail. If they had been explained there would have been little criticism to his speech.

The GOP candidate charged the Farmer-Labor administration with incurring an unusual amount of debts. But he failed to explain that much of this was due to the Republican administrations before the Farmer Laborites came into power. The fact was not disclosed that an annual saving of nearly $1,200,000 annually was prevented because the Republicans stipulated that the rural credit bonds issued were not callable but must continue to draw interest at 4.1 percent. Had the bonds been redeemable the present rate of interest would have been only 2 percent, an expense due to Republican manipulation. We will thus have to pay about twenty million dollars more in interest until the bonds mature in 1954 than if we had had a Farmer Labor administration at the time the rural credits bonds were made.

He fails to mention that the most conspicuous spending orgy ever perpetrated in the history of our state occurred in the Theodore Christianson administration when, thru the rural credits maladministration, the poor loans of the capitalists were refunded at an immense cost to the state taxpayers. This was the reason the Republicans were removed from power in 1930.

Nor does Mr. Nelson mention that, while he accuses the Farmer Laborites of undue expenditures ,the Republicans were in control if at least one and, most of the time both houses of the legislature. If the expenses incurred were unwarranted why did these Republican majorities allow it?

One of the conspicuously evasive statements made by the GOP gubernatorial nominee is as follows: "As to the particular method by which such (taxation) relief is to be accomplished the Republican party has not nor will it express an opinion." If Mr. Nelson had fully realized how absurd and weak such a statement is, we believe he would not have made it.

He promises relief from real and personal property taxes. When his statement failed to specify what tax will replace these, what else can we deduct than that the sales tax will be put across on the people of Minnesota? Isn't there a likelihood that even if the GOP nominee promises tax relief, the sales tax may be a means by which the Republicans can put across as bad a deal as they did in the rural credits administration?

WHAT IS THE UNDERLYING MOTIVE?

People have reason to doubt the motive that prompts Father Coughlin to parade far and wide across our country in a nattempt to bring about defeat of President Roosevelt. He frankly confessed at Des Moines last week that his Union party had no chance to carry the election in any state. His only motive, he said, was to campaign to get the people to vote for principle.

Now that he is campaigning to defeat Roosevelt and has no hopes to win the election, what will his campaigning result in?

Coughlin knows it well. It will elect Landon, the candidate who is more conservative than the person Coughlin attacks for conservatism. It is nothing but pursuing the policy Huey P. Long pursued in his days. Huey Long confessed to the fact he was going to get five million dollars from the Republicans if he would run for president in 1936 and attack Roosevelt so as to bring about his defeat and elect a Republican. Long's big year, he confessed, would be in 1940, when the American people would be so bed-ridden from Republicanism that they whole-heartedly accept Huey Long.

We wonder if there isn't something of this money and motive that prompts Coughlin to travel hither and thither to attack President Roosevelt? Every move he makes certainly resembles the manner in which Huey P. Long would have done it had he lived.

AS MAINE GOES, ETC., ETC.

Various analyists have tried to account for the election in the so-called pivot state of Maine which election was held last week. The best interpretation is found in the following excerpts from an article by Byron Price:

"The approaching national election cast a sharper reflection over Washington last week as the voting in Maine, Michigan and elsewhere demonstrated the stubborn character of the developing contest.

"Speaking generally, the much-advertised returns from Maine failed to provide unqualified partisan satisfaction to either side. Neither party did as well as it had prophesied. The chemists in the back rooms at party headquarters found the test negative, yielding no statistical proof of an impending national Democratic landslide like that which befell in 1932, or of a national Republican sweep like that of 1928.

"Roughly, the undisputed figures of the past show that when Maine goes Republican overwhelmingly in September,—say by 65 per cent or more,—the Republicans are likely to win hands down nationally in November; and when it goes Democratic even by the narrowest margin, the setup is for a national walkover for the Democrats. The first of these two things happened in 1928. The second happened in 1932. Neither happened in 1936.

"Anyone who desires can figure the gap down to narrower proportions by making allowance for such uncertain items as the personal popularity of candidates, special local conditions, and the relative voltage of the campaign funds expended. But whoever does so can also reach almost and conclusion which pleases him, due to the way he fills in the blanks. If he sticks to the known record, he must be satisfied with a similar conclusion: that, granting there is anything at all in the barometer theory, Maine has pointed the way to a closer election than the country has seen in years."

PUBLISHES OUTSTANDING BOOK

One of the outstanding books recently published which more accurately analyzes the economic situation in the United States than any other is "Brass Tacks", a publication written by David Cushman Coyle, an advisor to the Missouri Valley Authority committee. The book is published by the National Home Library Foundation in Washington, D. C., and sells for only 25 cents. The book was printed first in February and already 300,000 books have been sold. For a time the print shop could not supply the demand. If you haven't already read this book you ought to get one.

"There comes, at some time or other, to everyone of us a night when we can't sleep for thinking, wondering, questioning what is going to happen to our country. We are all aware of some national dislocation or another, some turbulent current sweeping us irresistably to some dead end, some conflict or friction which seems to be endurable and yet which can't go on forever. And we try to reconcile these things, and lose sleep, and get nowhere.

"The refreshment, then, of following a clear, cogent mind as it examines these national problems —from unemployment to debts—and as it reaches conclusions which are courageous and intelligent, is the first feeling we have from reading David Cushman Coyle's masterly little work: "BRASS TACKS". Written with wit, good humor, and above all a brave application of common sense, this is the best book of prophetic economics for the American layman on which we have ever laid eyes."

ROOSEVELT'S RECORD

No other president, we have ever had, has done as much as Roosevelt in the direction of actual achievement on the three vital points just mentioned. Even if elected none of the other candidates for president this year are in a position to do as much for labor as Roosevelt can do during the next two years and in all probability the next four years. No matter how this year's election goes the senate, of which two-thirds of the present membership are hold-overs, will be Democratic and it is more likely that the House also will be. Other candidates may do a lot of talking about what they will do for labor, in case they are elected, but what have any of them done, especially Landon, the candidate of big business, who is the only other candidate who has even a remote chance of being elected; What could any of them do, during the next four years, if they were elected, even if they wanted to?

The answer to the above is that Roosevelt, both by past performance, when he has been in a position to help organized labor, and by the favorable position he will be in to do still more, during the next four years, in case he is re-elected, makes him the logical candidate for union men and their dependents to support for president at the coming November election. This is exactly what a vast majority of the members of our labor unions have in mind to do in every part of the United States.—Exchange.

YOUTH AND POLITICS

At any given time, more than half of the people of the United States are considerably under 30 years of age. Somewhere between 25 and 26 years is more nearly the average, Government statistics have figured fro mcensus returns. From this some people argue that the young voters hold the balance of power in national elections. That does not follow, however, for while all of the persons above the average age are voters, only those between 21 and the 26-year average can vote.

Nevertheless, the fresh crop of new voters coming of age in each four-year period is a factor of very considerable importance. If all of the 4,500,000 young men and women who reached the age of 21 since the election of 1932 could be influenced to vote the same way, their votes undoubtedly would decide whether Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Landon is to be elected in November.

This year unquestionably more vigorous efforts are being made than ever before by the campaign managers of both parties to convince these new voters that their futures are safer in the hands of this party or that. That is all to the good. The earlier that political education begins, the better. We are inclined to think, however, that youth today is much more skeptical of promises than the young folks used to be.

Both parties profess to be concerned with the future of the young people of today. That is quite natural and proper. All that the older people can do, after all, is to prepare the way for the young ones who will eventually step into their shoes. The youth of today will have to carry the load of government and of management of affairs tomorrow. Whichever way the election of 1936 goes, we can be sure that if those who will this year vote for the first time don't like the result they will change the whole scheme of things in due course.

By H. O. BERVE

We are unable to see just why the people of Minnesota should become very much excited over the passage of Constitutional Amendment Number Two. So far as we can see the only ones to really benefit by the passage of the amendment would be the banks, the mortgage companies, the mining companies and other large investors that happen to own a lot of real estate. If the state tax levy is taken off from real estate, then the banks, the mortgage companies, the mining companies, and other large investors in real estate will of course to that extent benefit because they will escape taxation on their lands.

There is nothing in the Amendment to guarantee any reduction in state expenditures and in the cost of operation of our state government. Our population is continually increasing, and in all probability our costs of government will have to increase. Our schools our state institutions and various other state activities must be kept up. Our old age pensions and our relief needs must be taken care of, and provided for in some way. While it may be possible to secure some slight reductions, still it is more than likely we shall not find any reductions possible. So long as there can be no reduction in state expenditures and in the cost of state government, we cannot see how there can be any substantial reduction in state taxation. The money must be raised somewhere. Some one will have to pay sooner or later. We may shift the tax from real estate and place it somewhere else, but so long as the people in general will have to pay it makes little or no difference.

Possibly some of those who are so anxious to secure the passage of Amendment number two would like to see the state run into debt, so that bonds could be issued at high rates of interest to take care of the deficit. Such bonds might make a splendid investment for investors. Or possibly they would want to pass a sales tax and make the people in general pay the shortage in that way.

Be that as it may the fact remains that if we take the state tax levy off real estate, the cost of the operation of our state government will have to be paid in some way, and the people in one way or another will have to pay the bill. The net result will be that the only ones certain to gain by the passage of amendment number Two will be the large investors in real estate, both corporate and private who happen to own large tracts of real estate. Their real estate will escape state taxation. For the mining companies, the mortgage companies, and other large owners of real estate the passage of amendment number two will be a fine thing. To all the rest of the people the passage of the amendment will be of no benefit because the people will have to pay in some way. What difference does it make to the farmer and the small home owner if their real estate is relieved of state taxation, if they are taxed in some other way to make up the difference? So after all Amendment number two is probably only another effort by the wealthy real estate owners to escape taxation and to load the burden over on the great mass of the people of the state, either through a sales tax, or by some other form of taxation.

* * * *

When Martin Nelson, and the Republicans talk about economy and tax reduction, let us remember that the Republicans have been in full and absolute control of the Legislature for many years. They have been in such absolute control that they have appointed all the committees in the House, and have taken away from the Lieutenant Governor all power of appointment in the Senate. EVERY DOLLAR THAT HAS BEEN VOTED AND SPENT FOR STATE PURPOSES IN THE STATE HAS BEEN VOTED BY A REPUBLICAN CONROLLED LEGISLATURE TO TAKE CARE OF THE NEEDS OF THE STATE. Theodore Christianson, now republican candidate for United States Senator was chairman of the Appropriations Committee for many years in the House. Senator A. J. Rockne, staunch republican has been chairman of the Finance Committee in the Senate for a score of years almost. Not a dollar has been voted and spent in Minnesota for state purposes except by the consent and approval of these Republicans and their fellow members in the Legislature. In the face of this situation, how can the Republicans talk about Economy and Tax Reduction? Are they criticising themselves or are they putting up a sham battle in order to deceive the people?

* * * *

As time goes on it becomes more and more apparent that the Farmer-Labor Party is the only party that offers a sound, moderate, and worth while progressive program. The Farmer-Labor Party has always stood for a safe and sane middle of the way Progressive Program ever since it came into existence. The Republican and other parties are only adopting Progressive measures when they are forced to do so by a strong public sentiment created by a militant Farmer-Labor party. You will find that the Farmer-Labor Party has always been at the front in the fight for reform and progress and justice for the people. The Republican party always brings up the rear. The Republican and Democratic Parties are both to a great extent controlled by the people of great wealth. They do not advocate, and they do not adopt nor attempt to carry out progresive measures until they are forced to do so by public opinion. The tonnage tax, the income tax, the inheritance taxes, and the old age pensions and the low interest laws are all laws that have been passed because progressive parties like the Farmer-Labor party have adopted and demanded the passage of such legislation. The Republican and Democratic parties are a good deal like a balky horse, or an automobile with faulty brakes. They are likely to shy off and go anywhere and everywhere except where you want them to go.

The Farmer-Labor Party stands for the protection of the Homes and the Property of the farmer, the small business man and the working man, and for fair wages and working conditions for the laborer. The old parties have always stood and now stand for the protection of the property and wealth of the wealthy classes. The Farmer-Labor party is composed of and is controlled by the common people; you find no Duponts, Morgans or Rockefellers in the Farmer-Labor Party. The Republican party is controlled by and serves first of all the moneyed interests of the country. It should not be hard for the people of Minnesota to decide which party to support, in this campaign.

Rubbing It In

They were strolling aimlessly along the river-bank.

Presently a man and his dog hove in view. As they came abreast of the two friends Grey whipped off his hat.

A few seconds later Cooper said: "Who was that man you raised your hat to?"

"That? Oh, he was my barber! He sold me a bottle of hair restorer a month ago, and whenever I meet him I raise my hat and let him see what a fraud he is."

BUREAUCRACY

Something— preferably something very unpleasant—should be done to the 'bureaucrats'. That, at least, appears to be the very emphatic, present opinion of the Republicans. . .

. . . Which would seem to make the feeling unanimous that bureaucracy is a very bad thing, indeed; for it isn't so long since that the Democrats, in their turn, earnestly lambasted the bureaucracies of Harding, Coolidge and Hoover, respectively.

* * * *

The charges made against bureaucracy by the politicians are, in the main, that it is wasteful, extravagant and inefficient. These accusations are, however, as superficial as the politicians themselves . . . They do not get at the root of the trouble.

Your commentator is more thorough-going Not only is he able, unerringly, to pick the bureaucrats out of a crowd merely by the shine of the seats of their trousers, and the high polish of their eye-glasses, but he also knows what is wrong with bureaucracy. . .

Bureaucracy is over-efficient. That's what's wrong with bureaucracy!

* * * *

When a new bureau is created, every phase of its organizations is handled by experts. . .

. . . Filing experts, who see filing as the most important function of government, expert accountants, to whom bookkeeping looms as mankind's most serious activity; expert correspondents, to whom letter-writing is life's only worthwhile occupation; personnel experts, to whom blissful eternity is a place filled with record cards. . .

By the time they are through, they have bogged the bureau down under such a mass of detail, much of it wholly unnecessary, that it becomes, not only clumsy and lumbering, but far too costly.

* * * *

Farmer Brown, who lives near some dam project, finds that his cellar has become full of water. An absent-minded hen, followed by her family, has ambled in through the open cellar window and fallen in. Regrettably, all have thereupon departed this life.

Farmer Brown then writes to Washington. The letter, traveling its intricate way through departmental channels, finally reaches a correspondent for answer.

And does the correspondent read it, then return it to Mr. Brown with a note at the bottom, reading something like this:

"Dear Sir: Sell your hens and buy ducks!"

He does not! Nothing so simple or practical as that! The matter is important and requires deep thought and study. It gets it.

The actual disposition of Farmer Brown's complaint may lack much in wisdom. But the routine of its handling will be of a painstaking completeness to gladden the soul of the expert. . .

. . . Letters checked and double-checked for such important things as width of margins; . . . Making certain that the 'Dear Sir' and 'Yours truly' are exactly where the expert decreed they must be; . . . Entries on personnel records; . . . Cards for the files; . . . Extra copies for other files. . .

Everything so arranged that if Farmer Brown's descendants, 500 years hence, should inquire about the case, complete records will be produced in a twinkling. They will be able to read the plaint of their remote ancestor and to learn that his hen did tumble into the water-filled cellar and did thereupon come to an untimely end.

And Farmer Brown will have become immortal. His name will live forever. . . for the department will preserve its records forever. Office detail is costly; filing space and the care of live records are a continuing expense. Nobody knows haw much Farmer Brown's simple letter will ultimately cost Uncle Sam.

But what is cost to the expert! He is far too busy with the maze of detail he has contrieved to have time to give thought to anything of such remote interest as cost.

* * * *

Thus, we see that governmental red tape and alleged inefficiency are in fact over-efficiency. We begin to understand, too, how it is that bureaus tend to become self-perpetuating. For, be they Republican or Democratic, bureaus once launched go on and on forever.

It is truly said:

"An Act of Congress may create a bureau, but only an Act of God can dissolve it!"

VIEWS AND REVIEWS

New Support for Landon

The Tin Cup and Pencil Manufacturers Association recently came out 100 percent for Landon. They should.

And now, in order to line up the drouth farmers behind him, Landon came out 100 percent for more rain. "Republicans and Rain!" would make a swell slogan.

Followers of Abe Lincoln are also lining up, after having discovered that Alf Landon has the same initials. He also wears pants, which should be good news for the pants manufacturers.

I hesitate to think what will happen to Roosevelt's following of professors and school teachers, when Landon reveals that he has been to school.

The New Patriotism

I notice the new school history books come out flat-footed with the assertion that Samuel Adams, John Hancock, Thomas Paine, Thomas Jefferson, and the rest were radicals. In the days (not so long ago) when I studied history in school the American Revolution was regarded as something wonderful, and the men who took part in it were unquestionably patriots. At least the new attitude is one of facing the facts squarely. There can be no mistake about the position of modern radicals, then, in the modern scene. They are the patriots of the 20th century.

Bertie McCormick Sees Red (As Usual)

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor-publisher of the Chicago Tribune, who gained fame chiefly thru his characterization of the late Floyd B. Olson's regime as a "rule of racketeers", and labeled Minnesota the poison spot of America; has now discovered that Moscow has ordered American Communists to back Roosevelt against Landon.

The purpose of this ridiculous charge, is, of course, to create a red scare against Roosevelt, in the attempt to make the average man flee from the "communism" in Roosevelt's program to the supposedly "safe" program of Landon and the Liberty League.

That it has no foundation in fact is evidenced, in part, by the offer of the Chicago Daily Times to pay $5000 to some worthy cause if Bertie McCormick could prove his assertion that Communists were instructed to vote for Roosevelt. The offer went untaken.

As may be seen from even a casual reading of their election platform, the American Communist party is unequivocally opposed to Landon and the Liberty League crowd; but on the other hand it is not backing Roosevelt for, to use the words of Browder "(Roosevelt) yields most to reaction when he has most support from the Left; he fights reaction only to the degree that he thinks necessary to hold labor and progresive forces from breaking away. To support Roosevelt is to invite him to make even further retreats."

Browder's proposal is to work for the national Farmer-Labor party which, although formed too late this year to affect the national scene, may be something to contend with in 1940.

The only reasonable answer one can give to this knotty question is, to vote radical if you can; if not, vote anything but Republican. The defeat of the Republican party this year is of primary importance. In that organization is gathered the cream of exploiters—the duPonts, Morgan, Rockefeller, Mellon, are all represented. They are interested in maintaining the "American way" which is, to return their privilege of exploiting. Even the mildly liberal program of Franklin D. Roosevelt scares them now, which is the reason why they would like to make the man in the street believe that it is "orders from Moscow" to re-elect Roosevelt.

Unquestionably, as Frank Kent of the Baltimore Sun says, this campaign will be unprecedented—the issues have leaped over party lines and resolve themselves into class lines. November will tell the story.

INTERESTING MEETING IS HELD AT RIVER VALLEY

An interesting meeting was held at River Valley Tuesday evening, which was attended by a large crowd.

The main part of the program was in the nature of a forum as the three major party chairmen of the county talked on the issues of the fall campaign and the position their parties take.

H. O. Berve spoke in behalf of the Farmer-Labor party, H. O. Chommie for the Democratic party and Paul Lundgren for the Republican party. Clifford Bouvette of Hallock, chairman of the Ninth District Democratic committee also spoke. Some pointed or heated arguments resulted which was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience and which also proved educational to a large extent. Mr. Demming, the president of the River Valley club, acted as chairman.

OBITUARIES

MRS. ANTON KOZOJED

Mrs. Anton Kozojed, resident of this country for 47 years, will be buried sometime this week at Lankin, N. Dak. Mrs. Kozojed was born Aug. 16, 1870, at Tabor, Bohemia, and died Wednesday, at her home in Silvertown township, in Pennington county, where she had lived for 28 years. She came to America in 1889, and first made her home in Chicago, from there moving to Hillsboro, N. Dak., in 1893, where she was married to Anton Kozojed at Grand Forks in 1894. They made their home on a farm near Cummings, N. Dak., until March of 1908, when the family moved to Silvertown township, where they have lived since.

Surviving Mrs. Kozojed are her husband, Anton, one son, Tone, of Thief River Falls, three daughters, Mrs. Louis Schmich, and Millie Kozojed, both of Chicago, Ill., Mrs. James Stanek of Rosetown, Sask., Canada, one brother Frank of Chicago, and five grandchildren.

MRS. EMMA ENGELSTAD

Funeral services were held Saturday, Sept. 19, in the Landstad Lutheran church at Grygla for Mrs. Emma Engelstad, 33 years a resident of Gatzke, Minn. Mrs. Engelstad was born Dec. 11, 1869, in Tronjhem, Norway, and died Sept. 16, at her home in Gatzke. She came to this country in 1871, where she lived in Kenyon, Fertile, and Beltrami, and in 1903 moved to Gatzke, where she has made her home ever since. In the year 1888 she was married to Christ Engelstad at Fertile.

Preceding her in death are her parents, two sisters, and four brothers. Surviving here are her husband, Christ, four daughters, Mrs. Clara Orwald, Mrs. Mable Tucker, and Mrs. Esther Shipley, all of Grand Forks, and Mrs. Ida Snodgrass, of Brainerd, four sons, Albert of Grand Forks, and Ed, Clifford, and Arnold, all at home, two sisters, Mrs. L. C. Johnson of Warren, and Mrs. Dunlap of Crookston, two brothers, Carl Johnson and Knute Ballie, both of Gatzke, and five grandchildren.

Mrs. Engelstad was connected with the Landstad Lutheran church, and Rev. S. Anderson conducted the services. Interment was at Landstad cemetery in Grygla.

The Experience of Thousands

—G—

Mrs. Isidore St. Pierre, Matapedia, Lagace, P. Q., Can., writes: "I was so sick that I could not even retain food in my stomach. I used four bottles of Kuriko and I am feeling perfectly well now." This is the experience of many thousands of people who have used this valuable herb remedy. It tones the stomach, regulates the bowels, increases the urinary flow, and eliminates injurious waste matter from the system. Do not ask the druggist for it; it can only be obtained from authorized local agents. For information write to Dr. Peter Fahrney & Sons Company, 2501 Washington Blvd., Chicago, Illinois. ad-25

Sale of State Lands

State of Minnesota,
Office of Commissioner of Conservation
St. Paul, Minnesota,
September 5, 1936

Notice is hereby given that on October 13, 1936 at 4:00 P. M. at Thief River Falls, Minn. in the office of the County Auditor, at Pennington County, in the State of Minnesota, I will offer for sale certain unsold state lands and also those state lands which have reverted to the State by reason of the non-payment of interest.

Terms of Sale:

Fifteen per cent of the purchase price is payable to the County Treasurer at the time of sale. The unpaid balance is payable at any time in whole or in part within forty years from the date of sale, interest being at the rate of four per cent per annum, due on June 1st of each year; provided, that the interest can be paid at any time within the interest year without penalty. In effect, this means that the interest money may be paid at any time between June first and May thirty first without penalty.

The appraised value of timber and improvements must be paid in full at the time of sale.

All mineral rights are reserved to the State by the laws of the State.

All lands are sold subject to any and all ditch and road taxes thereon.

Lands on which the interest has become delinquent may be redeemed at any time up to the hour of sale or before resale to an actual purchaser. Lands sold after January 1, 1934, are subject to the provisions of Chapter 39, Laws Extra Session 1933.

No person can purchase more than 320 acres of land, provided, however, that State lands purchased previous to 1905 are not charged against such purchaser.

Agents acting for purchasers must furnish affidavit of authority.

Appraisers' reports showing quality and kind of soil are on file in the office of the Division of Lands and Minerals, 14 State Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Lists giving legal descriptions of lands to be offered may be obtained of the Director of Lands and Minerals, 14 State Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota, and of the County Auditor at the County seat.

E. V. WILLARD,
Commissioner of Conservation

The Capitol News Review

By A. I. HARRIS

The death of Magnus Johnson removes another figure from the ranks of the old pioneers in the liberal movement.....

Magnus was a farmer who saw that farmers, no matter how industrious and efficient, could never get a fair deal so long as the marketing of their products was controlled by gamblers. He entered politics indirectly through the cooperative movement. After he had seen that the cooperative movement alone was powerless without political support, he entered politics, became senator, congressman, and a leading figure in the political life of the Northwest for a decade.

His passing will be mourned by many friends who got to know him intimately and loved his dry, Swedish humor. Political friends and enemies alike knew that Magnus was a fighter.

* * * *

A comparison of the keynotes of the two chief candidates for governor reveals evasion on one hand and frankness on the other.

Martin A. Nelson's keynote consisted chiefly of a series of statements carefully made to mean nothing. He states he is in favor of tax relief, but as to the proposed method of this relief, "the Republican Party has not nor will it express an opinion." He states that he is for economy in government, but he does not say how that economy is to be obtained. He states that he is for more school appropriations and state aid, but he does not explain how he is going to reduce taxes and at the same time have more funds for schools and relief. The only place where he seems at all honest is in his statement that he is ashamed of Minnesota. After all, some people in Minnesota aren't too proud of him, particularly his neighbors who have refused to elect him to any of the several offices for which he has been a perennial candidate.

In contrast, Senator Benson's speech showed definite facts and figures. He took the statements of Martin A. Nelson in regard to state extravagance and flung them back in his teeth, showing first that Mr. Nelson's figures were not taken from any study or understanding of state expenditures and that, second, they were not based on actual payment of taxes. He pointed out that it is the Legislature and not the Administration which makes appropriations, and that if charges of extravagance are true, the responsibility lies with the Republican-controlled Legislature. He also showed that the state government under Governor Olson operated more economically than the state government under the so-called Republican economy-governor, Theodore Crhistianson.

While Mr. Nelson talked in vague generalities, Senator Benson cited specific cases of the accomplishments of the Farmer Labor Party and of proof that the Republicans fought those bills for labor, farmer and the care of the aged which they now say they believe in.

While Nelson refused to be pinned down on taxes, Senator Benson came out flatly against Amendment No. 2, against the sales tax and in favor of higher taxes on incomes in the upper brackets, corporate excess taxes and increase in taxes on inheritance and gifts, gross earnings on railroads and other public utilities etc. This is his program for reducing taxes on homesteads and farms. A sales tax, he said, will increase taxes for farmers and working people while saving the Steel Trust $2,500,000 in taxes annually.

For some reason or another, too the much vaunted Republican machine was unable to fill the high school auditorium in St. Cloud in spite of the fact that Nelson's rally had been advertised for weeks and that it was given on a Saturday night when people could have ample time to drive there Saturday afternoon. About 1500 attended.

Theodore Christianson must have taken a clipping out of the magazine entitled "How to Be a Historian Without any Training". While in Congress he has written a history called "Minnesota: Land of Sky Tinted Waters". It is published by the American Historical Society, Inc., a publishing house that prints "puffer" literature. As a history it "ranks" alongside of J. A. A. Burnquist's history and other political books written to build up a weak man, but as a research document, it is useless.

Try and find Charles E. Lindbergh Sr. in the second volume.

* * * *

Amendment No. 2, the Youngquist Amendment, is revealed as saving $12,250,000 for the rich, according to a study just completed last week.

The mining companies will save $2,500,000; the insurance companies will save $3,750,000; and large corporations such as banks and loan corporations will save $6,000,000.

But poor Mr. Taxpayer in whose interests the Republicans are pretending to present this amendment will have to dig down in their pockets to the tune of this $12,250,000. A sales tax will do the trick.

* * * *

This past week a Benson-for-Governor Veterans' Volunteer committee was formed with Lewis E. ("Scoop") Lohmann, St. Paul Attorney and former state commander of the American Legion and war hero, chairman.

"The purpose of the committee," said Mr. Lohmann, "is to inform the veterans of the state and the citizens as a whole of the qualifications and record of the candidate for Governor. We are definitely pledged to the support of Senator Elmer A. Benson because of his record in the Senate."

* * * *

Although the Republicans talk of extravagance, farm real estate tax es under the Farmer Labor Administration have been reduced 31 per cent. According to reports of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, farm real estate taxes per acre in Minnesota from 1929 to 1934 were:

1929—86c an acre.
1930—87c an acre.
1931—84c an acre.
1932—67c an acre.
1933—67c an acre.
1934—59c an acre.

Senator Benson in his keynote supported the position of the late Governor Olson urging liberals to work for the re-election of President Roosevelt. He pointed out, as did Olson, that a division of votes on the part of liberals will enable a reactionary Republican to win through a minority expression of the voters. It is not a fight between Lemke and Roosevelt, he said, but between Roosevelt and Landon. The most which a large Lemke vote could possibly accomplish, he stated, was a victory for the Republican candidate. This, he added, would be most unfortunate for the entire country from the point of view of those who believe in progress.

* * * *

Congressman Ernest Lundeen, Farmer Labor candidate for United States Senator in his campaign speeches has been laying particular emphasis on the need of neutrality legislation which will effectively keep this country out of any European or other wars. Lundeen strongly opposed the entrance of the United States in the World War.

THE READER'S ROSTRUM

Editor Tri-County Forum:

"A very important program is about to be started for the development of the Red River of the North and Red Lake River. This development is of enormous concern because it also has greater future possibilities if this proposed program can be enlarged so as to include the future development of "Fluid Power". It is estimated that the "Louisville" project could generate 10,000 H. P., alone. Let it not only be a flood control, a reservoir and dredging proposition. If possibly have large enough retaining dams at the headwaters to insure a permanent and abundant water reserve in Red Lake, one of the largest inland water bodies in the States, so that instead of building just small water containing dams it can also be the means of generating power. This, if the urge to electrification means more than merely talk. It would furnish labor, abundant water, cheap power and enhance the future of this district immeasurably. So far the program includes only small water retaining dams only to supply a limited reserve of water. Get busy so as to take advantage of the much more permanent and inclusive plan that would mean so much to this district. It is an opportunity of overwhelming significance."

—Gilbert A. Brattland.

Comment on Christianson's Speech at Erskine, September 17th

Hon. Theodore Christianson's speech was a very able and correct criticism of the inconsistencies, wastefulness and insincerity of the present Democratic administration, but he failed to criticise the absurd system of financing the governmental activities, under the imbecile Federal Reserve System, which amounts to making a present of billions of U. S. interest-bearing, tax-free bonds to a privately owned banking system. Congress authorized the president to issue three billions of greenbacks, but not a single dollar thereof has been issued.

Just how anyone can expect prosperity to return while the credit of our government is given away to private corporations is more than I can understand, although I can see why Mr. Christianson omitted any criticism of this. It was likely because, even though this system was inaugurated by the Wilson administration, yet each and every Republican administration since has continued the same, and the platforms of both old parties are silent on any proposition to return the constitutional duty of issuing money to Congress.

The Farmer-Labor Party and Union Party are the only ones whose platforms propose to put an end to this nefarious system, and therefore I trust all reformers will vote for Lemke, Union Party presidential candidate, and Lundeen for U. S. Senator and Buckler and all other Farmer-Labor candidates for Congress so we can save the people from interest slavery.

Farmer-Labor Candidate For

U. S. Senator

And His Splendid Record of Service in the People's Interest

Ernest Lundeen

Served two terms in the Minnesota House of Representatives 1910-1912 distinguishing himself as champion of progressive legislation beginning his career as an insurgent and liberal.

Elected to Congress from the fifth district in 1917 and gained renown as one of the few that voted against war, conscription, against foreign loans and against the espionage laws.

He is a veteran of the Spanish-American War and has fought for better clothes, food, shelter and hospitalization for American soldiers.

He was re-elected to the United States Congress in 1932 in the at-large election polling 350,465 votes.

Re-elected to congress from the Third District in 1934 polling 7,272 votes more than the combined vote of his three opponents and had the largest majority received by any Minnesota congressman.

Prior to his election to Congress in 1932 he travelled in Europe studying social security legislation in England, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Germany and Soviet Russia. After his election he introduced H. R. 7598, the Lundeen Unemployment, old age, and social security Bill.

Re-introduced his Bill in the next session of Congress as H. R. 2827 and secured its approval by the House Labor Committee.

In collaboration with Senator Frazier of North Dakota, he introduced the first of this year H. R. 9680 the most comprehensive Social Security Bill known as the Frazier Lundeen Bill.

He has supported all progressive farm legislation including the Frazier-Lemke Farm Re-financing Bill.

He is a true friend and champion of the farmer, the laborer, the war veterans and youth.

"We've all been long on eavesdropping," he added, quickly. "Old Ridder, your father—"

"We've all had good reason."

She was standing beside the long table.

"You asked if it mattered to me," she said. "Don't you know?"

"Why should it matter?"

"Don't you know that?"

"We've been good pals—" he began.

She was staring at him fixedly.

"Don't talk nonsense," she commanded.

Barry sat next to her.

"Listen," he said. "You're a lady—"

She laid her hand on his arm.

"I've only one question to ask," she declared, "and I count on your answering that honestly."

"You can."

"You said—to Ridder—'I stayed, at first, because I was nuts about a girl.'"

"Yes."

"Was that true?"

"Yes."

"Who was she?"

"I told you a month ago."

"Under considerable stress. And you never repeated it. Are you still nuts about her?"

She used the absurd colloquialism as gravely as though it were Shakespearian English.

An invisible hand clutched at Barry's throat.

There was a lump there—something that had to be swallowed immediately. He felt an hysterical desire to laugh, or to cry. Then, "We won't talk about that now," he said, calmly.

"Why not?"

He couldn't answer.

"Was that pretense, too?"

Suddenly, he couldn't bear it.

"You know damned well it wasn't," he burst forth, inexcusably. "You know exactly how I feel. You've always known. Everybody's always known everything about me, it seems. I'm as much a failure at faking as I am at everything else. What's the sense of discussing it now?"

Then, Pat Said, "I Love You."

"This may be our last chance to discuss it."

They were both standing. Looking straight at each other.

Then, Pat said, "I love you."

"For God's sake—listen—I'm the son of a ne'er-do-well."

"I love you."

"I'm a bum and a vagabond."

"I love you."

"Before night, I'll be a jail-bird."

"I love you."

"Pat—"

"I'll wait for you," Pat said. "And then we'll both start fresh."

She was smiling now.

"Will you marry me, Mr. Gilbert?"

For answer, he caught her up in his arms.

He was still holding her when the old man came through the door.

"Will you step in here, please?" the old man asked, as unemotionally as though he had seen people embracing one another in this board room every day of his life.

Without replying, Barry released Pat.

Then he pressed her shoulder, reassuringly, and followed Ridder.

At the big desk, Mrs. Ridder was standing. He recognized her at once, though she was younger—and prettier—than he had expected. "Forty." Barry guessed, glancing at her wavy, dark hair, and then realized that she must be more than that. She looked very much like her son, Barry thought. Curious. That was the stronger strain, then, even though she seemed as soft and gentle as her husband was hard and domineering.

She was a small woman, with plump arms and tiny wrists and ankles. She had large, brown eyes, with shadows under them. They had shown suffering, those eyes, though they were bright enough now. "Snappy," Barry described them.

"My wife," Ridder nodded toward her, curtly.

She came forward, her hand extended to Barry.

"I want to think you," she said, quietly.

Before Barry could answer, Ridder asked, "Why didn't you tell me you'd left all this at Southampton?"

"All what?"

"Your accounts," Mrs. Ridder explained. "Evans gave them to me this morning, but I didn't open the envelope until just now. Then I brought it straight to Mr. Ridder."

"What's this mummery about paying your board? . . . Come in, Miss Hambidge."

Miss Hambidge was "in."

"'Mummery?'"

"Play acting," Ridder snapped. "I observed that you'd feathered your nest. I was wrong. Why didn't you say so?"

"I did."

The old man was looking at Barry's check.

"Can you write?" he asked.

"I don't know."

"Harwood thinks you can. He just left here. He says you earned what we paid you. Well, you'd better go on earning it."

"You mean I'm hired—"

"Hired?" Ridder repeated. "You were hired two months ago. Who ever fired you?"

There didn't seem to be any answer to that.

"Mr. Ridder wants you to work with Jack," Mrs. Ridder remarked. "Keep an eye on him."

"You're going to take Jack—"

"We're taking him home tonight. And Peggy. We hope you'll come out sometimes."

"I want Jack to carry on," Ridder declared, "when I'm through."

He was back at his desk now, and he looked up, almost smiling.

"You said I was a tough bird," he told Barry. "I heard you. Don't apologize. The world needs tough birds. You don't win battles with pigeons. Somebody's got to do a little clear thinking. Somebody's got to know what he's about. We're a soft race. Coddled. Self-indulgent. We need hard going and discipline."

His voice was crisp and sure.

"What's the matter with this young generation? It's fathers had too much money. I was a tough bird because I knew the fight Jack had made, and I didn't help him. I'd tried that, hadn't I? The other way was my only chance to make a man of my son."

There was no lack of emotion in his tone now.

"And you. How did I know you weren't just a cheap swindler? By listening to a lot of warm-hearted generalities? How did I know you weren't a blackmailer—until I saw you were going to give yourself up without squealing?"

"Then you were play-acting?"

"Not on your life. I was watching you like a hawk, but there was a cop out there, and I thought you had a date with him, until I saw your face when I asked you why you sent that wireless to Mrs. Ridder."

Again, he almost smiled.

"There was a cop waiting behind that door, and a girl behind that one. A nice girl. I had to be sure I wasn't messing things up for her."

He glanced at his watch.

"Four o'clock. You people have got to get out of here. I can't spend the day being a sentimental idiot."

"You're neither," Mrs. Ridder said.

"Neither what?"

"Neither sentimetal nor an idiot. You're a 'tough bird,' but I like 'em that way."

She was holding on to his arm when Barry closed the big door behind them.

Barry thought she was crying.

"She is my mother, after all!" Barry thought. "She's all the mother I ever had."

He told Winslow most of it, late that same afternoon.

Peter sat at his desk, looking restless and tired, but happier than he had seemed in some time.

"Pat said she was going to propose to you," he smiled. "Meant it, too; we knew that. Women are funny. Snooted you while things were going right, didn't she?"

Barry laughed.

"I was coming back for her when I got out of jail."

"Your dope on the old man was all wrong," Winslow commented. "He has been cold and hungry. Trucked on a dock once. And as to being 'nuts about anybody,' can't you see that's why he went into reverse when the boy disappointed him?"

He opened the right top drawer of his desk, probing its inscrutable jumble for something to play with.

"You had a close call, though. Ridder knew what he owed you. People forgive what you do to them, but rarely what you do for them."

"You've done an awful lot for me, all right."

"Nonsense!"

The top drawer hadn't yielded anything promising and Peter picked up his little red magnet.

"It's all ended well," he remarked; "even for Luis Morano. He cheated the chair, and that's what he wanted to do."

"I thought you were so sure of his innocence."

Plummer School Notes

Friday's assembly period was given over to the organization of classes. Each class met with the class advisor and formally organized.

In some cases a class motto, class colors, and a class flower were also officially adopted. The class reporter was either appointed by the president or elected by the members of the class. The result of the class elections follow:

Senior Class— president, Roy Hayden; vice-pres., June Norby; sec., Mae Wickstrom; treas., Ina Rose; class reporter, Jack Ripple; advisor, Miss Albrecht; colors, Red and White; flower, American beauty rose.

Junior Class—pres. Gordon Langlie; vice pres., Barbara Gilbertson; treas., Marie Enderle; sec., Margaret Saum; advisor, Miss Burke; class colors, black and silver.

Eighth Grade—pres., Clarence LaVoi; vice pres., Mavis Richards; treas., Virginia Anderson; sec., Lavern Havlik; class advisor, Mr. Ripple; reporter, Marjorie Thornton.

Seventh Grade—pres., Clarice Medchill; vice pres., Lorraine Lemieux; treas., Tom Mack; sec., Esther Hyri; reporter, Bernice Nerva; advisor, Mr. Ohnstad.

The enrollment has increased somewhat during the week. New students are entering and former returning as soon as home and farm affairs permit.

Miss Burke, who has now had more of an opportunity to test the voices of those enrolled in the glee club, is well pleased with them and expects to make the girls glee club one of the outstanding organizations of the school.

Mr. Jaspers has also expressed himself as well pleased with the efforts and attitude of the members of the basket ball and looks forward to the opening of the fall practice with the keenest of anticipations.

Class activities are also under way. Several have already been formally mapped out for the year. Several organizations are already functioning and more will be by the end of this week. Girls from the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades plan a camera craft club with Mr. Adrian in charge, while the boys of these same grades will engage in a variety of activities with Mr. Ohnstad as leader.

A representative of the Josten Manufacturing Co. met with the seniors last week and explained how his company manufactured its rings and pins. The senior class placed an order with him for rings. The order will be formally confirmed this week by mail.

The band has had several rehearsals and is taking up where it left off last year. All old members are getting into condition fast and giving much encouragement to the new ones that are just beginning.

Vern Thibert, Jeanne Pahlen, and Ilene Peterson are taking individual instruction from Mr. Ohnstad after school hours and are progressing very well.

James Mack, who played a cornet last year, has ordered a new horn.

Notices for the organization meeting of the Plummer PTA were sent out this week. It is planned to get organized and functioning as soon as possible so that no meeting need be postponed or omitted. The teachers will provide both the program and the refreshments for the first meeting. They solicit the active support of all parents and patrons in order that this organisation may function efficiently and well and further the interests of the home, community, and school.

GOSPEL TABERNACLE
E. N. Daley, Pastor

The four week Revival at the Gospel Tabernacle conducted by the Accordian Gospel team of Des Moines, Iowa, came to a close last Sunday night with a record crowd in attendance. All seats were taken early and many were unable to get inside the building. At the close of the message, three responded to the invitation given and personally accepted Christ, making the total conversions thirty besides the healing of sick bodies and the consecration and strengthening of many Christians.

The afternoon service was of interest of bless to all. At its close, hundreds of people gathered at the City Park to witness the Baptismal service where a number of people followed their Lord in Baptism. Many congregations were represented by Pastors and people as well as nearby towns.

It was with regret that we saw the Accordian Gospel team leave us but we are consoled with their promise to return at some future date.

Services at the Tabernacle continue each Wednesday and Friday nights.

eral and humane, or a National Administratiin whose outlook is reactionary and cruel. Even the most ardent supporter of Mr. Lemke must admit that a large Lemke vote could only deliver this country over to Landon."

Declaring that his Republican opponent talks of economy but refuses to say how he will effect economy, and charging that he is secretly supporting the sales tax which he refuses to disclose to the voters, Senator Benson said;

"The home owner and farmer today bear a tax burden altogether too heavy and unjust.

Prowlers Win Opener From Red Lake Falls

the 15 yard line, Martell, the Red Lake Falls right halfback, proved himself a real hero by picking up a fumble and squirming around left end for a touchdown. The local boys were held scoreless in this quarter, so the score stood Thief River Falls 19, Red Lake Falls 6, at the half time.

The opening of the third quarter found the regulars back in the Prowler line-up. While fumbles and penalties kept the Prowlers back, they showed strength at this time in stopping their opponents from nearing their goal line. Some snappy lateral passes and a 76-yard run by Nesse added two more touchdowns to make the score 33 to 6 before the substitutes were sent in at the opening of the fourth quarter.

The Red Lake Falls team showed up well in the last quarter, making several long passes and end runs. A penalty at one time and a fumble at another put them back so that they failed to score.

Among the numerous substitutes Coach Lee used were: Mickelson, Lunke, Mattson, Michalsky, Johnson ,Caldis, Oleson, L. Nesse, J. Stadum, Eide and Booren. The Red Lake Falls substitutes sent in by Coach Munson were: Baudry and LaChance.

The touchdowns were scored by the following: Capt. Nesse 3. Hill 1, and Dicken 1, Martell 1. Adkins scored two points on placekicks and Nesse scored an extra point after touchdown by a line plunge.

Next Friday evening the Prowlers will go to Crookston where they will meet the Pirates under the floodlights there. This is expected to be a tough battle though local fans expect a victory for the local boys. The T. R. F. second team will journey to Fosston Saturday for a game with the high school team there. Little is known here of the Fosston gridders.

The Prowler-Red Lake Falls line-up follows:

T. R. Falls		R. L. Falls
Lorentson	L. E.	Gullickson
Stadum	L. T.	Columbus

WOMEN'S VOTE FOR NEW FASHION SWEEPS THE WHOLE COUNTRY

It looks like a "landslide" for the new cosmetic fashion inspired by Adrienne Livingston of New York!

Miss Livingston created Adrienne Scientifically Harmonized Cosmetics in response to a definite need of smart women for cosmetics that would really blend with each other, with the complexion, with the costume.

Miss Livingston well knew that with the antiquated make-up of yesterday, there was no hope, however ravishing a costume ensemble, of attaining "harmony from head to toe."

So she was inspired with this new fashion idea . . . cosmetics scientifically harmonized to eliminate error—to build a complete beauty ensemble.

But even Adrienne herself is amazed at the instantaneous, overwhelming success of her cosmetic ensembles.

Overnight the vogue for Adrienne Scientifically Harmonized Cosmetics has taken the country by storm.

Everywhere women are asking each other not "Have you tried Adrienne Cosmetics?", but "Which Adrienne Ensemble are you wearing?"

Right there is the keynote of this new mode's popularity. Your own Adrienne Cosmetic Ensemble is scientifically blended for your special type. You choose each Cream, Lotion, Powder, Make-up Aid and Bath Accessory so that all will work together in harmony to give you new charm.

Once you've used your own Adrienne Ensemble, you'll never again be satisfied with anything less than the perfect harmony it gives you.

Each Adrienne Cosmetic was perfected by leading scientists to eliminate any flaws . . . tested by 291 women in actual use . . . and then dressed in packages styled by the famous designer Gustav Jensen.

In this full perfection, Adrienne Scientifically Harmonized Cosmetics were ready for American women.

Then Adrienne wondered how she might reach the women for whom she had created her cosmetics . . . smart women in towns and rural communities as well as in cities. And where she might be assured that volume production would be great enough to make prices right.

Rexall Stores! The Rexall guarantee of tested quality fitted her cosmetics exactly. Distribution through 8,000 stores would keep prices within reach of every purse . . . because in Rexall Drug Stores there are no in-between profits to boost prices.

And so it is that Adrienne Scientifically Harmonized Cosmetics took their place among other world-famous Rexall Products.

Here in ———, they are exclusive with ———, your Rexall Drug Store. Select your own Adrienne Ensemble there today!

states the Red Cross aided 145,000 families, giving food, clothing, shelter, medical aid, and rebuilding and repairing homes. The public contributed a Red Cross relief fund of $7,800,000 to aid the disaster victims. According to Fred Protz, chapter treasurer, the local unit gave over $120.00. Last year Red Cross Public Health nurses made 1,000,000 visits to the sick, Over 80,000 were instructed in Life Saving. Mr. Wardley congratulated the local chapter for the fine Swimming and Life Saving program that was carried on in Thief River Falls during the last year.

Plans Highway First Aid Program

Recognizing the enormous death rate occurring each year as a result of accidents on the highways, the Pennington County chapter has decided to participate in a nationwide program recently inaugurated by the American Red Cross. Steps to that end were taken at the meeting of the officers yesterday when the complete Highway First Aid program was presented by Mr. Wardley, national field representative.

"The immediate treatment of those injured on the highways is one of the chief needs to eliminate many deaths from automobile accidents," Mr. Wardley said. "We haye found the chief danger spots to be rural rather than urban areas, and our first aid stations on the highway from one side of the nation to the other is our first solution to the problem."

Dr. C. M. Adkins was appointed by the local chapter as chairman of the highway first aid program. He will be in charge of the training of the personnel at the various stations selected. Two people at each station selected are required to take a fifteen hour course with the physician in first aid. This requirement must be passed before supplies are sent to the station.

Location of stations may be at the following points: Fire Station, St. Hilaire, Goodridge and the Sanitorium crossing.

music and songs is played for five minutes, the director briefly outlines the purpose of the caravan, introduces the speakers who give brief talks on their own phases of the campaign and then the director gives a five-minute address on the Roosevelt Administration, its aims and accomplishments. Qauntities of literature and buttons are then distributed and the caravan is on its way.

The itinerary of the Roosevelt Caravan is arranged so that programs not longer than 25 minutes are given in each town and there is an average 15-minute run between towns. The caravan is on the road from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. and makes an average of 12 stops a day until October 31, the Saturday before election. The last two and one-half days of the campaign it will be in Saint Paul and Minneapolis.

Included in literature distributed by the Caravan are leaflets and folders dealing with the following subjects: "Keep Prosperity and Roosevelt", "Your Electric Bill in 1936", "Keep Farm Recovery and Roosevelt", "Through Tariff Walls—Re-elect Roosevelt and Restore Trade", Look Ahead with Roosevelt", "Let's Look at the Record", "Roosevelt or Reaction?—Wage Earners, Your Vote is Your Answer", "Farmers Make Your Choice—Republicans Failed the Farmer,"

Warren Man Addresses GOP; Dinner Is Planned

Oscar Knutson of Warren addressed the Young Republican club at the local Commercial Club rooms Friday evening. There were also short talks by Marius Waldal of Plummer and Glen Anderson of our city. Refreshments in the form of cake and coffee, were served at the close. Lester Ihle, chairman of the club, presided.

On Friday evening next week, Oct. 8th, the local Young Republican club plans a dinner and meeting to which have been invited the Young Republicans of Kittson, Marshall, Red Lake and Polk counties. State Senator Steining of Moorhead. Those interested in attending should get in touch with Mr. Ihle, or Richard Mabey, the secretary.

Two-Day Anti-Saloon Convention Arranged

That the fight against liquor is being speeded up is indicated by the announcement that arrangements have just been made between local pastors and the Anti-Saloon League of Minnesota by which Thief River Falls is to have one of a dozen two-day conference conventions now being held by the State Dry organization in strategic centers. The dates are Sunday and Monday, October 11 and 12.

Dr. R. N. Holsaple, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, was here a few days ago and met with the pastors regarding the set up. The program which is an intensive one will consist of meetings addressed by outside speakers in six churches and community mass meeting at the city auditorium Sunday evening, Oct. 12th.

Monday's program will consist of a pastors' conference in the forenoon, a business and professional people's luncheon at the Civic and Commerce Association rooms at noon and a convention session in the afternoon. Speakers will address the various meetings.

Three Will Seek County Office On Stickers

Sticker candidates may be more numerous in the election in Pennington county this fall than most voters may expect. To date, three have signified their intentions to pass out stickers among their friends for the office of county commissioner.

I. H. Iverson, in the Fifth District, announced his candidacy a month ago and may go to a finish in the race in that district.

Christ Engen and Chris Norbeck, both well known residents of the rural vicinity of Thief River Falls, have announced their intentions to seek the commissioner's job in the First District via the sticker method. They are prominent farmers and will make an interesting race with the present incumbent, Mr. Mandt, who is seeking re-election.

As the state law prohibits the filing of new names after the primaries the only means by which these candidates can be elected is by writing in their names on the ballot.

DIST. CONFERENCE OF PTA HELD AT ST. HILAIRE FRIDAY

Prof. Morris Bye Gives The Main Speech at Evening Banquet; Mrs. Norby Presides

The Sixteenth District Minnesota Congress of Parents and Teachers held a conference Friday, Sept. 25, in the high school auditorium at St. Hilaire. The theme of the conference was "Character Education" and Mrs. Lee Beebe was general chairman.

The general session began at 9:30 in the morning, with Mrs. B. O. Norby, of Thief River Falls, presiding. Featured on the morning program was an address of welcome by Supt. M. R. Graham of St. Hilaire, and discussions of the P. T. A. work by Mrs Jones, third vice-pres of the M. C. P. T., and Mrs Lathers, president of the organization.

At noon a luncheon was served at the Norwegian Lutheran church and at 1:45 the conference again convened, with Mrs Janda, pres. of the St. Hilaire P. T. A. presiding. Miss Esther McGinnis of the Child Welfare Department, gave a discussion about her work, and County Supt. Sorvig of Crookston gave an address on the subject "The Last Frontier." Mrs. Hazel Halgrim talked on the subject of Rural Library Service, Mrs. A. L. Lathers gave a discussion, Mrs. Pearl Cummings of the University of Minnesota gave a talk, and Mrs. Lathers and Mrs. Jones conducted the "Question Box." At 4 o'clock tea was served by the St. Hilaire Parent-Teachers group and at 6;30 an excellent dinner was served in the parlors of the Norwegian Lutheran church.

Supt. Graham presided at the evening session, which began at 7:30. The address of the evening was given by Supt. Morris Bye, of this city.

The musical program of the day included several numbers, as follows: community singing, music by the Primary and Intermediate grades of St. Hilaire, selections by the St. Hilaire glee club, a piano solo by Mrs. Cassie M. Harrison, a piano solo by Miss Maxine Ekule, selection by the reed quartet, a band concert by the St. Hilaire band, a cornet solo by Miss LaVaughn Skatrud of Argyle, a saxaphone solo by Miss Joyce Heglund, selections by the Hazel Mens' Chorus, selections by the Mother's Singers of Thief River Falls, and a vocal selection by the Misses Haugen and Anderson of McIntosh, who took Ms. C. M. Ostby's place in the program.

CCC Member Is Held For Grand Larceny

Maurice French, a member of the CCC camp at Middle River, was taken into custody by the Chief of Police in our city Monday. The young man was taken on the charge of grand larceny. He was bound over to the district court, and may receive a hearing at the pending term.

Young Mr. French, whose home is at Park Rapids, is charged with stealing overcoats, sweaters, and jackets, samples from a salesman's car parked in front of the local post office the night of Aug. 5th. Part of the lot has been recovered. Local authorities expect that he will plead guilty and be sentenced sometime this week.

NORSE VIOLIN PLAYERS MEET HERE OCT. 16-17

B. Bjornaraa In Charge Of First Event Of Its Kind Held Locally

People From Many Distant Points Expected

Competition Will Be Held In Three Violin Classes And Dancing

On Friday and Saturday, Oct. 16-17, Thief River Falls will be host to the Hardinger Violinist association of America (Spillemand's Laget). This is an annual event and Norwegian violinists from every section of the country are expected here to participate.

Preparations are already under way and B. Bjornaraa, the association's secretary, is working in conjunction with local civic groups in staging an excellent event.

Norse players on the specially made Hardanger violin will be here from many remote points, says Mr. Bjornaraa. It is a national convention which in previous years met at such cities at Minneapolis, Chicago, Fargo, Grand Forks, and Duluth. The organization has existed for over 25 years. Its biggest convention was in Minneapolis in 1925 when the group sponsored the contest at the Norwegian-American Centennial.

There are contests in three classes, and the winners of previous years are expected here if their health permits. There will be contests also in the various Norse dances. While the program is as yet indefinite, Mr. Bjornaraa expects many prominent speakers here for the two-day event.

FORGET-ME-NOTS TO BE SOLD HERE SATURDAY

The local Legion Auxiliary is sponsoring the Forget-Me-Not sale in the city Saturday. Mrs. Oscar Cerny is chairman of the sale and will be assisted by Auxiliary members. All proceeds are used for welfare work exclusively. The little blue forget-me-not is worn Saturday in memory of Argonne Day.

JR. CIVIC AND COMMERCE GROUP JOINS STATE ASS'N.

The local Junior Civic and Commerce association held its meeting Thursday evening in the Civic and Commerce rooms in the city auditorium. At 6:30 a fine banquet was served by Al's Coffee Shop. Immediately afterwards, the business of the evening was taken up. Chester Myrom, president of the local organization, was toastmaster of the evening.

The meeting was held for the purpose of considering joining the state Junior Civic and Commerce association. The proposition was carefully discussed and following this a motion carried almost unanimously. The local organization thus becomes affiliated with seventeen similar cities in the various parts of the state, all forming one state young businessmen's association.

Among those present from other cities were Eddie Stockinger, president of the State Junior Civic and Commerce association, Joe Ryan, Arthur Fark, and Dr. Papenfuss, all of St. Cloud. Gorman Thompson of this city introduced Mr. Stockinger, who gave a talk outlining the functions of the State Junior Civic and Commerce association. He pointed out the accomplishments of the organization as a unit, and then presented to Chester Myrom, the state charter, which makes this association a member of the state organization.

Francis Schroeder of Detroit Lakes, who is on the board of directors of the national organizaotin, discussed the functions of the national organization as a unit.

Al Cloutier made a report on the activities of the baseball committee and plans were discussed for a banquet to be held for the ball club. Andy Cohen, who is a member of the Minneapolis ball club, has been asked to speak at the banquet. No definite date has been set as yet, but it is thought that it will be about the 15th of this month.

It is estimated that 100 members attended the meeting, besides the delegation from other cities.

Pyrofax Cooking School Postponed One Week

Word was received just before the Forum goes to press that the Pyrofax Cooking School to be sponsored here by the Oen's Department store, has been postponed one week.

The original dates were Oct. 13 and 14, so the new dates will be a week later. The delay is due to an unexpected call for Mrs. Edna Clemenson, the lady to be in charge to attend a demonstrator's convention at Cleveland, Ohio, next week.

Women's FL Club Honors Two Women Speakers

A banquet was held in honor of Mrs. Marian LeSueur and Mrs. Chas. Lundquist by the Pennington County Women's Farmer-Labor club at Sorensen's cafe, Sunday evening. Mrs. LeSueur and Mrs. Lundquist are making a tour of the state in the interest of women voters. They had spoken at the rally held here earlier in the day.

The banquet was attended by eighty men and women, several of whom were from neighboring counties. Mrs. M. A. Brattland was the toastmistress and more than a half dozen present responded with talks. Among these were: Mrs. Lundquist, Mrs. LeSueur, Cong. Buckler, Walter E. Day, Judge Brattland, Olaf Neset, Harold Hagen and wife, and others. The banquet began at eight o'clock and adjourned at ten-thirty.

Local Group Presents Program at Smiley Hall

The Smiley Community Club held a meeting Friday night in the Smiley hall. A group of Jr. C. & C. men from this city presented the program at the gathering. The program consisted of the following: three numbers by the Land O'Lakes quartet, which is composed of the Messrs. C. W. Sande, C. A. VeVea, Carl Brahs, and Douglas Booren; a chalk-talk by Mr. VeVea; speech by Chester Myrom on "The Importance of the Country People to the City People, and Vice Versa"; several selections by the Thief River Falls German band, and a piano solo by Mr. Harrison, teacher at the local high school. Lincoln Arnold of this city was master of ceremonies. At the close of the evening a delicious lunch was served by the Freeman Allen, Martha Lokken, A. Ness, and Adam Lindebijo families of Smiley.

EAST SIDERS PLAY FRIDAY

Prowlers Win Easy 15 to 0 Victory Over Pirates at Crookston Friday Evening

The East Grand Forks high school football team will play the Prowlers at Lincoln field here Friday evening. The game promises to be one of the best on the local gridiron this year as both teams aspire to be the champions of north western Minnesota this fall.

The East Siders called the Little Green Wave, is an uncertain quantity this year. They put up a stellar game against Fargo, losing 7 to 0, but the following week lost a ragged contest to Bemidji. As Crookston and Red Lake Falls have been defeated by the Prowlers and Warren in turn defeated by Red Lake Falls the northwest title may be decided here Friday evening. Coach Lee is not so certain of his boys but local fans see a victory for the Prowlers.

Last Friday night the Thief River Falls Prowlers crashed through the Crookston Pirates to their second victory of the annual football season. When the final whistle had blown the score stood at 15-0 with the local gridders out in front.

There was no scoring in the first half, although the Prowlers threatened three times. After advancing to within the 20-yard line the ball went to Crookston twice on downs and once by a fumble. The only time the Pirates had a chance to do any offensive work was late in the last quarter when they made their only bid to score. Panzer intercepted one of Hill's passes and ran 20 yards before he was downed on his own 25-yard stripe. Then with the assistance of a 15-yard penalty on the Prowlers the ball was advanced to the 10 yard marker. From there the Pirates gained two

MUCH POLITICS FROM ALL SIDES ABOUNDS HERE

Farmer-Laborites, Democrats and Republicans Explain Their Issues

Shoemaker, Youngdahl Spoke Tuesday Eve.

Democrats Urge Support of Roosevelt and F.-L. State Ticket

Political meetings galore have been held at this point the past week, and, judging from this, Thief River Falls and the immediate vicinity seems to be the battleground of Minnesota for the 1936 state election.

The Roosevelt Caravan or "sound wagon" was here Saturday evening, the Farmer Labor women's cavalcade and rally Sunday and on Tuesday evening two gatherings one by F. H. Shoemaker, former congressman, who spoke on the street corner near the postoffice for the Farmer Labor ticket. The other meeting was at the city auditorium where Mr. Youngrahl, the Republican candidate for attorney general, addressed an audience of 200. A crowd of about twice that size heard Mr. Shoemaker near the postoffice.

Mr. Shoemaker charged the Ted Christianson administration in Minnesota with wild securities speculation and recounted that millions of dollars were lost by honest Minnesotans because of poor management by the securities commission. He also paid tribute to the memory of the late Gov. Olson and Magnus Johnson.

Mr. Youngdahl charged the Farmer Laborite administration with misconduct in office, high taxes and failure to maintain law and order. He asserted the Supt. of Public instruction had obtained radical outside assistants in the direction of school affairs in the state.

The Roosevelt Caravan, which was here Saturday evening, spoke in favor of the present administration, telling of the numerous ways in which it had been of immense help to the common people.

Bert Merling, the national Democratic committeeman from Illinois, spoke at a fair sized crowd on the streets here Wednesday evening. He urged that there be no splitting of the liberal vote at this election. The issue, he stated, was one of reaction against liberalism and that such liberals as LaFollettes, Roosevelt and the late Gov. Olson were all of the same liberal mind; it is dictatorship against a progressive government. He urged the people to support the state Farmer-Labor ticket in Minnesota.

S. V .Arneson Is Buried At Barrett

The sad message was received here Tuesday which told of the death that day of S. V. Arneson, formerly of this city, who passed away suddenly at Great Falls, Mont.

Mr. Arneson was city editor of the Tribune in our city for several years before this was taken over by the Times a number of years ago. He worked as a printer at various other points previously. In 1928 he and his family went to Great Falls where he had resided since.

He was born at Barrett, this state, 44 years ago. He enlisted in the army in the World War and at the conclusion was honorably discharged. He posed as the model for the famous sculptor, Joe Davidson, when the latter designed the statue "The American Doughboy", now found at the nation's capitol.

The body was shipped to Barrett, near Elbow Lake, where funeral services and burial are being conducted today.

He is survived by his widow and two sons, four brothers and two sisters. The brothers and sisters are: L. G. and J. S. Arneson of St. Paul, Fritjof of New York City, Arthur of Grand Forks, Mrs. L. H. Larson of our city, and Mrs. G. F. Hendrickson of Hettinger, N. Dak.

His demise is mourned here by a large circle of friends who prized his friendship very highly.

CCC Boys Will Be Enrolled Next Monday

Enrollment of CCC members from Pennington county will be made at the courthouse next Monday, October 5th, according to L. G. Larson, who has charge of the enrollment here. These instructions were received Tuesday from the state headquarters of the CCC in St. Paul.

Any young man who qualifies to the usual requirements and wishes to join must make a preliminary report before the day of enrollment. These young men are therefore urged to speed the return of these earlier reports. There is no fixed quota for Pennington county so it is assumed all who can qualify will be enrolled.

Mr. Larson states that it is necessary that parents or guardians of the applicant sign the preliminary blanks. The length of enrollment is six months.

CHILDREN'S CLINIC WILL BE HELD HERE ALL DAY SATURDAY

Orthopedic Advice Will Be Given Children At Examination At High School Building

Physically handicapped children of Pennington and surrounding counties will have an opportunity to receive medical examinations and vocational advice at an orthopedic clinic, to be held Saturday, October 3, in Thief River Falls. The clinic will be in the high school from 8:30 to 4 p. m. Mrs. Clara Paulson is in charge of local arrangements.

The clinic will be open to the physically handicapped under 21 years of age from Pennington, Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Red Lake and Lake of the Woods counties. This is one of a series of such clinics being held throughout the state this fall as part of the Social Security program conducted by the Division of Services for Crippled Children, State Board of Control, with the Minnesota Public Health Association co-operating. Dr. H. E. Hilleboe is director of the Division.

In addition to medical examinations by physicians, who specialize in the diagnosis and treatment of deformities, those attending the clinic will also be given vocational advice provided through the Division of Re-Education, Minnesota Department of Education.

Services will include consultation with the family physician, advice on hospitalization when it is needed, and arrangements for transportation to school of children unable to walk.

Follow-up of cases needing attention will be carried on after the clinic by the nursing staff of the Division of Services for Crippled Children.

Miss Elizabeth Goodrich, field nurse for the Division, has charge of preliminary and follow-up work for the clinic. Miss Mabel Johnson, Christmas Seal nurse of the Minnesota Public Health Association, is also assisting in arranging for the clinic.

Mrs. Clara Paulson, the local school nurse, is acting as chairman. Several organizations will give their assistance to this worthy cause, among them the Women's Club, and the City Dairy, which will donate milk for lunch for the children who attend the clinic. Other local organizations participating will be mentioned later. Dr. Meyerding of Rochester will be the clinic doctor.

Grand Forks Shriners Are Feted Monday

The Kem Temple band of the Mystic Shrine of Grand Forks paraded on our streets and gave a drill team demonstration at the intersection of LaBree and North Third streets Monday evening at about supper time. The Kem Temple band of thirty pieces and the drill team of nineteen members participated. In the march thru the streets the local Shrine members, headed by Paul Lundgren and Frank Rinkel, promenaded ahead of the Grand Forks groups.

Following this the entire procession went to the banquet room of the Evelyn Hotel where the visitors were entertained by the local lodge at an excellent repast at which an informal program was rendered.

FARMER-LABOR MEETING DRAWS CROWD OF 2000

Lundeen, Lindsten, Marian LeSueur and Mrs. Lundquist Speak

Senatorial Candidate Indicates His Stand

Good-Sized Crowd Listens To Sessions at Heinze's Grove on Sunday

Regardless of the fact that Sunday afternoon loomed cloudy and chilly, about two thousand people gathered at the Farmer Labor rally at Heinze's Grove adjoining Thief River Falls to the south. It is stated that about another thousand people were kept from attending because of the first real chilly weather of this fall.

The meeting brought to Pennington county an exceptional fine corps of speakers in the persons of Ernest Lundeen, candidate for U. S. senator, G. F. Lindsten, candidate for lieutenant governor, and Dr. Paul Hartig, candidate for secretary of state. Added to these were the two ladies, Mrs. Arthur LeSueur and Mrs. Chas. Lundquist, who constitute the Farmer Labor Women's Cavalcade, which is in this district organizing the F-L women for the fall election.

Congressman Lundeen delivered a very effective address indeed. He dealt very directly with the economic questions which he stated constituted the real issues of this campaign. He dealt with realities of our every day affairs, which the audience was made to understand were not mere generalities and platitudes, as Cong. Lundeen said was the practise of the opposition.

Mr. Lundeen has ability and deals with facts, and above all is in earnest. Every listener felt the impulse of his sincere character dealing with the political questions from the standpoint of the common man. It was an inspiring talk, and stirred action. Mr. Lundeen demonstrated clearly that he is a worthy successor of our great leader, Floyd B. Olson, as the candidate for United States Senator. If he is elected, Minnesota will have a spokesman in the Senate of whom the people can be proud.

Mr. Lundeen struck a very responsive chord with his audience when he referred to his position in Congress on the question of war, and declared that if the proposal is again made to send our boys to foreign shores to safeguard the interests of the International bankers, that he will vote NO. In speaking of his support of the Frazier-Lemke bill to refinance farm mortgages at a low rate of interest, he urged at least as low rates as the former national republican administrations made to European countries. In the case of Italy, in addition to a ridiculously low rate of interest, one-half of the principle was cancelled, and the other half Italy has refused to pay—this in reality amounted to complete cancellation. Why can't we at least be as generous to our own people? Twenty billions of dollars has thus been sunk in foreign loans by our government. This amount is only twelve billions less than our entire national debt.

Baehr Bros. Take Over Avalon Theatre

The Baehr Brothers took charge of the Avalon Theatre today and the local showhouse will henceforth be joined in the Baehr chain of theatres. Mr. Larson who sold the theatre to the new firm a few months ago, has had charge of the business until the scheduled term ended Wednesday evening.

The new company have theatres at Bemidji, Alexandria, Wahpeton, Ely and International Falls. They will make some improvements here and expect to begin the building of an added new theatre of 900 seats at the vacant lots between the Red Owl and Rolland groceries on North LaBree next spring.

Mr. Larson, the former manager, will go to St. James, his former home, where he and his family will spend the winter, expecting to locate in one of the larger Minnesota cities next spring.

THERE'S REASON FOR SUPPRESSION

It isn't so long ago since we heard of the abolition of the freedom of the press and freedom of speech by "Dictator" Roosevelt. The reactionary press was especially loud in clamoring against a supposition that was baselessly founded.

If there is any reason for saying President Roosevelt has suppressed speech or newspapers we fail to see where there is. There are newspapers today that in the heat of the election have printed the most unbecoming things about the president, yet no one can point to the fact there has been any attempt at suppressing that newspaper. Out of the thousands of newspapers that are doing their worst in denouncing the president not one has been called to account for the many unfounded statements they make so as to be threatened with the use of the mails in any sense.

It is similarly true of public meetings or speeches over the radio. There has been no real suppression of any of them by order of the president, much as we would have liked to see that something be done to prevent some of the abuse he is receiving.

Last Sunday morning we listened to a "sermon" by a Rev. McCracken over the WDAY radio station at Fargo. The entire talk was nothing but a tirade against the present national administration; a denounciation as vile as any could contrive. While the speaker was supposed to be a preacher of the gospel his statements seemed rather to be coming from a raving maniac, yes, the very devil himself. It certainly is no asset to the ministry that Rev. McCracken is a pastor. His entire talk was nothing but a series of mis-statements and lies.

If censorship of the radio is used against such as this maniac who spoke over WDAY we can see there is no injustice. Such talks should be suppressed.

LET CORPORATE SURPLUS BE TAXED

We see little injustice in the ballyhoo and clamor being raised against a corporation surplus tax as was advocated in Congress last winter by President Roosevelt. Mr. Landon and his cohorts are bewailing the prospect for such a tax, but we ask, why not a corporation surplus tax?

A brief survey shows that there is no justification for such political wailing at this time. The mystery as to where the nation's wealth went after the depression began has been solved and, to a large extent, has been made public. Because of this accumulation of this surplus let it be taxed.

The corporations had profits salted away as untouchable surplus. The Ford Motor company had put away 580 millions in its coffers; the General Motors had 485 millions stowed away, the U. S. Steel corporation 250 millions, and a score of other corporations, embracing all the main industries in the country had each a hundred million or more safely put away for the "coming depression".— They must not have known that we recently had one.

Anyway, these same corporation officials are the very same men who have been yelling to high heaven about the terrible taxation and are worried about as to who is going to pay for all the funds the present administration is spending. They should need to worry all right; they have more money stowed away in corporation surplus than the total debt of the country, the sum of 31 billions. It would indeed be nice if the rest of the people of the country, the small businessmen, the farmers and the workers, could have surplus stowed away like these big corporations.

But that very thing of course caused the depression! The surplus of the rest of us was taken away in the high prices we paid and this became the profits these corporations put away as their surplus. The solution to the depression is therefore to return this surplus to the rest of us and see to it that it doesn't go back and again become corporation surplus. Under the present system we have really no other legal means to take it away from them than by taxation. So why should the common man worry about the high corporation tax?

When we hear of these enormous profits stowed away, we can rightfully say that these big industries, owned mainly by the big corporations, have not done their share in bringing back better economic conditions in this country. Why did the City of Detroit have to go broke to feed the former employees of the Ford factories when Henry had 580 millions stowed away as surplus? Why were there such serious strikes for higher wages at General Motors factories when these were yielding big profits? General Motors could easily have given away part of its 485 millions in surplus in better salaries so the poor workers could have better than starvation wages.

Martin A. Nelson, the Republican candidate for governor, is accusing the Farmer-Laborites in Minnesota as being radical and supported by the communists. He says nothing to offend the state Democrats. Evidently he is attempting to curry their favor. But he forgets that the Republicans on a national scale are accusing the Democrats and Roosevelt in a similar way.

INDIVIDUALISM IS OBSOLETE

The GOP politicians have been aiming their guns at President Roosevelt by saying he is not adhering to the so-called "American System", that he is not observing the Constitution of the United States and that he is getting the support of radicals and communists. These same GOP politicians are either so blind they cannot see the many short-comings of the rugged individualism of Herbert Hoover and the "American System" or they are consciously befuddling the voters, knowing that the injustice will result in nothing else than profit for a few and misery for many.

The much abused American System surely had a trial to prove what individualism was in our economic system during the decade that ended in the catastrophe of 1929. To those who had studied the course of affairs in our country that episode was not in the least unexpected. Warnings by these men had been issued well in advance. But when it happened in 1929, the American people stood aghast. Had the so-called statesmen and politicians told us of it? No! When we were virtually standing at "Hell's Gate" they were foolishly talking about "a chicken in every pot" and "two cars in every garage". You know how nice it sounded! When the big "dip" came in 1929 they began talking about "prosperity is just around the corner" and a lot of other silly stuff.

When we consider what the old Republicans and even the old Democrats, as John J. Raskob, Jouett Shouse, Al Smith, etc. we are led to believe that we are again being fooled. The viewpoint as to our future seems to be utterly deficient when we consider these leaders. They are about as ignorant about the solution of our economic ills as when they were talking about prosperity being around the corner, a chicken in every pot, etc., etc. And a great part of the American public is being lulled to sleep by it.

When we have over ten million unemployed and have too much of this and a surplus of that, in fact, too much of everything, it is about time that we start to do some high-minded thinking. Where can the reactionary proponents of individualism reason that private industry can supply work for these millions of unemployed when there is no prospect for any bigger market than now when we have an over-supply of everything? The people need supplies and probably would use up all of this surplus if they had the money to buy. But these recationaries are opposed to giving the common people anything. They are opposed to the shorter working day so we can give employment to our idle millions and they are equally opposed to giving higher wages so the working people can get some more money to buy more of what they need.

Now, what is the plan of these GOP politicians? Nothing otherwise than to go back to the days of 1929 and start all over again and begin to prepare for another big depression. This lack of foresight by the Republican leaders is so evident that it constitutes the real danger to the country. We are certainly headed for the damnation bow-wows if they are reseated in power.

SAVING LIVES AND DOLLARS

During Fire Prevention Week, which is to be observed from October 4 to 10 this year, every effort will be made to instruct the public in elimination of fire hazards. Newspapers and periodicals will publicize the Week. Insurance organizations will give every effort to making the Week a success. Fire prevention organizations will send speakers about the country. Fire marshals and fire departments will cooperate.

But all of this work, no matter how aggressive and well planned, will fail unless the public does its part to cooperate and save itself from fires.

Fire prevention, like accident prevention, is largely an individual matter. It is impossible to do away with the multiple hazards found in the average home unless the owner takes an interest, and it is impossible to eliminate industrial fire hazards unless factory managements help to the extent of inspecting their factories and enlisting the interest and aid of workmen.

During the Week, every person in this country should give an hour or two to learning the simple lessons that, if remembered and followed, will prevent most fires. It will cost nothing—and it may pay tremendous dividends in life and property. Some of the worst fires start from hazards that could be corrected in five minutes.

Every town government should carefully inspect its public buildings, especially schools, during the Week. Cases have been found where new and expensive school buildings presented a large number of grave hazards. Fire in a school is the most horrible of all—as a long list of disasters that snuffed out thousands of young lives witnesses.

Remember the date—October 4 to 10. It should be regarded as both a duty and a privilege to take advantage of the Week and join in the war against fire.

'HEARST OATH' IS TAKING BAD BEATING

The campaign for teachers' loyalty oaths may kick back at its sponsors; as teachers, ministers and liberals generally get out the heavy artillery.

The latest attack on the oath comes from the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, which has sent a special Labor Day message on the subject to 26,000 ministers. Thousands of liberal ministers are expected to read the message from their pulpits.

One of the original backers of the oath movement, the American Legion, has withdrawn its support from that campaign, according to Ray Murphy, national commander of the organization. While the 1934 Legion convention had officially gone on record in favor of the oath, the 1935 convention had taken no action on the point.

Three teachers' groups have gone on record as against the loyalty oath and pledging a fight against it. The National Education Association has begun a study of the effects of the oaths and of the "red rider" which forbids mention of Communism in Washington (D. C.) schools. The Progressive Education Association and the American Federation of Teachers have also announced plans for an anti-oath campaign.—LaFollette's Progressive.

The Capitol News Review

By A. I. HARRIS

For the first time in its history, the Minnesota Federation of Labor at its state convention at Cloquet last week endorsed candidates for public office. The full state ticket of the Farmer-Labor Party was endorsed by name, the only party which received endorsement for state office. Endorsement also was given to President Roosevelt.

This was labor's answer to the preposterous claim of Martin A. Nelson and other Republican spokesmen that this party of reaction was the friend of labor. It was labor's answer to its foes who profess to believe in the rights of collective bargaining but who constitute the only political party in America today which represents a barrier to labor attaining the right of collective bargaining.

Our esteemed contemporary, Mr. R. W. Hitchcock, Republican propagandist, has been making some rather preposterous and fantastic claims of friendship displayed by the Republican Party to labor. He has cited 14 labor bills introduced in the 1933 session which he says were passed by the Republican-controlled Senate and "killed" by the liberal-controlled House.

The burden of his argument is that the Republican Senate was far more generous in passing labor legislation that was the House, under more or less liberal control through a union of Farmer-Laborites and Democrats. Hence, he says, the Republicans and not the Farmer-Laborites are the friends of labor.

Naturally, our curiosity was aroused and we looked into this situation. What did we find?

In not a single instance was one of the labor bills introduced in either the Senate or the House by a Republican. In the Senate the bills met the opposition of all the Republican leaders.

Let us take one of the bills, Senate file No. 742 and House file No. 828. This bill provided for paying the highest rate of wages on public works. It was passed in the Senate by a vote of 38 to 27, the liberals in that body winning the support of the more moderate Republicans. Among those who voted against the bill were the following Republican leaders: Rockne, Lightner, Bonniwell, Sullivan, Webber and others.

In the House this same bill passed by a vote of 90 to 10 with Roy Dunn, Republican House leader and now national Republican committeeman voting against it.

The same story is repeated in all the other 13 bills. The vote was virtually the same as on this one.

Mr. Hitchcock says that the House killed the bills which the Senate voted. What happened was that the Senate bills and the House bills differed slightly in phraseology and wording and hence the Senate bills were substituted for the House bills. Therefore, Mr. Hitchcock's fictitious contentions that the House "killed" these bills.

This is the kind of stuff they are using to fool the voters! Incidentally, it presents a type of specious argument which a scribe of Mr. Hitchcocks' standing should not resort to. It does his profession no good.

In some counties the local administrative bodies for old age assistance have been in doubt as to just how medical and hospital assistance might be provided for, if needed, in the monthly budget of a recipient.

In other instances it has been assumed that no local relief provisions could be made for such medical care or services to an old age assistance recipient who was not receiving the maximum grant of $30.00 per month.

The state Attorney-General's office has given a recent opinion upon these points which will clear the matter up for the old age assistance county agencies and the local relief authorities.

The Attorney-General holds that an old age assistance grant may properly include items for medical, dental, surgical or hospital assistance or nursing. It is also held that local relief agencies may grant such care, where needed, to any old age assistance recipient, regardless of the amount he or she may be receiving monthly from this source.

If the LaFollette Senate investigating committee accomplishes no thing else, it already has succeeded in producing evidence of what is behind some of the labor disorders we have experienced in this country.

The testimony before the Committee disclosed scores of cases where strike-breaking agencies engaged to break strikes actually were engaged instead to create disorders, even to the point of killing, in efforts to discredit the workers. Union men were slugged for no other purpose than to start a riot, and machine guns were placed in the hands of irresponsible people to use indiscriminately.

All of these things may startle the average citizen, who would find it very difficult to believe that those hiring strike breakers would resort to such extreme and inhuman practices. It, however, does not come as a surprise to those familiar with the situation.

Labor men in Minnesota for some time have contended that their organizations have been infested with spies not so much to find out what the unions were doing, or were planning, but for the purpose of creating mischief, and incitement to riot.

In his keynote address last week, Attorney General Harry H. Peterson pointed to the very significant fact that the platform of the Republican Party of Minnesota makes no mention whatsoever of the subject of regulation of public utilities and their allies are riding in the saddle of the Republican Party.

If elected, Mr. Peterson said he would continue his vigorous prosecution of the St. Paul telephone rate case which is laying the foundation for rate reduction in favor of telephone users in other parts of the state. He pointed out that as a result of the evidence produced before the state Railroad and Ware house Commission in the St. Paul telephone rate case, the commission ordered a reduction to telephone users in that area totalling in excess of $700,000 annually.

The Attorney General also defended the state chain store tax as a legal measure to aid the independent merchant in his fight against chains and monopolies. Litigation pertaining to the chain store law is now pending in the Ramsey County District Court.

The Washington Commentator

By E. C. STENGELSEN

TAXES

While your commentator has not, of course, made a close, first hand inspection of the moon, he is, nevertheless, very certain that it is not made of green cheese. In fact, he feels confident it isn't made of any kind of cheese—not even of brick cheese.

However, if he were given control of a considerable section of the press, he would undertake to prove, to the complete satisfaction of a large part of the population, that the moon is indeed made of cheese. He believes he could even go so far as to convince them that not only is it made of cheese, but of limburger cheese at that.

And to put it across might not be too difficult. For we rugged individualists are, alas, a bit gullible now and then. Consider, for example, how readily we swallow the newspaper stories told us about the taxes we pay and about the national debt.

We are told, for example, that we pay taxes to the Washington government on just about everything from house cat to false teeth—and believe it unqualifiedly.

We are told—and believe it—that a large hunk of our real estate and personal property taxes goes to pay for relief, soil erosion, government payroll and national debt.

The facts are, of course, otherwise. Take the city of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, as an example. Every tax dollar collected in real and personal property taxes from its citizenry is paid out for the following purposes in the proportions here set forth!

To the public schools of the City	35 c
To the City government	25½c
To the County government	27½c
To the State government	12 c
To the Federal government	Nothing
	$1.00

The money spent by the federal treasury is obtained almost exclusively from the following sources:

Income tax—tax on foreign goods imported—collections on debts—Panama Canal tolls—tax on undistributed corporate profits—seigniorage—bond issues.

Taxes on: Capital stock, excess profits, dividends, estates, gifts, distilled spirits and wines, fermented malt liquors, cigars, cigarettes, tobacco, and snuff.

Stamp taxes on: documents, capital stock transfers, future delivery of produce, silver transfers, playing cards.

Manufacturers' excise taxes on: gasoline and lubricating oils, motor vehicles and accessories, electrical energy, furs and jewelry, toilet preparations, candy, chewing gum, soft drinks, matches, sporting goods, cameras, firearms and ammunition, mechanical refrigerators, radio components and phonograph records, brewers' wort, malt, grape concentrates.

Tax on: admissions and club dues; telephone, telegraph and radio cable communications; cocoanut and oils processed.

Anti-administration newspapers and political speakers are, by and large, sufficiently intelligent to know that our debt situation is not dangerous. They are well aware that with a return of normal times the government's present income sources will be ample, not only to balance the budget, but gradually to retire our accumulated debt.

But it suits their purpose to howl that at the present rate, Uncle Sam will shortly have lost breeches and shirt and be walking about in a barrel.

Far be it from your commentator to complain, however, because the uninformed and unthinking, in considerable numbers are falling for this propaganda. For he is thus assured of a satisfactory supply of prospects whom he may reasonably expect to convince that the moon is, indeed, made of cheese.

—O—

Afraid of Its Own Shadow?

This column has intimated before that the Black Legion should be investigated by Uncle Sam's bloodhounds, the G-Men. Acting on this suggestion, a letter was written to Homer S. Cummings, Attorney-General of the United States, asking that the G-Men be put on the case. His reply declared that "after a careful and thorough analysis of the facts and law" he, found the G-Men had no jurisdiction.

The G-Men will trail down to the last bloody ditch anyone who kidnaps a rich man's child and demands ransom—there is a federal anti-kidnap law. But when a group of men—whose ramifications extend through many states—intimidate, beat up, and sometimes murder, various people whom they consider "subversive", as the Black Legion did in Michigan, the G-Men are powerless to act.

Technically, I suppose, they cannot investigate the Black Legion, because the Black Legion broke no federal laws. But actually they can investigate any case which cannot be handled by local authorities. The catch is, that under our system, an organization like the G-Men serves money instead of men.

Japan Moves

Japanese authorities have made arrangements with Chiang Kai-Shek, the warlord of northern China, to form a blockade against the "reds" in south China. This move, so long foreseen by students of the situation, comes as a relief. Now no-one can be in doubt about the motives of the Japanese or of Chiang Kai-Shek.

In the south we have the Red Army and the various democratic groups which center in Canton. The Red Army offered to form a United Front with the democrats and liberals to fight Japanese invasion. Various things have prevented the formation of a strong United Front—distrust, fear or "red" domination, etc., etc. But now, all that the most revolutionary have said would happen, has come to pass. The Japanese are invading China, with the help of Chiang Kai-Shek, who now appears as a fascist dictator without a country.

Events from now on will force the formation of a strong United Front over there. The alternative is oblivion for the Chinese masses—as colonial members of a Japanese territory.

—O—

Judging Russia

JUDGE, a magazine of humor, has a serious editorial column, and often has some interesting stuff. The August issue contained a long squib on "Dictatorships and Democracies" and listed Russia among the democracies. How the old-guard, easy-chair club members will squirm at this!

Very fairly, JUDGE points out that the new Soviet constitution grants to the Russian people as much personal freedom as we have here—more, in certain respects. Besides the age-old blessings of freedom of the press, of assembly, and of belief, the Soviet constitution guarantees every resident of Russia the right to earn a living.

Those who have pictured Russia as a gloomy place ruled with autocratic hand by Joseph Stalin will have to revise their estimate now. From a dark country of unknown communistic terrors it has emerged as a potential heaven-on-earth, where no one starves, where there are no rich exploiters, where everyone has a job at short hours and vacations at regular intervals, and where personal freedom is as great as that of the theoretical American.

It should be a mark of the highest patriotism for good Americans to work for the same kind of country over here.

Along the Farmer - Labor Front

By H. O. BERVE

In publishing the names of all the Farmer-Labor candidates in one of the recent issues of the Forum, we inadvertently omitted the name of HARRY H. PETERSON, the Farmer Labor candidate for Attorney General. With apologies to Mr. Peterson, and in order to again impress the name of the Farmer-Labor candidates upon the readers of this column, we publish once more the entire list of names. Vote Farmer-Labor all the way as follows:

Ernest Lundeen for U. S. Senator.
Elmer E. Benson, for Governor.
Gottfrid Lindsten, for Lieutenant Governor.
HARRY H. PETERSON, for Attorney General.
Paul C. Hartig, for Secretary of State.

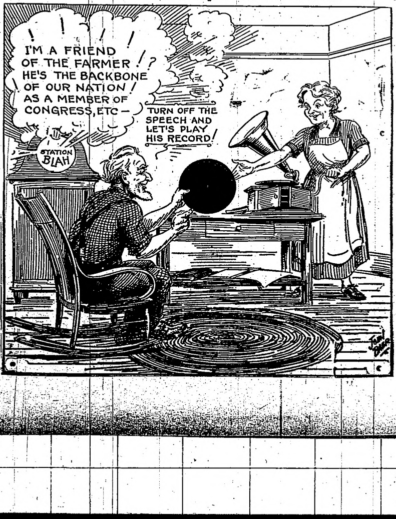
A Man's Record Speaks For Itself



I'M A FRIEND OF THE FARMER! HE'S THE BACKBONE OF OUR NATION! AS A MEMBER OF CONGRESS, ETC —
STATION BLAH
TURN OFF THE SPEECH AND LET'S PLAY HIS RECORD!

Along the F-L Front

C. A. Halverson, for State Treasurer.

Hjalmer Peterson, for Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner.

R. T. Buckler, for Congress in 9th District.

W. E. Day, for Representative 65th Legilsative Dist.

J. O. Melby, for Representative 65th Legislative Dist.

The Republican Party favors the passage of Amendment No. Two. In the Republican Platform we find the following statement in the paragraph on Taxation, "We favor the elimination at the earliest possible moment of the State Levy on real and personal property." This can mean nothin- else than Amendment No. Two. And still Republican speakers are going around and say it is a "lie" when we say the Republicans favor the passage of Amendment No. Two.

So far as we can see the Republican party favors the passage of a Sales Tax to make up for the loss in State Revenue if Amendment No. Two is passed. They would relieve the mining companies, and other large investors in real estate of their real estate taxes, and then place the burden of making up for the shortage in income on the farmers, the working people and the small business men by passing a sales tax.

Martin Nelson, the Republican candidate for Governor continues to talk about economy. In this connection let us not forget that every dollar spent by the State has been authorized and appropriated by a Republican controlled Legislature. The Legislature has been controlled by men like Theodore Christianson, now candidate for U. S. Senator, and Senator A. J. Rockne, and other like them. A large portion of the state debt is due to the Rural Credits Act passed and administered by the Republicans. When Martin Nelson talks about economy does he intend to take away the State Aid to our schools, and the Special State Aids to Schools, which we have been getting? Is he going to do away with the Old Age Pensions to the Old? Is he going to cut out the appropriations for Relief to those who are in need? Just where is he going to economize?

Let us not forget W. E. Day and J. O. Melby, candidates for the Legislature from this District. They are real progressives and will support Elmer E. Benson as Governor. By the way we have not yet heard any explanation of why and how it comes about that Marius Waldal was allowed to serve as Representative from this District after the Court had found and decided he was not properly and legally elected, and that his certificate of election was null and void.

IF YOU BELIEVE IN THE FARMER LABOR PROGRAM AND PRINCIPLES, THEN BE SURE TO VOTE THE FARMER-LABOR TICKET STRAIGHT ALL THE WAY.

RED LAKE FALLS BRIDGE IS NOW READY FOR TRAFFIC

H. P. Lund & Sons who had the sub-grading contract on the section of Trunk Highway No. 32 over the new concrete bridge, completed their work Wednesday and the highway is now open for traffic. Division Engineer A. M. Graves of the state highway department was here from Bemidji Monday and stated that the graveling of this mile long stretch would be done by the maintenance crews of the highway department this fall, provision having already been made for the work and funds set aside. Next after the grade has settled, Mrs. Graves says the department plans to put on a bituminous top. The new road makes a fine approach to the city and gives the stranger a different view from that he receives on the old route. A dedication program may be held later, possibly in conjunction with the dedication of the new community hall.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

COOPERATIVE UNION ACTIVITIES ORGANIZE BLACK RIVER LOCAL

On Thursday evening, Sept. 3, farmers residing in Polk Centre and nearby townships met with the state organizer of the Cooperative Union Activities, Geo. W. Blake, for the purpose of organizing into a local unit. Matters pertaining to membership, election of officers as well as adopting a name for the unit were discussed. After the election of officers the group adopted the name "Black River Local" and also decided to hold regular meetings every second Wednesday of each month.

In addition to the speech by the organizer, Geo. W. Blake, Gilbert Brattland of Thief River Falls, spoke on "Cooperation". Both speakers stressed the value of cooperation and cited actual instances of its success.

The officers elected were: Henry Melin, chairman; Clarence Anderson, vice-chairman; Edgar Naplin, secretary. Carl Anderson was chosen as delegate to the County Committee.

Farm and Implement News

It is not too early to prepare your car and truck for cold weather, especially to check the radiator and cooling system. Now is the time to add Prestone because even in warm weather it is better than plain water. It prevents rust and if a cold frosty night there is no danger of freezing damage to your car.

Then too a good heater in the car is a great satisfaction and comfort most any day or night this time of year and we are well prepared to give you this service.

Tractor Investment

Any farmer buys a tractor as an investment and every farmer that plans his tractor farming investment will make a success and there is still time this fall to make a profitable tractor investment by putting that tractor to work preparing fields for 1937 crops. There is other planning on tractor investments, which is mainly the kind of tractor you buy, a make of proven quality and with present and future service back of it, to which we claim there is none a better choice than a McCormick-Deering, any size for any size farm and every kind of farming.

Cultivation

Again we stress the importance of Cultivation, just that kind of cultivating that a new No. 6 McCormick-Deering field cultivator will do. This is really a new machine that is so far ahead of anything ever manufactured before we want every farmer to get acquainted with the New No. 6, and a free demonstration is yours for the asking and if it will not prove entirely satisfactory and more than you expect it will cost you nothing for the demonstration. We have sold a great number of these machines and without exception they claim outstanding satisfaction.

Wire Fencing

We still have a small stock of our wire fencing and barb wire on hand at a close out price:

Heavy 32" woven wire sheep fence at only 25 cents per rod.

Medium 30" woven wire sheep fence at only 23 cents per rod.

Some cedar posts left at 8 cents.

Heavy oak posts as low as 6 cents.

Cars and Trucks

It will only be a short time now and we will have the New LaFayette and Nash cars in stock. We have some new models of International trucks, one-half ton and three-quarter ton very outstanding farm truck values.

We are going to cut the prices down to a rock bottom on all of our used trucks and cars in stock to close out and make room for new stock and winter storage, so we do invite you to look over our low price cars and trucks.

Lindsten gave a masterful speech on the Farmer Labor platform, dealing with the various provisions and showing how these were of prime concern to the farmers and the laborers of the state. As Mr. Linsten is candidate for lieutenant governor he showed much ability as being an efficient, and even as governor should the occasion arise.

Mrs. LeSueur, the lone woman member of the State Planning Board, gave a speech on 75 years of the rule of "rugged individualism" in Minnesota. And since this is the philosophy of the Republican party according to their platform, Mrs. LeSueur laid at their door what has happened to the natural resources of the state during these 75 years as well as what has happened to the people of the state.

She pictured the state as it was in 1858 when it was admitted to the Union - a fair land of rich agricultural land in the southern part of the state - with great forests covering the northern two-thirds - undiscovered wealth of iron ore underneath the surface - lakes and rivers teeming with fish wild game in the forests. It was a land on which the Indian had lived for centuries without destroying its wealth.

In 75 years, she asserted, the white man has gone thru this rich state like a consuming fire, destroying with no thought of the heritage he was taking from his children and his children's children. The rich southern part of the state is losing its fertility and thousands of acres are being washed away by erosion; the streams are polluted - the lake levels lowered; the fish and game are about gone. There are ghastly gashes in the earth where the ore has been taken. Sixty millions of dollars have been spent drying up the natural drainage basins. Burnt-over, cut-over lands stretch their dreary waste where once stood stately forests - a dust-bowl in the western part of the state; land plowed which should have been left for grazing. Millions of acres returning to the state for delinquent taxes; stranded cities and towns where the timber and iron industry has squeezed them dry.

Mrs. LeSueur's contention was that all this was the result of the philosophy of "rugged individualism" which was written into the Constitution of the state itself, which says, "the State of Minnesota cannot contract debt for any internal improvement or be a party thereto." Therefore, when the people of Minnesota wanted to dig themselves out of the mud they had to amend this constitution four times before they could build themselves good roads.

She further showed what had happened to the people of Minnesota. There are 600,000 families in Minnesota, 65 per cent of them of sturdy Scandinavian and German stock - a hard working thrifty people. Today 115,000 of these families are on relief - not even a job. Only 41,000 people in Minnesota paid an income tax in 1935-36 and everyone wit ha family income of $2,000, or a single person with an income of $1,200 had to make an income tax report. The Government says that a family income of $2,500 is necessary to maintain an American standard of living. So 550,000 families in Minnesota are living below this standard. Youth is desperate - without jobs, without a future.

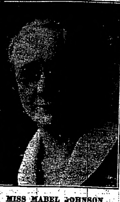
The time has come insisted Mrs. LeSueur to stop this destruction - to find a way to create wealth and open the door of opportunity again to the people of Minnesota. If we are to do this, we must abandon the old philosophy of rugged individualism and adopt a forward looking social philosophy for the benefit of all the people.

Mrs. LeSueur contended that the Farmer-Labor program of public ownership of social services and monopolized industry with cooperative or small business management of non-monopolistic industry on a production for use basis with adequate compensation for all service rendered showed the way forward to plenty and security.

She pointed out the public ownership of schools and roads, of water systems, power systems and the 4,800 successful cooperatives in the state. 531,180 people and families in the state belong to some form of cooperative or mutual. These cooperatives did a business in 1935 of $109,000,000 without a single failure during the entire period of the depression. The Farmer-Labor program said Mrs. LeSueur would extend this successful method of doing business and produce plenty instead of scarcity and poverty.

Pay-as-You-Go

The only elective public office Governor Al Landon has ever held is that of governor of Kansas, in which he has served two terms, and has given to the state four years of unusual administration on a strictly pay-as-you-go basis.



MISS MABEL JOHNSON
State Public Health Nurse, who is making a county survey here.

Northwest School Opened On Monday, Sept. 28

The fall term at the Northwest School will open Monday, September 28, with all dormitories filled to capacity. Based upon the number of advance room reservations, Registrar J. W. Mlinar expects the attendance to surpass all-time record established last year when 395 young men and women from fourteen northwestern Minsesota counties were in attendance.

A number of high school graduates will enroll for special training in agriculture, home economics, music and business training. The business training department is being enlarged this year so that high school graduates may register for advanced office and secretarial training.

A veteran staff of instructors will have charge of the class and laboratory work. Dr. A. A. Dowell will begin his tenth year as superintendent of the Northwest School and Experiment Station and his fifteenth year as a member of the staff of the University of Minnesota. Professor T. M. McCall has the distinction of being the veteran member of the staff; he has just completed twenty-five years of service at the local institution. Other members of the staff who have completed ten or more years include Professors R. S. Dunham, agronomist; E. R. Clark, pure seed specialist; O. M. Kiser, animal husbandman; A. M. Foker, agricultural engineer; A. M. Bilkey, poultry husbandman; Miss Retta Bode, home economics; Miss Fanny B Lippitt, home economics; Miss Fae Hughbankds, business training, and Miss Grace Mary Warse, music and English.

Donald C. Streeter, a graduate of the University of Minnesota, succeeds C. H. Ritzman as coach of debate and instructor in advanced subject. Dr. Ritzman resigned to accept a position in the English Department of the University of Oklahoma.

Straw Poll Concluded From Last Week's Issue

In the remaining 36 of the 41 states, shown in the state by state tabulations, Landon is leading in 30 states and Roosevelt in six states.

At the end of the previous week, in national state by state tabulation, Landon was leading in 26 states, to 9 states for Roosevelt.

In one state, Nebraska, the vote was tied.

This week's final tabulations show Landon breaking the tie in Nebraska, to take the lead there, and also take the lead in Connecticut, Michigan, and Montana, for a gain of four states.

The thirty states in which Landon has a majority of votes are: Colo., Conn., Ill., Ind., Ky., Iowa, Kans., Maine., Md., Mass., Mich., Minn., Mo., Mont., Neb., N. H., N. J., N. Y., N. Dak., Ohio, Okla, Ore., Pa., S. Dak., Tenn., Va, Vt. Wash., and Wis.

The six states in which Roosevelt has a majority of votes are: Alabama, California, Florida, North Carolina, Texas and Utah.

The majority in votes for the respective candidates, in some states at this time, is exceedingly small, as the state by state tabulation will show. Also, in some states, the returns are so scattered and yet so few in number that no premise will permit basing serious predictions as to which candidate will actually and officially carry them in the November election.

The seven states from which no returns have been received are Arizona, Georgia, Louisiana, New Mexico, Rhode Island, South Carolina, and Wyoming.

Gain Recorded

As between Landon and Roosevelt, on percentage basis, last week compared to this week, the returns show the following slight gain for the Republican candidate.

	Last	This	Gain
Landon	64.5	65.2	.7
Roosevelt	35.5	34.8

A slight falling off of Third Party votes was recorded in this week's tabulations, both in total for all candidates and as between Landon, Roosevelt and Lemke, the Union Party candidate.

In total votes, all candidates:

	Last Week	This Week
Lemke	4.8	4.7

In Landon, Roosevelt and Lemke vote, only:

Lemke	5	4.8

Always Unlucky

"As the earth goes around and China takes its place in the sunshine, we may be warranted in assuming that the other side of the world is on top," remarked the amateur wiseacre.

"That may be true, astronomically speaking," said Senator Sorghum. "But my political habit of thought prevents me from imagining any combination of circumstances that will enable China to come out on top."—Washington Star.

Mrs. Black was interviewing an applicant for the position of cook.

"And you cook French dishes?" she asked.

The woman nodded.

"Rather, ma'am," she replied. "I understand all those foreign dishes."

"Do you, now," said Mrs. Black. "Tell me what you can do in that line."

"Well," said cooky, "I can cook French beans, Brussels sprouts, German sausage, Dutch cheese and Spanish onions."—Stray Stories.

LEGION AUXILIARY WILL INSTALL NEW OFFICERS

At the Legion Auxiliary meeting this Thursday evening, Oct. 1st the following officers will be installed: president, Mrs. L. V. Johnson; 1st vice-president, Mrs. George Biddick; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Leonard Hanson; secretary, Mrs. Ralph McCain; treasurer, Mrs. A. M. Campbell; chaplain, Mrs. T. P. Anderson; sgt. at arms, Mrs. Enga Lindberg. Members of the Executive Board are Mrs. Hanson, Mrs. Caldis, Mrs. Carl Melby, and Mrs. Alnes. Mrs. J. S. Steen will act as installing officer.

Hostesses for the installation meeting are Mrs Frank Tunberg, Mrs. David Fast, Mrs. Luther Haugen, and Mrs. Willis Powell.

All members are urged to be present. The attendance will be an evidence of the support of the new auxiliary officers. A membership drive will get under way at once. A busy year is anticipated and in a large, active membership lies the strength of the unit.

The Forget-Me-Not sale will be held Saturday. Mrs. Oscar Cerney is chairman of the sale this year, and will appreciate everybodys cooperation. All proceeds of this sale are used for welfare work exclusively. The little blue forget-me-not is worn in memory of Argonne Day.

LOUISVILLE UNION LOCAL HOLDS MEETING

Another meeting of the Louisville F.-U. Local was held Sept. 22 at the Louisville town hall with a large attendance.

The officers having been elected at a previous meeting are as follows: chairman, Henry Hallstrom; vice-chairman, Emery Lasha; secretary-treasurer, C. W. Beyer.

The program opened with a song by the audience, followed by several very able speakers who were representatives from other Union Local organizations. Mr. O'Leary, member of the F.-U. Livestock board at St. Paul, spoke on the Soil Conservation program emphasizing the fact that it is up to the farmer to prepare the 1937 program by injecting measures which he thinks will be best suited to his needs.

Oscar Christianson, a representative from a local at Moorhead, G. Senski and Ed. Reitmeyer, both representatives from a Crookston local, spoke. Archie Marcott, manager of the Farmers Union Oil Co. at Red Lake Falls, spoke briefly on the savings which can be made on merchandise purchased through the Farmers Union.

Mr. Blake, county organizer, concluded the program by a short talk on some of the deplorable conditions existing among our laboring class employed by private industries and what should and can be done to remedy this by Cooperative Unions. A short time was left for open discussion.

A short business meeting was held whereby Wm. Cassavant was elected delegate to the state convention this fall, with Art Zutz as alternate.

A program and lunch committee was chosen for our next meeting to be held at Louisville Town Hall, October 27th.

Last but not least was the tasty lunch served by the lunch committee followed by a dance enjoyed by all.

Let's turn out to the next meeting and see what is in store for us.

Bring your friends.

Sale of State Lands

State of Minnesota,
Office of Commissioner of Conservation
St. Paul, Minnesota,
September 5, 1936

Notice is hereby given that on October 13, 1936 at 4:00 P. M. at Thief River Falls, Minn. in the office of the County Auditor, at Pennington County, in the State of Minnesota, I will offer for sale certain unsold state lands and also those state lands which have reverted to the State by reason of the non-payment of interest.

Terms of Sale:

Fifteen per cent of the purchase price is payable to the County Treasurer at the time of sale. The unpaid balance is payable at any time in whole or in part within forty years from the date of sale, interest being at the rate of four per cent per annum, due on June 1st of each year; provided, that the interest can be paid at any time within the interest year without penalty. In effect, this means that the interest money may be paid at any time between June first and May thirty first without penalty.

The appraised value of timber and improvements must be paid in full at the time of sale.

All mineral rights are reserved to the State by the laws of the State.

All lands are sold subject to any and all ditch and road taxes thereon.

Lands on which the interest has become delinquent may be redeemed at any time up to the hour of sale or before resale to an actual purchaser. Lands sold after January 1, 1934, are subject to the provisions of Chapter 39, Laws Extra Session 1933.

No person can purchase more than 320 acres of land, provided, however, that State lands purchased previous to 1905 are not charged against such purchaser.

Agents acting for purchasers must furnish affidavit of authority.

Appraisers' reports showing quality and kind of soil are on file in the office of the Division of Lands and Minerals, 14 State Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Lists giving legal descriptions of lands to be offered may be obtained of the Director of Lands and Minerals, 14 State Office Building, St. Paul, Minnesota, and of the County Auditor at the County seat.

E. V. WILLARD,
Commissioner of Conservation

Senator Benson Opens Campaign In Home Town

"If I am elected Governor, I propose to submit a program to the legislature which will bring the needed tax relief to them. This tax program will be based on the fundamental tax theory of the Farmer-Labor Party that taxes should be levied in accordance with ability to pay. It will shift the burden of taxes from those who are economically oppressed to those who posses the means to pay. The Republican tax program of a sales tax would shift the burden from the wealthy onto the backs of the poor.

"I propose to bring about tax relief for the home owner and farmer through an increase in inheritance, estate and gift taxes; an increase in the tax on monies and credits; an increase in the gross earnings taxes on railroads and corporations; a corporate excess tax, and an increase in iron ore taxes.

"Enactment of this tax program would enable us to carry out the plan of the Farmer Labor Party for real instead of fictitious tax relief. We are opposed to a sales tax.

"I propose also, if elected Governor, to secure an appropriation from the legislature that will enable the State Tax Commission to conduct further investigations of wealthy tax dodgers."

Senator Benson scored his opponent's remarks that the merit system prevailed under Republican rule. "Others may talk about the merit system," Senator Benson said, "and avoid an outright declaration of support for a civil service law, but we favor civil service appointment to both federal and state offices."

The Senator stated that a civil bill was introduced into the 1933 legislature, but that it did not receive even a hearing before the reactionary-controlled Civil Administration committee.

Included in the program of the Farmer Labor Party, the Senator stated, is a more adequate old age pension; unemployment insurance, sickness and accident insurance; a federal governmental policy as pertaining to unemployment; more state aid to schools, which reduces taxes to the local communities; and a more stringent chain store tax law to enable local merchants to compete successfully with chain store opposition; recognition of the rights of collective bargaining by labor; passage of the Frazier-Lemke bill for refinancing farm debts; guarantee of cost of production of farm products; extension of government credit to the creation of new cooperatives; leniency in collection of seed and feed loans; government ownership of munitions factories; conscription of wealth as well as men in time of war, and care of war veterans together with extension of pensions to war widows.

The Senator charges his Republican opponent with unfair tactics in the increase in Minnesota's bonded indebtedness and in state expenditures. Directly asking Mr. Nelson, he said: "Why did you not tell the citizens of Minnesota that all appropriations for state purposes are made by the state legislature, and that a Republican controlled legislature voted every item in the increase of the state's bonded indebtedness? Was this lack of knowledge on your part, or just a political trick?"

Turning to the Farmer Labor record during the Olson Administration, Senator Benson listed:

"The Homestead Tax Law, which lowers the tax levy on farms and homesteads by 20 per cent.

"The Mortgage Moratorium Law, the first passed in the U. S., which established the principle that the common welfare supersedes property rights. This law has been used as a model for other progressive states.

"The Old Age Assistance Law.

"A statutory Income Tax Law, which is a replacement tax and levied in accordance with ability to pay.

"A Relief Bill which, coupled with federal funds, saved thousands from destitution.

"Increased aid to schools which made it possible for children of the poor to receive the same educational advantages as children of the wealthy and which reduced local taxation.

"Aid to high school and college students.

"Pensions for the blind.

"A chain store tax to aid the independent merchant in competition with chain stores.

"Levy on oleomargarine, to protect the state's great dairy industry.

"Legal regulation of the sale of state timber which broke up the monopoly held by powerful timber interests.

"A conservation act which unifies all conservation functions of the state government into one department.

"The above are only some of the Administration's legislative accomplishments," he said.

"It will be remembered that the passage of the mortgage moratorium law was preceded by an executive order issued by Governor Olson which had the effect of halting foreclosures on homes and on farms. This was consistent with Floyd Olson's philosophy that human rights take precedence over property rights. The U. S. Supreme Court upheld him, making this philosophy the law of the land.

"Another tremendously significant contribution Governor Olson gave to the cause of progress was, when defying the most powerful Moneyed interests of our state, he called out the troops to protect the rights of workers on strike—men trying to better their economic condition to provide more of the necessities and comforts of life to their families and themselves.

"I challenge the opposition to show a single instance when a Republican governor either had the courage or the humanity to do the same.

LOCAL FIGURES ON LOANS CLOSED IN YOUR COUNTY

Pennington county farmers have obtained 209 loans from the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul and the land bank commissioner in the period from May 1933 to July 1 this year, was announced recently in a statement from the land bank.

Land bank loans on first mortgages amounted to 74 for a total of $142,700 and commissioner's loans on first and second mortgages amounted to 135, aggregating $163,000. A large part of these funds here as elsewhere was used to refinance already existing debts at lower interest rates.

During the early part of the period practically all funds were used for refinancing existing indebtedness or to redeem farms in foreclosure. Following the amendments to the farm credit act made in 1935 an increasing proportion of these loans has been used for the purchase of farms, particularly by young men and renters, who have found this a favorable method of acquiring farms. Experience, equipment and a reasonable down payment are required.

Since the farm credit act was passed early in 1933 there have been 50,073 land bank and commissioner's loans closed in this state for a total of $149,958,000.

"His innocence of this crime, yes," Peter answered.

Then he rose and touched the magnet to his thermometer.

"When are you sailing?"

"Wednesday."

"Good luck," Barry said, extending his hand across the desk.

Peter turned to take it, freeing his own hand by trying to slip the magnet over the hook from which the thermometer hung.

The magnet promptly fell into the open desk drawer.

"Damn!" Peter exclaimed, probing again.

He retrieved, it at last, from somewhere near the bottom of that astounding accumulation of rubber bands, pen-wipers, and what not.

Clinging to the metal, held by its magnetic attraction, was another bit of metal.

As Peter dropped the magnet onto his desk, that other bit of metal detached itself, and fell almost at Barry's feet.

Barry picked it up, looked at it, looked again, and then looked at Peter.

Peter was staring at him.

Barry took a notebook out of his pocket.

"A 66152," he said. "Yes, that's Kelly's latch-key."

Peter nodded.

"I must have thrown it here weeks ago and forgotten it."

"I'd throw it somewhere else now," Barry advised. "Somewhere just a little bit safer. Well, good luck, again, and good-by."

He had reached the door when Peter said: "Wait a minute."

Barry waited.

"How long have you known?"

"That you killed Mike Kelly?" Barry asked. "Since last Thursday. I was on the train coming in from Southampton, and I'd just read of Morano's death. 'One of my suspects was guilty,' I thought. 'Peter Winslow can't laugh that off.'"

He was back in the room now.

"I remembered," he went on, "how you did laugh when I suggested Morano. And how sure you were that I was wrong about every one else. But you never said anything that might've started me on the right track. On the contrary, when I asked you if there was a Mrs. Kelly, you answered, 'Yes. She sued for divorce recently and withdrew the case.' You'd just read that in the Herald Tribune, and the same sentence revealed that, at the time of the murder, Mrs. Kelly was in Harlem. But you didn't mention that. Why? Only one explanation occurred to me, and that was your willingness to keep me on the trail of some one who couldn't possibly be convicted."

Barry sat down again, the other side of the desk.

"Go on," Peter urged. "I'm very much interested."

He was sitting, too, now.

"My interest," he continued, "is strangely impersonal. Almost wholly professional. I think it is. That's very curious. I'm just a criminal lawyer interested in a crime."

His weariness explained that, Barry thought. As Hambidge had been, and Morano, and Barry himself when talking with Ridder, Peter Winslow was "glad it's over."

"As a criminal lawyer," Barry said, "and a shrewd one, you'd be surprised to know how much you overlooked. Bits of evidence that fitted like a jig-saw puzzle the moment suspicion started anyone putting them together."

"As, for instance?"

Barry smiled.

"You told me Morano phoned you at one o'clock the morning of the murder 'to say that one of his girls was in jail,' and would you 'take the case.' But Peggy wasn't in jail, at one o'clock. She'd been released hours before, and Morano knew it. I knew that he did phone you. What about? Why, about Kelly's visit to the Cocoanut Bar, of course, and the threat of something in his pocket that was not only a menace to Morano but Kelly's hold over Judge Hambidge. A paper every one seemed to want, and that had disappeared when the body was found.

"What had that paper to do with you?

"If this were a detective story, and you read it, you'd find twenty answers to that question. Judge Hambidge said he couldn't tell the truth because of a woman. Pat said the woman was her dead mother. And plainly, that had something to do with Morano."

He leaned forward across the desk.

"I couldn't see any link between the two. And then I remembered that Pat's mother was your wife's sister. Pat told me her mother was 'brought up in a little town called Warrenton.' That meant your wife came from Warrenton, too. And Morano had told me he came from Fauquier county. I went to my atlas. Warrenton's in Fauquier county. There used to be a military school there. Mrs. Winslow ran away with her first husband while he was a cadet in a military school."

Peter leaned forward, too.

"And Morano—" he began tensely.

"I don't know whether Morano went to a military school or not.

"But George Selby did.

"Morano and George Selby were the same man, weren't they?"

* * * * * * * *

It was after six o'clock now.

The outside offices were deserted and silent.

But the noise of traffic drifted up from the street.

For almost a minute, that was the only sound in the room where these two men sat facing each other.

Then Peter said, "Yes, they were the same man."

"I was sure of it," Barry resumed. "The papers reported that Selby was drowned in Philadelphia. But the body they identified had been in the water two weeks. Fresh water. So that identification didn't amount to much. Violet Fane had told me Morano bought the house down town because he was 'married onct,' and he and his wife lived there. The sob-story I dug out of the tabloids said Selby was 'blissfully happy' with his bride in a house he'd rented down town. Obviously, the same house. Sentimental? Yes, but Morano was a sentimental cuss. So sentimental that he might have died rather than have it discovered that your wife was really his wife."

Barry saw Peter wince, but went on.

"Of course, he had another reason for resisting arrest—that 'hot spot' with which Kelly threatened him. If Morano had been arrested, and finger-printed, they'd've learned that he was George Selby, and wanted for murder. Morano made certain of that. The 2:12 train he caught at the Penn station went to Philadelphia. That's where he was all the next day—checking up on the finger-prints taken when Selby was sent to the State penitentiary, and, perhaps, trying, through underground channels, to have them removed from the files.

"I had the motive for the murder now.

"Kelly knew Morano was Selby, and so that your wife was technically a bigamist. That was the threat he held over Morano, and Judge Hambidge. The threat that persuaded the Judge to write a 'crooked decision.' The paper Kelly had in his pocket was a marriage certificate, or something of the sort, he'd found somewhere."

"In an old trunk," Peter said; "in the house he bought at 24 Jefferson street."

Barry nodded.

"I doped that out, too. Both Morano and Hambidge had plenty of reason to kill Kelly.

"I Doped That Out, Too."

"But neither had as much reason as you had.

"If you knew of the existence of that paper.

"And you did, didn't you? That's where Morano's telephone message came in. That's why he called you up from the Cocoanut Bar. To tell you he'd seen the paper, and Kelly had it."

"Right," Winslow said, simply.

"My inquiry was narrowing down to you and Morano. But how did either of you get in to Kelly? And then I remembered that, the day I first saw Mrs. Kelly, she came into that house and left her key in the door. I did the same thing this week. Anybody might. Especially a drunken man. That would explain why the key wasn't on Kelly's body. It would explain how our third caller entered while Kelly was talking to Judge Hambidge."

"Right," Winslow repeated.

"Was the third caller you or Morano? And then I remembered two things. Morano took the 2:12 to Philadelphia to check on those finger-prints. He wouldn't've done that if he'd known Kelly was dead. The house was dark and silent when Morano got to Sixteenth street. He thought Kelly'd gone to bed, and so he went to Philadelphia. I was sure of that. And I was sure that the man who killed Kelly wore gloves.

"On a hot night.

"Not because he'd thought of finger-prints, but because he was accustomed to wearing gloves, even in summe

"It was red-hot the day I came here to tell you about Nolan.

"And your gloves were lying there with your hat."

Peter smiled, faintly.

"I remember, too," he said. "You picked one of them up. But, of course, I might merely have been carrying them."

Barry smiled, also.

"You might," he admitted. "But the glove that fell on the floor was turned inside out. People don't carry gloves that way."

"Well," Winslow observed, "Harwood didn't make any mistake when he said you were a good newspaper man. You're right about everything. My wife was Mrs. Selby. She thought Selby was dead, of course, when she married me. Two or three years ago, I met him on the street. He was d—d decent. 'Believe it or not, I was terribly in love with Julie,' he said. 'I still am. But God knows I'm no husband for her, and you are. You've nothing to fear from me,' he said.

"But I did fear. All my life, I've had one conviction. Murder will out. Everything comes to the surface sooner or later. I urged Julie to get a divorce. 'I can't,' she said, 'without more dreadful publicity. It would ruin your career,' she said. Always thinking of me, Julie is."

He touched the tell-tale magnet, almost lovingly.

"We were still talking about it," he continued, "when Julie went all to pieces again. Just as she had when the tabloids printed the story you saw. I took her to Europe. When we came back, Selby'd disappeared. I didn't even know his new name, and, of course, I didn't look for him. I persuaded myself the danger was over.

"Then came the Jefferson street grab.

"I was upset about what the newspapers said of Judge Hambidge. I'd no idea of what was back of that, of course, and he didn't tell me. I figured that they'd got to him, somehow. And then Morano telephoned, the night of the murder, to say Kelly'd been to the Cocoanut Bar. He'd had the marriage certificate some time, and, through an underworld connection, he knew Selby was alive, but he'd only just found out that Selby was Morano. Some one had told him that afternoon—probably the same man who tipped off Luis' telephone message to Harwood. Kelly had said to Morano, 'Now, I've got you, and Hambidge, and Winslow.' He has, too,' Luis added, 'unless you can find a way out of it.'"

Winslow's hand closed tightly.

"Julie was upstairs, asleep," he said. "She'd left me an hour before, radiantly happy. I went to see Kelly. Heaven knows what I intended to do. Certainly not murder. I was about to ring the bell, when I saw the key in the door, and used it. Kelly was talking to Hambidge. I recognized the Judge's voice, and slipped into the dining room. Listening, I learned why he had written that decision. And I heard Kelly say, 'If it ain't filed by noon today, I'll have your sister-in-law arrested for bigamy.'

"Hambidge said, 'You can do what you like; I won't file it.'

"The cut-glass decanter was on the table in front of me. I picked it up, almost mechanically. Kelly was in the hall then, shouting 'squealers' and 'beat it.' I suppose I had some vague idea of helping my brother-in-law. I don't know. Anyway, I opened the door between the dining room and the drawing room. And, as I did so, Kelly came in from the hall, closing that door behind him. His left hand was still on the knob when he saw me.

"'More squealers!' he shouted. 'Witnesses! So you heard, did you? Well, by God, you're not going to tell anybody!'

"He lifted his right hand, and there was a revolver in it.

"Another instant, and he'd've fired.

"I hurled the decanter.

"It was just instinct. I didn't take aim. There wasn't time. If I meant to do anything, it was to hit his pistol arm. I don't really know where the bottle did strike. The side of Kelly's head, probably, for it landed against a metal door-hinge, rebounded, fell into a chair, and rolled off to the floor. A moment afterward, Kelly went down in a heap.

"He wasn't dead. A long way from it, for the gun had dropped out of his hand, and he reached for it. I picked it up. Ten seconds later, Hambidge was on the other side of that door, trying to open it, and calling Kelly. I turned the lights out. Hambidge left. I put the revolver into my pocket, and got the certificate out of Kelly's. There was a white push-button in the door-frame. I pressed it—or thought I did—and hurried through the dining room into the street. Evidently, the bell didn't ring, for it seems that no one came to Kelly's assistance.

"It never occurred to me that Kelly was anything more than stunned. I went home, and burned that marriage certificate. There was no other record; I'd made sure of that. A few hours later, Hambidge phoned to say he'd filed his decision. There was nothing about Kelly in the morning paper. I'd no idea he was dead until long after dinner that night at Southampton."

Barry nodded.

"Of course, my first impulse was to give myself up," Winslow said. "But what good would that've done? They couldn't convict me. I'd killed in self-defense, and could come mighty near proving it. But in doing so, I'd've given away the secret I'd struggled to keep all these years. I'd've smashed Julie utterly, and ruined Hambidge, and Pat. Nobody was harmed by my keeping my mouth shut. There wasn't a chance of their finding Ridder guilty, or anyone else. If they'd done that, I'd've confessed in a moment."

"I know," Barry declared. "That's what you meant when you said, 'If we have to get the guilty man to free Rogers, we'll do it, but let's give the court a chance first.'"

"Yes."

Peter rose, and went to the window.

"The difficult thing," he continued, "was not to confess. With that boy in jail. But it was letting an innocent man suffer a few weeks, or an innocent woman all her life. If you'd seen Julie's face, when she collapsed after hearing of Selby's arrest—" He paused. "Of course, neither she nor Hambidge knows I killed Kelly."

Barry said, "They'll never know it through me."

"Bon voyage," he added, blithely, an instant later, his hat in his hand. "And come back soon. I'd like to have you two at my wedding."

[THE END]

ALLOT STATE $478,481 FOR STUDENT AID

Minnesota will receive $473,481 to provide student aid and work projects for the coming three months, the national youth administration announced.

Allotments to four other northwest states were a part of the $19,606,767 allotment for the whole nation. Of the fund, $1,118,494 will go for drouth relief.

Wisconsin's allotment, biggest of the five in this area was $488,356. Other allotments in the area were North Dakota, $243,513; South Dakota, $268,890; and Montana, $152,898.

"The program this year," Richard Brown, deputy executive director, announced, "will largely duplicate that of former years with schools and college officials exercising complete control over the selection of applicants and the devising and supervising of the work they perform.

"Monthly earnings also are unchanged, with a $6 maximum set for high school students and averages of $16 for college undergraduates and $25 for graduates. Those desiring student aid assistance should make application direct to the officials of the schools they wish to attend."

Included in the Minnesota total was $51,496, as a special student aid allotment for drouth relief. Similar allotments were made to North Dakota, $45,755; South Dakota, $50,715; Wisconsin, $22,489; Montana, $31,822, and other drouth states.

Progressives Chart Drive For Election of Roosevelt

An organization of liberals from political, labor and agricultural fields launched a campaign for the re-election of President Roosevelt Saturday in Chicago.

A parley of 116 conferees, meeting as the "national progressive conference", concluded with an agreement to back the chief executive, an appeal for all "progressive-minded" voters to join the drive and expressions of opposition to the Republican presidential candidacy of Alf. M. Landon.

A telegram was dispatched to Mr. Roosevelt, notifying him of his indorsement and adding: "We are now proceeding to organize in every state in the union for the purpose of waging a vigorous campaign for your re-election and the furtherance of the fight for equality and opportunity."

Headed by La Follette

Senator Robert M. La Follette was named chairman of an executive committee of 16 to supervise the group's efforts and send speakers to the hustings. It was decided to establish units in every state and to raise a campaign fund. La Follette said several thousand dollars was contributed at the session.

Sen. La Follette was authorized to name other members of the executive body.

The official registration roster listed representatives of four political parties—Republican, Democratic, Progressive and Farmer Labor. There were four U. S. senators—La Follette, Black of Alabama, Schwellenbach of Washington and Benson of Minnesota; two governors, Phillip La Follette of Wisconsin and Hjalmer Petersen of Minnesota; 12 congressmen and 27 labor leaders.

United Front Urged

Mayor La Guardia of New York was an active participant. John L. Lewis, chieftain of the committee for industrial organization and president of the United Mine Workers of America, and Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of New York, were in labor's delegation.

Lewis asserted the parley symbolized the "determination of liberals to preserve the nation from the Republican party, which places wealth and power above human welfare."

Senator Benson declared the "chief business at hand" was the defeat of Governor Landon."

M. W. Thatcher, Washington representative of the National Grain Co-operative, said President Roosevelt and the recent congress had provided "every law the majority of agricultural leaders has sought."

PLAN NEW CHURCH IN RED LAKE COUNTY

At a meeting of the Salem Lutheran congregation of Garnes, held at the Garnes schoolhouse, it was unanimously decided to erect a new church building to replace the one destroyed by fire August 18 just after $1,200 worth of alterations and improvements had been made on it. Work on the basement will be begun this fall. The building committee consists of Swan Walhaug, Carl Sorenson, T. T. Slettvedt, Sigurd Krostue and Mikkel Larson. The finance committee consists of Thor Skreland, Thor Gunstenson and Thor Larson.

WEST ROCKSBURY F. U. LOCAL HOLDS MEETING

The West Rocksbury Farmers Union Local held its regular meeting Thursday evening, Sept. 10, at the Aubol school with an ever-increasing crowd present. Business disposed of in course of the meeting was the nomination of the refreshment committee for the next time. Those nominated were: the Mesdames Ed. Aubol, Joe King and Henry Sorenson. Ed Roy, a county board member, gave comments and the highlights of the county convention. A motion was so ordered that we give Ed Roy as the county board member, full support and authority to act as he deems best for the better interest of our Union Activities, namely just of bringing into being our business activities in Thief River Falls.

Mr. Blake explained more fully the oil set-up in this county, comparing it with Red Lake and Polk. He also presented us with our state charter, having a total membership of sixty-six. Ed Roy was elected delegate to the state convention, with Joe King as alternate. Musical and vocal selections by local talent were injected into the meeting which was followed by a lunch.

PLUMMER

Mrs. Jacobson Is Injured

While returning from Thief River Falls Wednesday night of last week, Mrs. E. H. Jacobson, accompanied by her son Norman had the misfortune of running into some loose gravel, which caused the car to plunge into the ditch and overturn. Mrs. Jacobson was taken to St. Luke's hospital where she remained for a few days for medical attention. Her many friends were pleased to hear that her injuries were not serious. Norman escaped with a few minor bruises.

Library Club Is Formed

At a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Jas. Jackson Wednesday, Sept. 23rd, the Plummer Women's Study Club was disbanded and reorganized under the name of the "Library Club". Mrs. W. G. McGrady was elected president and Mrs. Lars Hage, secretary-treasurer. Mrs. Paul LaVoie and Mrs. O. H. Lasglie were appointed to solicit funds for the library. Mrs. McCrady will be in charge of the library. The club enrollment is to be limited to sixteen members. The next meeting will be held at the W. T. Lonergan home Wednesday afternoon, October 7th at 2 p. m.

F-U Locals Organized

A meeting was held in the Municipal Auditorium Thursday evening, Sept. 24th for the purpose of organizing a local unit of the Farmers Union. Geo. Blake, organizer of Detroit Lakes, Minn., had charge of the meeting. A similar meeting was held in the Finn Hall, Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis LaBonte, of Crookston, visited at the Geo. Thibert home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thibert visited friends and relatives in Tereebonne Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Theo. Laniel and daughter Kathleen, of Brooks, spent Monday at the Mrs. Mary Elfert home.

Earl Morrissette left Wednesday for the Twin Cities to resume his studies at the University of Minnesota.

Mrs. M. L. Karlstad left Wednesday evening for a two weeks visit with relatives in Minneapolis and Zumbrota, Minn.

Mr. John Greenwald's new home in the first addition to Plummer is nearing completion and will soon be ready for occupancy.

Miss Eleanor Mack, who is teaching at Ogama, Minn., spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Mack.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Rasmussen of Greely, Colorado, arrived Sunday for a visit at the home of Mrs. Rasmussen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Al Thorton.

Oliver LaVoy called on relatives here one evening last week while enroute from Minneapolis to Thompson, N. Dak., where he will be employed.

Monday afternoon the Farmer-Labor Cavalcade arrived in Plummer. A short program was given consisting chiefly of short talks by members of the Cavalcade.

Postmaster F. J. Mack is making extensive improvements on the dwelling which he purchased recently. He plans to have it ready to move into in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Ford, Leo Pahlen, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lonegran and son Walter Jr., were among those who attended a party in honor of the thirtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Sherry at the Sherry home at Red Lake Falls, Saturday evening, Sept. 26th.

A large number of people enjoyed sight-seeing trips in the airplane which landed here Monday. Various stunts were performed for amusement of the crowd. School was dismissed a little earlier than usual so some of the school children could take advantage of the occasion.

—SCHOOL NOTES—

A special meeting of the senior class was called Friday afternoon. Roy Hayden's resignation as class president was accepted. He held this office last year.

The motion was made that the vice president, June Norby, be promoted to the office. The motion was carried by a unanimous vote.

Julia Mack was elected to fill the vice president's office.

Kenneth Bruggeman who last Friday returned from the hospital, has had many visits from his school mates who wish to have him return to school as soon as possible.

Saturday Mr. Jaspers and Stanley Karlstad cleaned out the dressing room and sorted equipment in anticipation of the opening of fall basketball practice.

A salesman from an archery supply house called at the school last Wednesday and displayed his wares. There was quite a bit of interest shown i nthis sport by the high school girls. If suitable arrangements can be made, archery may be one of the extra activities of the school. It is an interesting sport for boys as well as girls.

Miss Neudecker has volunteered her assistance. She has had some experience in this sport.

The camera craft club has completed a practice project. This consisted of the technique of picture arrangement and mounting according to accepted rules in common practice.

Two pictures were also taken of groups in the club. Data on light conditions, background, time, and kind of film and camera were recorded to facilitate constructive criticism of the exposure after the film has been developed.

The Plummer Parent-Teachers' Association met in regular session Sept. 24th at the school house. The association in its business session approved the minutes and the financial statement of last year. The election of officers took comparatively little time. Mrs. Jack Pahlen was elected president for the coming year by a majority of one vote. The vice president, Mrs. James Gilbertson, the secretary, Julius Adrian, and the treasurer, Mr. Kenneth Grimsrud were "railroaded" into office by instructing the secretary to cast a unanimous ballot.

The entertainment part of the program followed. The first number consisted of a group of songs by the fifth and sixth grades under the direction of Mr. Jaspers. Mr. Jaspers is very ably continuing the music work begun by Miss Koed. The songs were very well received.

Helen Gilbert, who toured the eastern part of the United States this summer, gave a most interesting talk on the national capitol. She spoke informally from notes and interspersed her talk with personal comments. Helen is to be complimented and congratulated on her ability to appear before a group and do so well.

The other talk of the evening was given by Miss Burke. She spoke on Alaska.

Roy Hayden played two violin solos. Roy has been studying violin at the McPhail Conservatory of Music and has improved greatly in the last year. It is a pleasure to hear him. Any community which has young people with talent who are as willing to help and who are as dependanble as Roy, is fortunate.

Carol Hovland made a "hit" as the lazy farmer who didn't want 'lectricity - rural electrification or no rural electrification. Carol should have a small repertoire of selections so that she is in a position to respond to encores demanded by her audience.

Lunch was served in the school lunch room by the teachers after the program. The lunch consisted of light and dark sandwiches, cookies, jello, pickles, and coffee.

The Plummer P. T. A. meets every fourth Thursday of the month. All are cordially invited to its meetings.

Mrs. Pahlen, Mrs. Ripple, Mr. Ohnstad and Mr. Adrian as delegates of the Plummer P. T. A. attended the evening session of the district meeting of the Minn. P. T. A. at St. Hilaire on Friday evening.

Plans are under way for a larger and better school carnival. This undoubtedly will be held on the 30th of October. Watch for it.

A large crowd of farmers from the Mud Lake district, as well as other citizens of Middle River and surrounding territory, went to Warren Wednesday, Sept. 30, to attend the hearing on the adjustment of damages or remuneration to the settlers in the area presumably affected by the project.

The E. M. Evans family, Mrs. Wright and R. D. V. Carr all went to the Hamburger Day festivities at Warren Saturday in the Evans family automobile. It was an enjoyable day for them and all other visitors, even though it was so chilly we had to forsake the outdoor activities at times and hunt indoor heat to warm up. The two main features of the days program were the political speeches of Ernest Lundeen, Farmer-Labor candidate for U. S. senator and Martin Nelson, Republican candidate for governor. Both the men are fluent speakers and held the earnest attention of the large crowd. There is a great divergence of views among the listeners as to which of them presented the most convincing arguments, the judgment of the hearers being largely influenced by which party they endorse. The various out-door contests were very entertaining to watch and hear. The wife calling contest was particularly pleasing to Middle River attendants, because Louis Anderson won the first prize of $5.00.

FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER
First District, Pennington County

I was a candidate for County Commissioner from the First Commissioner District of Pennington County, at the Primary Election, and lost out by only Five Votes. A large number of friends and supporters throughout the district and especially in my home township have now urged me to again come out as a candidate for Commissioner on stickers. At this request I have consented to make the race once more, this time on stickers. I trust I may have your vote and support. I will try to see as many of the voters as I can personally, but if I fail to see you, remember that your vote will be appreciated. My stickers will be thoroughly distributed, but if you fail to get one of my stickers, you can write my name in on the ballot. If elected, I pledge myself to be fair and impartial to all parts of the district, and to give fair and efficient service to all the people of my district. Hoping I may have your active support and vote, I am,

Very respectfully,
CHRIS NORBECK

PAID ADV.: Prepared, published and circulated in his own behalf by Chris Norbeck, Thief River Falls, Minn., candidate for County Commissioner, for which the sum of $1.85 has been paid.

East Grand Forks To Play Here Friday

yards in two line bucks. The next play, which was a pass, crushed all Crookston's hopes for scoring against the locals, when Dicken intercepted the heave on his goal line and raced the 100 yards to a touchdown. Adkins place-kicked for the extra point.

The first score o fthe game was made in the opening ot the second half when a punt bounded through the arms of Matson over the goal line where Bud Nelson downed him for a safety and two points. Crookston kicked off from their 20 yard line to the 50 where the prowlers started a march down the field to the Pirate's 4-yard marker, and from there Wessling crashed through the line and over the goal for a touchdown. The plunge for extra point failed.

The local eleven dominated play throughout the game. With Nesse crashing through the line for gain after gain and Hill skirting both ends, they rolled up thirteen first downs by rushing to Crookston's one. Every time the Pirates obtained possession of the ball, it was necessary for them to punt to get the ball out of the territory near their goal line. The Prowlers deserved to win by a much bigger margin.

The line-up:

Last Week's Plummer Forum Copies Are Lost

The bundle of Forum newspapers sent weekly to Plummer was lost in some manner last week so the many subscribers there failed to get their copies. No trace can be found as to where the bundle went.

Some extra copies left at this office have been sent to replace the lost bundle but these are not numerous enough to fill the bill. The publishers regret this inconvenience and hopes it will not occur again.

Hartz Will Open Two New Grocery Stores

Two new Hartz grocery stores are about to be opened, states L. B. Hartz, manager, at the headquarters here. The proposed new stores are at Grafton, N. D., and at New York Mills, this state.

The Grafton store is being open this week and the New York Mills store will be opened the middle of this month. The addition of these two makes the total of Hartz stores twenty-three.

Exceeds Entire State Property Levy by More Than $7,000,000

During the fiscal year ending on June 30 last, the state extended aid to local communities totalling $22,136,462 as contrasted with state aid to local communities totalling only $7,000,900 during the last fiscal year of the Republican administration of Governor Christianson.

In other words, the state under the Farmer-Labor administration increased state aid to local governments by $15,135,562, thus enabling the local communities to reduce local taxes. Had this aid not been forthcoming, the tax rate for the local governments would have been considerably higher than it is today. The amount of state aid exceeds by $7,000,000 the entire amount received by the state from the state property levy.

The above information was given this week by Senator Elmer A. Benson, Farmer-Labor candidate for governor, in reply to Republican accusations that local governments reduced their taxes while the state government increased expenditures. At the same time, Senator Benson pointed out that the Republican legislature approved every item of state expenditures, but Martin A. Nelson seeks to conceal that fact from the public when he shouts extravagance.

State aid to the local governments Senator Benson listed as follows: "School aid during the past fiscal year totalled $14,122,526; relief assumed by the state for the local communities, $5,451,509; old age assistance payments for the last six months, $1,162,427; maintenance of county roads taken over by the state as part of the state trunk highway system and repairs to those roads, $1,250,000.

"It was a Farmer-Labor administration which sponsored these various state aids," stated Senator Benson. "If the state had not done this, the local communities would have had to raise this amount thru a local real estate tax levy.

"And, despite this aid given to the local communities, the appropriations for our state government, were less under the Olson administration than they were under the Christianson administration."

Trucks Must Carry 3 Flares, Patrol Warns

Officers of the state highway patrol have ordered a general tightening up of enforcement of flare laws affecting motor trucks, according to a highway department bulletin.

Trucks and buses using trunk highways are required to carry as standard equipment three flares and three red flags, according to John P. Arnoldy, chief of the highway patrol. The only exception to this rule is that trucks carrying gasoline or other inflammable material need have only two flares. Either electric or oil burning flares of approved type may be used. The flares must be set out if a truck is left standing on a trunk highway after dark, while the flags are for daytime warnings.

Midland Coop. Wholesale Holds District Meeting

The delegates and board members of Dist. No. 5 of Midland cooperative wholesale met in the court rooms at Thief River Falls Thursday of last week.

P. F. Pearson, district director and chairman, presided. The board was organized as follows: Emil Wagner, Ada, Minn., vice pres.; A. L. Synes, Gonvik, Minn., second vice-pres.; L. A. Nelson, Goodridge, Minn., sec. and treas.; Sam Hauge, Bagley, Minn., director. Mr. Brown, the M C W field man, gave a report on the progress of the different associations, which shows an increase of 23 percent over the same period last year. He also emphasized that the members should patronize all the cooperative organizations that are in their own trade territory. He also commented on the new associations that have lately become affiliated with Midland, which are: Winger coop. oil association, Winger; Black Duck coop. oil association, Black Duck; Mentor coop. oil association, Mentor; Angus coop. elevator, Angus; Lancaster coop. creamery, Lancaster; Farm Bureau coop. service company, Bemidji, Minn. Other associations previously affiliated are: Ada coop. creamery association, Ada: Hendrum coop. oil association, Hendrum; Bagley coop. oil association, Bagley; Community coop. oil association, Clearbrook; Middle River coop. oil association, Middle River; Marshall County coop. oil association, Warren; Kittson County coop. oil association, Hallock; Lake Shore coop. oil association, Thief River Falls; Lake Shore coop. oil association, Greenbush.

Mr. Hull gave a talk and report of the Cooperative Insurance association, and the value of all the members to take out all its insurance through the Coop. Insurance. The question was raised on a credit union and a report was made by Sam Hauge of Bagley on the success of the credit union in his community, also the value of credit to cooperatives.

R. M. Aalbu of Thief River Falls gave a talk, and urged that the cooperatives hear Dr. Ingralstad when he comes to Thief River Falls. Mr. Thompson, of the Midland Coop. Wholesale, talked on cooperative schools and asked the members to group themselves so as to make use of the instructor one night each week, and so as to have five groups in the district. The board members in conclusion talked on the various activities in their communities, and what could be done to build the cooperative movement.

Four Black Bears Are Seen Near Grygla

Chas. Nordquist, who lives eight miles southeast of Grygla, was a visitor at the Forum office Wednesday when he told of having seen four black bears.

It was no joke, he said, as he could bring witnesses along to substantiate his story which he related as follows; He and Pete Carlson were having lunch out in Carlson's field five miles south of Grygla where they were cutting flax with a tractor. As Carlson's dog began to make such an ungodly disturbance, their attention fell upon four dark moving objects out in the field less than a block away. It turned out to be a big black mother bear, and her three cubs better than half grown. Having no gun, the two flax harvesters started their noisy tractor, which caused Mamma Bruin and her three cubs to change their course and to disappear in the nearby brush and forest.

Big black bears may be alright in their cages, Mr. Nordquist said, but it's no fun to see them out in the open—at least without a gun.

Ray Jenson of the Highlanding vicinity shot a full grown female wolf near his father's farm Friday last week. The animal was brought here and young Jenson received his bounty of $15.00.

Ervin Vigen of the Grygla vicinity, shot a bobcat two weeks ago. It is also repotred that a resident ten miles east of Grygla shot a giant black bear recently. In that territory, it is stated, bear tracks are numerous in the forest.

LANDON LEADS POLL IN STATE

Minnesota voters gave Governor Landon a majority of 1,137 over President Roosevelt and William Lemke in the second week's report of the Literary Digest's presidential straw poll. Returns from nine states reduced Landon's lead slightly. to less than 2 to 1. His total was 61,190, against 33,423 and 4,169.

Minnesota gave Landon 8,620 ballots; Roosevelt, 5,929; and Lemke, 1,544. Indicating that Lemke will draw most of his Minnesota support from the Democratic ranks, the report showed that 1,137 of the Lemke votes were cast by persons who voted for Roosevelt in 1932, while 207 came from supporters of Herbert Hoover four years ago.

Of the Landon vote of 8,620, a total of 6,236 were cast by people who backed Hoover in 1932, while 1,720 were from Democratic voters.

Landon Leads In East

In the Minnesota Roosevelt poll of 5,939, only 1,011 came from Republicans, while 4,300 were repeating their Roosevelt vote. Of the other eight states in the second week's report, six, all in the east, gave Landon leads. These were Indiana, Maine, New Jersey, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania. Roosevelt led in Oklahoma and in Texas.

Indiana gave: Landon, 2.542; Roosevelt, 1,690; Lemke, 128. Maine: Landon, 4,826; Roosevelt, 2,179; Lemke, 177. New Jersey: Landon, 9,402; Roosevelt 5,733. Ohio: Lemke, 485. New York: Landon, 16,715; Roosevelt, 7,194; Lemke, 975. Ohio: Landon, 3,293; Roosevelt, 2,193; Lemke, 271. Pennsylvania: Landon, 14,989; Roosevelt 6,853; Lemke, 578. In Oklahoma, Roosevelt polled 712 votes, to 618 for Landon and 7 for Lemke. In Texas, he received 930 against 185 for Landon and 4 for Lemke.

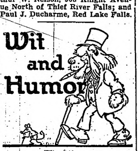
Examinations Announced For Naval Academy

Preliminary competitive examinations for Ninth Congressional District applicants for appointment to the U. S. Military academy at West Point, New York, and the U. S. Naval academy at Annapolis, have been announced by Congressman R. T. Buckler for Saturday, Oct. 17.

The examinations will be given at the post offices in Thief River Falls, and several other cities in the district.

To date authority to take the examinations has been given forty young men residing in the Ninth District. The tests are being conducted by the U. S. Civil Service commission and after an examination report is made to Congressman Buckler, he will make his selections for the two principal appointments and the alternate appointments to each of the academies. The young men securing the appointments will take the regular entrance examinations being given by the academies in February for entrance July 1, 1937.

The following from the area have been authorized to take the preliminary examinations at Thief River Falls: Paul H. Jepson, Hazel; Raleigh Willems, River; Jerome M. Havel, 415 Arnold Avenue and Arthur W. Nelson, 908 Knight Avenue North of Thief River Falls; and Paul J. Ducharme, Red Lake Falls.



ALL ALIKE

Jackson met an old school friend whom he had not seen for a number of years.

"Hallo, old chap," he said heartily. "I hear you've been engaged for nearly a year. Who is the woman in the case?"

"I don't think you know her," replied Jackson. "She's a Miss Terry."

The other shook his head gravely.

"I understand, old chap," he replied. "I've been married to one for ten years, and she's still a mystery."—Stray Stories.

Not Fair

Two patients were airing their grievances in the asylum grounds.

Said one: "It's an outrage. I've been here ten years, and I'm as sane as anybody."

"So am I," chinned in the other, "and I've been here 12 years. Let's go and tell the Governor."

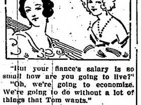
"Wait a minute," said the first. "I'm going to test you."

Then, putting her hands behind her back, she said: "What have I got in my hand?"

"A tramcar," promptly answered the other.

"You cheat!" was the heated retort. "You saw me pick it up!"—Tit-Bits.

ONE WAY



"But your fiance's salary is so small how are you going to live?"

"Oh, we're going to economize. We're going to do without a lot of things that Tom wants."

Pinch Hitting

At a marriage service performed in a little country church, when the minister said in solemn tones, "Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband, etc.?" instead of the woman answering for herself, a gruff man's voice answered, "I will!"

The minister looked up, very much perplexed, and paused. He repeated the sentence and again the same gruff voice answered, "I will!"

The minister looked up, when a man seated at the end of the first row said, "She's deaf, parson, an' I'm answerin' for her!"

Everyone a Loser

A small boy came hurriedly down the street, and halted breathlessly in front of a stranger who was walking in the same direction.

"Have you lost half a dollar?" he asked.

"Yes, yes, I believe I have!" said the stranger, feeling in his pocket. "Have you found one?"

"Oh, no," said the boy. "I just want to find out how many have been lost today. Yours makes 55."

TRI-STATE WATER PACT GETS BACKING

A tri-state pact between Minnesota and the Dakotas to control, operate and maintain dams built with federal moneys was recommended by Governor Hjalmer Petersen before the Minnesota state planning board recently.

Although empowered to dissolve or set up a new state planning board to work with the national resources committee by virtue of his ascendency to the governorship, the chief executive expressed confidence in the past performances of the group and announced the continuation of the board as now constituted.

Dr. Richard E. Scammon resigned as chairman after serving for nearly two years. Elected to succeed him was O. B. Jesness of St. Paul.

"I am very pleased with the membership," said Governor Peterson. "Certainly there can be much done in the way of conservation, soil erosion, resettlement. Whatever we can do in establishing and securing the $750,000 for the building of that dam at the outlet of the Red lake will be a good thing.

"Several weeks ago we had a meeting in Fargo, N. D., and we discussed the setting up of a tri-state pact, so when the dams are built by the federal government, and their work is ended, a commission can be established by the three states—Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota—to have supervision of those dams."

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE MEETS HERE OCT. 11-2

Local Gathering Will Be One of Fifteen Held In State

Temperance Drama Will Be Given Sunday

Many Church Services To Be Addressed By Visiting Pastors

There is every indication that the two-day Conference Convention of Dry Forces to be here in Thief River Falls next Sunday and Monday, Oct. 11 and 12, will be one of the most intensive programs in behalf of the dry cause ever demonstrated in this section of the state. The meetings constitute one of about 15 similar demonstrations being held in the state and it is reported that all of those that have already been held have proved decidedly successful.

The program for next Sunday will be as follows: Dr. R. N. Holsaple, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league will speak at the Community church and also at the Trinity Lutheran church; Rev. H. J. Yngve will speak in the morning at Zion Lutheran and the Scandinavian Evangelical Free Mission; Dr. Frank E. Day, prominent divine of Minneapolis will speak at 9:30 Sunday morning at the Brooks Presbyterian church and at 11 at the Red Lake Falls Presbyterian church. At 8 o'clock on Sunday evening a community mass meeting will be held in the city auditorium where the dry organization's newest drama "Death Takes the Steering Wheel" will be presented. If the success of the last temperance drama given here two years ago entitled "Prisoner at the Bar" is any criterion, a packed house may be expected. At the drama "Prisoner at the Bar", the auditorium was jammed, with several hundred people standing up all evening and over 500 turned away unable to get in.

On Monday, Oct. 12, it is expected that Dr. Holsaple will conduct an alcohol study in the school. At 10:30 A. M. there will be a conference for the pastors of Pennington, Red Lake, Marshall, Kittson, and Roseau counties in the Community church. The conference will be addressed by Dr. Frank E. Day and Dr. Holsaple. At 12:15 noon there will be a Business and Professional luncheon to which 300 prominent citizens have been invited and to which everyone who wishes to attend will be welcome. At the luncheon Rev. E. A. Cooke will be

71 Are Examined At Children's Clinic

Seventy-one children were examined at the regional children's clinic held at the local auditorium last Saturday, conducted under the direction of Mrs. Clara Paulson, the school nurse. Dr. H. Meyerding if Rochester, clinician, was the chief medical advisor.

The classification of those in attendance is as follows:

17 Gillette Hospital cases, 7 Shriner's Hospital cases, 5 University Hospital cases, 11 who had attended local clinic previously with no further orthopedic care, and 31 new cases.

Those who assisted with th eclinic from the Women's Club were: the Mesdames C. W. Vorachek, C. H. Jung, H. A. Brumund, M. T. McFarland, Andy Williamson, Clarence Knudson, B. O. Norby, A. M. Smith, R. V. Sherman, W. W. Prichard, W. N Morrell, O. Lynde, Bloomquist, M. Bye, and L. G. Larson.

The nurses assisting were: Mrs. L. Arnold, Miss Edna Moen, Miss E. Richards, Mrs. L. Strom, Miss Mabel Johnson, Miss Gunderson, and Miss McLaughlin. Others were: Miss Elizabeth Dahlen, Miss Lois Morrell, Miss Margaret Paupst, and Ariel Reidy.

The lunch served to the children was donated by Jung's Bakery, the Land O' Lakes Creamery, and the City Dairy.

The Division of Services wishes to express their sincere appreciation for the cooperation given by the local agencies.

Duck Season Opens Saturday At Noon

Saturday, October 10th, at 12 o'clock noon, Minnesota hunters can bag their first ducks for the 1936 season.

The season will continue until November 8th, with shooting permitted from 7:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. each day, except on boundary waters between Minnesota and South Dakota, where shooting is permitted from 7:00 a. m. to 2:00 p. m.

The daily limit is ten migratory waterfowl of all kinds, of which not more than four may be geese or brant. The possession limit is also ten.

There will be no open season for wood duck, ruddy duck, bufflehead, redhead, canvasbacks, swans, and greater and lesser yellow legs.

All duck hunters must obtain the $1.00 Federal Duck Stamp.

Local nimrods are preparing for the opening with a bang or two. While birds are not abundant there are plenty to be found by those desiring to hunt for them.

Window displays are excellent in several local hunter's supply stores, Luther Haugen especially having fitted out a fine exhibit at the Oen store building.

PLANS FOR NORSE SPILLEMANDS LAG ARE IN PROGRESS

Bjornaraa Expects Many Noted Persons Here At 2-Day Event

Arrangements for the Norsemen's violin player's convention, (Spillemand's laget) are rapidly being made, states B. Bjornaraa, who is the organization's secretary and is making local preparations. The group will meet here Friday and Saturday, Oct. 16 and 17.

The opening program will begin at two o'clock, Friday. That evening there will be a contest in the Hardanger classes of which there are three called in Norse, "kappleik". There will be talks by R. A. Trovatten of St. Paul, the state dairy commissioner, and others vitally interested in the work of the organization. There will also be held Norse national dances and Norwegian singing. After the program there will be a free dance to all in attendance at the program. Music will be furnished by the numerous Hardanger violin players.

On Saturday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, a Leif Erickson program will be rendered. This will include speeches by prominent persons in attendance, some singing and instrumental music.

That evening the convention will terminate in a contest for the very best Huldrespil violin players. There will also be a contest in the Norwegian national dances. Prizes will be awarded at this time after which there will be talks by prominent visitors, the event terminating in a dance open to the public.

The local civic and commerce organizations are asisting Mr. Bjornaraa in preparing for the event which, it is expected, will bring prominent Norwegian characters from almost every section of North America. Mr. Bjirnaraa expects soon to announce a list of prominent Norsemen who will speak or participate in the program here.

Fall 4H Achievement Day, October 17th

The 1936 Fall 4-H Achievement Day will be held at the Fair Grounds at Thief River Falls on Saturday, Oct. 17th, beginning at 10 o'clock, for all 4-H members having beef calves, fat hogs, market lambs, market poultry, or turkeys to exhibit, states R. M. Douglass, the Pennington county agent.

This event is held every fall to select winners to the Junior Livestock Show at South St. Paul in November. Trips will be awarded as follows: 3 beef calves (grade heifers or steers, or purebred steers); 1 lard hog (grade or purebred barrow); 5 market lambs (grade or purebred ewe or wethers); 1 pen market poultry (5 cockerels, 5 ducks or 3 geese); and 1 pen market turkeys (3 toms).

All club boys and girls enrolled in these classes are urged to show at this event and complete their projects. Record blanks must also be brought to this event. Cash prizes will be awarded.

NOTED SPEAKER WILL GIVE FOUR LECTURES HERE

Dr. Fred W. Ingvoldstad to Address Civic Groups and Mass Meeting

Has Studied Soviet Conditions Many Years

His address in the evening at the city auditorium will deal with conditions in Soviet Russia which he re-visited this summer. The expenses connected with the appearance here of Dr. Ingvoldstad is being taken care of by a group of local citizens and the lectures will be free to the public.

F.-L. Committees Set Four County Meetings

The following Farmer-Labor rallies, addressed by W. E. Day, and others, will be held in Pennington county at the following places: Dimmen school, (Norden twp.) Oct. 20th; Wylie school, Oct. 21st; Hazel school, Oct. 22nd; Jasperson school (Mayfield twp) Oct. 23rd.

All are evening meetings, commencing at 8 o'clock, states H. O. Berve, campaign manager.

Train-Auto Crash Kills Wylie Man

William Kitzrow, 54 years old, of Wylie, 12 miles southwest of Thief River Falls, was instantly killed, and his wife was seriously injured, when their automobile was struck by a Great Northern passenger train and carried 200 feet from the highway crossing the city of Red Lake Falls, Saturday evening.

The accident occurred at 9:30 P. M. at the railroad crossing near the courthouse just as the couple started to drive home. There are no gates or warning bells at the place, and it is believed that Mr. Kitzrow did not hear the approaching Diesel engine because of his slight deafness. Mrs. Kitzrow received head and back injuries.

Of the six children surviving, Raymond is the only one at home. The others are Jerome, Waldemar, Elvira and Mrs. George Uran, all of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Howard Norstetter of Cottage Grove, Wis. He was a member of the Wylie Evangelical Lutheran church, and moved there 15 years ago from New Ulm, Minnesota.

Jury Court Will Begin Monday; 2 Cases Settled

One paternity case and one divorce case were settled by Judge M. A. Brattland in district court hearing here this week, the hearings beginning Monday. Two new cases were added to the list for jury hearing next week when Gordon Rod and Randolph Lindberg, both from the eastern part of the county were bound over on the charge of assault and battery.

The jurors will be called for early Monday when jury hearings on criminal cases will begin. These cases will be taken in order as listed on the calendar. After the criminal cases are disposed of, the civil cases will be taken in order as listed.

It is expected that some cases may be settled before called for a jury hearing.

Young Grygla Woman Is Killed In Accident

Mrs. Ernest Selle, aged 26, was accidentally killed late Saturday evening on the highway west of Grygla. Mrs. Selle and three other ladies were returning home from that town about midnight, Mrs. Selle driving the car. Another car came speeding along and passed the Selle car. As a cloud of dust obstructed the roadview, Mrs. Selle stepped on the brakes. These caught very suddenly, turned the car over with the result that Mrs. Selle sustained a fractured skull and other serious injuries, dying instantly. The others received only minor injuries.

Mrs. Ernest Selle was born Nov. 25, 1910, at Scotchburg, Ind., and came with her parents to Malcolm in 1919. She was married in Warren Nov. 20, 1928, to Ernest Selle, and they have lived near Malcolm ever since. Surviving Mrs. Selle are her husband, Mr. Selle, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hill of Malcolm, three brothers, Sam, of Grygla, and Leanard and Foster, of Malcolm, one sister Mrs. Hiplet Verbaut of Malcolm, and three daughters Marie Jane, Lois, and Verna.

Rev. Anderson will conduct the services and interment will be at Lone Oak cemetery in Grygla today, (Thursday).

GRAFTON PLAYS HERE ON FRIDAY

Prowlers Score One-Sided Victory Over East Grand Forks In Ganme Last Week

The visiting Grafton football team will strive to halt the Prowler's victory string and to gain prestige for themselves when they tangle with Coach Lee's gridders on the Lincoln field tomorrow evening.

The Prowlers have been returned the victors over Red Lake Falls, Crookston, and East Grand Forks previously this season and local fandom is predicting another addition to the Prowler's winning column. Grafton has suffered several humiliating defeats but can derive a little satisfaction from them as they probably faced the most powerful eleven in the state when they lost to Valley City. Their other previous opponents have also been of high calibre.

The Thief River Falls Prowlers battered the Little Green Wave of East Grand Forks into submission here Friday evening and emerged victorious by a 33 to 0 county. As they easily dominated play thruout the contest they were never in serious danger.

The Prowlers drove over a touchdown before the game was three minutes old. Hill scored the touchdown and Adkins booted the pigskin over the bar for the extra point. Almost immediately after the kickoff, Hill skirted end on a very deceptive play to score. The kick for extra point was too low. A pass, Nesse to Mickelson, again placed the ball in scoring territory and again Hill went over for a touchdown, his third for the game. The attempted placekick failed.

Early in the second quarter, Milt Nesse hurled a long aerial to Mickelson who went for another Prowler touchdown. Nesse spun through the line for the extra point. The count remained 26 to 0 at the half.

M. Nesse and Hill collaborated to carry the ball consistently for long gains in the third quarter and were finally rewarded as Hill went around end for his fourth touchdown.

GOP WILL HOLD BIG RALLY HERE NEXT TUESDAY

Theo. Christianson and A. Nelson Will be Main Speakers

Women's Drum Corps And Band Will Parade

H. Stiening Will Address Young Repubs. at Friday Evening Dinner

Theodore Christianson, candidate for U. S. senator, and Arthur Nelson, candidate for lieutenant governor, will address a big Republican rally at the Auditorium in this city next Tuesday evening, Oct. 13th. This will be a rally that will include party adherents from Red Lake, Polk and Marshall, in conjunction with Pennington.

The Thief River Falls band and the American Legion Auxiliary Drum corps will stage a parade through the principal streets of the city, terminating at the city auditorium just before the meeting opens at 8 o'clock. The band will also render several selections in front of the auditorium. A. W. Dahlquist will preside at the indoor meeting, with Paul Lundgren the announcer as the parade goes through town.

Christianson and Nelson come here from Warren where they speak at 3 o'clock the same day. On Wednesday at 3 o'clock they will speak at Red Lake Falls.

State Senator Stiening of Moorhead will be the main speaker at a young Republican dinner at the Palm Garden cafe at 7 o'clock Friday evening this week. Other speakers will be, Marius Waldal, and Geo. Jones, candidates for the legislature. There will be musical numberes rendered during the serving of the dinner.

The speakers of Tuesday evening are expected to present the GOP arguments in behalf of their party ticket, both state, local and national.

Ram Exchange Day To Be Held October 17th

Under the supervision of Hans Anton, another Ram Exchange Day will be held at the Fair Grounds in Thief River Falls, Saturday, October 17th, from 10 to 3:30 o'clock.

It is felt that this day will afford the opportunity for buyers and sellers to get together and compare prices and qualities, states R. M. Douglass, the county agent.

Buyers, sellers, and exchangers are invited to come and to bring their rams, but as it is desired that this exchange day should lead to improved flocks, it is requested that only good purebred rams be brought in for exchange or sale.

Closed Season On Deer Recommended

A closed season in 1936, for deer in Polk, Red Lake and Pennington counties was recommended by the Northwestern Minnesota association of Conservation clubs at a meeting at Red Lake Falls Tuesday night of members from the three counties and Marshall county.

The recommendation was dispatched to the Minnesota state game and fish department by A. A. Trost of Warren, secretary-treasurer of the association. Decision to propose a closed season was reached by a vote of the members attending the meeting.

Marshall county, at a previous meeting of its conservation organization, had recommended an open season on deer for that section of Marshall county lying east of the Old Sault Ridge Trail and a closed season for the western section of the county.

In addition to club members, game wardens from the northwestern Minnesota counties attended.

Among those from Thief River Falls who were in attendance were Olaf Sorensen, Harold Olson, Ingvald Fossum, Ole Ness and Pete Peterson. Mr. Olson is a member of the district board of directors.

Two-Hundred CCC Boys Are Sent To Camp

Two-hundred and two boys, all members of the CCC camp, signed up from six counties in this vicinity, were sent off to various points by the federal agency here under the direction of L. G. Larson. Lieut Erickson of Fort Snelling was the CCC officers directing the consignments.

The boys enlisting in CCC work came from the counties of Polk, Red Lake, Marshall, Kittson, Roseau and Pennington. Fourteen were designated from this county, with another to be consigned after a trip to the Twin Cities. Due to the fact that Pennington county was not designated in the drought territory the quota here was not as large as in the other counties.

Five local boys were stationed at the CCC camp at Middle River. The other nine local boys were consigned with the group to the following places in the following proportions: twenty to Mahnomen; eighty-five to Bena; sixty-six to Remer and twenty-six to Cass Lake. The term of enlistment is for six months.

WORKERS GROUP HOLDS MEETING AT AUDITORIUM

John Saltis, Minneapolis Speaks To Convention At Auditorium

About 250 people attended the organizational mass meeting in the City Auditorium Thursday night. The meeting, called by the Workmen's Protective League of Thief River Falls, was addressed by John Saltis of Minneapolis. Mr. Saltis, who was one of the organizers of the Non-Partisan League and also helped found the Minnesota Farmer-Labor party, is one of the national organizers of the Workers Alliance of America.

He gave a masterly survey of the rise of capitalism, the bankruptcy of the American farmer in 1921, and the capitalist crisis in 1929. This survey was a prelude to his explanation of the Workers Alliance. This organization is a nation-wide consolidation of unemployment councils, W. P. A. unions, and various other small organized groups. The total membership is now over 1,200,000, of which 30,000 members are in the state of Minnesota alone.

Mr. Saltis pointed out that the Workers Alliance is a logical outgrowth of the capitalist crisis. The ruling class is organized into national groups, so why shouldn't the unemployed workers organize in the same way? That, he said, was the logic behind the formation of the Workers Alliance.

As to the concrete results of the organization, the fact was cited that because of it, the WPA wage scale in Hennepin county was raised from slightly over $44 a month to over $60. The Alliance is now interested in making this scale statewide.

Mr. Saltis was followed by Walter Lee of Menagha, Minn, who gave a short, inspiring talk on organizational work.

R. M. Aalbu of this city acted as chairman of the meeting.

Three Women Jurors Named In Red Lake

Three women were drawn to serve on the petit jury of Red Lake County district court term which is called for October 12. They are Helen Rosch, Mrs. George Walker and Mrs. Hazel Phalen, all of Red Lake Falls. The men are Cary Lerohl, Oklee; Gilman Hegland, Garnes; Swan Walhaug, Garnes; Karl Rossberg, Plummer; Mike Walsh, Poplar River; Walter Hinze, Red Lake Falls; Teller Aaknes, Equality; Mike Mickelson, Gervais; Gunnur Breivold, Equality; Fred Seeger, Red Lake Falls town; Joseph Huot, Wylie; Clifford Longtin, Red Lake Falls town; Philip Demarais, Lake Pleasant; Alfred Vance, Louisville; Ferdinand and Schultz, Wylie; Henry Gerlach, Louisville; Joseph Hince, Lambert; Martin Poullot, Red Lake Falls; Mike Majeres, Brown's Creek; August Hinrichs, Red Lake Falls town, and Arthur Lambert, Lambert.

NOTICE BAND MEMBERS

An important band rehearsal will be held at the Auditorium on Thursday evening (tonight) at 8 o'clock. E. Egermeyer, Director.

FARMER-LABOR, DEMOCRATS TO MERGE DRIVES

Delaney and Curtis Withdraw From Contest To Aid Roosevelt

Benson And Lundeen Will Support President

Approval Meets Step In Coalition of Forces Opposing Republicans

Minnesota's gubernatorial and United States senatorial campaigns Saturday night had been narrowed to two party races following the withdrawal of the Democratic nominees for those offices in an effort to solidify Farmer-Labor and Democratic forces behind President Roosevelt.

Cancellations for Patrick J. Delaney of St. Paul, senatorial nominee and for Fred A. Curtis of So. St. Paul, for governor were filed with the secretary of state by Judge J. F. D. Meighen, chairman of the Democratic state central committee.

Remaining Nominees Silent

Delaney's withdrawal left the Farmer-Labor candidate, Rep. Ernest Lundeen of Minneapolis, to oppose Rep. Theodore Christianson Republican nominee. The gubernatorial race was narrowed to U. S. Senator Elmer A. Benson, Farmer-Labor and Martin A. Nelson, G. O. P. candidate, defeated two years ago by the late Governor Floyd B. Olson.

Both Delaney and Curtis asserted they were retiring to define the issue more clearly between "progress and reaction", and to promote re-election of Pres. Roosevelt thereby insuring "progress thus far made.".

Farley Lauds Move

"The progress thus far made," Curtis said in his statement, "can only be insured by re-electing Franklin D. Roosevelt president and electing Elmer A. Benson governor of Minnesota." Delaney did not refer directly to Lundeen, who presumably would benefit from the former's withdrawal.

In New York, James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, commenting on the action, said: "This means that the Democrats and the Farmer-Laborites in Minnesota will now be able to unite wholeheartedly in support of President Roosevelt and the Farmer-Laborite candidates for the senate and the governorship. This will bring victory for both the president and the Farmer-Laborites".

Benson has announced his approval of President Roosevelt's candidacy for re-election, while Lundeen has not committed himself as yet.

President to Visit St. Paul Friday Evening

A nine-day campaign trip into ten western states, starting today, Thursday, was charted for President Roosevelt Wednesday in a drive for votes in the agrarian interior and border states.

The itinerary for the strenuous trip, announced by a White House secretary, included two "major" speeches with national radio hookups— at Omaha, October 10 and Chicago, October 14—both at night.

The stumping tour will take the chief executive into Kansas, home state of his Republican opponent for the presidency, Governor Alf M. Landon. Besides more than a score of rear platform appearances, speeches also will be made at Denver in the morning of October 12 and at Detroit in the afternoon of October 15.

There will be other addresses, but the White House was not prepared Wednesday to announce definitely the places.

These probably will be at Dubuque, Iowa, Friday morning; St. Paul, Friday evening; Des Moines, Saturday morning; Lincoln, Neb., Saturday afternoon; Wichita, Kansas, and Kansas City, Mo., Saturday evening.

The president will speak Friday evening at the St. Paul auditorium beginning at 8 o'clock and it is expected that part of it or all may be broadcast over the Minneapolis and St. Paul radio stations.

ALIGNING PARTY POLICIES

Alfred E. Smith's speech over the radio on Thursday evening, wherein he came out in support of Gov. Alf. M. Landon, appears to have cleared national politics to a larger extent than before. While it is a question of how many will follow Al Smith from the Democratic into the Republican fold we hope he takes all the reactionaries with him, and there are a lot of these stand-pats in the east whom Roosevelt and his New Deal program can well afford to turn over the the Republicans.

If Al Smith and all his reactionary friends deserted their old party, we will have the beginning of a liberal and a conservative division in the United States. That is the issue as it should be. So far, wealthy Wall Street has controlled both parties so the progressives have had to content themselves with either joining a small third party or in trying to liberalize either of the two major parties, which certainly has led nowhere in these many years since Bryan made his entry into politics or when the Populists sought to gain power.

The alignment of politics into conservative and liberal or radical parties will define the issues in the present national campaign. Landon is conservative and Roosevelt is liberal. That the American people can support their favorite candidate should be appreciated. Of course, the politicians don't want the division made and, for fear of losing, will try to win over those from the other side which dims the issues.

But let Al Smith take all his reactionary friends with him over to the Republican party. It should be welcomed by all liberal minded people.

AN OLD LEADER TO BE HONORED

The Lindbergh State Park at Little Falls has been fittingly chosen as the scene of a gigantic Farmer Labor rally next Sunday, Oct. 11, when the entire ticket of the party will address the crowd that gathers to pay homage to the memory of their pioneer leader, the late Hon. Charles Lindbergh.

Senator Elmer A. Benson will deliver his address at 2:00 p. m. and the other members of his ticket will follow him with a few remarks expounding the principles that Minnesotans have come to realize as the true ideals of the common people of the state.

The selection of Lindbergh State Park is a distinct tribute to the memory of a great man, who was a martyr to the cause of the common people. Some twenty years ago, when it was unpopular to talk about the evils of capitalism, Congressman Lindbergh was loud in his effort to awaken the people to the calamity that was to befall them. His warnings either fell on deaf ears or upon the enemies who crucified him as a traitor to the country—a red, a Communist.

The passing events have vindicated the late Charles Lindbergh and thousands of his bitter enemies of the early twenties have come to realize that he was a prophet. His thoughts have been put in print and are a memorial to his suffering at the hands of the people he was trying to save.

THE WHY OF THE TAX ISSUE

The issue of taxes, both national and state, is generally held by the reactionaries as being a prominent one in this election. They consider that an appeal like that comes close to any man's pocketbook. But in the meantime they forget that, to a more or less extent, we have all benefitted in some manner because the government expended the tax money for relief in some form or other.

The problem of high taxes is generally presented in the form of a comparison of present taxes with those of many years ago. It is said, for instance, that when Thomas Jefferson was President, one hundred and thirty five years ago, we had one government employee to every one thousand people, but now we have one government employee to every five people. Naturally, if government has become such an important employer of human labor, in these times of surplus labor and extreme unemployment, we might expect that the cost of government would be greater. After all, it is far better to have men and women employed by government than to have them wasting their lives away in breadlines.

W. J. Cameron, Henry Ford's spokesman, asserted in a radio talk, Dec. 15, 1935, that it was unreasonable to expect sixteen branches of production which compose Industry proper, to employ the 11,000,000 then unemployed in this country. He stated such industry never had employed more than 8,000,000 persons and that obviousyl, it could not employ an additional 11,000,000. If our great industries cannot employ the unemployed, it is obvious that the government must employ them or place them on the relief dole, if they are to be saved from starvation. Thus, during these depression years, if the government had employed fewer persons, only the breadlines would have been the gainers.

The arguments of those who complain of high taxes and government extravagance, suggest that this increase in the cost of government has paid no beneficial returns to the American people. It is true that taxes are higher now than they were in Washington's and Jefferson's time. It is also true that government performs many vital functions today that were unknown and unnecessary in earlier times. Washington and Jefferson did not have expansive paved highways from the Atlantic to the Pacific Oceans. In their day, the Department of Commerce was not maintaining an efficient airways system, nor was this Department spending millions of dollars to develop foreign markets in every nation of the world, in which a few American citizens profit from the resulting foreign trade. Neither did Washington's nor Jefferson's government have an FRC which was loaning millions upon millions of dollars to bankers, industrialists, and insurance companies. The government, particularly of recent years, has had to help the banks, the railroads, the insurance companies, the farmers, the home-owners, the mortgage companies and the business men, as well as the many unemployed and what agency but the government could lend this help? It is only when government benefits, however small, extend to the masses of the people, that the cry of government "extravagance" is heard in certain quarters. The government's tariff policies which establish and maintain monopolies and enable Andrew Mellon to charge the people excessive prices for aluminum, is a tax upon the masses of the people, just as surely as any taxes that are levied by government.

TOM PAINE TO BE HONORED

Next year the American people will honor one of its greatest thinking Americans, Thomas Paine, whose 200th birthday will be observed. Helen Keller, the blind and deaf wonder person of the world, expresses the following sentiments which, we believe, should express those of the American people as a whole.

"On the 200th anniversary of his birth—January 29th, 1937—Thomas Paine, one of the greatest advocates of human liberty, will reap a unique reward. Three nations whose history would be incomplete without the record of his achievements will unite to do him honor. England where he was born, America the country of his adoption and France in whose revolution he was a moving spirit. A memorial statue of him by Gutzon Borglum will be unveiled in Paris. Many hearts in each country will beat faster as they consider what one man wrought with the written word. Few could write the English tongue as Thomas Paine could with such kindling power, and that was the spark which set ablaze the American War of Independence and flashed courage to the French serf.

"I have had the privilege of examining a model of Borglum's statue, and it has spoken things into my hand which fill me with emotion. In the lofty forehead and resolute mouth I recognize the fearless thinker who with words that still throb and burn in the world's heart preached freedom for mankind. The face is eloquent of the forces that created the independent dignity and strength of the new American republic.

"Thomas Paine's dream of a civilization that shall abolish poverty and war remains unfulfilled. The republic whose birth he sponsored trails its celestial wings of liberty in the mire, but his memory is inspiring to live with, and it is a national responsibility to keep the torch of Thomas Paine's humane teaching bright and carry it high. I earnestly hope lovers of freedom throughout the world will help raise the money for a monument that shall commemorate the ideal of liberty as the birthright of every human being."

EDUCATION AND AMENDMENT NO. 2

When the voters of Minnesota go to the polls in November they will be permitted to vote yes or no on several Constitutional amendments. Among these proposed amendments none is of more far-reaching importance than Amendment No. 2, commonly referred to as the Youngquist Amendment.

This proposed change in the Constitution, limiting the power of the Legislature, should be carefully considered by every voter before he marks his ballot, states the Minnesota Education association. It continues: The purpose of the amendment is clearly stated. It is to abolish the State's present power to levy a tax on real and personal property, save the one mill tax for roads and bridges and the tax for the payment of state indebtedness incurred prior to January 1, 1937, thereby wiping out $15,000,000. The second is to replace the loss by means of increases in other taxes or by the creation of new ones, possibly a sales tax.

The Minnesota Education Association has gone on record in opposition to constitutional proposal No. 2 because of the conviction that whichever alternative the Legislature pursues, education will lose much of its present states tax support. If the Legislature decides to retrench, the schools will lose one third of the aid, known as apportionment, which is distributed to the districts on the basis of the number of pupils in average daily attendance. This is the tidy sum of $1,393,776. The schools would lose also about one third of the aid which is appropriated out of the general revenue fund, amounting to $2,196,130. Furthermore, the other state agencies would be pinched. In the resulting competition for funds, the whole structure of state aid for schools would be endangered. This is not at all a remote contingency, as passage of the amendment is likely to be interpreted by the Legislature as a mandate from the people to retrench.

The other alternative which the Legislature might choose, if the amendment is approved is a choice which the Legislature can exercise even if the amendment fails. It requires no constitutional amendment to increase income taxes, inheritance taxes and liquor taxes or to enact a sales tax if the Legislature after due consideration deems it wise to do so. If it seems expedient to do these things, they can be done without the Youngquist Amendment; and then, if a few years' experience should show that we made a mistake, the Legislature could return to the present system without the uncertainty that accompanies a constitutional change. The common sense procedure is first to experiment with replacement taxes, and then to amend the Constitution, provided the experiments are successful.

The Capitol News Review

By A. I. HARRIS

Now listen, my children, and you shall hear......

The other evening, we tuned in on the radio for some Republican entertainment. It was a so-called Fireside skit. We had been told of the ditties which had come over the air such as "We will lick the Farmer-Laborites, we will, we will", to the tune of some popular song......

We should like to hand it to the Republicans for this program. They have really accomplished something. It is perhaps the first time in history when a major political party has been able to make burlesque out of a serious political campaign......

The piece de résistance that night was L. I. Nicholas, chairman of the Republican Committee for Martin county. Mr. Nicholas told of how local communities had succeeded in reducing their taxes and the chorus of "ah's" was perfect. Although he himself spoke in a quivering voice, when he mentioned the dread Farmer-Laborites, a chorus of "br-r-r's" was likewise perfect—like little children listening to an eerie ghost story......

But Mr. Nicholas didn't tell his audience how and why local communities were able to reduce their taxes, and the part the Farmer-Labor Administration played in aiding that reduction. He didn't, because this is a political campaign, and failure to tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth is forgivable under such conditions....

Senator Elmer A. Benson, however, told the citizens this past week exactly what the Farmer Labor Administration did to aid local communities in reducing their tax load. He cited figures to show that during the last fiscal year of the Olson administration, state aid to local communities totaled $22,536,462, which is more than $7,000,000 in excess of all revenue received by the state from the levy on real property, and exceeded state aid to local communities by $15,135,562—the amount given to local communities during the last fiscal year of the Christianson Administration......

State aid for schools alone was $7,121,626 more during the last year of the Olson Administration than during the last year of the Christianson Administration......

In other words, had Christianson been governor instead of Olson, local communities would have had to raise that additional amount for school purposes alone, or they would have been compelled to close a large number of the schools as was done in the state of Kansas, where more than two hundred schools were forced to shut down.

Perhaps before this campaign is over, the Republicans will discover that burlesque is all right in its place, but in speaking of campaign issues, the people want facts and figures.

Outstanding liberals in the United States are coming into Minnesota to aid the Farmer Labor candidates this fall. Among the big names are the two sons of Bob LaFollette, Governor Phil F. LaFollette and Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Senator Gerald P. Nye and Lynn Frazier of North Dakota, and George Norris of Nebraska. Senator Robert LaFollette will speak in New Ulm October 17.

Mr. Martin A. Nelson, Republican candidate for governor, appears solicitous for the "few remaining millionaires."......

Really Mr. Nelson shouldn't waste his gray matter worrying over the "few remaining millionaires" as he says. There are more millionaires today than there ever were in the history of America—perhaps not as many as Mr. Nelson would like to see. And these millionaires haven't applied for tickets at the bread lines, either. Matter of fact, they are much sleeker than ever before.

The truth will some time out....

We thought it rather peculiar when Martin A. Nelson flirted with old age pensions and social security in his keynote....and even went so far as to indicate that the unemployed should not be permitted to starve.....

But last week he forgot himeslf sufficiently to disclose some of his real thoughts. He said that this

The Washington Commentator

By E. C. STENGELSEN

THE SPANISH REVOLUTION

Your commentator is not certain of it, of course; but he wonders whether those who maintain that the revolution in Spain is but the inevitable clash between Fascism and Communism are wholly right.

In fact, he is very certain that they are not. He is convinced that the whole trouble comes from the briskness with which the government set about its reform platform program.

Instead of taking, at one fell swoop, the lands away from the nobles, the property away from the Church, reducing the army and its 305 generals, imposing a rigid control over the Spanish cossacks (The Civil Guard), they might have eased into it gradually—beginning with some such innocent reform as modernizing bull-fighting, for example.

Unlike bull-throwing, which is done in a more or less standard manner the world over, bull-fighting can, with certain changes, be made into a very entertaining sport...

For instance, if, instead of prancing about and attempting to puncture one single bull with a long, thin foil, a whole herd were turned loose and the toreador given a double-barrelled shotgun and told to go right ahead and do his dangdest, it might have quite an appeal to the populace. At least, one sees no good reason why it shouldn't. After all, it was bull-fighting they came to see; and certainly they'd be unreasonable to find fault with snappy service.

And for the present, at least, it might be allright to let the Spaniards continue indulging in their pretty custom of giving one of the defunct animal's ears to the toreador. In fact, under the scheme here suggested, there'd be no reason why they couldn't give him a whole basketful if they wished.

Of course, if I, personally, were given such an ear, I must admit I would not know what to do with it. But possibly the toreador is better posted. Anyway, I earnestly hope so. But whatever use he makes of it, it is okay with me. And I am quite sure that it is also okay with the bull.

Though it is hardly to be wondered at that the Spanish people lacked the patience to advance their program slowly...

For there they were, 28 million of them, living for the most part in hopeless poverty. Of the 114 million acres of productive land, a large share was owned in huge blocks by the nobles and rich land owners. And out of this they withheld extensive tracts for private hunting preserves.

The Church owned a half billion dollars of property. But it paid no taxes. It was in control of education. Yet Spain ranked higher in illiteracy than almost any other country in Europe.

When King Alphonso XIII was unhorsed in 1931, the provisional government which then arose was followed by a constitutional republic, which is the government the rebels are now seeking to destroy. It was the choice of 75 per cent of the electorate.

Their legislative body, the cortes, is made up of 470 members, elected by the people. About 25 political parties are represented. While not a majority, the socialists form the largest single bloc. It is for this reason, largely, that the reactionary American dailies refer to the government forces as 'Reds'. Actually, there are only four Communists in the cortes.

The revolution now raging is an attempt of the monarchists, military, clergy, reactionary politicians, industrialists, nobility, Civil Guard, and rich land-owners, to overthrow the present democratic form of government and to substitute a rule which will restore to them their lost privileges and re-establish their control over the people. They have the money, the trained soldiers, the blessings of the Church, and the sympathy and aid of the reactionary countries.

The people, on the other hand, have nothing... except the ardent wish to retain the liberty of which they have had this brief taste.

The Fascists may win, of course. But if they do, it will probably not be a lasting victory. For history follows its established pattern, even if it may occasionally happen that its course is temporarily halted, or briefly diverted...

"'History' is the story of the rise of the common people."

Along the Farmer - Labor Front

By H. O. BERVE

In order that the people may understand and be informed of some of the real fundamental principles of the Farmer-Labor movement we want to call attention to the following extract from the Platform of the Farmer-Labor Party for 1936, viz:

"NO LASTING RECOVERY FROM THE DEPRESSION AND NO PERMANENT PROSPERITY CAN BE ACHIEVED UNLESS THE HOMES, AND PROPERTY OF THE FARMERS, THE WAGE EARNERS, THE PROFESSIONAL PEOPLE, AND THE SMALL BUSINESS MEN ARE FULLY PROTECTED, AND THE OPPORTUNITY TO OWN HOMES AND PROPERTY IS RESTORED TO THE MASSES BY PRODUCTION OF PLENTY."

There are several people that the Farmer-Labor Party wants to protect, namely the farmers, the working people, the professional people, and the small business men. The Farmer-Labor Party is very anxious to see that the farmers, the workers, the professional people, and the small business men may all have a chance to have a home, and to own a little property. The Farmer-Labor Party is not much concerned about building up millions for the millionaires.

—o—

We also want to quote another part of the Farmer-Labor Party Platform which reads as follows:

"WE FAVOR REFORMS IN TAXATION AND FINANCE IN ORDER THAT THE COST OF GOVERNMENT BE BORNE BY THOSE BEST ABLE TO PAY."

That is why the Farmer-Labor Party is in favor of corporate excess profits taxes, inheritance taxes, and increased taxes on the large incomes. We want to place the burden and the cost of government on those best able to pay, and not on the farmers, the workers and the small business men. The Republicans are in favor of a sales tax so that they can place the burden of government on the great mass of the people and make them pay. The Republicans want to take the tax of the real estate, of the mining companies, and the insurance companies and other large investors in real estate, and in this way help the wealthy classes of people at the expense of the mass.

We are going to discuss the Farmer-Labor Platform from time to time in this column during the campaign. In the meantime we would ask every voter to get a copy of the Farmer-Labor Platform and read and study it carefully.

—o—

We understand the Republicans have placed a full-time worker in the field in Pennington, Red Lake, and Marshall counties. It is reported that he is now out interviewing the Farmers on behalf of Landon and Martin Nelson.

VIEWS AND REVIEWS

By B. C. HAGGLUND

"As Maine Goes, So Goes Maine"

Republicans who saw hope in the Maine elections may have some cold water thrown on their enthusiasm when it is discovered that in the Senatorial race the winner, a Republican, voted for many of the New Deal measures, including the Wagner Labor Relations Act, so bitterly assailed in Republican strongholds. His defeated opponent was an anti-New-Deal Democrat. This might complicate matters a little. In view of the setup, Democrats had given Maine up before the election. We may have to revise that old bromide now to something like "As Maine Goes, So Goes Maine".

"War Is Hell"

Speaking before a convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Denver last week, Major Smedley D. Butler (retired) said: "War is hell. We all know that, but what the hell are we going to do about it? I have got something for you to do about it. I'm going to tell you in simple language if you can understand. Let the world know that hereafter no American soldier is going to leave the shores of this country. Soldiers never leave this country except to protect the moneyed interests."

While this was going on, a movement in Washington was defeated, which called for drafting every 18-year-old boy into the CCC camps for six months and taught military training. An army officer, naturally, was author of the idea; but opposition from various peace groups killed the notion.

And the du Pont company received more knocks from Nye's investigating committee, when it was revealed that du Pont holds large interests in two German explosive manufacturing concerns. Profit knows no boundary lines, apparently.

The Red Libel

The past week saw both the Democratic and Communist party wax very indignant over attempts of Republican newspapers to hook them together. When he discovered what it was all about, William Randolph Hearst, as usual, went to the head of the class of party-linkers. His New York American carried what purported to be indisputable evidence that the Communists were instructed to support Roosevelt.

These things evoked strong protest from both Roosevelt, Democratic leader, and Browder, comounist spokesman. In concluding his comments on the Hearst misrepresentation, Browder remarked, "It is no longer news that Hearst is a liar."

Knox Knocks

"For more than three years the economic life of the country has been at the mercy of a crew of amateur experimenters, hacking away at the vitals of American industry, agriculture, commerce and finance... All major New Deal experiments have ended in failure and economic loss... America is too young, too vigorous, to be deceived by false promises of an easy way... The people know that with the election of a new administration next November the dammed up forces of recovery will burst forth in magnificent prosperity." Col. Frank Knox speaking.

Tut, tut, Mr. Knox! Have you forgotten March, 1933, when Herbert Hoover, a republican, tremblingly got out from under, willingly turning things over to Franklin D. Roosevelt, who said then, and says now, that his prime motive is to save capitalism at all costs? Have you forgotten how the financial structure of the country was in collapse at that time, and that federal financing was the only thing that saved it for capitalists? Have you forgotten that New Deal spending "primed the pump" for business, so that if it hadn't been for such spending, the years of 1933, 1934, and 1935 would have been very bleak and barren for capitalists? Have you forgotten that precisely on account of the New Deal things seem to be looking up for capitalism right now?

But then capitalists are not the only people who failed to recognize their friends. Hoover, for example, was the greatest friend the radical movement ever had.

Miss Adelia Maland of Howell, Michigan, daughter of Mr. O. O. Maland of Duluth became the bride of Mr. George J. Gibeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gibeau of Red Lake Falls, last Monday morning at Red Lake Falls in the presence of relatives and close friends. Mr. Tracy Jeffers of St. Paul was bestman, and Mrs. Myles Jackson of St. Hilaire, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. The groom is a graduate of the college of Civil Engineering, University of Minnesota and is now Division Supervisor of the State Highway department. The bride has attended the State Teachers colleges at Bemidji and Duluth, and also a graduate of the Kalamazoo School of Occupational Therapy. The bride and groom are well known in this vicinity and they will live at Sauk Center, Minn.

4H Club Party

A 4H Club party was held Friday evening at the school auditorium. A good program was given and a lunch was served.

CAPITOL NEWS REVIEW

rich land of ours is too poor to pay adequate old age pensions. that $10 a week to one who has given his life to the upbuilding of this country, was too extravagant.... and that $3 a week for a dependent spelled luxury for the recipient and disaster for our country. He would go back to the Republican philosophy of no pensions, no aid to the needy, and no concern on the part of government for those in want....

To those "in the know," this attitude of Mr. Nelson's is not surprising. But the people of Minnesota will, at least, be thankful to Mr. Nelson for telling them that he has no sympathy whatever with social security....

Mr. Nelson's newly expressed views on social security preceded by a few days similar views expressed by Governor Landon, who attacked the Roosevelt administration for trying to do something for the aged and the poor. Both Mr. Nelson and Governor Landon expounded the so-called theory of "pay as you go", which is another way of saying to the aged, "We are sorry we cannot pay you anything this year because we have no money," and saying to those on relief, "Sorry, but we can't do anything for you today because we have no money."....

That is exactly what Landon did to the school children of Kansas. He told them, "Sorry, but you can't go to school today becaue we have no money," and more than 700 schools were shut down. Nelson would brink Kansas to Minnesota.

Mr. Nelson unquestionably would like to see old age pensions of approximately $5.30 in Minnesota, such as they have in Kansas. Both Mr. Nelson and Governor Landon are of one mind on the question of pensions and social security generally.....

Just how luxuriously can an aged person live on $5.30 a month? He could get by on his eats if he spent a little less than 6 cents for a meal, but then he would have nothing left for shelter and clothing. Perhaps Mr. Nelson and Mr. Landon would open the upblic parks in the summer time and our public buildings in the winter to provide shelter. And as for clothing, well the Salvation Army might be able to help.

D. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers will come to the Twin Cities from Cleveland to speak on behalf of Elmer A. Benson for governor and other Farmer Labor candidates. Mr. Robertson is one of the veterans in the labor movement. He was particularly attracted to Senator Benson because of the senator's fight against the dismemberment of the M. and St. L. Railroad and his work for railroad pensions.

Speaking over a statewide radio hook-up last Saturday night, Congressman Ernest Lundeen, Farmer-Labor candidate for U. S. Senate, declared that "the real issue of this campaign is social security and the Republicans' cowardly attack upon it. Republicans oppose social security; liberals are for it. That is the real isue of this campaign."

Republican propagandist, R. W. Hitchcock, in his weekly newspaper broadcasts, states that Senator Benson is campaigning in a state automobile at state expense. There is about as much truth in that assertion as there is to his assertions that the Republicans are the friends of labor, and that the Farmer-Labor Administration has done nothing for cooperatives in this state.

RURAL CREDIT DEPARTMENT WILL PLANT WINDBREAKS

From 200 to 400 farm windbreaks will be planted in the west central Minnesota drouth area next spring by the State Rural Credit Department, in cooperation with the Division of Forestry.

Each windbreak will consist of 500 caragana, 300 green ash, 300 American elm, and 200 white spruce. The spruce will be furnished by the Division of Forestry, and the other trees will be purchased from the Sacred Heart Nursery at Sacred Heart, Minnesota.

Owners of the nursery have contracted to supervise preparation of the ground and to furnish the labor for planting the trees. They have agreed to apply the entire projects on their rural credit mortgage loan. The project will be under the supervision of Mr. Karl A. Danielson.

CONSERVATION BOARD MAY CONSIDER LAKE OF WOODS FISHING

Members of the State Conservation Commission announced last week that they would be willing to close Lake of the Woods to commercial fishing provided the evidence warrants such action and provided it is recommended by Dr. Thaddeus Surber, superintendent of fish propagation.

Renewed criticism of commercial fishing in Lake of the Woods came when J. Ernest Paradis, of the United States Department of Commerce, reported that the lake was being "looted" of game fish.

Conservation Commissioner E. V. Willard stated that repeated efforts had been made to get Canada to Join in closing Lake of the Woods to commercial fishing, but without success. Prohibiting commercial fishing would leave many Canadian fishermen without the means of livelihood, it was said.

"There would be no point in closing the Minnesota side of Lake of the Woods to commercial fishing as long as the Canadian side remains open," Mr. Willard said.

Farm Bureau Member Drives Are Under Way

The first County Farm Bureau membership campaign for 1937 opened in Benton county Monday evening, Sept. 28, with 180 volunteer workers and their wives attending the supper that opened the drive.

During the next few weeks about sixty County Farm Bureaus will make their annual membership drives, says A. G. Mereness, director of organization. The 1936 paid membership to date is 21,796 farm families, comprising estimated total of more than 60,000 adult members.

About a dozen counties conducted their 1937 campaigns earlier in the year. All but 12 counties in Minnesota now have County Farm Bureaus. There are more than 1,000 township units.

FEELS EXCEPTIONALLY FINE
Nick Adams, Croswell, Mich., writes: "My wife cannot be without Kuriko. She suffered from constipation and complained constantly about stomach pains and weakness. When she takes Kuriko she feels exceptionally fine." Dr. Peter's Kuriko is an herb remedy which has been used for generations with splendid success. It is used to combat constipation, indigestion, common colds, nervousness, insomnia and skin impurities caused by faulty elimination. It is not handled by druggists but can be obtained only from authorized local agents. For information write to Dr. Peter Fahrney & Sons Co., 2501 Washington, Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Ad27

NATIONAL REEMPLOYMENT SERVICE

E. R. Stanghelle, Interviewer
Telephone 411

The National Reemployment Service in Minnesota for the month of July registered 4,965 new applicants, placed 10,040 applicants, 1,861 of which were placed with private employers.

The total active file for Minnesota for July was 63,264. This, however, does not constitute this total of unemployed persons in the state, yet is a measure of those actually available and seeking employment through this employment service.

Private placements with the United States Employment Service for July, for the sixth consecutive month exceeded those of the same month one year earlier. New registrations for July hit a six-months' peak.

California received the largest volume of new applications and made the highest volume of both total and private placements.

Texas made the highest volume of public placements for July.

For the week ending September 26, the local NRS office had an active file of 1,224 men and 203 women, thirteen new applications were received that week and 74 persons recontacted the office for work. During the same week 24 persons were referred to jobs; seven were reported placed.

Persons interested in a farm couple opening should contact the local manager.

A number of persons attending school who want part-time work are registered at the local NRS office.

When preparing your home for winter, day laborers can conveniently be secured by calling the National Reemployment Service.

DENTIST IS ALSO GOOD DETECTIVE

Dr. L. B. Galbraith of Cass Lake is not only a first class dentist but also a good detective. Recently a Ford V-8 containing two men and a woman, parked under the windows of his office and the man at the wheel took a nickel-plated revolver from a shoulder holster and tested it, then put it back under his arm. The other man handed his partner a revolver and the car sped away, but not before Galbraith had the number and notified authorities. The car, a stolen one, was picked up later in Minneapolis and was filled with loot taken in Bismarck, N. D., the trio having shot it out with Bismarck police before coming to Cass Lake.

HARRIET LAMSON BECOMES BRIDE OF L. B. HARTZ

Miss Harriet Lamson and L. B. Hartz were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents in St. Paul, Saturday, Oct. 3rd. Miss Lamson taught school in this city for the past two or three years, and Mr. Hartz is the manager of the Hartz stores, and headquarters in this city. Miss Lamson's sisters Jean and Betty were bridesmaid and maid of honor respectively, and James Winjum of this city was best man. Rev. Smith of St. Paul officiated.

The bride wore a beautiful floor length gown of white satin, with a corsage of yellow roses. The bridesmaid was dressed in blue taffeta, and the maid of honor in pink taffeta, and both wore corsages of roses. About 80 relatives and close friends were present at the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartz are motoring through Chicago and other eastern points on their honeymoon, and are expected to return to this city next Sunday, where they will make their home in the Andy Magnusson residence, at 816 LaBree Avenue North.

Among those from this city who went to St. Paul to attend the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. James Winjum, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Simons, Mr. and Mrs. Gunder Legvold, and Miss Frances Cook, who teaches school at the Central building.

BANQUET FOR WOODMEN OF THE WORLD

Tuesday night, Oct. 6th, a free banquet was held in the Evelyn Hotel for the members of the W. O. W. lodge. The object of the banquet was to outline new campaigns for the ten camps which are trying to get 1,000 new members each. $10,000 are being offered in cash prizes for the camps which have the most success. The Soverign Camp paid $1,800,000.00 in cash dividends Feb. 25, and offers cash prizes and honors to Deputies, Camps and Active Members to break its record of $24,554,075.00 made during March, which equals $1,000,000 per day.

After the banquet a lodge meeting was held in the hall under the Union State bank, and the regular lodge business was discussed.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

The home of Mrs. L. C. Dillon was the scene of a surprise birthday party in her honor Monday evening. The guests present were the Mesdames Vincent Borry, Fred Protz, Gena Shirley, William Knight, O. ENTERTAINS FOR DAUGHTER Mrs. Al Holmgren entertained Sunday afternoon in honor of her daughter Merle's 11th birthday anniversary. The guests present included Donna Mae Twete, Joan Holmes, Joan Evenson, Gloria Gran, Jean Simstad, Eleanor Steen, Harriet Lufkin, Lucille Douville, Louise Olson, Ellen Holmgren, sister of the honor guest and the honor guest, Merle.

The guests played games in the afternoon, and at 3 o'clock lunch was served by Mrs Holmgren. The table centerpiece was the birthday cake, with 11 candles lighting it. Merle received several gifts from those present.

FOR MRS. ADOLPH ECKLUND

The home of Mrs. N. G. Olson was the scene of a gift shower in honor of Mrs. Ecklund last Wednesday night. The guests present included the honor guest, Mrs. Ecklund, Mrs. N. G. Olson, the Mesdames Ole Offerdahl and E. O. Iverson, and the Misses Lillian and Rose Erickson, Hilda Wilson, Alice Hall and Caroline Rhodegard. The evening was spent in making a Friendship Recipe cabinet, in whch each guest contributed one or two favorite recipes, and the remainder of the time was spent in making dish towels for the honor guest. At 10 o'clock lunch was served by Mrs. Olson, with Mrs. E. O. Iverson assisting.

Mrs. Shanahan and daughter Frances of Thief River Falls visited at the Mrs. Mary Elfert home, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Martin and daughter Marylin, of Erskine, were guests at the E. Scheldrup home, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Berg and family, who have been living north of Plummer, moved to the A. Thorton farm recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Vance, of Red Lake Falls, have moved on to the E. J. McKenzie farm which they purchased recently.

Alvin Johnson returned Saturday from Thief River Falls, where he has been a patient for the past week at a hospital in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Lars Hage and daughter Thrine, Misses Mayme Maki, and Ann Neudecker spent Saturday and Sunday at Baudette.

Mr. and Mrs. Odin Berg and family of Keewatin, Minn., spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Berg's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Scheldrup.

The dance and play which were scheduled for Saturday evening have been indefinitely postponed. The local M.W.A. camp was sponsoring both.

The members of St. Anne's Society are sponsoring a card party to be held in the basement of St. Vincent's Catholic church Sunday evening, October 11th.

Mrs. Mae Sorenson entertained the following guests at her home Saturday evening: Mrs. Jas. Gilbertson, Mrs. Chas. Hill, Misses Avis Sorenson, Ruth Julsrud, Andrew Bakke and Carl Offenbacker.

Misses Jeanne Pahlen and Eileen Peterson were among those in the program given at the Wildwood school Friday evening. They entertained the audience with a number of tap dances.

Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie and family left Tuesday for Mandel, N. D., where Mrs. McKenzie and children remained for several days while Mr. McKenzie returned to Plummer to complete business transactions. They plan to leave Mandel shortly, for Oregon, where they will spend the winter.

SCHOOL NOTES

The third and fourth grades have formed a "Busy Bee" Club to promote courtesy and to act as an incentive to greater efforts in all school activities.

Arleen Norby was chosen club president, Donna Hemly, vice president, and Betty Sorenson, secretary. The club motto is "Do Your Best, Your Very Best, and Do It Every Day." The colors chosen were gold and blue. The club meets every three weeks on Friday afternoon.

The fifth and sixth grade girls of pre camp fire girl age met one day last week with Miss Neudecker and formed a club of their own. They will meet at regular intervals for worth while activities and for pleasure.

Miss Maki and Miss Neudecker were accompanied by Mr. Lars Haga and family when they drove to their summer resort on the Rainy River, near the border for the week end.

The other members of the faculty were very explicit in their comments. They directed Miss Maki and Miss Neudecker to actually bring back a fish or two and not only a fish story about the big one that got away. Miss Albrecht was unable to accept the invitation. She was prevented from going by a previously made social engagement.

During the last week meetings have been held and all teachers have consulted with each other and exchanged ideas. Out of all of this plans have been evolved for a carnival that will fill an entire evening with a great variety of entertainment. Miss Burke promises some real novelty numbers of recent hits, while Miss Albrecht will direct a one act comedy. Mr. Ohnstad and Mr. Ripple are preparing something which at present is still a dark, dark secret, but which surely will meet with "roaring" approval.

Concession, and booths in number, lunch stands, and a bowery style dance are a few of the additional features. Prizes will be given, too. Remember October 30th, and keep that date open for a big evening's fun at the Municipal auditorium at Plummer.

The beginners who wish to become members of the school band mean business. They seem to be blowing their horns with "might and main" every evening after school. Mr. Ohnstad hopes to have them ready to take their place in the band soon.

Mr. Jaspers was bombarded one day last week after school had closed with handsful of goobers, commonly referred to as peanuts. The pelting he received by certain members of his classes has had no bad effect because Mr. Jaspers contradicts all rumors that he intends to collect disability insurance.

Last Friday the school band appeared on the program of the Gervais Farmers' Club. The band is popular and many demands are made on it. With a larger membership and a more adequate instrumentation, it would be in a position to meet these requests for public appearances more easily.

The camera club watched an album making demonstration by Mr. Adrian last Thursday. Some members are much interested and Helen Gilbert and Katherine Hesse have practically completed their second project. Their work is neat and a credit to them.

Archery supplies have been ordered an should arrive at any time now. If interest remains as keen as it is now, and all who have expressed a desire to take up archery remain of that mind additional equipment will be necessary and undoubtedly available.

Mr. Ohnstad's Rifle Club is completing its equipment and will soon be ready to enjoy the indoor range they are constructing. There is lots of enthusiasm and Mr. Ohnstad states that he intends to make this activity as instructive and interesting as possible.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE

Notice is hereby given that the mortgage made by Knute O. Solheim and Ingeborg Solheim, husband and wife, mortgagors, to the State of Minnesota, mortgagee, dated July 29, 1927, and recorded with Register of Deeds of Pennington County, Minnesota, on August 2, 1927, at ten o'clock A. M., in Book 77 of Mortgages, on page 357, will be foreclosed by a sale of the following premises described in said mortgage, situate in Pennington County, Minnesota, to-wit:

Lots Two (2) and Three (3) and the North Half of the Northwest Quarter (N½ of NW¼) of Section Ten (10), in Township One Hundred Fifty-three (153) North of Range Forty-two (42) West, containing 141.15 acres, more or less, according to Government survey thereof, which said sale will be made by the Sheriff of Pennington County, Minnesota, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, on Saturday, November 14, 1936, at ten o'clock A. M., to pay the amount then due on said mortgage and the legal disbursements. There is claimed to be due on said mortgage at the date of this notice the sum of $5436.75, and the further sum of $237.84, taxes, paid by the mortgagee, with interest being a total of $5749.97.

"We use the Telephone to Good Advantage All the Time" says FRANCIS CLARK
- One of our Farm Customers -

● "Our farm telephone is really a business telephone," says Francis M. Clark. "We use it to good advantage all the time.

"Besides farming 160 acres I have charge of a sales barn and since it's six miles to town the telephone saves me many a trip. Quite often I get calls from truckers that want me to come in and open the barn so they can get their stock inside.

"During the last winter we would have been pretty well isolated if it hadn't been for the telephone," Mr. Clark said.

NEW SAFETY FOR BABIES

Mother, most hospitals now protect their babies against germs and skin-infection by rubbing Mennen Antiseptic Oil all over the baby's body—every day. This keeps the baby's skin smoother, softer, lovelier and SAFER. So, mother, do as hospitals do, as doctors recommend. Give your baby a safety-rub with Mennen Antiseptic Oil daily thruout his diaper-days. See your druggist.

Says Dangerous Varicose Veins Can Be Reduced At Home

Rub Gently Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice for home treatment that anyone in this world can give, is to get a prescription known as Moone's Emerald Oil.

Simply ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you should notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are no longer troublesome. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic sores and ulcers are often entirely healed.

Dear Editor:—

With your kind permission I wish to use the columns of your paper for a little chat with your readers. This is campaign year for the state and for the nation. We can not forget that now that the Broadcasts, the Press and every other means of communication have been taken into service for the several candidates and parties. There is the usual oratory of half-truth intended as smokescreen. How utterly false many political statements are. Here is hoping that all of our voters will take time to become fully familiar with facts. They can be obtained. It is not to be expected that all of us will vote alike, because we do not think alike. We differ in our opinions as to ways and means for gaining certain objectives. Then again, our objectives may differ. Only the voter who is well informed can vote well.

If there has ever been a time when the American voter needs to be well informed and needs to do his own thinking, that time is now. This is not a time to think merely in terms of certain parties. Those who can condescend to advice voters simply to "Vote the party ticket straight", is frankly telling the voter that he is a fool, uninformed and unable to think for himself, and that he simply should go to the polls with a party ticket in hand. That kind of voting is unworthy of an intelligent American citizen.

The many friends throughout the state of Mr. Hjalmer Pederson, is indeed sorry that he is not heading the State Farmer-Labor ticket. He is one of the few properly capable of so doing. It is difficult not to form the conclusion, that party leaders don't want him because he is too honest and straight forward. He thinks more in terms of the people of this state than he thinks in terms of party. Under the present party management, such can not be used in important offices.

But who is this man Benson? We should know him. If, when knowing him you want to vote for him, that is each voter's privilege.

Elmer A. Benson, is an ex-banker. One of the kind that ran his bank on the rocks, letting the patrons and depositors be the usual victims. When he in this way had worked himself out of a job, he was picked up by the Farmer-Labor party machine. "Why stand ye idle?" The Farmer-Labor party needed a Bank Commissioner, and here was a banker who had nothing to do. It was "humane" to give him a good job.

The next important step was his appointment to the U. S. Senate. A man who never had been elected to anything, appointed to fill a most important elective office. But party politics will do such things in the name of Political Strategy. This did give Benson a chance to show whatever colors he did posses. He went to work and introduced the Benson-Amlie bill, generally known as the American Youth Act. I would have passed this by as a mistake. All inexperienced men make mistakes. Even the experienced will sometimes go wrong took. But when Mr. Benson mentioned this bill in his key-note address, saying "I am proud of it", then of course it can not be considered a mistake. The bill then must be considered characteristic of the man. It is his pet baby.

The voter who wishes to sound the political character of Benson need then only turn to this American Youth Act. In common ordinary language it is a youth pension bill. It would provide the minimum of $15.00 per week for all youth between 16 and 25 years of age, to be distributed by the youth themselves. A conservative estimate of the cost is five billion dollars per year, plus cost of administration. If the voters of Minnesota want a governor that only thinks in terms of spending money, then no doubt, Benson will fill the bill. "Well," somebody might say, "he will make the rich fellow pay." But then let us remember that the rich fellow never paid anything except with the poor man's money. The rich always have a way of loading the burden on the rank and file of those with whom they do business. The rank and file of our citizens always did pay the tax bill, and no one has yet devised methods whereby they might be exempted. Let us not fool ourselves by thinking that when we get money from Washington of St. Paul that such contributions are Santa Claus gifts. It is always our own hard-earned money.

No one objects to liberal expentdiures for human welfare. Human welfare must come first. Let us not, however, be so shortsighted that we overload the taxpayer. When the taxpayer no longer pays, who will then provide the funds for welfare and relief?

The Communist party in its Election Platform of 1936, calls upon all its voters to vote Farmer-Labor in Minnesota. They list the whole Farmer-Labor slate. The Communists support this effort by the claim that a Farmer Labor victory will be nothing less than a Communist victory. Let us be well informed that we may think clearly before we vote this year.

Van Sant, Once Minnesota Chief, Dies at Age of 92

Samuel R. Van Sant, last Civil war veteran to serve as governor of Minnesota, died Saturday in Attica, Ind., enroute to Florida to spend the winter. Heart disease caused the death. He was 92 years old.

Van Sant served two years in the state house of representatives, one of them as speaker, before being elected governor. He servd for two terms, from 1901 to 1905.

Governor Van Sant inaugurated the legal proceedings which led ultimately to dissolution of the Northern Securities company through which Hill sought to combine his two lines, the Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

The case was one of those attracted to the attention of President Theodore Roosevelt, then fighting the growing tendency toward "trusts" and the federal courts upheld Van Sant's contention the proposed combination would be inimical to the public interest.

Traveling by automobile, the aged former chief executive, 92 years old, left Minneapolis Thursday for his annual winter trip to Florida. With him was Edna Danielson, his nurse and housekeeper.

Van Sant, fifteenth governor of the state of Minnesota, was the last veteran of the Civil war to occupy the gubernatorial chair.

Van Sant was born in Rock Island, Ill., on May 11, 1884, and went through high school and attended Knox college at Galesburg, Ill. When the Civil war broke out, he enlisted on August 1, 1861 in Company A, Ninth Illinois cavalry and enjoyed a war record he was always proud of. Never missing an engagement of his unit, Van Sant was not once wounded, was never in an army hospital for any cause and was never taken prisoner.

After the war, he engaged in the lumber business and steamboating first at Leclaire, Iowa and then at Winona, Minn. He married Miss Ruth Hall in December, 1868. He resided at Wisona, until he assumed the governor's chair, after which he moved to Minneapolis.

His body arrived in Minneapolis Sunday from Attica, Ind. At 4 p. m. Tuesday the funeral was conducted at the Hennepin Avenue Methodist church in Minneapolis by Dr. Raines, pastor, and Rev. Ireland, chaplain of the Minnesota Soldier's Home.

Tuesday night the body was taken to the little town of LeClaire, Iowa, on the banks of the Mississippi, where the former governor launched his business career in ship-building and where members of his family are burier. Burial took place there at 11 a. m. Wednesday.

Farmers National to Buy And Store Seed Grain

(From F. U. Herald)

The Farmers National Grain corporation has been given the assignment by the government of buying and storing from seven to ten millions of bushels of seed grain for the use of the drouth area in 1937. Whereupon the private grain trade is angry, so angry in fact as to approach a stage of hydrophobia.

And why, indeed, should not the Farmers National be given this contract? The Federal Government is in the process of loaning the regional members of the Farmers National Grain Corporation 3 millions of dollars with which to capitalize the Farmers National. This money must be repaid because it is a loan.

The handling of this seed grain will be done in an honest way and in the interest of the farmers, a quarter of a million of whom are affiliated with this nation-wide cooperative marketing organization. Any earnings arising from the handling of this grain belong to the farmers, and not private dealers who engage in the business for private profit.

If the government will permit the Farmers National not only to collect the seed grain but to distribute it when seed time comes next year, we believe we can assure everybody that a better job will be done than in the 1934 drouth year, when most of the seed grain was purchased from private grain dealers.

In revenge for this, and because of the passage of the Commodity Exchange bill, probably 95 percent of all the private grain dealers, including their aunts, uncles, cousins, and employees will vote for Landon. In 1932 these same grain men, including their aforesaid relations voted for Roosevelt. And they voted for Roosevelt because Hoover had advocated and supported the Federal Farm Board, which board assisted in organizing the Farmers National.

There is nothing in the past career of candidate Landon to show that he has any special liking for the grain gamblers and private dealers. Nor is there anything in Mr. Landon's career to indicate that if elected he will not deal as fairly with the cooperatives as did Mr. Hoover or Mr. Roosevelt.

The private grain dealers are not for anybody, they are just against whoever shows and friendship for their victims, namely the farmers. What these dealers want is the unrestrained privilege of preying on the producers of food and they are bitterly against whoever attempts to protect their victims from exploitation.

In connection with the handling of seed grain in 1934, we are reminded of a story told of one block of seed oats purchased from the private owners of a terminal elevator by the seed grain department of the Federal Government. The oats, according to the story, was purchased at 13 cents over the option, not from the farmers but from the speculators, and with a fat storage running many months in addition. And according to the story, the beneficiary of this fat government order made a sizable contribution to the campaign. Why not, he could afford to, could he not:

Can you prove this, someone asks?

No. If such a thing could be proven by documents it would not have been done. We cannot prove it, but we believe it.

We hope the Farmers National will be able to buy the seed grain to fill the contract with the Government from the farmers, and we hope that as much of that grain as possible will be bought and kept near the points where it will be used, so as to save freight bills to and from the terminals.

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of Minnesota

To be submitted at 1936 General Election

STATE OF MINNESOTA,
LEGAL DEPARTMENT

HARRY H. PETERSON
Attorney General

St. Paul, Minnesota, April 29, 1936

Honorable Mike Holm,
Secretary of State,

Dear Sir:

In compliance with the provisions of Section 46 of Mason's Minnesota Statutes of 1927, I herewith furnish you a statement of the purpose and effect of all proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota which are to be submitted to the electors of said state at the general election in 1936, in accordance with certain acts adopted by the 1935 legislature.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 1.

By the adoption of Chapter 393 of the Laws of 1935 the legislature has proposed an amendment to Article 8 of the State Constitution. The proposed amendment, if adopted, will not alter the form of any existing section of the Constitution, but will add a new section to be known as Section 8 of said Article 8.

The proposed amendment reads as follows:

> "Any of the public lands of the state, including lands held in trust for any purpose, may, with the approval of a commission consisting of the governor, the attorney general and the state auditor, be exchanged for lands of the United States and other privately owned lands as the legislature may provide, and the lands so acquired shall be subject to the trust, if any, to which the lands exchanged therefor were subject, and the state shall reserve all mineral and water and water power rights in lands so transferred by the state."

The Purpose and Effect of the Proposed Amendment.

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to provide for exchanging any of the public lands of the state for lands of the United States and land privately owned, such exchanges to be made with the approval of a commission consisting of the governor, the attorney general and the state auditor. Such exchanges of land cannot now be made because the State Constitution does not permit the legislature to authorize the sale of school lands, state swamp lands and state internal improvement lands except by public sale. One immediate purpose in granting such authority is to make it possible for the state to acquire compact areas of land for forestry and other conservation purposes by exchanging land outside of such conservation areas for lands of the United States and privately owned lands within such areas.

The proposed amendment requires that all mineral rights, water rights and water power rights in lands so transferred by the state shall be reserved. The land so acquired will become subject to the same trust, if any, as the land disposed of. For example, if school land is given in exchange, the land received will become school land.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2.

By the adoption of Chapter 394 of the Laws of 1935, the legislature proposed an amendment to Section 1 of Article 9 of the State Constitution.

This section now reads as follows:

> "The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200, for each household, individual or head of a family, and household goods and farm machinery, as the legislature may determine:
> "Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads."

If amended as proposed by the legislature, this section will read as follows:

> "The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, and public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200.00 for each household, individual or head of a family, and household goods and farm machinery, as the legislature may determine:
> "Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads.
> "Provided further, that after January 1, 1937, no tax shall be imposed on any real or tangible personal property for any state purpose, except that authorized by Section 16 of Article 9 of this Constitution, and/or for the payment of indebtedness of the state incurred prior to January 1, 1937; but this proviso shall not limit, but the state shall have, the right to impose taxes upon royalties, occupations, sales, receipts, incomes, inheritances, gifts, privileges, franchises, or licenses, or upon property on the basis of gross earnings or tonnage, or upon intangibles of every kind."

The Purpose and Effect of the Proposed Amendment.

The purpose and effect of the proposed amendment is to prohibit the imposition of any taxes on real or tangible personal property after January 1, 1937 for any state purpose, except as hereinafter stated, without limiting the right of the state to impose taxes upon royalties, occupations, sales, receipts, incomes, inheritances, gifts, privileges, franchises, or licenses, or upon property on the basis of gross earnings or tonnage, or upon intangibles of every kind, said proposed amendment declaring that the state shall have the right to impose such taxes.

If the said amendment is adopted the state will retain the right to impose taxes on real or tangible personal property for either or both of the following purposes:

(1) To provide funds to be used to construct or improve roads and bridges in this state, as authorized by Section 16 of Article 9 of the State Constitution, for which purpose, under Section 16 of said Article 9, the legislature in its discretion is authorized to provide for an annual tax levy upon the property of this state, of not to exceed in any year one mill on all the taxable property within the state; and

(2) To raise money to pay indebtedness of the state incurred prior to January, 1 1937.

Respectfully yours,
HARRY H. PETERSON,
Attorney General.

Read What Marius Waldal Says About Rural Credit Legislation

The following is a reprint of a statement found in the Public Opinion column of the Thief River Falls Times of Thursday, Nov. 28, 1935, which is in a way an answer to a news item in the Forum of Nov. 21st, 1935, referring to a meeting at the courthouse in Thief River Falls attended by people interested in rural credit legislation. The Forum was then being edited by R. M. Aalbu.

THE TRUTH IN REGARDS TO RURAL CREDIT LEGISLATION OF THE 1935 SESSION

To the Editor of the Times:

Permit me to use the columns of your paper to answer a news article appearing in the issue of the 21st of November of the Thief River Falls Forum in regards to a meeting called at the court house by T. H. Bjerk on behalf of Rural Credit borrowers.

I was not invited to this meeting nor did I know anything about such a meeting. Being that I was not there, I do not know what took place nor do I know who is to blame for the misleading statement in the news item appearing in the Forum.

I can not see why I was not invited to this meeting being that it was called for the purpose of considering Rural Credit legislation for the coming special session, especially since I also am a representative for the 65th District and was interested in Rural Credit legislation in the last session and introduced bills on behalf of the Rural Credit borrowers. If this news item of the Forum tells the truth about what was said in regards to Rural Credit legislation and when I consider the tone in which this news item was written, I feel that this meeting was called for the purpose of hurting Senator Tungseth, who worked hard and was an earnest friend of the Rural Credit borrowers, and to give credit to Representative Melby. This news item gives him credit for things he did not do. I do not know whether this news item misrepresents what Mr. Melby said or if he took credit for things he did not do.

I am herewith quoting word for word a paragraph of this news item that was printed in the Forum and will afterwards make comments and give the truth about this legislation.

> The meeting which was called by T. H. Bjerke, on behalf of many of the rural credit bureau's borrowers was addressed by Representative Melby who explained the bill which he introduced on behalf of the Ninth District delegation in the House at the last session, and which became known as the Melby-Erickson Bill, in its essential details. The Bill passed the House with an overwhelming majority, but was killed in the Senate and a Bill which became known as the Tungseth Bill substituted. The main points of the Melby Bill were the set-up for local appraisors and a three per cent interest rate, Mr. Melby stated, and these were changed, knocking out the local appraisor feature and increasing the interest rate of 5 per cent.

As you see from this news item, Representative Melby was the principal speaker at which time he explained the so-called Melby-Erickson Bill. The Melby-Erickson Bill never had a 3 per cent interest rate in it. The bill that Melby, Erickson, and a lot of co-authors introduced was H. F. number 661 entitled, "Authorizing the Conservator to Enter Into Composition Agreements to Sell Land in Certain Cases and Providing for a Board of Arbitration."

I introduced a bill H. F. number 832 entitled "To Appraise all Rural Credit Lands and to Re-adjust the Rate of Interest on all Rural Credit Loans Preparatory to Liquidation." This was the first bill introduced to cut the interest rates. It also provided for a neutral board to appraise the lands. I later introduced H. F. number 1512. There were others who introduced bills. Representatives Friberg of Roseau County and Dixon of Todd County introduced a similar bill with a 3 per cent interest rate. These were the only two bills introduced that carried a 3 per cent rate.

The bill that passed the House was introduced by Representative L. E. Brophy for the Committee on Civil Administration. This bill was H. F. number 1509 and came about by a sub-committee appointed by the chairman, Mr. Brophy. Mr. Melby was not even a member of the Committee on Civil Administration. I, therefore, can not see how he can claim the authorship of this bill, even though the Committee may have taken most of the ideas in this bill out of the so-called Melby-Erickson bill. However, this bill did not contain 3 per cent interest rate. This was rather late in the session and I was unable to get action on my bill. The same was true with the Friberg-Dixon Bill and, therefore, the only thing we could do was to try and amend the committee bill H. F. number 1509 when it came up for consideration. At the time it came up for consideration I placed an amendment at the desk which contained the provisions of my bill, including a 3 per cent interest rate and a neutral board to appraise the lands.

Messrs. Melby and Erickson both fought my amendment to the committee bill. Melby even objected to a roll call. After my Amendments were defeated Mr. Dixon, a Conservative, and Mr. Friberg, a Farmer-Labor, offered an amendment changing the committee bill considerably, including lowering the interest rate to 3 per cent. These amendments carried. These Proceeding cas be found on pages 1741 to 1747, both inclusive, of the House Journal. Even though Mr. Melby on the final vote on this last amendment voted for a 3 per cent interest rate after having fought the group who sponsored the changes in the committee bill can not gracefully come out and claim the credit for the 3 per cent interest rate in the committee bill.

I do not know what Senator Tungseth said at this meeting, but I know that he was for a 3 per cent interest rate because we talked this over and had planned on introducing my bill in the Senate until he found that the Senate was lined up with the Conservator of the Rural Credit Department, Mr. Arens. The bill that Senator Tungseth introduced for the committee was the bill of the Rural Credit Bureau, the bill that they lobbied through by promising to give the farmers a square deal. Mr. Tungseth, on behalf of the Senate Committee, introduced two other bills which were supposed to take care of some of the things in the House bill, especially the interest rates. Mr. Gaarenstrom, a former head of the Department and now attorney for same, admitted to me the last night of the session that he drew these bills. Senator Tungseth was most likely too modest to put this blame on the Rural Credits Bureau. I believe, however, that the officials of the Rural Credit Bureau have ample powers under these bills to give the Rural Credit farmers a fair deal if they want to. I really expect that this was the reason why the Senate stood up for the bill that Tungseth introduced for the Senate Committee. I had a talk with many of the Senators and I found that they were in favor of scaling down the mortgages and lowering interest rates. In talking to Senator Rockne, who introduced the first bill to scale down mortgages, he stated that he was also willing to stand for a cut in interest rates. Senator Rockne's bill placed a limit on the amount that the loans could be scaled down. The lands with black loam soil were limited to one-quarter per cent cut and the sand lands to as low as one-half per cent. This was the attitude of Senator Rockne, who is considered the most conservative member of the Senate, especially by the Farmer-Labor forces.

Senator Tungseth introduced S. F. 1316 which I sponsored in the House the last night of the session. This was a companion bill to the other Senate bill to reduce the rate of interest and was asked for by the Conservator, Mr. Arens.

The Senator also introduced S. F. 1514, a similar bill to H. F. 989. The House passed this bill before the Senate did. The Senate made some changes in the bill. The bill, therefore, had to go to Conference Committee. Senator Tungseth was Chairman of the Senate Conferees, while I was Chairman of the House Conferees. As Chairman of the House Conferees, I passed this bill also, on the last night of the session. This bill related to mortgages held by the Department of Rural Credit and provided for waiving and reduction of interest on mortgage debts and delinquent installments and for securing of the payments of extended installments of tares and insurance advanced by giving crop mortgages.

I believe that Senator Tungseth, as well as the Senate, acted in good faith when they passed this Rural Credit legislation. I know that I did. I was also on the Conference Committee on H. F. number 1509 which was the bill the House passed that the Senate amended. As I have stated before, this was the kind of legislation wanted and promised that they would give the farmers a fair consideration under this legislation. I, therefore, as a member of the House Conferees, voted to sustain the Senate amendment, realizing that the Senate would not stand for the House bill as it was passed. I felt it was to take what we could get or nothing. Mr. Erickson was a member of the House Conferees and sponsored the committee report on the floor of the House on the final passage of the bill. This legislation was not what I wanted nor what many of the others wanted, but it was all that the people of the cities and the southern part of the state wanted to give us. They felt that under this legislation the farmers would get all they were entitled to and I feel as Senator Tungseth is quoted to have said at this meeting that the blame lies with the Rural Credit Bureau. The fault is not so much with the law as with the administration of the law.

I am going to introduce a bill along the lines that I did in the last session or along the lines which I tried to amend the committee bill. The main objection that I have to the committee bill as passed is the set-up of the appraisers. This bill provided that if the Conservator and farmer could not agree upon the adjustment of the loan each party should select one man and the two select a third. These three should comprise a board to place the value of the land. Of course, either party would have the right to go to court and in most cases that would be what the farmer would have to do because the Conservator was not limited to whom he was to choose nor where from. He would most likely choose one of his own appraisers who would most likely be instructed not to agree to any third man unless he was favorable to the Bureau; at least that is the way that I feel it would work out. This would mean that the farmer would have to go to court. The big objection that many of them had to both the Melby-Erickson Bill and the committee bill was that they considered it a lawyer's bill because it would drive many of the farmers to court to get just and equitable consideration in reducing their loans. In my bill I proposed a neutral board appointed by three neutral parties. This board should appraise all lands within their county. I feel that this way there would be a more uniform, fair and honest valuation placed upon these loans. Under my bill there would be one board for each county, while in the other two bills there would be one board for each loan.

I was afraid of what was going to happen, but it gave the Farmer-Labor administration a chance to see what they were willing to do for the farmers up north who have so generously supported them in the past elections.

Since Senator Tungseth and myself played the biggest part in passing the so-called Farmer-Labor Rural Credit legislation advocated by a Farmer-Labor Rural Credit Administration, after we failed in getting through the things that we and the people up north wanted, should not be too severely criticized for our actions. Mr. T. H. Bjerke, who called this meeting, which seems to me to be a frame-up, should feel satisfied because the Rural Credit legislation that was sponsored by Senator Tungseth for the committee would surely have been supported by Mr. Paul Harris, his candidate. Mr. Harris would have been duty-bound to support the administration.

I have read many misleading and even untruthful articles in the Forum both in regards to myself and others but I just let it pass as a joke feeling that the people would judge the source from which it comes as well as the motives behind it, but when this article was called to my attention I got a little hot under the collar. Of course, I do not know if the Forum at this time states the truth or not. If it does, Mr. Melby is deliberately taking credit for what was accomplished through my effort.

I have the records of this Legislation and shall be glad to show them to any one interested. I shall also be glad to appear before gatherings of Rural Credit borrowers or other gatherings and explain this more in detail and show records.

If the Editor of the Times is good-hearted enough to give me space for this rather lengthy article I shall be most grateful and thankful.

SEWING PROJECT IMPORTANT PART OF WPA IN AREA

Buying Power In Pennington Co. Sustained by Work of 16 People Engaged in Phase of W. P. A.

Women folk of Pennington County, to the number of 13 all of whom otherwise would be on direct relief, now are engaged on the local WPA sewing projects, states Miss Beatrice Mertens, Detroit Lakes, in charge of women's and professional division in this district. The work is under the general supervision of Mrs. Mildred T. Law, acting state division director in the Works Progress Administration of which Victory Christgau is state administrator.

In addition to the 13 employed on county's sewing projects, there are 3 other men and women under Mrs. Law's jurisdiction who are engaged in recreational, educational, bookmending, clerical, and associated, activities. According to careful estimate at the Detroit Lakes office, buying power among this class of WPA workers in Pennington County is maintained to the extent of $800.00 each month.

"Many people", said Mrs. Law, "consider WPA only on the basis if its out-of-doors activities. Yet the unseen worker, who otherwise would be on direct relief, is doing useful community work and is being trained for opportunities in private industry. We have 6,774 women and 3,985 men working on these indoor projects in the state. These women are the bread-winners of their families."

"For example, our sewing women make some 153,000 serviceable garments each month for the needy. Already, we have clothed some 48,000 relief families. Had it not been for articles made by the sewing projects, county taxing units would have been obliged to buy most of these supplies."

Red Lake 4-H Fair Draws 200 Exhibits

More than 200 entries were received for the first 4-H club county fair held at the fairgrounds at Red Lake Falls Saturday.

The largest single project entry of any in the county was clothing of which there were some 75 entries. Mrs. George Remick was general superintendent of the home economics section and was assisted by Eleanore Netteland, Oklee; Lois Medchill and Barbara Gilbertson, Plummer.

Clara Waldal, Plummer, was superintendent of the room furnishing exhibit; Roma St. Yves, Dorothy, superintendent of the bread baking exhibits; Rose Wichterman, Plummer, superintendent of the cake baking exhibits; Lorraine Noyes, Brooks, superintendents of canning exhibits.

Emil Malwitz, Gervais, was superintendent of the livestock exhibits and his aides were Robert Sirek, Dorothy, dairy and beef class; Rollin Dennistoun, Brooks, pig club class; Myron Smith, Terrebonne, sheep club class; Bernard Remick, Lake Pleasant, poultry club class. Ingvald Berg was superintendent of the garden class, and Myron Smith, superintendent of the potato class. Rudolph Stolen of McIntosh, county agent of East Polk county, judged the agricultural exhibits. Mrs. H. A. Pflughoeft of Crookston judged the home economics exhibits.

The program started with a parade through the business section of the city and was followed by a horse pulling contest, 4-H club stunt program, greased pig contest, 4-H showmanship contest, farmers slow driving contest and other events. A free auction was held in the afternoon with President E. E. Hill of the fair association officiating as auctioneer.

Red Lake Falls business men served a free lunch to 4-H club workers, farmers and their families at St. Joseph's parish hall, and the business men put up a wide variety of prizes for visitors.

Farmer-Labor, Democrats to Merge Drives

The withdrawal by Curtiss and Delaney is hailed by the Democrats generally as very beneficial to the re-election of President Roosevelt. Minnesota has been a doubtful state but this trade with the Farmer-Labor party will assure Minnesota to the Democratic presidential candidate and equally assure the election of the Farmer-Labor state ticket.

Some untrue Democrats have been prompted to issue a statement protesting the deal, calling it a "sell-out". However, the more sincere and regular Democrats, such as Hoidale, Meighan, and Wolff, see that there will be much benefit for their party nationally. The senatorial candidate on the Farmer-Labor ticket, Ernest Lundeen, is expected to come out for Roosevelt shortly.

LOCAL MAN WINS AT GRAND FORKS SHOOT

Kenneth Porter, Jack Jones and Walt Jung attended the Trap and Skeet shoot held at Grand Forks Sunday. Porter won first prize in class B, shooting 42X50 in skeet, and 46 X 50 in traps. Fine weather brought out a good turnout of shooters, it is reported.

LUNDEEN WILL GIVE KEYNOTE SPEECH OCT. 9TH

Radio Station WCCO Will Carry His Address at 9:00 O'clock P. M. in Minneapolis

"Balance personal budgets first—there is no possibility of an unbalanced budget in a prosperous nation."

This is the message Congressman Ernest Lundeen, Farmer Labor candidate for the U. S. Senate, is prepared to deliver in his keynote speech for a statewide radio broadcast over WCCO from 9:00 to 9:30 p. m. Friday, October 9.

"Give farmers cost of production, with adequate refinancing of their mortgages under the Frazier-Lemke bill and the farmer can balance his budget," Mr. Lundeen will say in his keynote.

Congressman Lundeen is the author of the Frazier-Lundeen social security bill, which provides for unemployment insurance, old age pensions, and care for the disabled.

"With passage of this bill, the workingman also can balance his budget and attain economic security which will maintain him and his family on an American standard of living. Thus will the working man balance his budget," Congressman Lundeen will say.

Lundeen also is author of a federal educational aid bill, to expand educational facilities. This, he holds, will help the youth of the nation to build up a store of knowledge to equip them for the "business of living".

Lundeen was a leader in the fight for the soldiers' bonus, which brought $80,000,000 to Minnesota, and would help the widows and orphans of soldiers of all wars, and the disabled veterans as well to keep their budgets balanced thru adequate governmental care.

And all of this, Mr. Lundeen contends, can be financed through taxation of large corporate surpluses, tax exempt securities and taxes on incomes and inheritances.

Mayor Invited To Speak At Workmens Meeting

Mayor W. W. Prichard has been invited to address the Workmen's Protective League at their regular meeting Monday evening, in their hall beneath the Union State Bank. His talk will concern what the city is doing to insure continuation of projects and the creation of new projects to give employment to jobless workers in this city.

At their regular meeting Monday evening the Workmen's Protective League of Thief River Falls voted unanimously by ballot to affiliate with the Workers Alliance of Omerira, a nation-wide organization of WPA and unemployed workers. The local organization will retain its entire setup, including the present name. During the discussion of the question of affiliation, in which all phases of the subject were examined, it was brought out that a hookup with the larger organization would be advantageous in presenting legislation to congress, and in other matters in which a small local group could not act at present.

Victories of the Workers Alliance in the Twin Cities were pointed out, among the mbeing the increasing of the WPA wage scale from $44 a month to over $60. The Workers Alliance is now making a determined effort to have the same scale established over the entire state.

Forestry Division To Show New Film

The State Division of Forestry has gathered material for a new motion picture film estitled, "From Cone to Product", Grover M. Conzet, Director of the Division, announced last week.

The film, which will be ready on December 1st, will be gathering of pine cones for the nursery to the mature forest tree ready for the lumberman's axe.

A considerable part of the film will deal with methods used by the Forestry Division in raising and planting trees and protecting them from fire, insects, and other natural enemies. Real fire scenes, taken on the spot this summer, will be featured.

Other scenes will show the various processes used in preparing manufacturing paper, matches, boxes, furniture, and other necessities.

The motion picture was produced by Harold Searls, of the Forestry Division, and Donald Lewis of Red Wing.

PRIZE WINNING COW IN ROSEAU COUNTY MOTHER OF CALF WITH SIX LEGS

Victor Grahn, farmer near Roseau, reports the birth of a calf with six legs. The two auxiliaries were hind legs outside of the regular ones. All limbs were normal size and shape but the calf was dead at birth. Its mother is a purebred shorthorn and won second prize at the Roseau county fair two years ago.

Woman's Project Check-Up Is Held Wednesday

The final check-up day for the leaders and township chairmen in the Home Management I project was held Wednesday in the Legion Club Rooms.

A short business meeting was held at 11 o'clock at which time a new county home and community chairman was elected. Mrs. V. C. Noper of Thief River Falls was elected the new chairman to succeed Mrs. Lee Beebe of St. Hilaire, who has been chairman the past three years.

Following this meeting a luncheon was served and directly after the luncheon the following program was given:

Community singing; Stunts: the Goodridge group: Play, "Cream Puffs"; Thief River Falls group, Kitchen Band; St. Hilaire group, Cleaning Parade. Reports: Kitchens rearranged by Norden, North, Numedal, and Sanders groups given by Mrs. D. W. Ayers of the Norden group; Kitchens redecorated, North and South Smiley, Silverton and Rocksbury groups, by Mrs. Pete Breznay of the Silverton group; Floors refinshed or covered, Goodridge Town and Township and Cloverleaf groups, given by Mrs. Ed. Barstad of the Goodridge group. Cabinets and cupboards made, St. Hilaire group 1 and 2 and Polk Centre and Bray groups, given by Mrs. L. Olson of St. Hilaire. Woodwork and furniture refinished, Highlanding and Star groups, given by Mrs. John N. Swanson of the Highlanding group. County Agent, Mr. Douglass, gave a summary of the years work. Miss Charlotte Kerchner, Home Demonstration Field Agent, of St. Paul gave a talk on the home management check up day. A talk by their new County Home Chairman, Mrs. V. C. Noper of the Norden group.

This project has been carried on in 21 groups with an enrollment of over 300 women. 1173 meetings have been held and it is estimated that about 344 women outside of those actually participating in the project have been helped. The total improvements as indicated by the consolidated report for Home Management I shows a total of 4,201 changes made in homes of those participating. Plans have been made for a continuation of the project starting next spring.

Will Tell Of Farm Progress In Canada

Agricultural progress in Canada will be described by J. H. Evans, deputy minister of agricuture for the province of Manitoba for 21 years, at the closing evening's session of the annual convention of the Red River Valley Dairymen's Association, Oct. 15, at Crookston.

Coming to western Canada from Wales in 1906, he farmed for nine years before receiving his appointment as deputy minister. During his farming years he spent winter months of three of them attending the University of Manitoba, from which he was graduated in agricultural science. He spent three years at the University of Wales before coming to Canada.

Oklee Men Sentenced For Sweet Clover Theft

Sheriff Carl A. Kankel of Red Lake county arrested Orville Nelson of Oklee community on charges of having stolen 20 sacks of sweet clover seed from the Oklee Elevator company. They pleaded guilty before Judge James E. Montague at Crookston. Nelson was sentenced to serve not more than six years at the state reformatory at St. Cloud and Torgerson was sentenced to serve not exceeding four years.

Ernie Helquist Member Of Mac Football Squad

A local lad, Ernie Helquist, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Helquist, 811 Duluth avenue, is a regular quarterback on the Macalester College football team in St. Paul.

Ernie played in the Macalester-River Falls game Sept. 26, and is expected to start for the Orange and Blue squad Saturday against Gustavus Adolphus at St. Peter. He is receiving his football training under Coaches Al Gowans and George Roscoe, former All-American Gopher.

Helquist won two letters in football at the local high school, and was out for track. He tips the scales at 160 and stands 5 feet 9 inches. He is a junior at Mac.

Detroit Lakes Man Accidentally Killed

When the gun of a companion accidentally discharged, Charles D. Walz, 27 years old, of Detroit Lakes, was fatally injured. Struck in the calf of the left leg by a charge from the gun of Alfred Schultz, of Bemidji, Walz died in the Bemidji Lutheran hospital of loss of blood. The body will be taken to Detroit Lakes for funeral services today. Walz is survived by his parents, six brothers and one sister.

In the fourth quarter Coach Lee replaced his first stringers with an entire reserve eleven which more than held their foes at bay for the remainder of the game.

Sundin at center, Raymond and Hiney in the backfield were thorns in the Prowlers side on almost every play for the East Siders.

Clark Mickelson, Bredeson and Adkins were in starring roles in the local forard wall while Milt Nesse and Hill provided the spectators with constant thrills by their brilliant ball carrying.

A special demonstration by the Thief River Falls Auxiliary Drum corps was given during the time between halves.

RTC BENEFITS IN STATE AGGREGATE 32 MILLION

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation during the period February 2, 1932 to June 30, 1936 distributed the sum of $85,400 in Pennington County, according to information received by Roland Hill, Acting State Director for the National Emergency Council.

Disbursements in Minnesota aggregated $31,349,325.29, not including amounts that went to various government agencies, or relief grants to the State of Minnesota as authorized under the Federal Emergency Relief Act of 1933.

The principal purposes for which the money was disbursed were as follows: subscriptions for preferred stock of banks and trust companies, $12,373,500.00; loans to banks and trust companies, including receivers, liquidating agents and conservators, $10,107,879.47; credit furnished mortgage loan companies, $3,035,000.00; purchases of capital notes or debentures of banks and trust companies, $3,768,500.00

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation gave assistance to industrial and commercial businesses in Minnesota, totalling $395,750.00. The state received a disbursement of $2,581,787.00 for relief and work relief.

Total disbursements made in the United States during the same period not including amounts disbursed in the form of relief grants to states amounted to $6,012,771,180.71.

370 Attend Ag. School; Winter Show Dates Set

The Northwest School opened last week with the largest fall term enrollment in the history of the school. At the close of the first week, Registrar Mlinar reported 231 men and 139 women, or a total of 370 compared with the previous record of 338 established on the same date last year. The distribution by classes shows 127 freshmen, 106 juniors, 72 seniors, 43 Advanced and 22 Special students.

All dormitories have been taxed beyond capacity, thus necessitating the use of the Home Practice quarters and the Health Service building for the overflow in the girls' department.

The annual Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows will be held during the week of February 8 to 12, according to a recent announcement by Winter Shows officials. This will be the twenty-seventh annual meeting, sponsored by the Northwest School and numerous regional organizations.

BIDS CALLED ON R. R. UNDERPASS IN CROOKSTON

Bids on a 106-foot railroad underpass bridge in Crookston, Polk county have been called for Oct. 16 by N. W. Elsberg, state commissioner of highways. The bridge, on Trunk Highway No. 2, will be a three-plate girder span replacing the present structure under the Northern Pacific railroad on Robert street, but on a slightly changed location. These bids are in addition to six others previously called for Oct. 16 in Cook, Beltrami, Lac qui Parle, Ottertail, Stearns and Sherburne counties, aggregating approximately $95,000,—for grading, gravel surfacing, grading and graveling and a bridge.

JURY TERM OF DISTRICT COURT IS CONCLUDED

Short Session Results As Defendants Plead Guilty Here Monday

Several Cases Are Continued On Calendar

Other Cases Are Dated For Hearing Before Judge Brattland

The fall term of district court, at which the jurors were summoned Monday morning, came to an abrupt ending that afternoon when the defendants in the various cases pleaded guilty. The jury was consequently dismissed at the same time.

C. R. Bradley dismissed his appeal on the charge of pursuing the barber trade without a license, paying the costs of the proceedings.

Rudolph Lindberg pleaded guilty to the charge of assault and battery and was given a third degree sentence, paying a $50 fine and costs. The case of Gordon Rod on the same charge was continued.

The case of Schuster vs. Adkins and Lynde was dismissed.

Other court cases were dated for hearing later this week and next week. They are: B. C. Bernard vs. Hilda Gulseth et al; Ross Cronkhite vs. W. J. Durbahn; Raymond G. Gordon vs. H. L. Fowler et al; S. Salveson vs. K. E. Dahl; State of Minnesota vs. Thomas Milson et al; appeal of T. P. Anderson, etc; Alice Lindberg vs. Rudolph E. Lindberg; Lincoln Arnold etc. vs. Fred Kraemer et al; K. E. Dahl vs. P. W. Korstad; Ellen Vinje vs. Paul Vinje; T. J. Carr vs. H. S. Dearborn et al; and June Olson vs. Alice Olson.

The case of M. C. Hanson etc. vs. D. R. Anderson was ordered stricken from the calendar, while divorces were granted in the cases of Lelia E Bickley vs. Oscar Bickley and Evelyn Belland vs. Omer Belland. John A. Ristau pleaded guilty in paternity proceedings, and judgement was entered.

Judge M. A. Brattland of this city is the presiding judge.

F-L Committee To Hold Three County Meetings

The following Farmer-Labor rallies, addressed by W. E. Day, and others, will be held in Pennington county at the following places: Dimmen school, (Norden twp.), Oct. 20th; Hazel school, Oct. 22nd; Jasperson school (Mayfield twp.), Oct. 23rd. The Wylie school meeting, scheduled for Oct. 21st, has been cancelled due to the Involdstad lecture in our city.

All are evening meetings, commencing at 8 o'clock, states H. O. Berve, campaign manager.

Two Fires Reported; Dense Fog Prevails

During the latter part of last week a crew of 250 men fought a forest fire in the White Earth forest reserve, 20 miles southeast of Mahnomen, the fire destroying valuable forest, five Indian shacks, and an inland store.

The blaze blackened an area six miles long and two miles wide, mottled with pine, swamps and brush in northeastern Becker county east of the village of White Earth.

J. B. Kovarik, seventh district WPA administrator, reported destruction of the buildings by the blaze which began Thursday and spread before high winds and low humidity.

The fire was brought under control early Saturday after CCC workers and equipment were mustered from the forest range station at Grand Rapids.

Brush country in the Grygla vicinity was dotted with peat and swamp fires and new blazes were reported at intervals. CCC and WPA workers were detailed in shifts to the fires.

Early Saturday the dense smoke, combined with a high humidity, caused the heaviest fog in this vicinity that has been seen for years. Traffic was at a standstill in our city from early morning until about evelen o'clock when the sun appeared and cleared the mist.

4-H Achievement Day To Be Held Saturday

The Fall Achievement Day of the Pennington County 4-H Club will be held this coming Saturday, Oct. 17th, beginning at 10 o'clock. The Fair Grounds at Thief River Falls will be the scene of the activities. This day is held for all 4-H members having beef calves, fat hogs, market lambs, market poultry, or turkeys to exhibit, R. M. Douglass states, the Pennington county agent.

Achievement Day is held every fall to select winners to the Junior Livestock show which is held at St. Paul in November. Trips will be awarded as follows: 3 beef calves (grade heifers or steers or purebred steers); 1 lard hog (grade or purebred barrow); 3 market lambs (grade or purebred ewe or wether); 1 pen market poultry (5 cockerels, 5 ducks, or 3 geese); and 1 pen market turkeys (3 toms).

All club girls and boys enrolled in these classes are requested to be present at this event and complete their projects. Record blanks must also be brought to this event. Awards of cash prizes will be made.

Thora Bjornaraa Killed Accidentally

Funeral Services Are Being Conducted This Afternoon at Home Near Trail

Miss Thora Bjornaraa, age 23, well known to all local people, was killed Monday evening in an auto accident at a turn in the highway a few miles south of Strandquist. Miss Bjornaraa, Mildred Moen and Palmer Johnson, the last two of Middle River were driving west at a fair rate of speed in Mr. Johnson's coupe. As they failed to see the turn in the road the car, with its occupants crashed into the ditch and overturned. Miss Bjornaraa suffered a fractured skull and died almost instantly. The other passengers in the car suffered only minor injuries. The body of the deceased was taken to a local funeral parlor where it will remain until the funeral services this afternoon.

Miss Thora Bjornaraa was born March 10, 1914, at Trail, and has made her home there ever since. She was graduated from the Lincoln high school in 1933, and from Paul's Beauty School in Minneapolis in the fall of 1935. She had been employed at the Elite Beauty shop in this city for six months and was acting as relief operator at the new beauty shop in Middle River at the time of the accident.

One sister preceded her in death. Surviving her are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Bjornaraa, five brothers, Olaf, Thorvald, Einar, and Sigurd all of Trail, and Dreng of St. Paul; four sisters, Mrs. Erick Johnson, and the Misses Borghild, Solvig, and Anna, all of Trail.

The services will be held Thursday (today) at 1 o'clock at her home in Trail, and at 2 o'clock in the Nazareth church, with Rev. Fladmark of Trail officiating at the services, assisted by Rev. Lie of Fisher, and Rev. Tungseth of Thief River Falls. Interment will be at the Nazareth church cemetery at Trail.

Ram Exchange Day To Be Held Saturday

Another Ram Exchange Day will be held this coming Saturday, Oct. 17, from 10 to 3:30 o'clock, at the Fair Grounds in Thief River Falls. Hans Anton will be in chorge of the activities.

This day is intended to afford an opportunity for buyers and sellers to contact each other and compare notes as to prices and qualities, states R. M. Douglass, county agent.

All buyers, sellers, and exchangers are urged to come and to bring their rams. As it is desired that this exchange day should lead to improved flocks only it is requested that only genuine purebred rams be brought in for exchange or sale.

SPECIAL NOTICE

L. G. Larson, county CCC enrollment officer, has just received a telegram from state CCC headquarters stating that Minnesota's quota has been filled so no additional boys can now be enrolled.

INGVOLDSTAD'S LECTURES ARE ARRANGED FOR

Noted Traveler - Speaker To Address Three Local Gatherings

Events Will Be Held Next Wednesday

To Talk To Students, Cooperators Group and Public Audience

Arrangements have been completed for the several lectures which Dr. Fred W. Ingvoldstad will give in our city next Wednesday, Oct. 21st. He will address the Lincoln high school assembly at 11 a. m., a group composed of co-operative enterprisce managers, directors and others interested at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon and at a mass meeting at the auditorium in the evening beginning at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Ingvoldstad is well-known thruout the country as a lecturer, having debated with Clarence Darrow and lectured on sociological conditions thruout the United States and European countries. He is the author of several books and travelogue articles for popular magazines. During the past year he lectured to hundreds of audiences thruout the country among which were leading professional groups, and students forums. He has travelled extensively in European countries, and Soviet Russia, returning only three weeks ago from one of these yearly trips.

In his lecture to the high school assembly he will describe conditions under which the people live in the various countries of the old world and their educational and youth movements. His address to the co-operative group will deal with conditions in Soviet Russia which he re-visited this summer. The expenses connected with the appearance here of Dr. Ingvoldstad is being taken care of by a group of local citizens and the lectures will be free to the public.

La Follette Will Speak In State Saturday

New Ulm will be host city to one of the largest crowds that will gather at any point during the campaign of 1936, when Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, addresses a meeting at the armory Saturday evening, Oct. 17th. The address will be broadcast over a four station state-wide radio hookup, including WCCO of Minneapolis and WNAX of Yankton, S. D. Duluth and Hibbing stations will also broadcast the talk, which will be on the air from 10:00 to 10:30 P. M.

The meeting will be in the armory, but even that large auditorium will not have seating capacity to accommodate the gathering, and arrangements are being made to carry his message to points outside the building by the use of loud speakers.

Senator La Follette, son of old "fighting Bob" who has endeared himself to hundreds of thousands of Minnesotans, is regarded as one of the ablest speakers in the U. S. Senate, and his fight for the liberal cause is too well known to need further comment.

Annual Report Made At Red Cross Meeting

The annual meeting of the Pennington County Red Cross chapter was held Friday evening, Oct. 9, in the office of the Municipal Judge, Lincoln Arnold. The Secretary's report was read and approved, and the Treasurer's report audited and accepted. On advice from the Midwestern Branch at St. Louis, Mo., the election of a new board was put over until the first part of the new year.

The officers of the county chapter and who were in attendonce at the meeting are: Mrs. Theo. Quale, chairman; Mrs. Mary Shaw, vice chairman; Mrs. C. M. Adkins, secretary! and Fred F. Protz, treasurer.

The annual treasurer's report as audited and approved is as follows:

Local Cooking School To Be Held Next Week

The Oen's department store will sponsor a two-day cooking school next Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 21 and 22. The hardware department is staging the event to locally advertise the well-known Pyrofax gas ranges. The session will be held each afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, with an evening session each day at 7:30 o'clock.

The Cooking School will be conducted by Mrs. Edna Clemenson, well-known Sioux City (S. Dak.) dietition. She will demonstrate the convenience of Pyrofax (real gas for gasless homes) and show how simply and easily cooking, baking, roasting, broiling, and canning can be done on this fine Magic Chief range.

Readers Notice:—In the display advertisement this week of the Cooking School the days should be Wednesday and Thursdoy instead of Tuesday and Wednesday. Readers interested should bear this in mind.

WORKMEN WILL HOLD ANOTHER SOCIAL EVENT

The Workmen's Protective League which recently affiliated with the Workers Alliance, national workers organization is to hold another "open house" at their hall under the Union State Bank Monday evening, October 19th, Earl Long, business agent stated this week.

Included on the program are short speeches by J. O. Melby and W. E Day, candidates for state representatives in this district, some musical numbers and short acts. An auction of articles donated by various business firms of the city will conclude the program.

Mr. Long states that the auction this time will not be an I. W. W. auction such as was staged at the last shindig, but will be a regular auction sale, and that advertising of the donating business firm will precede the sale of each article.

Following the auction a lunch will be served after which the floor will be cleared and the members and their guests will enjoy a short old time dance.

The admission is for members and their friends, Mr. Long stated, and there is no admission charge, nor is there to be any charge for the lunch. Proceeds from the auction is used to defray the expenses of the shindig, any balance over being diverted into the general fund of the organization.

MAHNOMEN TO PLAY FRIDAY

Grafton Team Is Beaten 19 to 0 In Fourth Easy Victory for the Prowlers Last Friday

Two unbeaten football teams will battle for the honor of the northwestern part of the state in a game at Lincoln Field Friday evening this week when the unbeaten Mahnomen high school eleven meets the unbeaten Prowlers.

At the local gridiron last Friday evening, after trying for four quarters to hold the Prowlers, the Grafton high school eleven went down to defeat by the score of 19 to 0. The locals dominated play throughout the entire game, giving the invaders but few chances to use any real offensive work, most of which was punting. Bergh, Grafton's right halfback, however, was a constant threat, several times going for substantial gains. He proved to be a very illusive runner if once he got through the first defense. Fortunately such chances did not present themselves but few times, as the Prowlers line just couldn't be penetrated.

Milt Nesse did most of the ball-carrying for the locals, smashing through the line for large gains, and once 44 yards for a touchdown. But, naturally, to go through a line of seven men, all fighting to stop you, you must have at least a small hole. Well, the local line men were in there on every play, opening holes large enough to "drive a truck through", to use a familiar expression.

The Prowlers made three touchdowns, the first coming in the early stages of the opening quarter, when they took a Grafton punt on their own 40-yard line. The next play saw Dicken running around end for 12 yards, from where Hill

NORSE VIOLIN PLAYERS WILL MEET FRIDAY

2-Day Gathering To Come To An End Saturday Evening

Leif Erikson Program Will Be Big Feature

More Than One-Hundred Expected To Take Part In Contests

The arrival of more than a hundred visitors is anticipated by local people for the annual Norwegian Hardanger musicians gathering here the last two days of this week. The biggest portion of this group of visitors are expected to be very talented violin players. The feature of the program Friday evening will be a contest between players of the Hardanger eight-string violin, who will be divided into three classes. Included in the entrants will be Dr. Ilef Smiday, who has won first prizes with his artistry both in Norway and in this country.

Also scheduled for Friday evening is an address by R. A. Trovatten, state commissioner of agriculture, in addition to which there will be several other talks by prominent men. Norwegian national dances also will be presented, and the evening will close with a dance for those present.

A Leif Erikson program will be present next Saturday afternoon, whils in the evening there will be a "Trollstemt violin huldrespill" contest. A Norwegian dance contest open to all will be held, in addition to which there will be speeches and songs, the evening closing with a dance.

Red Lake Falls Opposes Poplar River Diversion

The Red Lake Falls Commercial club by unanimous vote at its regular meeting decided last week to oppose a plan to divert water from Poplar river to Maple Lake.

While sympathizing with the desires of Maple lake property owners to restore the water level and thereby make a lake again of what has been a swamp in late years, the club is of the opinion that this must not be done by diverting the waters of Poplar river which furnish much of the water of the Clearwater river upon which that city is dependent or water and sewage disposal.

President L. E. Healy was directed to name a committee to represent the club at the adjourned public hearing to be held at the courthouse at Crookston today.

The club endorsed a plan to build a small dam along the Clearwater to create reservoirs and the president was directed to appoint a conservation committee to promote such projects.

Local Women's Club Holds Annual Banquet

The Ladies Aid of the Community church served the members of the Women's Club a three-course banquet at 6:30 Monday evening, in the basement of the Community church. Mrs. J. M. Bishop opened the meeting with a talk stressing the fact that "youth is the hope of the nation." The entire program was based on this theme. The program then continued as follows: song, "Hail, Minnesota!" was sung by the members of the Women's Club, and Lorraine Quist played two marimba solos, "Flapperette," and "Let's Face the Music and Dance", accompanied by Mr. Harrison. The members of the Women's Club followed this with "The Buttermilk Song". Then Mrs. Stanton gave a reading, "Elizabeth's Young Man," which was followed by the Women's Club singing "The Bells of St. Mary". Young Leroy Ruprecht then delighted his audience with the number, "Yodel Your Troubles Away," and responded to the applause with "Lullaby Yodel." Leroy played his own guitar accompaniment. The Women's Club Chorus sang two numbers, "Rendezvous with a Dream," and "Juanita", with Miss Irma Springen playing the accompaniment, and Mr. Harrison directing.

Mrs. Bishop introduced the past presidents, beginning with the past

Elks Circus Will Be Held October 22-23-24

The Elk's annual indoor circus, which opens its three-day engagement Thursday, Oct. 22, and continues through the 24th, at the Municipal Auditorium in Thief River Falls, brings to this city one of the finest winter amusement programs ever to have been shown in this section of the country, according to Oscar Paulson, secretary of the Elks lodge, and general chairman of the circus.

This year's show will be all new and different, with 20 individual acts, and featuring more aerial acts, and bigger and better stage displays. There will be two hours of acts every evening, some of which are the Duval Brothers, Cornella Troupe of comedy acrobats, the Perez LaFlor Troupe of Cuban aerial gymnasts, the Silver Lake trio, the Melvin trio, the Fisher troupe of American acrobats, the Mann Brothers, the Aerial Butterflies, Sykes and His Cycles, and many others, not to mention a group of circus clowns.

Three hours of dancing by Abbie Andrews orchestra of Fargo will follow each evening's performance. Tickets are now on sale by all members of the Elks lodge.

Many Attend Big Republican Rally

Theodore Christianson and Arthur E. Nelson Address Gathering Here Tuesday Evening

A gathering of nearly four hundred attended the big Republican rally at the City Auditorium Tuesday evening, at which Theo. Christianson and Arthur E. Nelson, candidates on the Republican state ticket, spoke. On the stage with them were Elmer Haugen, candidate for congress and Martis Waldal and George Jones, candidates for the state legislature from this district. Mr. Haugen gave a short talk as he was introduced to the audience.

Mr. Nelson, who is the candidate for lieutenant governor, spoke of the faults of the present state administration, charging it with extravagance and radical tendencies, urging in turn support for Martin A. Nelson, and the entire Republican state ticket. He referred frequently to Senator Benson, Martin Nelson's opponent, as the banker candidate.

Mr. Christianson spoke in defense of his record as congressman from this state, giving his reason for supporting many of the New Deal measures and opposing others.

He charged the Roosevelt administration with wanton spending and pleaded for less taxes so as not to burden our future generations. He attacked the Canadian trade treaty, asserting farm products were brought into this country to bring down prices on goods raised by the farmer. He charged his opponent, Ernest Lundeen, with radical tendencies, asserting he in 1922 had endorsed parts of the Soviet program.

The Women's Auxiliary drum corps and the city band paraded thru the streets before the meeting and the band rendered several selections during the evening's program. W. E. Dahlquist acted as chairman of the meeting.

LEGION IN WARREN TO STAGE CARNIVAL

The annual American Legion carnival will be staged at Warren today, Friday and Saturday at the new Strand theater. The carnival is sponsored for the purpose of raising funds with which the Warren post carries out work throughout the year.

Farmer Labor Club To Hear Hagen And Engen

George Hagen, secretary of the Ninth District Farmer Labor association, and Nels Engen, chairman of the Warren Farmer Labor club, will be the speakers at the monthly meeting of the Farmer Labor club of this city at the courthouse Friday evening this week.

Both men are prominent in the Farmer Labor party in this part of the state. Mr. Engen is superintendent of schools of Marshall county, and Mr. Hagen is a leading lawyer at Crookston. Mr. Hagen is only 33 years of age and has already served one term as county attorney of Polk county. He has a special message for the younger voters of the Farmer Labor party who are especially invited to come and attend the meeting.

COUNTY SOIL SUGGESTIONS DISCUSSED

Five Resolution Adopted From Ideas Presented By Members

Board Of Directors Considers Many Proposals

Crop Insurance Is One Of Many Features Held As Practical

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Pennington County Agricultural Conservation association, the suggestions of improvements for a 1937 program as obtained from the meetings held in the county for this purpose were discussed. The meeting was held at the office of the county agent, R. M. Douglass.

The following suggestions were approved by this committee as practical and fitting into the needs of this county and territory as changes which would improve the program and still effectuate the purposes of the act:

1. That since summer fallow in this territory is carried on for the purpose of weed control and since this is the only practical method of combating this menace as cultivated crops are not grown extensively enough to be used for this purpose it is very important to this part of the state that land used for this purpose should be classified as soil conserving.

This practice, however, in addition to the weeds already allowed should include French weed, mustards and wild oats; this land to be plowed before July 1st and kept black all summer.

2. That all legumes plowed under as green manure before July 1st and land kept black the balance of the summer be included as a soil building practice and payment of $1.50 an acre be allowed.

3. That a maintenance payment be made after a certain percentage of the crop land has been put in soil conserving crops to equalize payment to men who have a large percentage of their land in Soil Conserving crops and to in this way encourage them to keep this acreage in soil conserving crops.

4. That a payment be computed for each farm based upon the crop acres of that farm so each farmer would know in the spring just what payment could be earned on his farm.

5. Crop Insurance: The present program offers a certain amount of crop insurance particularly when the farmer knows in the spring just what payment can be earned on his farm that year.

Along with this program the storage of wheat, oats, barley and flax stored on the farm similar to the corn loans in the opinion of those in this county offered the most feasible form of crop insurance to the farmers in this territory.

Anti-Saloon League Holds 2-Day Session

The Minnesota Anti-Saloon league sponsored a dry rally in this city Sunday and Monday. A large group of pastors and workers rallying for the cause were in attendance from all parts of the state.

The main feature of the two-day session was the presentation Sunday evening at the Auditorium of the drama "Death Takes the Wheel", which was under the direction of Dr. R. N. Holsaple, state superintendent of the league.

The luncheon Monday noon in the Civic and Commerce association rooms was attended by nearly 100 persons. Speakers at the luncheon, at which Rev. E. A. Cooke was toastmaster, were Supt. Morris Bye of the local schools, Dr. Holsaple, and Dr. Frank E. Day of Minneapolis. Mr. Bye outlined the complete temperance program which is being carried on in the public schools, and mentioned the fact that this instruction begins in the fifth grade, and is carried on through high school.

Dr. Day pointed out the insincerity of the advocates of the use of liquor, as the state laws permits the sale of alcoholic drinks, and at the same time the state orders instruction in all schools on the ev-

THE RECORD OF MARTIN A. NELSON

An attack on the character of Elmer A. Benson was made in these pages last week. We are making a survey as to the authenticity of some of the arguments presented. As far as we have found out now the article seems to be in line with the Republican party holding the "red" scare before the voters.

However, we promised we would disclose some of the fact regarding Martin A. Nelson, the Republican opponent of Elmer Benson for governor. The assertion was made that Sen. Benson had never been elected to any office, ie, he had been picked up by the late governor and appointed to office, first as state bank commissioner and later as United States senator. As far as election to any office is concerned Elmer A. Benson has never sought election to any office so he couldn't very well have been elected. Unlike his opponent the office has sought Sen. Benson rather than he has sought the office.

When we look into the record of Martin Nelson, however, we find that former Congressman Shoemaker's assertion that Nelson couldn't be elected even as much as dog-catcher in his home town of Austin is about as truthful as anyone can make it. Martin A. Nelson has sought election to office four different times and has never been elected to office.

Ran for County Attorney in 1922, and was defeated 4,095 to 2,589 by Otto Baudler, giving Baudler a majority of 1506. Baudler carried 19 townships. Nelson one township;

Ran for the Republican nomination for congressman in 1924, being the only candidate for that nomination from Mower County, Nelson losing to Furlow, and polling 4,896 to 4,974 for Dr. Milo Price of Owatonna;

Ran for State Senator in 1930 in the district embracing Mower and Dodge Counties, and was defeated by A. O. Starks, a farmer living near Dexter;

Ran for governor in 1934, losing to Floyd B. Olson, and carrying his home county of Mower by only 30 votes. In this election, Governor Olson carried Nelson's home town of Austin with a vote of 2,847 to Nelson's 2,303 or by a majority of 554. Olson carried Nelson's precinct 414 to 356, or by a majority of 58.

THE REPUBLICAN RELIEF PROGRAM

That the Republicans of 1936 are the same as under the Hoover administration which came to such a dramatic ending in 1932 is evident in a great many ways. Rugged individualism is still in the gizzard of all of them though they try to keep it under cover.

The most glaring instance of the truth of the charge that Hooverism is still in the GOP background is the Landon stand on the relief problem. He proposes that the state, county and township or city contribute the larger proportion of relief funds. That this is Hooverism at its worst can be stated because our most publicly disgraced president maintained such a policy and was too stubborn to change his mind when it was clearly evident that his policies were ruining the country.

Local relief means that the people in our own taxing district must bear the cost of relief. Instead of getting the funds from Washingtotn or the federal government it must be paid by local taxpayers. If we happened to be suffering from a calamity of some kind, such as a crop failure, and we cannot pay our taxes so relief can be granted the needy we will be confronted by a serious problem.

The Republicans propose to remedy the situation by a federal loan to the locality so as to enable it to meet the percentage of relief the federal government will contribute. Suppose, though, that such a relief program had been in effect during the past four years in the dozen states in the Central West where the drought has deprived all of their property because they haven't raised anything to sell since prices went up after Hoover vacated the White House.

The people in these states couldn't raise any local taxes to meet the federal government's share. They couldn't make any loans because their townships, cities and state governments had exhausted their credit. The only way the needy here could get relief would be by the Roosevelt method or these people would either starve to death or move elsewhere to become a poor relief client.

The richer sections of the East wants Landon's relief program because it will take the relief burden off the rich and leave the needy to starve and die. For that reason the relief program as now maintained is the most practical though there are many faults that shouldn't exist. But no relief program can ever be administered without some drawback.

BRITAIN SPENT ITS WAY TO RECOVERY

A favorite theme of reactionaries is that Great Britain has recovered from the depression without any special effort by the government, and particularly without government spending.

That misrepresentation has been very definitely exploded by unbiased commentators, but never more effectively than by Mrs. Margaret Miller, British housing expert.

British recovery, she said, is due very largely to an unparalleled housing boom. That boom was traced to "the building of 3,000,000 houses with the aid of government subsidy."

Congress at its last session defeated the Wagner bill for similar subsidies here, although it called for spending only $50,000,000 a year. With a population one-third the size of ours, Great Britain is spending $85,000,000 a year.

When it comes to spending on houses for the poor, British Tories make the New Deal look like a piker.—Labor, National Weekly.

WHY TAXES ARE AS THEY ARE

Those selfish interests which complain of government costs ought not to forget that they got a nice big world war out of government expenditures. That war accounts for a great portion of government costs. During the fiscal years ending June 30, 1935, the United State Government spent 61c out of every tax dollar for war purposes. Thus, only 39c of each tax dollar was expended for the government services that are indispensable to social existence. Is it not strange that the interests which condemn high taxes are so silent about the awful cost of war? The only war costs they condemn are those which paid for a "bonus" to the doughboys who made the sacrifices while the complainers of high government costs were becoming multi-millionaires.

In an early day, when taxes were not so great, we were a nation of rugged individualists. We had very little police and fire protection and problems of public safety and sanitation were not such vital obligations of government. But as our population became more congested, we found that the things which were formerly left to the individual to accomplish or those things which were left to the private profit-seeker, such as toll bridges, toll highways, and even privately operated mail carrier service, became inadequate for the needs of the people. An individual tax-payer could best appreciate the value he receives for his tax dollar, if he undertook to maintain his own police and fire department and pave his own streets, keep them clean and dispose of his own garbage.

A certain individual figured up his taxes in one year, and he found that he paid a total of $365 in a year, or a dollar a day for federal, state, and local taxes on income and property. For that dollar a day which he paid to government, he received, in services, from the federal government, the administration of the government, the army, the navy, the coast guard, the weather bureau, and the federal highways at an annual cost to him of $104. From the state government, he received the services offered by the universities, the hospitals, the prisons, the alms-houses, bridges and parks, at an annual cost to him of $21. From the city government, he received the following services: street lights, street cleaning, sewage disposal, garbage collection, fire and police protection, water, schools, libraries, playgrounds and clinics, at an annual cost to him of $240. He then discovered that he paid a like amount, $365 in the year, or a dollar a day, to private corporations for electricity, telephone, gas, gasoline, and oil. He naturally came to the conclusion that he was getting far greater and more vital services for his tax dollar than he was receiving from the goods and services he purchased from private corporations. It is important to note that all of the services he received for his tax dollar were indispensable, but such was not the case with respect to the money he spent for the goods and services of private corporations.

THE VALUE OF THE CCC CAMPS

Many acts of the present administration have been criticized—sometimes perhaps justly, oftentimes unfairly. At this particular time, as the presidential election approaches, criticizm of the gigantic program put into motion by the present administration and known as the New Deal, will frequently be heard by those who care to listen to anti-administration politicians. But even the most bitter critics of the Roosevelt administration usually avoid comment on the Civilian Conservation Corp.

Even if the CCC never built a single dam, never planted a single tree, the camps would be amply justified. Uncounted thousands of idle boys have enrolled in CCC camps they have lived wholesome lives and received training at a critical period in their lives that often spelled the difference between becoming worthless bums and vicious criminals or self-reliant honorable men. It is true, of course, that the camps have created millions of dollars of new wealth in the form of new dams, new forests and many other conservation projects that will still be returning the nation dividends 100 years hence. But the greatest value of the camps has been in building men, the most valuable asset any nation can have.—Park River (N. D.) Press.

AS KANSAN TO KANSAN

The following is a clipping from The Minneapolis Star, being a part of a letter in a controversy on the reader's page in that paper and pertains to the Landon administration in his own state.

To the Editor: Bert Lowe says my claim that the average salary of $38 a month for school teachers in Kansas "is not true". He is correct, technically speaking. There is a slight discrepancy of 30 cents. To be specific, the average salary paid school teachers in Kansas is $37.70 a month.

I might also say that during the Landon administration 400 schools in Kansas have been closed for the lack of funds to keep them open.

Mr. Lowe further says, "Landon doesn't fix wages of school teachers." If school teachers are not paid a living wage, Governor Landon has the power to ask for legisaltion that will make funds available for this purpose. So far he has failed to do so. However, he has asked for legislation that would be beneficial to oil producers, and the governor is one of them. You might be interested to know that I am also from Kansas.

According to the free publicity coming to this office, the Republicans seem to be more concerned over the merging of the campaign drives of the Democratic and Farmer-Labor parties in the state than any of those concerned. The source of the stir about the Democrats being "sold down the river" is the GOP headquarters in St. Paul. The extra large campaign funds of the Republicans makes it necessary for the opposition to combine. And more-over, the State platform of the Farmer-Labor party and the program of President Roosevelt are identical in most respects, so why shouldn't they merge?

The Washington Commentator

By E. C. STENGELSEN

A RUGGED INDIVIDUALIST

A certain Republican—or for that matter, all Republicans are certain—gave your commentator the interview on which report is made in this column. . .

That his informant was Republican, your commentator deduced from two incidents. . . The first, when your commentator mentioned casually that Governor Landon was, for the moment, suffering with a cold, and the Republican immediately produced a polka-dotted bandana and blew his nose mightily. . . The second, when your commentator spoke of a recent rain in Topeka, and the Republican, a Minnesotan, promptly began rolling up his pants.

Questioned about Mr. Roosevelt's crop insurance plan, the Republican admitted that he knew none of its details. But he was emphatcally, against it. Nor did he know of the details of Mr. Landon's crop insurance plan. But he was, emphatically, for it.

He believed, firmly, in soil conservation. And while he did not know, any more than did Mr. Landon himself, just what method the budget-balancer had in mind, he favored it strongly.

Mr. Roosevelt's soil erosion plan, however, he blasted aside with an explosive . . . "Nuts to him!"

The above should suffice as proof that the Republicans are, indeed, the 'clear thinkers' they hold themselves out to be.

The Republican was also a rugged individualist. . .

Your commentator wished to go somewhat more into detail concerning the Soil Erosion Act. The Republican was more than willing. It was, he proclaimed, merely an initial step in a Communist-inspired scheme to accomplish, gradually, the complete regimentation of the farmer. . . "It'll soon get so we won't be runnin' our own farms no more!" he prophecied, almost tearfully.

And your commentator, giving this alarming suggestion judicious thought, concluded that he might be right. In fact, he immediately began to foresee—with dread, naturally,—the possible coming of the day when the Russian premier, Stalin, would be hissing to some trusted emissary:

"Make John Brown at Mankato plant alfalfa!"

Admittedly a difficult remark to hiss successfully. But, as is well known, the Communists stop at nothing!

The Republican tried, however, to be fair and broad-minded about the Soil Erosion Act. He admitted that it might be made acceptable provided its administration were placed in capable hands, which was to say in the hands of the Republicans. . . and if its numerous bad features were eliminated and its good features retained.

For example: The government must not say, "If you'll plant such or such a crop up to a certain percentage of your acreage, we'll pay you." No, it mustn't say that, for that would be regimentation.

And for the government to come nosing around in the fall and checking up by measuring the fields, was bureaucratic direction and interference.

The Republican was a little vague about it; but if one lopped off all the features to which he objected, it left the Soil Erosion Act where each farmer would lay out for himself his own soil conservation program. Then, along in the fall, when he needed a little change, he'd merely sent a post card to Washington, telling the folks there just how much he had coming. They'd promptly mail him a check, and that would end the matter.

It was, after all, very simple if one went about it in the American way!

But, regrettably, some of the Republican's neighbors fell far short of being the upstanding 100-percenters that he was. To be blunt about it, they had fallen for the Communist trick and had sowed the soil-building crops designated by the government, on which they would collect premiums. Thus, they had sold their birthright for a mess of pottage; for they would, of course, vote for Roosevelt—the dirty bums!

Your commentator did not personally see any of these renegade neighbors, but he could easily enough envision them, slinking about, regimented and docile. Only when the government checks came in might they, perhaps, show a little animation. Then, likely as not, the whole kit and kaboodle of them—pa, ma, the kids, and an uncle and auntie or two—would join hands and dance around the woodshed, waving the check and singing. . .

"Oh, the farmer! the farmer!
Hauled another load away!"

In a talk your commentaotr had later with one of the regimented neighbors, the Republican was mentioned. . .

"Oh, yeah! . . . him!" grinned the neighbor. "He's one of Hoover's ragged individualists!"

The Capitol News Review

By A. I. HARRIS

A coalition between two political parties in order to bring about the defeat of a third party becomes either an act of horse trading or a piece of brilliant political strategy. It all depends on whose ox is gored. . . . .

For example, two years ago the Republicans sought a coalition with the Democrats for the purpose of bringing about the defeat of Governor Olson. The reactionary press carried editorials in profusion urging such a move. Had this move succeeded they would have declared it a piece of brilliant strategy. But they failed. . . . . .

Now, the same politicians who attempted to effect a coalition against the liberals two years ago, and the same reactionary press which urged such a move as a piece of brilliant political strategy, are calling the coalition between the liberal forces in Minnesota today—the Farmer-Laborites and Democrats—an act of horse trading. That is just the cry of a squealer when he feels hurt. . . . . .

Whenever a liberal movement presents a serious threat, reactionaries have no trouble to effect a combination against them. The united front for reaction has been in existence for a good many years . . . . . .

Conditions today demanded a united front against reaction and that demand itself brought this united front about. A divided liberal vote in America could easily bring about the election of Landon and control of this country by Hearst, Wall Street, and the Liberty League crowd. . . . . .

A parallel situation existed in this state. A divided liberal vote might have restored the Republican Party, with its timber looters, special interests, and corporation gang, to power. This threat to liberal government so far as Minnesota is concerned is now happily thwarted. The people have the issue clearly before them and when they go to the polls on November 3 they will know that they will cast a vote either for reaction or for progress.

We wonder whether Mr. Nelson has read about the 61 years of Republican rule in Minnesota. . . . . . .

We suggest that he look into the timber looting of the state under Republican administrations. When he gets through with that he might do a little research into the exploitation of our mining industry.

Here was a rich heritage of the people such as no state in America enjoyed. Had our mineral wealth been protected by Republicans instead of exploited for the benefit of eastern capitalists, as Senator Benson has pointed out, Minnesota would today be a tax-free state.

We might get down to a little more recent history and refer Nelson to the Rural Credit investment. Why is Mr. Nelson so discreetly silent about the $60,000,000 of the state's bonded indebtedness resulting from that investment. Incidently, in this study Mr. Nelson can learn that his Republican officials used the state's Rural Credit Funds not to help out farmers as the law intended, but to aid friendly bankers in liquidating their frozen assets.

The other night William Campbell of Minneapolis went on the air for Martin A. Nelson and the Republican ticket. Campbell will be remembered as having been endorsed secretly by the Ku Klux Klan as mayor of Minneapolis some years ago. The grand jury investigation into Klan activities at that time disclosed that fact.

Campbell doesn't feel very kindly towards the late Governor Olson because Olson, who was county attorney during the heydey of the

By H. O. BERVE

We read Senator Tungseth's letter in last week's issue of the Forum, with much interest, but with no surprise. At last the cat is out of the bag, and another staunch Republican comes out in his full Republican regalia. Senator Tungseth attempts to scare the voters with the old Republican cry of Communism. This is an old Republican trick. Senator Tungseth may think that he is belittling the Farmer-Laborites by calling them Communists. 'We are not frightened by names any more' Senator. We would advise you to read the Farmer-Labor platform and see just what the Farmer-Labor party attempts to do and what it stands for. Don't bother about calling names or setting up scare-crows, but read and study the platform and see what the Farmer-Labor party stands for. Senator Tungseth also comes out with a bitter attack in his letter on Elmer E. Benson, the Farmer-Labor candidate for Governor. The hole Farmer-Labor crowd is wrong according to the Senator. Hjalmer Peterson only, of all the Farmer-Labor candidates is pleasing to the eyes of the Senator.

The Senator's letter reads as if it had been gotten out by the Republican Campaign Committee. Maybe Senator Tungseth had a conference with his Republican friends to decide just what should be said and written in the letter. Some of the Republicans were giggling a few days before the letter was published and telling that Senator Tungseth was coming out against the Farmer-Labor party.

This is a free country and the Senator is entitled to his own opinions and to express them. Two years ago, Senator Tungseth rode the fence and was glad to get the support of some of the Communists for himself in his candidacy for State Senator. He was very anxious to get his Farmer-Labor parishioners to support him and vote for him for Senator. We are wondering how his Farmer-Labor friends of two years ago feel now that he again breaks into print in this campaign to attack the Farmer-Labor movement. Apparently it is not only the Farmer-Labor movement that the Senator dislikes, but he really dislikes to see the farmers, the working people, and the small business men make any effort to put up an organized fight for their economic rights. He is out of sympathy with the common people and wants to keep them down.

Who is Martin Nelson, the Republican candidate for Governor? He has been a candidate many times, but so far as we know he has never been elected to any office. So far as we know he has not even had a local office in his home community. The people of Minnesota have not so far as we know entrusted Martin Nelson with any office of any importance. SO FAR AS WE KNOW MARTIN NELSON HAS NOT EVEN BEEN

By B. C. HAGGLUND

Today's Text

"Loyalty to a petrified opinion never yet broke a chain or freed a human soul."—Mark Twain.

If Landon Is Elected

"If Landon is elected," says Bill Gropper, the cartoonist, "'Heil, Hearst!' will be the nazi-nal salute, Morgan will remain the money-changer, the American Eagle will be put under bail and chain for having a Jewish beak, and the Statue of Liberty will be deported back to France where it came from."

The Democrats Withdraw

Republicans all over the state are gnashing their teeth over the "betrayal" of the Democratic voters in the withdrawal of Democratic candidates in favor of the Farmer-Laborites. As a matter of fact, a Democratic party in Minnesota is superfluous. The issue is clear-cut—the election is a fight between Progress and Reaction, between Democracy and Fascism. Honest Democrats could have no quarrel with the Farmer-Labor platform, while the others could vote Republican without a twinge of conscience. There simply is no middle ground.

What is happening in Minnesota this Fall will happen over the entire country four years from now. Every effort is being made to form a strong national Farmer-Labor party to combat the reactionary remnants of both the old parties. Up to the present, "every four years the working class has had the opportunity to choose which set of oppressors it shall endure till the next election," as someone has so ably said. The Farmer-Labor party on a national scale will be an attempt to give the working class and farmers a chance to be heard.

The Democratic party as we know it today—riding earthquakey middle ground—will be a thing of the past. There are many progressives in the Democratic party, who make it, on the whole, much the more preferable to Landon's reactionary outfit which is financed by the du Ponts, Morgan, Mellon, and the whole exploiting crew. But on the whole the Democratic party is too loose-knit to represent the interests of any one class. It is too conglomerate—which explains why it has been pushed around by one interest and another during the past three years.

One thing about the Republicans—they have a clear-cut program of reaction, a definite route to the American brand of fascism, which makes it easier to deal with them. They have taken a definite stand for reaction, which should give the people their cue to take a definite stand for progress.

Democracy in Spain

Those who claim that "it can't happen here" have only to cast their eyes upon Spain, where the Republican party has gone down under the onslaught of a group of murderous fascists, bent on bringing Spain under a dictatorship. Mussolini and Hitler have not denied lending aid to the fascists; and when Stalin proposed to aid the loyalists, a hue and cry of "intervention" goes up. It's a poor neutrality pact that won't work both ways.

It ought to be instructive for future generations to note that democracy is unworkable, because a small group of racketeers can so often kill off all those who believe in democracy and set up a dictatorship. Many years ago, a certain party believed it could beat the reactionaries on the draw; as a result the party organized a dictatorship of the proletariat which worked the other way, for the first time in history! Soviet Russia exists today because the working class set up their own dictatorship, in profund distrust of the existing democracies of the world, which allowed so much economic exploitation.

However, democracy is a great thing—if it be preserved. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty!"

APPOINTED TO ANY OFFICE OF ANY SORT EVEN BY HIS REPUBLICAN FRIENDS OR ANYONE ELSE. In order to be fair, will Senator Tungseth please inform the voters as to what offices Martin Nelson, the Republican Candidate for Governor has ever held, appointive or otherwise.

At the same time will Senator Tungseth also please inform the people of his district that ELMER E. BENSON, the Farmer-Labor Candidate for Governor was appointed to and held the Office of State Securities Commissioner for some time. That he was thereafter appointed to and held the office of State Commissioner of Banks for some years. That he was thereupon appointed to and has held the Office of United States Senator in which office he has made a splendid record. Please let the voters of the District know just what offices Martin Nelson, the Republican, and Elmer Benson, the Farmer-Laborites, have held so that they can compare the experience and qualifications of the two men. Both Nelson and Benson are lawyers so there is no difference in that respect.

Senator Tungseth praises Hjalmer Peterson, the Farmer-Labor candidate for Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner. Mr. Peterson is a fine man, a very capable person and will make an efficient official. He is entitled to our votes. But Senator Tungseth is again trying to play an old political game. He is merely an errand boy for the Republican campaign committee, trying to create friction and discord in the Farmer-Labor ranks, by setting up one candidate against another. That is why he is praising Peterson and criticising Benson. He thinks there may be a little rivalry there and he would like to fan the flames. The Senator may be a clever hand at stirring up friction and discord, for all we know, but he is wasting his time with men like Benson and Peterson.

Some standpat Republican like Senator Tungseth are hard to please. Two years ago Senator E. L. Tungseth came out with a bitter attack on the late Governor Floyd B. Olson, in his own church paper, the Zion Messenger. Later on he and his close friend and associate Marius Waldal, kept up their carping criticism of the Governor. Senator Tungseth hates the Farmer-Labor movement so thoroughly that now he again has to break loose with an attack on Elmer Benson, the Farmer-Labor candidate for Governor. Apparently he dislikes not only the Farmer-Labor candidates, but he dislikes the entire movements of the common people.

The Farmer-Labor candidates are all good, clean capable and efficient men who will make good officials. If you believe in the Farmer-Labor Principles and Platform, we still want to urge you to vote the Farmer-Labor ticket straight, with all respect to Senator Tungseth. When you know you have good capable candidates in your party, then of course vote for the men who will support your principles, and your platform. That is our advice and our request.

Is it better sense to go and vote for a nice Republican, who can shake hands, preach fine sermons, and be a good fellow, but who will go out and vote against your principles and platform.

The American Youth Act, known as the Benson-Amlie Bill is a step in the right direction. It deserves careful study. The idea is new, but it can be worked out. The main object and purpose of the Benson-Amlie Bill is to help needy students to find means of employment and assistance so that they can work their way through school. The bill may be imperfect, and may need revision to make it practical and workable, but it is a step in the right direction. The costs and expenses of securing a higher education are continually increasing. The standards and requirements of graduation are being increased, thus increasing the cost. The cost is already so high that it is impossible for many poor boys and girls to secure an advanced education. It is the poor peoples boys and girls that have to drop out of our higher schools. Soon our educated classes will come mainly from the rich and more well to do. Is it wrong to help out boys and girls who are in need of assistance, to secure means and ways of employment so that they can work their way through school? We have all sorts of Projects. Why not some projects to help boys and girls to earn money to put them through school? We can see nothing wrong, and we believe all intelligent people will favor the principles of the bill.

Senator Tungseth evidently does not like to see anything done to help our needy boys and girls to find means of working their way through school. Years ago Republicans like Senator Tungseth fought the Old Age Pension plan also. Would Senator Tungseth now do away with the Old Age Pension plan also? The attitude of the Senator seems to be that of the old aristocratic Bourbons, who can see no good in the Common people. That may be why he shouts Communists at the Farmer-Labor party. Keep the people down like the Bourbons of old seems to be his idea.

By the way, the American Youth Act is being sponsored by the American Youth Congress, composed of 860 organizations representing 1,500,000 young people. We do not believe our boys and girls, who are trying to work their way through school, and their fathers and mothers, will agree with Senator Tungseth in his criticism of the bill.

Much reference has been made to Senator E. L. Tungseth in this column. He very conveniently came along with his letter in last week's issue of the Tri-County Forum, with a sermon for the Republican party, so as to show just what he stands for, and where he stands in this campaign. He gave us an invitation, and naturally we have been glad to quote from his letter of last week in our comments.

Before we close this weeks column, we again want to call attention to Senator Tungseth's old chum and close associate, Representative Marius Waldal, of Plummer. Waldal was not elected to represent this district in the legislature, but he sat in the House, and voted there by the favoritism of a Republican controlled House, that paid no attention to what the Courts said on the subject. Let me therefore again call attention to what Judge Torrance of Bemidji, said about this in the election contest in which he presided two years ago. The decision is on file in the Office of the Clerk of Court at Red Lake Falls, and can be seen by anyone:

"And from the foregoing, I do find that the total number of legal votes cast for each of the said candidates at said election is as follows:

Mellby	5301
W. E. Day	5225
Waldal	5214
Jones	4289

In his conclusions of law in the same case Judge Torrance says:

"That the said contestant Plaintiff, W. E. Day, received one of the two highest votes legally cast for representative, in said 65th Legislative District at the General Election held Nov. 6, 1934, and that said W. E. Day was duly elected as one of the representatives for the 65th Legislative District in the State of Minnesota.

THAT THE CERTIFICATE OF ELECTION HERETOFORE ISSUED TO MARIUS WALDAL IS NULL AND VOID, AND THAT SAID W. E. DAY IS ENTITLED TO RECEIVE A CERTIFICATE OF ELECTION FOR THE OFFICE OF REPRESENTATIVE FROM THE 65TH LEGISLATIVE

Those are the words of Judge Torrance after he had heard all the evidence, and decided the case. The Republican controlled house of Representatives did an injustice to W. E. Day, and kept him out of the office to which he was legally elected. We are sure from what we hear that the voters of Pennington, Red Lake and Clearwater counties will make the vote so strong and clear this year that even a Republican House cannot keep W. E. Day out of his seat.

And then in closing, let me ask you to read and study the Farmer-Labor Platform for yourselves. Do not take the word of anyone for it. We shall be glad to give you a copy. Take and study it seriously and conscientiously and you will see that the Farmer-Labor party stands for the interests and the welfare of the Farmer, the working man, and the small business man. Come and get a copy of the patform and study it for yourself.

PLUMMER

Mr. Thornton Passes Away

A. H. Thornton passed away at his home in Plummer Sunday, Oct. 11th.

Mr. Thornton was born in Iowa County, Iowa, December 29, 1863. He was married to Miss Lily Cheine in Iowa in 1886. They moved to Freeborn county, in southern Minnesota, where they lived until 1910, then coming to Red Lake county where they have since resided with the exception of three years which they spent in Greely, Colorado. Mr. and Mrs. Thornton celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sept. 16, this year.

Surviving Mr. Thornton are his wife and seven children: Mrs. Chas. Hofius, of Blooming Prairie, Minn.; Mrs. Ed. Rasmussen, Greely, Colo.; Mrs. Ole Tranby, Erskine, Minn.; Mrs. Pat Griffin, of Barnesville Minn.; Mrs. Albert LaFayette, Plummer; Herman Thornton, Ulen, Minn.; and Alvie Thornton, of Plummer.

Funeral services were held at the home here and at Brooks Presbyterian church Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Lindholm of Red Lake Falls officiated. Interment was at Brooks.

Library Club Meets

The Library Club met at the W. T. Lonergan home, Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 7th. After a short business meeting the remainder of the afternoon was spent playing whist. Those present were: Mesdames J. Jackson, J. E. Bruggeman, Theo. Lemieux, W. Peterson, S. J. Rice, L. Hage, A. M. Ripple, J. W. Pahlen, Alcid Morrissette, F. Walker, A. Martin, Paul LaVoie, W. G. McCrady, Karl Rossberg, John Norby, and Miss Ellen Walker. High score was won by Mrs. W. G. McCrady and the consolation prize went to Mrs. A. M. Ripple. At the close of the afternoon lunch was served by the hostess. Mrs. Lars Hage will entertain the club at her home Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 21.

Beginning Sunday evening, Oct. 18th the first of a series of twelve card parties will be held in the basement of St. Vincent's Catholic church.

A large crowd attended the wedding dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Haupt at the Aragon Ball Room, Wednesday evening, Oct. 7. Music was furnished by the Dufault orchestra of Gentilly.

A number of friends gathered at the Henry Bruggeman home Saturday evening for a farewell party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Bruggeman and daughter Harriette who will leave this week for their new home near Terrebonne.

The ladies of St. Anne's Society sponsored a card party in the basement of St. Vincent's Catholic church Sunday evening, Oct. 11th. Prizes for high scores were won by Mrs. S. J. Rice, and Mrs. Matt Schaack. Consolation prizes were given to Mrs. Gertrude St. Louis, and Mr. John Van Lith.

Mrs. Henry Thibert visited relatives in Terrebonne Wednesday.

Miss Louise Schjeldrup left Sunday for Cambridge, Minn., where she will be employed.

Mrs. Ary Roses returned Monday from a few days' visit with relatives at Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson of Leoville, Sask., Canada, are visiting relatives here. Mrs. Robinson was formerly Miss Leah Carpenter.

Miss Louise Schjeldrup left Wednesday evening for Erskine to spend a few days with relatives there.

Leland LaVoy, who has been employed at Deer River, returned home Thursday evening. Leland was injured while at work and will be confined to his home for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brennan, who have resided north of Plummer for the past seventeen years, are moving to a farm near Thief River Falls which they purchased recently.

The Lutheran Ladies Aid held their annual supper and sale of fancy work in the club rooms of the Municipal Auditorium Thursday evening, Oct. 8th. Mr. John Norby was the lucky winner of the blanket which was raffled.

SCHOOL NOTES

The third grade has been studying the ways in which seeds are scattered. They are making a collection of various types of seed travelers.

The health classes have just finished a study of the three main kinds of foods needed by the body. Wall charts to illustrate the various goods were a part of the project.

After a study of how the early sea people of the early Neolithic Age made their bows and arrows, the third grade boys have been enthusiastically carving out weapons of their own.

There was great interest manifested in the notices on the bulletin boards this week. These turned out to be carnival committee appointments. All appeared pleased with the assignments. Wholehearted cooperation can be expected from the student body. The students always have a good time at the carnival and so do all others. You, too, can expect to spend a most enjoyable evening if you attend htis big school carnival on October 30th at the Plummer Municipal Auditorium.

The archery supplies arrived this week. The bows have a pull of from twenty-four to thirty pounds and are most suitable for short range target practice. As soon as targets can be made and set up the twang of the bow will be heard during part of the activity period.

Mr. Ohnstad's rifle club is "going strong". The range is completed and shooting on it has started. Safety first is preached and practiced. Every precaution is taken to prevent accidents and any carelessness, even of a trivial nature, results in the "benching" of the offender. This gives him ample opportunity to think it over. Respect for firearms and safety first habits should be a few of the results of this activity.

Well, Miss Maki and Miss Neudecker did bring back a few fish when they returned from their visit to the Rainy River and Lake of the Woods region. They had enough to serve all members of the faculty. A few of the faculty members would have us believe that the fish were bought in a market and not caught by the fair followers of Isaac Walton. This seems immaterial as long as there was a fish fry. And last be it said to the credit of Miss Maki and Miss Neudecker that not once have they mentioned the big one that got away.

Last Wednesday all the male members of the faculty drove to Warren to attend the first meeting of the schoolmen's club. Here the basket ball schedule was arranged and other matters of interest and concern to all schools discussed and settled. Mr. Ripple was elected delegate to the meeting of the Minnesota High School League. Thief River Falls was awarded the district basketball tournament.

Miss Burke was taken ill last Thursday. She was taken to her home in Bemidji by Mr. Grimsrud. Miss Davison is taking her place. The students like her very much and are glad that such a pleasant substitute was available.

Mr. Grimsrud drove to his home at Milnor to visit his parents and his son Charles over the week end. Miss Neudecker and Miss Albrecht having made arrangements to reach LaMoure from Milnor, accompanied him.

Evenson of Neratrand, Minn., Ole Prestegard of Northfield, Mrs. Anderson of Skybird, Minn., and Mrs. Anna Prestegard of Leroy, Minn.

Mr. Prestegard was buried Monday, Oct. 12 at Gatzke, with Rev. Anderson officiating at the services. Interment was at Gatzke.

HALVOR MALAND

Halvor Maland died at the age of 70 years, at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 13, at his home in the township of North. He was born Dec. 13, 1865, in Hesper, Iowa, and in 1906 was married to Hilda Kasen, at Harmony Minn. He moved from Hesper to Harmony, and in 1909 moved to Excell township, Marshall township. In 1914 he moved to North, where he has made his home ever since. He has lived in North for 22 years, and was connected with the Trinity Lutheran church.

His parents, one brother, and one sister preceded him in death. Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Hilda Maland; four sisters, Mrs. G. J. Thingvold of Mabel, Minn., Mrs. Olaf Gardner of Minneapolis, Mrs. Ida Nelson of San Francisco, Cal., and Miss Elizabeth Maland of Harmony Minn.; two brothers, John Severson of Edmore, N. Dak., and Oscar Severson of Sidney, Iowa.

His funeral will be held Friday, Oct. 16th at 1 p. m. at his home in the Township of North, and at the Trinity Lutheran church at 2 o'clock. Rev. Fjelstad of this city will officiate at the services, and the remains will be taken to Harmony, where final services and interment will be held.

Rev. Fred W. Ingvoldstad, who has just returned from a tour of Europe and Russia, will arrive in this city next Wednesday, Oct. 21. He will deliver a series of speeches at the high school, Junior Civic and Commerce, Creamery Managers and Operators group, and at a mass meeting in the evening.

C. Gustafson returned Sunday from Chicago, where he had been for the past week attending the National Federation of Implement Dealers association.

Mrs. Paul Harris and son Patrick motored to Devils Lake Wednesday, called there by the death of an aunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Olson and Alton and "Teeney", left for Minneapolis Thursday morning, (today), where they will spend the week end visiting with relatives.

MIDDLE RIVER

Improvements still go on in the country. S. H. Endrud of Thief Lake township, was in town Tuesday bargaining with A. W. Peterson for material with which to construct a stock barn 14x40.

The Republicans had their outing with a sound wagon here Monday. The weather was so bitterly cold that morning that the speakers only talked a few minutes after which they distributed some campaign literature and departed.

Last Saturday was the opening day of the hunting season, and several of our citizens were conspicuously absent from the streets that day, having departed early in the morning for the haunts of the ducks and geese east of here. We cannot help but notice the great difference in the hunting activity of these days to those of twenty-five years ago. In the old days parties of hunters used to gather here from far away towns and cities—some even from the twin cities and Chicago. But nowadays there are so few game birds and such a short hunting season that there is no inducement for outside hunters to come here.

Editor Nordine and family spent Saturday and Sunday with Mrs. Nordine's relatives at Lancaster.

Educational Advisor A. P. McKinstry, of the CCC camp and the writer went to Thief River Falls on business Friday. Mr. McKinstry informs us that the enrollees of the camp have recently been depleted of a dozen men who were drafted by the administrative officials of the CCC organization to form a nucleus of a new camp to be organized and located in California. The men taken were those who have demonstrated their efficiency in several special lines of work.

There is now a revival of interest in the proposition of organizing a band here. We are informed that both Superintendent Halvorson and Principal Myron are players of band instruments and that Mr. Halvorson has conducted bands and is in favor of the organization of a school band a least. Furthermore we learn that there are two or three band players in the CCC camp whose co-operation might be had in the formation of a community band. The project is worth thinking about, and should not be allowed to die. Nothing adds more to the pep and interest of a town than a good band.

Mrs. Robert Evans and daughter of Greenbush were visiting friends in Middle River Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harald Berg and their three children of Duluth, arrived here late Friday evening and remained over Saturday and Sunday visiting Harald's parents and his brother Victor. Harald is a teacher of printing in the Duluth schools and drove from Duluth to Middle River after his school duties Friday.

A gathering of friends of Mrs. John Berquist entertained her at a shower Friday afternoon.

Mrs. A. W. Peterson, who has been in poor health for some time went to Pelican Rapids the first of last week to take treatments for her ailment.

Mr. Henry Offerdahl of Litchfield and Mrs. Anna Boyd of Fargo, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jens Offerdahl, visited their parents from Monday until Wednesday last week.

Miss VeAnn Peltola is teaching at Florian this year. She has taught one month of her term. Altho her school is 21 miles from town she has so far been home every weekend.

Blanche Peterson, who is attending business college, in Grand Forks was at home over the week end.

Mrs. W. S. Kezar went to Fergus Falls several days ago to visit her daughter, Mrs. Walter Thompson.

Oscar Schenkey's crew were out of road work but a very few days. This week they are out again working on a $7025 contract graveling eight and three-tenths miles of road between Orleans and Lancaster in Kittson county.

George Curtis' familiar visage will be missing from our streets this winter. He left Wednesday by train for a long vacation. He planned to make a short stop in the southern part of the state among old associates and then go on to Spokane, Wash., to spend the winter.

"The Cambells are Coming". Their renowned Showboat performances will be put on here for three successive nights commencing on Thursday.

The new creamery is rapidly nearing completion. The roof of green fire proof shingles is nearly completed. Every one remarks on what an imposing structure the building will be. It will be a great asset to the village.

The woman's club will meet at the home of Mrs. Carr, Friday, Oct. 23rd.

Miss Geda Risberg, teacher in Velt township, after attending the rural teachers institute at Warren Thursday and Friday, stopped over for the weekend with her mother here.

The village council have an application in for a WPA grant of funds with which to make needed improvements on village property.

Harold Murphy of Grand Forks, brakeman on the Great Northern, was here Monday and Tuesday visiting his family who have been here the past six weeks.

H. J. Olson, a one time citizen of Middle River, but now of Viking, was here Saturday and Sunday hunting and was a guest of Mrs. Olson's mother, Mrs. Wright, over Saturday night.

WYANDOTTE

The Ladies Aid of the Clearwater Lutheran church will hold their annual sale Saturday evening, Oct. 17, at the school house in Dist. 125. EARLY DRIVING PERMIT FOUND

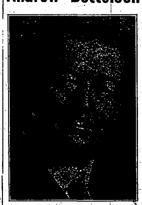
The days when horses shied at automobiles and the new machines attained tremendous speeds of more than 12 miles an hour are recalled by the recent discovery by Mrs. Carl Ingwalson of Mankato of what was perhaps one of the earliest driving permits issued in that city. The permit issued in 1916 grants the privilege of driving an automobile through the cemetery subject to a dozen regulations. Aid in quieting horses which became unmanageable at the sight of the machines was required of the driver who invaded the cemetery with his car in those days. When cars were stopped, engines must be stopped and cars had to be driven so as not to give off smoke and with closed mufflers.

For Probate Judge
Andrew Bottelson



I was elected by the voters of Pennington County to the office of Probate Judge in November, 1932.

I thank the voters for these four years of good experience.

I come before you with my four-year record for your favorable consideration and vote for a second term of office at the General Election, November 3, 1936.

Very truly yours,
ANDREW BOTTELSON

KJERSTEN—OSE NUPTIALS

Saturday, Oct. 3, Miss Alma Kjersten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Helge Kjedsten of Soler township, was united in holy matrimony to Ole K. Ose. The ceremony took place at the Lutheran Free church parsonage in Greenbush, Minn., with Pastor Reinhart G. Pedersen officiating.

The bride was beautifully gowned in a princess style dress of wine velvet. The bridesmaid, Esther Kjersten, sister of the bride, wore emerald green silk crepe, and both carried bouquets of lovely talisman roses. Arthur Kjersten, brother of the bride, attended the groom.

Mrs. Ose attended high school at Badger, and also graduated from the Warroad Training department, and served as an efficient teacher in several country schools. Mr. Ose is a well-known rural mail carrier, is a treasurer of the Lutheran Tent Mission, and owns and operates a large beautiful turkey farm, where he and his bride will make their home.

After the wedding ceremony, a reception was given at the Kjersten home. Brightly colored autumn leaves decorated the house. During the delicious two-course dinner, an informal program was given. Miss Lenoral Erickson, close friend of the bride, acted as toastmistress of the occasion, and read a poem written especially for the wedding. Pastor Pederson gave a speech in which he likened the event to an airplane flight, in which there is a take-off, a flight, and a happy landing. Several of the guests gave toasts to the bridal couple, and Miss Esther Kjersten followed these with two vocal solos, "O Perfect Love", and "O Happy Home." Pastor and Mrs. Pederson sang a duet, "Crown With Thy Benediction", after which the bride and groom responded with messages of gratitude. There were approximately 100 guests at the reception.

DEGREE OF HONOR LODGE ENTERTAINS

The Degree of Honor Lodge entertained at a 7 o'clock banquet on Wednesday evening in the Log Cabin of the Palm Garden Cafe. Mrs. Mabel Christianson, of St. Paul, Grand President of the Degree of Honor lodge in the state of Minnesota, was guest of honor. There were 18 guests present at the meeting. Mrs. Tarje Brooke acted as toastmistress of the evening's activities, and Mrs. G. H. Mayer-Oakes led the community singing. The banquet was in commemoration of the birthday anniversary of the Degree of Honor lodge, and it was also discovered that it was the birthday of Mrs. J. M. Bishop, a prominent member of the lodge. Mrs. Bishop presented Mrs. Christianson with a gift from the lodge, and in Mrs. Christianson's response she mentioned the fact that it was also the birthday of Mrs. Bishop. At this time, a beautiful birthday cake appeared, which was served at the close of the banquet, and was a gift from the lodge to Mrs. Bishop. The table at which the banquet was served was decorated in colorful autumn leaves, and tapers of gold and black, and each guest was given Haloween favors.

After the banquet, the regular business of the Degree of Honor lodge was taken up.

WOMEN'S PROJECT MEETING HELD

The Women's Project Check-up Meeting connected with the Home Management project, held their meeting in the Auditorium last Wednesday. At the noon banquet which was served, about 60 women from our own and other cities were present. Reports and skits were given by each training center and plans were made for a new project to be given.

MRS. KIRBY ENTERTAINS AT DINNER

The Log Cabin of the Palm Garden Cafe was the scene of a dinner party Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Minnie Kirby as the hostess. The guests present were Rev. and Mrs. August Bredeson, the Misses Florence, Alice, and Viola Bredeson, and Gladys and Alice Wold.

ENTERTAINS AT CANDLE LIGHT DINNER

The home of Rev. and Mrs. August Bredeson was the scene of a dinner party last Friday night at 7 o'clock. Those present at the candle light dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Christianson and Miss Bernice Orr and George Orr, of Red Lake Falls, Mabel Christianson, Gladys Wold, and Arthur Bredeson of the city, and the Misses Florence, Alice, and Viola Bredeson, who were the hostesses. The evening was spent socially, with music serving as part of the entertainment.

ENTERTAINS AT BANQUET

The home of Dr. Ed Bratrud was the scene of a 6 o'clock dinner on Tuesday evening. The guests present were the Messrs. Theodore Christianson, Republican candidate for the United State Senate; Arthur E. Nelson, Republican candidate for Lieutenant-Governor; and Theodore Quale, Paul Lundgren, W. E. Dahlquist, Elmer Berg, Dick Mabey, Dr. A. M. Smith, W. W. Prichard, all of this city, and Sam Haislett of Minneapolis, Republican campaign manager.

After the dinner, Elmer Haugen, candidate for congress from Pelican Rapids, and Martin Widsten of Warroad, arrived and attended the meeting which took place.

MRS. BYE ENTERTAINS

Mrs. Morris Bye entertained several guests at dinner at her home Friday evening. The guests present included Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Dahl and sons Billy and Donald, and Supt. and Mrs. M. B. Zimmerman of Grafton, N. Dak. In the evening the group attended the football game held here between Grafton and Thief River Falls.

FOR MRS. DAVIDSON

The home of Mrs. O. A. Lindland, sister of Mrs. Shorty Davidson, was the scene of a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Davidson Friday night. The guests present included the honor guest and the Mesdames Hjalmer Hostveit, Ernie Davidson, Arthur Forsberg, Nick Davidson, Nels Fontaine, Werner Rasmussen, Mary Louze, Roy Langevin, Lamar Edwards, Adolph Hagen, Harry Froseth, Emil Krause, Alfred Severson, Ole Ihle, Hannah Egenes and daughter Mildred, A. C. Jahr, Melvin Gjerde, Sever Klopp, Iver Bugge, August Sortland, Alfred Bredeson, Julia Haugen, Miss Edna Bakken, and Mrs. Lindland, who did the entertaining. The evening was spent socially, and the guests hemmed dishtowels for the guest of honor. At 11 o'clock lunch was served by Mrs. Lindland. Mrs. Davidson received many beautiful gifts.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

Several friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Sundt surprised them at their home Sunday afternoon on the occasion of Mr. Sundt's birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Sundt moved to this vicinity from Chicago this spring, and their friends combined a "get-together" with a birthday party. About 70 friends and relatives were present, and the afternoon was spent socially. Mrs. Sundt was presented with a large beautiful occasional table, a purse of money, and many other lovely gifts from those present. Lunch was served by the guests at 4:30.

ENTERTAINS AT DINNER

Mrs. Charles Conner entertained several guests at her home Sunday afternoon, the occasion being the baptism of her young son, Thomas Wayne. Rev. Fjelstad officiated at the baptismal ceremony, which took place at 2:30. The guests present included Rev. and Mrs. Fjelstad, Mr. and Mrs. Helmer Helgeson, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Granum, and Christ Granum, all of Thief River Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. Nilsestuen and daughter Martha of Warren. The afternoon was spent socially, and at 4:30 dinner was served.

FOR MRS. H. O. BERVE

Mrs. H. O. Berve was guest of honor Thursday evening at a party at the home of Mrs. Andy Anderson. The party was given by a group of teachers. The guests included the guest of honor, and the Misses Emma and Agnes Tandberg, Hattie Deibel, Minnie Leavitt, Olga Bloomsness, Joyce Tice, Sara Vaughn, Theone Folkedahl, Edna Larson, Alice Peterson, Anita Dahlquist, Irma Springen, Myrtle Forester, Alice Bredeson, Lenore Jorgenson, Clara Halvorson, Bessie Sedlacek, Lyda Batten, Manie Wise, Esther Larson, Alice Stapleton, Frances Cook, Ragna Steenerson Ruth Mickelson, and the Mesdames Blanche Korstad, and Andy Anderson. The evening was spent in games and conversation, and at 10 o'clock lunch was served. Mrs. Berve was presented with a gift and a beautiful bouquet of flowers.

ENTERTAINS BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Pete Michaels entertained the bridge club at her home Monday night. The guests present included the Mesdames E. Connors, Ed Protz, J. Ruane, Hostveit, J. Bostal, A. Holmstrom, and Mrs. Frank Hammergren. The evening was spent in playing bridge, and at 11 o'clock Mrs. Michaels served lunch. Mrs. Hostveit and Mrs. Protz were awarded with prizes.

PARTY FOR JUDGE BRATTLAND

The home of Judge Brattland was the scene of a surprise birthday party in his honor Friday evening. The guests present included the Mesdames and Messrs. Olaf Neset, S. Salveson, Gilbert Brattland, all of this city, Mr. and Mrs. S. Krostue of Oklee, and the Messrs Gunder and Tom Nesland, Olaf Ornabrek, S. K. Dahl, Halvor Homme, T. Brokke, and B. Bjornaraa, of this city. Arne Grundeson of Fisher, Ole Torbenson of Grand Forks, and T. O. Lein of Oklee. The evening was spent socially, and at midnight a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Gilbert Brattland, and Mrs. Olaf Neset, with a beautiful birthday cake which the guests had brought as the main attraction. Judge Brattland was presented with three gifts, one of which was an attractive reading lamp.

Rasmussen Tells of State Budget in Radio Address

Editors Note:—Because of the fact that state finance is one of the main issues of the state campaign, the Forum is herewith inserting an explanation of the financial condition of the State of Minnesota as presented by Paul A. Rasmussen, state budget commissioner, given over the WCCO radio station, Sept. 24th. The explanation is an excellent one and Forum readers should impress their friends with the importance of reading it. Because of the length of the speech, it will be inserted in two installments, the concluding installment to be inserted next week.

In my talk this evening I am going to give my audience a comprehensive and accurate analysis of the finances of the State of Minnesota. It shall be my purpose to present the financial structure of our state exactly as it exists today. The statistics I am using have been compiled as of August 27, 1936. The voters of the state are entitled to an explanation of just how the state revenue is being used.

My discussion tonight will naturally deal pretty much with figures, and for that reason I am taking the liberty of suggesting to my listeners that you keep paper and pencil handy, because some of the statistics I am using will undoubtedly interest you and you will want to have a record of these facts.

Praises Olson's Courage

I want my audience to know that I am speaking on this occasion as a party man. I am the Farmer-Labor state budget commissioner, and I take a pardonable pride in the unselfish manner in which the Farmer-Labor party has served the citizenry of Minnesota during the past six years. The fearless honesty, the undaunted courage and the wholesome frankness characteristic of the late Hon. Floyd B. Olson, have established standards in the realms of government that will serve as a source of inspiration to all progressive-minded people in the state and in the entire nation for many years to come.

The voters of the state of Minnesota are a very intelligent class of people. They have a keen ability to discriminate between prejudice and truth. They are not easily influenced by sensational headlines printed in a capitalistic press whose only interest in the ordinary citizen is to control his vote in order that the predatory groups can enjoy special privileges.

On Thursday evening, September 24th, at 9:30 p. m. over this same network of station I am going to give a detailed explanation of the manner inwhich the iron ore industry functions in our state, especially emphasizing the technique which it employs in exploiting our iron ore range. At that time I will show how a fair tax of the iron ore industry will go a long way in reducing the present tax burden.

Answering Charges of Extravagance

There are certain fundamentals in the game of football and it seems that the game of politics has a few fundamentals too. In the political arena the "outs" always accuse the "ins" of being extravagant. The Republicans in Minnesota are just practising orthodox political strategy when they attempt to charge the Farmer-Labor administration with extravagance.

The important issue for the voter to decide, however, is whether or not the charge of extravagance has any merit. The fact that the bonded indebtedness of the state has increased during the six years of Farmer-Labor administration does not in itself warrant the belief that extravagance has been practised. When we consider the ramifications of the severe economic depression we have experienced for the past few years, it is only logical to expect that the expense of government, would materially increase.

Human Values Vs. Paltry Dollars

Certainly no citizen would recommend a "do nothing" state administration when the life and welfare of mankind was in jeopardy. Ladies and gentlemen, in this decidedly technical, specialized, machine age in which we find ourselves we have to think in terms of human value and not always in terms of interest, dividends, profits and balanced budgets. If the cost of a balanced budget is forthcoming as a result of forcing even a fractional part of our citizenry to live under the cloud of a devastating, demoralizing peasantry, then we are paying too great a price. Money values can always be restored, humon values once lost are gone forever.

No state administration is one hundred percent perfect and efficient, and during the past six years of Farmer-Labor administration undoubtedly mistakes have been made. An honest analysis of the financial status of the state of Minnesota shows, however, that the Farmer-Labor administration has been very diligent, businesslike and careful in using the taxpayer's dollar. Statistics are decidedly dangerous unless they are honestly interpreted and unless people have all the facts upon which to base their conclusions. The data I am about to give you has been recently compiled in my office in preparing for the next biennial budget. I have assigned the best public examiners in the state to the task of computing these figures and am personally satisfied that they are correct.

On December 31, 1930, the bonds and certificates outstanding against the State of Minnesota totaled $88,404,312.78. On August 27, 1936, this figure had increased to $124,345,683.93. The net increase in the state's indebtedness as of August 27, 1936, was $35,941,371.15.

Analysis of Debts

Bonds and certificates of indebtedness have been issued from time to time for the purpose of providing funds to carry on necessary state undertakings. This money has been distributed in varying amounts among 22 different funds. During the past six years the records show that in the case of fifteen of these funds there has been a total increase of $47,832,230.87, while on the other hand, in seven funds the indebtedness has decreased $11,890,859.72, leaving a total net increase in the state's indebtedness which has accrued during the Farmer-Labor administration of $35,941,371.15 as of August 27, 1936.

On several occasions I have heard both Theodore Christianson and Martin Nelson attempt to charge the Farmer-Labor administration with extravagance because the state's indebtedness has increased about 35 million dollars. But these gentlemen have never dared, nor have they deemed it politically expedient, to give their audience an analysis or any explanation of how this money has been spent. I will not only account for the net indebtedness increase but I will give you an accurate statement of the total increase in all funds. You recall this amount was $47,832,230.87. The breakdown is as follows:

The money raised by the sale of bonds and certificates of indebtedness since December 31, 1930, has been assigned to the following funds: Trunk Highways $24,150,000; Rural Credit $8,770,000; Minnesota Public Relief $8,518,000; Minnesota Municipals $2,474,845.87; Temporary Loans for Revenue Fund $25,000; and distributed in varying amounts nine other funds $3,894,385; making a total of $47,832,230.87.

On the other hand, seven of the funds show a total decrease of $11,890,859.72, leaving $35,941,371.15 as the net increase in the state's bonded indebtedness, resulting from necessary expenditures occuring during the past six years.

G. O. P. Officials Approved Bonds

After all, how can the Republican candidates be honest and honorable in charging the Farmer-Labor administration with extravagance when every penny of the increased indebtedness has been approved by the finance committee which their party controlled, and voted by a legislature where their friends had the majority vote? I find it necessary to tell Mr. Christianson and Mr. Nelson that when you attempt to charge the Farmer-Labor administration with extravagance you are hitting below the belt because it was your own group who made possible the issuance of the bands and certificates which resulted in the state's increased indebtedness.

This fact neither you nor anybody else can contradict, and please keep this in mind: I am not charging the legislature with extravagance in making this money available during the past six years, because the projects for which this money was used are worthy undertakings and can with justice be interpreted as Minnesota's part in both a state and a national recovery program. Don't however, continue to insult the intelligence of the voters of this state by your effrontery in an attempt to make it appear that indebtedness which representatives of your party voted and approved is to be interpreted as Farmer-Labor extravagance.

Republican Extravagance In Rural Credit

When we are discussing the matter of extravagance, I would suggest that we analyze the largest single item classified as state debt. Of the 124 million dollars of state bonds, over 65 million dollars are Rural Credit bonds. In other words, over fifty per cent of Minnesota's bonded indebtedness is the result of establishing the Rural Credit department in 1923. Between 1923 and 1930 a Republican governor together with a Republican-controlled Senate and Republican-controlled House of Representatives, placed $57,050,000 worth of Rural Credit bonds in the indebtedness column of our state's financial statement.

If there ever was a case in the entire history of our state of abusing and misusing the taxpayer's credit, it occurred when over 57 million dollars of rural credit bonds were issued, making possible the liquidation of poor mortgages held by large financial syndicates. Because of the Rural Credit law, according to the State Treasurer, Julius Schmahl, the state will sustain a loss of 21 million dollars in the course of liquidation, Theodore Arens, the Conservator in charge of the Rural Credit department, anticipates the loss will reach 30 million dollars before liquidation is complete.

This is a Republican loss. The loss sustained to date is over 14 million dollars. This loss is the result of selling the land for less than the amount which the state has invested in such property and because of mortgage settlements where the mortgage has been adjusted and cut down so that it is both feasible and possible for the farmer to continue to keep his land. When we consider that the state has already absorbed an interest deficiency alone totaling $11,666,354.15, it must be admitted that a $30,000,000 total loss is a decidedly reasonable estimate.

Effect On Tax Revenue

Another factor that should be considered is the tremendous loss in tax revenue which the state and counties experience because the 3,902 farms owned by the Rural Credit department are off the tax lists entirely. The acreage of these farms totals 688,433 acres, and according to an average state tax per acre on farm land which is 14.1 cents, the state's annual revenue is curtailed $97,069.05 dut to the fact that this land is not taxed.

The amount of tax revenue denied the counties, townships, and school districts each year because this land is off the tax lists totals approximately $296,714.62. Whenever the local units of government receive less income the state is usually faced with an added financial burden, and it has been necessary for the state to appropriate money to reimburse the school districts because of the deficit, due to the fact that the Rural Credit lands are non-taxable.

SWALLOWING NAIL TRIFLE TO BABY

Modern mothers who worry constantly over their children's stomachs behaving in obstinate and impractical ways, may give up their books by child experts and obtain a little first hand advice on building a cast iron constitution from Mrs. Roy Johnson of Hackensack, whose 12 months old baby has demonstrated his ability as a miniature sword swallower. When the youngster started one of his daily investigation tours he was struck by desirability of a shiny object on the ground and desiring to come into closer contact with his prize he put it into his mouth and his ambition was realized, the object slipped down his throat and into his stomach. The next morning the baby squirmed uncomfortably with a pain in his stomach. Out came the castor oil and a few hours later, also a nail passed through all the quirks and curves of a baby's stomach with absolutely no ill effects.

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of Minnesota

To be submitted at 1936 General Election

STATE OF MINNESOTA,
LEGAL DEPARTMENT
HARRY H. PETERSON
Attorney General

St. Paul, Minnesota, April 29, 1936

Honorable Mike Holm,
Secretary of State,

Dear Sir:

In compliance with the provisions of Section 46 of Mason's Minnesota Statutes of 1927, I herewith furnish you a statement of the purpose and effect of all proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota which are to be submitted to the electors of said state at the general election in 1936, in accordance with certain acts adopted by the 1935 legislature.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 1.

By the adoption of Chapter 393 of the Laws of 1935 the legislature has proposed an amendment to Article 8 of the State Constitution. The proposed amendment, if adopted, will not alter the form of any existing section of the Constitution, but will add a new section to be known as Section 8 of said Article 8.

The proposed amendment reads as follows:

"Any of the public lands of the state, including lands held in trust for any purpose, may, with the approval of a commission consisting of the governor, the attorney general and the state auditor, be exchanged for lands of the United States and other privately owned lands as the legislature may provide, and the lands so acquired shall be subject to the trust, if any, to which the lands exchanged therefor were subject, and the state shall reserve all mineral and water and water power rights in lands so transferred by the state."

The Purpose and Effect of the Proposed Amendment.

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to provide for exchanging any of the public lands of the state for lands of the United States and land privately owned, such exchanges to be made with the approval of a commission consisting of the governor, the attorney general and the state auditor. Such exchanges of land cannot now be made because the State Constitution does not permit the legislature to authorize the sale of school lands, state swamp lands and state internal improvement lands except by public sale. One immediate purpose in granting such authority is to make it possible for the state to acquire compact areas of land for forestry and other conservation purposes by exchanging land outside of such conservation areas for lands of the United States and privately owned lands within such areas.

The proposed amendment requires that all mineral rights, water rights and water power rights in lands so transferred by the state shall be reserved. The land so acquired will become subject to the same trust, if any, as the land disposed of. For example, if school land is given in exchange, the land received will become school land.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2.

By the adoption of Chapter 394 of the Laws of 1935, the legislature proposed an amendment to Section 1 of Article 9 of the State Constitution.

This section now reads as follows:

"The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200, for each household, individual or head of a family, and household goods and farm machinery, as the legislature may determine:

"Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads."

If amended as proposed by the legislature, this section will read as follows:

"The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, and public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200.00 for each household, individual or head of a family, and household goods and farm machinery, as the legislature may determine:

"Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads.

"Provided further, that after January 1, 1937, no tax shall be imposed on any real or tangible personal property for any state purpose, except that authorized by Section 16 of Article 9 of this Constitution, and/or for the payment of indebtedness of the state incurred prior to January 1, 1937; but this proviso shall not limit, but the state shall have, the right to impose taxes upon royalties, occupations, sales, receipts, incomes, inheritances, gifts, privileges, franchises, or licenses, or upon property on the basis of gross earnings or tonnage, or upon intangibles of every kind."

The Purpose and Effect of the Proposed Amendment.

The purpose and effect of the proposed amendment is to prohibit the imposition of any taxes on real or tangible personal property after January 1, 1937 for any state purpose, except as hereinafter stated, without limiting the right of the state to impose taxes upon royalties, occupations, sales, receipts, incomes, inheritances, gifts, privileges, franchises, or licenses, or upon property on the basis of gross earnings or tonnage, or upon intangibles of every kind, said proposed amendment declaring that the state shall have the right to impose such taxes.

If the said amendment is adopted the state will retain the right to impose taxes on real or tangible personal property for either or both of the following purposes:

(1) To provide funds to be used to construct or improve roads and bridges in this state, as authorized by Section 16 of Article 9 of the State Constitution, for which purpose, under Section 16 of said Article 9, the legislature in its discretion is authorized to provide for an annual tax levy upon the property of this state, of not to exceed in any year one mill on all the taxable property within the state; and

(2) To raise money to pay indebtedness of the state incurred prior to January, 1 1937.

Respectfully yours,
HARRY H. PETERSON,
Attorney General.

WORLD IS NOTIFIED U.S. FROWNS ON WAR

Constructive Foreign Policy of Roosevelt Discourages Europe's War Ardor

One of the paramount issues in the present political campaign is supplied by the threat of another European war, declares John Cudahy, American Ambassador to Poland, who has just returned to this country on leave.

"Citizens should wake up to the dangers which threaten them from Europe," said Mr. Cudahy. "All other so-called political issues shrivel into insignificance compared with the question of what position the United States should take in the case of war in Europe.

"The American people are unanimous in their resolve that we must stay out of such a war, regardless of the sacrifice. We shall not make other people's wars our wars.

"It is in response to this universal sentiment that the Roosevelt administration sponsored the present neutrality measure, which prohibits shipment of munitions or making of loans to belligerents.

"In Ethiopia and in Spain it has been made clear to the world that our government has adopted a policy of strict neutrality.

"Repeated declarations and statements have notified war-seekers in Europe of the policy the President will follow if and when another serious conflict comes. It has been emphasized that as far as this administration is concerned, peace comes before war prosperity.

"Continuance of this Roosevelt policy — this constructive foreign policy—during the next four years is vital. While this policy may not be popular in some European capitals, it has clarified the situation.

"Meanwhile President Roosevelt's tariff reciprocity plan is coming to be regarded as one of the best and most practical international contributions toward world peace, toward recovery, and toward the elimination of friction between nations.

"This situation is one of the reasons I am so urgently asking the American people to re-elect Mr. Roosevelt. His opponents have been strangely silent about these vital matters. But we know that Senator Borah is the logical candidate for Secretary of War in a Landon cabinet. And he has stated that he wants the United States to enforce its commercial neutral rights on the high seas even if such enforcement means war. Here is an issue of war. Another four years of Roosevelt means peace, for Roosevelt is the peace champion of the world today."

POLITICAL WISDOM

Every American should be grateful to the present administration for the way in which it has met the social, political and economic needs of the country.—William H. Regnery, Chicago manufacturer.

DEER CENSUS MAY LEAD TO ANNUAL OPEN SEASON

An exhaustive census of Minnesota deer will be undertaken this winter, according to A. C. Hanson, director of the division of game and fish.

Gordon Fredine, recently named biologist of the division, has been placed in charge of deer drives to be undertaken in cooperation with federal conservation agencies.

Mr. Fredine is of the opinion that the census may show a sufficiently large deer population to warrant an open season on deer each year instead of every two years as at present.

Observors of game conditions agree that deer are unusually plentiful this year. The division of forestry estimates that less than one per cent of deer range was burned over by fire last summer.

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of Minnesota

To be submitted at 1936 General Election

STATE OF MINNESOTA,
LEGAL DEPARTMENT

HARRY H. PETERSON
Attorney General

St. Paul, Minnesota, April 29, 1936

Honorable Mike Holm,
Secretary of State,

Dear Sir:

In compliance with the provisions of Section 46 of Mason's Minnesota Statutes of 1927, I herewith furnish you a statement of the purpose and effect of all proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota which are to be submitted to the electors of said state at the general election in 1936, in accordance with certain acts adopted by the 1935 legislature.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 1.

By the adoption of Chapter 393 of the Laws of 1935 the legislature has proposed an amendment to Article 8 of the State Constitution. The proposed amendment, if adopted, will not alter the form of any existing section of the Constitution, but will add a new section to be known as Section 8 of said Article 8.

The proposed amendment reads as follows:

"Any of the public lands of the state, including lands held in trust for any purpose, may, with the approval of a commission consisting of the governor, the attorney general and the state auditor, be exchanged for lands of the United States and other privately owned lands as the legislature may provide, and the lands so acquired shall be subject to the trust, if any, to which the lands exchanged therefor were subject, and the state shall reserve all mineral and water and water power rights in lands so transferred by the state."

The Purpose and Effect of the Proposed Amendment.

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to provide for exchanging any of the public lands of the state for lands of the United States and land privately owned, such exchanges to be made with the approval of a commission consisting of the governor, the attorney general and the state auditor. Such exchanges of land cannot now be made because the State Constitution does not permit the legislature to authorize the sale of school lands, state swamp lands and state internal improvement lands except by public sale. One immediate purpose in granting such authority is to make it possible for the state to acquire compact areas of land for forestry and other conservation purposes by exchanging land outside of such conservation areas for lands of the United States and privately owned lands within such areas.

The proposed amendment requires that all mineral rights, water rights and water power rights in lands so transferred by the state shall be reserved. The land so acquired will become subject to the same trust, if any, as the land disposed of. For example, if school land is given in exchange, the land received will become school land.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2.

By the adoption of Chapter 394 of the Laws of 1935, the legislature proposed an amendment to Section 1 of Article 9 of the State Constitution.

This section now reads as follows:

"The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200, for each household, individual or head of a family, and household goods and farm machinery, as the legislature may determine:

"Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads."

If amended as proposed by the legislature, this section will read as follows:

"The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, and public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200.00 for each household, individual or head of a family, and household goods and farm machinery, as the legislature may determine:

"Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads.

"Provided further, that after January 1, 1937, no tax shall be imposed on any real or tangible personal property for any state purpose, except that authorized by Section 16 of Article 9 of this Constitution, and/or for the payment of indebtedness of the state incurred prior to January 1, 1937; but this proviso shall not limit, but the state shall have, the right to impose taxes upon royalties, occupations, sales, receipts, incomes, inheritances, gifts, privileges, franchises, or licenses, or upon property on the basis of gross earnings or tonnage, or upon intangibles of every kind."

The Purpose and Effect of the Proposed Amendment.

The purpose and effect of the proposed amendment is to prohibit the imposition of any taxes on real or tangible personal property after January 1, 1937 for any state purpose, except as hereinafter stated, without limiting the right of the state to impose taxes upon royalties, occupations, sales, receipts, incomes, inheritances, gifts, privileges, franchises, or licenses, or upon property on the basis of gross earnings or tonnage, or upon intangibles of every kind, said proposed amendment declaring that the state shall have the right to impose such taxes.

If the said amendment is adopted the state will retain the right to impose taxes on real or tangible personal property for either or both of the following purposes:

(1) To provide funds to be used to construct or improve roads and bridges in this state, as authorized by Section 16 of Article 9 of the State Constitution, for which purpose, under Section 16 of said Article 9, the legislature in its discretion is authorized to provide for an annual tax levy upon the property of this state, of not to exceed in any year one mill on all the taxable property within the state; and

(2) To raise money to pay indebtedness of the state incurred prior to January, 1 1937.

Respectfully yours,
HARRY H. PETERSON,
Attorney General

WORLD IS NOTIFIED U.S. FROWNS ON WAR

Constructive Foreign Policy of Roosevelt Discourages Europe's War Ardor

One of the paramount issues in the present political campaign is supplied by the threat of another European war, declares John Cudahy, American Ambassador to Poland, who has just returned to this country on leave.

"Citizens should wake up to the dangers which threaten them from Europe," said Mr. Cudahy. "All other so-called political issues shrivel into insignificance compared with the question of what position the United States should take in the case of war in Europe.

"The American people are unanimous in their resolve that we must stay out of such a war, regardless of the sacrifice. We shall not make other people's wars our wars.

"It is in response to this universal sentiment that the Roosevelt administration sponsored the present neutrality measure, which prohibits shipment of munitions or making of loans to belligerents.

"In Ethiopia and in Spain it has been made clear to the world that our government has adopted a policy of strict neutrality.

"Repeated declarations and statements have notified war-seekers in Europe of the policy the President will follow if and when another serious conflict comes. It has been emphasized that as far as this administration is concerned, peace comes before war prosperity.

"Continuance of this Roosevelt policy — this constructive foreign policy — during the next four years is vital. While this policy may not be popular in some European capitals, it has clarified the situation.

"Meanwhile President Roosevelt's tariff reciprocity plan is coming to be regarded as one of the best and most practical international contributions toward world peace, toward recovery, and toward the elimination of friction between nations.

"This situation is one of the reasons I am so urgently asking the American people to re-elect Mr. Roosevelt. His opponents have been strangely silent about these vital matters. But we know that Senator Borah is the logical candidate for Secretary of War in a Landon cabinet. And he has stated that he wants the United States to enforce its commercial neutral rights on the high seas even if such enforcement means war. Here is an issue of war. Another four years of Roosevelt means peace, for Roosevelt is the peace champion of the world today."

POLITICAL WISDOM

Every American should be grateful to the present administration for the way in which it has met the social, political and economic needs of the country.—William H. Regnery, Chicago manufacturer.

DEER CENSUS MAY LEAD TO ANNUAL OPEN SEASON

An exhaustive census of Minnesota deer will be undertaken this winter, according to A. C. Hanson, director of the division of game and fish.

Gordon Fredine, recently named biologist of the division, has been placed in charge of deer drives to be undertaken in cooperation with federal conservation agencies.

Mr. Fredine is of the opinion that the census may show a sufficiently large deer population to warrant an open season on deer each year instead of every two years as at present.

Observors of game conditions agree that deer are unusually plentiful this year. The division of forestry estimates that less than one per cent of deer range was burned over by fire last summer.

Says Dangerous Varicose Veins Can Be Reduced At Home

Rub Gently Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice for home treatment that anyone in this world can give, is to get a prescription known as Moone's Emerald Oil.

Simply ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you should notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are no longer troublesome. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic sores and ulcers are often entirely healed.

HOMECOMING AT NORTHWEST SCHOOL TO BE HELD OCT. 24

Elaborate plans are being made for the annual Home Coming celebration to be held on the Northwest School campus Saturday, Oct. 24. Activities will open with a big parade and bonfire Friday evening, followed by a special assembly on Saturday morning. This program is being arranged by R. S. Dunham, J. W. Milnar, and the Misses Dorothy Smith, Katherine Hennig, and Grace Mary Warne.

A feature of the day will be a football game between the Northwest Aggies and the Morris Aggies. Coach R. J. Christgau and his warriors are hoping for a victory which will return the interschool trophy to the Aggie trophy room for the coming year. Joe Widseth, younger brother of Edwin Widseth, co-captain of the University of Minnesota football team, is playing his first year of football, and will be in action during this crucial game.

The alumni banquet will be held in the school dining hall at 6:00 P. M., under the direction of a committee composed of Miss Retta Bede, E. R. Clark, and O. M. Kiser. The evening will be devoted to the traditional Home Coming dance and party. Arrangements for the dance are being made by A. M. Foker, Miss Warne, and Miss Lois Lohn, while the party is being sponsored by the Misses Katherine Hennig, Fanny Lippitt, and D. C. Streeter and Howard Myster.

Farmers Debate New Tariffs And Effect on Agriculture

Discussion of the widely publicized Roosevelt advocacy of reciprocal tariffs has brought a surprising flood of endorsements from farm leaders to Democratic campaign headquarters.

Gov. Landon has seen fit, in recent speeches, to attack the Roosevelt plan. "The reciprocal trade program," he says, "has delayed recovery for our farmers. It has sold the American farmer down the river."

Farm leaders, thus challenged, have gone intensively into the record. Here, for example, is the verdict as set down by the All-Party Agricultural Committee:

"In 1930 a Republican administration gave us the Smoot-Hawley tariff. In 1932 it gave us 12-cent corn with a tariff of 25 cents, and 25-cent wheat with a tariff of 42 cents. That was the year of 3-cent hogs, 3-cent cattle, and 5-cent cotton.

"Competing farm imports in 1932 hit the lowest point in more than 25 years. If exclusion of imports is the cure, why weren't farmers prosperous then?

"During the years from 1920 to 1930, before farm prices hit the great depression toboggan, the country imported far more competing farm products than in 1935."

Official Figures

Figures of the U. S. Department of Agriculture show that there has been no injury to American farmers from the reciprocal trade agreements advocated by President Roosevelt.

"Reciprocal trade treaties," it is stated, "have helped to increase farm exports. In the year ending June, 1936, farm exports were nearly 200 million dollars greater than in 1932-3, in spite of the effect of the drought."

The simple fact about the reciprocal tariff law is that it empowers the President to reduce cautiously and moderately the existing rates of duty by not more than 50 per cent, thereby giving to the Executive for the first time in history an effective means of seeking through mutual and reciprocal concessions, reductions in the trade barriers of other countries which restrict their importation of American goods.

From the Corn Belt

A widely quoted editorial by a corn-belt editor says: "The trick of the high-tariff advocates is something like this: (1) Get farmers excited about a trickle of farm imports, even though farm imports are considerably smaller now than in 1920-29. (2) Propose raising tariffs on a few farm products. (3) Meanwhile quietly arrange for raising tariffs in a big way on things farmers and other plain folks buy, the things that foreign nations might sell in exchange for American farm exports. (4) Raise prices on what farmers buy, cut down farm exports, make food cheaper, and give farmers the horse laugh for being fooled again."

Doubled Values

The improved status of the farmer during the past four years is clearly indicated by the prices he is receiving for his product today, as compared with 1933 prices. Wheat has risen from 48 cents to $1.18; corn from 27 cents to $1.13; lard from 40 cents to $1.15; hogs from 37 cents to $1; calves from 50 cents to $1.15; oats from 17 cents to 42 cents. Eggs and butter have doubled, potatoes have trebled; cheese has increased from 8 cents to 17 cents. (The figures are for March, 1933, and September, 1936.)

Biggest Campaign Boner
By BOAKE CARTER
Radio Commentator

Charges by Frank Knox that bank accounts are unsafe and insurance policies in danger, have caused more of an uproar than almost anything in the political campaign.

Col. Knox himself ducked to cover immediately by revising his remarks and saying he meant the banks were sound, but the money is not. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation issued figures showing an increase in assets of insured banks.

Many business men and Landon-backers are resentful of the Knox efforts to stir up a panic. Most insurance company officials feel the same way, but are keeping silent for political reasons. Which is a pity, for the longer insurance bigwigs remain silent, the easier it is to conclude that they prefer to pay lip service to politics to the detriment of their business.

When Col. Knox steps up to say that today no bank account is safe, and no insurance policy is secure, he is guilty of a type of reprehensible scare-mongering. And gentlemen who attempt to harm their own nation so that they can ride into public office for their own satisfaction deserve no public office. Political campaigns surely can be conducted without resorting to promoting false panics.

Thief River Falls, Minn.
October 12, 1936

Dear Editor:

When the writer read Senator Tungseth's attack on Senator Elmer Benson, Farmer-Labor candidate for governor, in the Forum of the 8th instant, I could not help but think here is another vicious attack against an honest man who has the back-bone to be true to his principles and his party. I remember the attack Senator Tungseth, then mayor of our city, made on our late Governor, the Honorable Floyd B. Olson, in the Zion Messenger of December 1, 1933. In his article in the Zion Messenger, dealing with the liquor traffic, (John Barley Corn) he said in part:

"Now in Minnesota he, through the mouth piece of our highest executive, makes his plea for a Let-Loose policy because our state treasuries need the money. And he has found a willing servant in our Governor, who says, what matters now is MONEY. Control must serve just one purpose, fill our empty treasuries. Perhaps it will soon be time to clean house again in our state government. When a man sinks to the level of placing money before morals, profits before purity, he is no man to be leader in a commonwealth like ours."

The Honorable Floyd B. Olson's life and handling of affairs of state since Senator Tungseth's accusation certainly is proof that the Senator's accusations were false. What our late Governor did say before the Liquor Control Committee of Minnesota at their first meeting was:

"The possibility of revenue from the sale of liquor is entirely secondary to the considerations of temperance."

To the legislature our late Governor said:

"The matter of revenue is considered only incidental to the important matter of control."

The attack on the Farmer-Labor candidate for Governor has the same ear marks as the attack made on our late Governor, just dirty politics. The voters should look up Senator Tungseth's record in the legislature and note particularly how seldom he supported Governor Floyd B. Olson in his endeavors to lessen the burden of the common people.

Then in the last paragraph the old and time-worn buga-boo, communism is dragged in, which is the last stand of one who has nothing to base his arguments on. Any citizen who is at all posted knows that the Farmer-Labor platform and principles are not communistic. From Senator Tungseth's expressions in his attack on Floyd B. Olson and Senator Benson one can but draw one conclusion, namely that to Senator Tungseth, any one who is a believer in progressive principles is a communist.

Yes, Senator Tungseth, the voters hav estudied the principles of all the parties in our State and the result will be an overwhelming Farmer-Labor victory.

C. E. HELLQUIST.

Dear Editor:

Ideas like those expressed by Mr. Tungseth in the FORUM for Oct. 8 are generally labeled "reactionary" and the matter dropped. But I understand that the gentleman calls himself a "progressive" and a "liberal". To hold reactionary ideas is bad enough in itself; for a progressive to have them is worse. It makes one want to apologise for the entire human race.

I was particularly struck by the unjust presentation of the American Youth Act, which was formulated by the American Youth Congress and introduced in the U. S. Senate last winter by Elmer A. Benson of Minnesota.

The American Youth Act aimed at securing a living wage for youngsters who desired an apprenticeship in an occupation requiring such. It was not intended to be a blanket "pension" as Mr. Tungseth claims. Even he realizes that the opportunity to learn a trade or profession has vanished with the coming of the capitalist crisis. A young fellow has to be very lucky these days to be able to go into industry and learn a trade. Years and years ago high-priced technical schools displaced the outworn apprenticeship system. Up to 1929 a young fellow could pay the price demanded by these technical schools, but now the prospect is different.

Even Mr. Tungseth will admit that the teaching profession, where training is comparatively easy to get, is overcrowded. The same thing holds true with business positions. Make training in all occupation easy to get, and congestion in certain ones will be corrected. The American Youth Act aimed at doing that.

"Human welfare must come first. . . No one objects to liberal expenditures for human welfare. Let us not, however, be so short-sighted that we overload the taxpayer."—Tungseth. Youth today faces stagnation, despair, suicide, a career of crime. Youth now graduates from school in unemployment. The American Youth Act, which aims at preventing these conditions, calls for a federal tax on large incomes. Mr. Tungseth seems in favor of "soaking the poor" because, he says, "the rich fellow never paid anything except with the poor man's money." Which is to admit that we have a rich man's government.

The solution, as I see it, is to put a party in power that will shift the tax burden from the poor who have nothing to the rich who have everything. Even Mr. Tungseth himself could not accomplish a stiff program like this without the backing of a strong national group, such as the proposed national Farmer-Labor party.

Editor of the Forum:

With your kind permission I wish to make some comments on two of the charges advanced by Senator E. L. Tungseth in his effusion in the last issue of the Forum.

His left-handed compliments of Governor Petersen while he administers a swift kick to Mr. Petersen's fellow candidate on the farmer-labor ticket, Mr. Benson, is of course nothing more nor less than the usual Tungseth demagogy designed to bring about personal antagonism between these two men. From personal acquaintance with the two men I know that Senator Tungseth's cheap blatancy will only gain him the contempt, not only of Senator Benson, but of Hjalmer Petersen whom he professes to admire, as well. As for his attack on Mr. Benson, I know that if Mr. Benson will condescend to banter words with such small fry as state senator Tungseth, he is well able to take care of himself. The particular potion of the senator's letter that I wish to comment on is his statement that "the rich always have a way of loading the burden on the rank and file with whom they do business," and the statement at the close of his letter wherein he states "that a farmer-labor victory will be nothing less than a communist victory."

Senator Tungseth is in excellent position to know that the rich always find methods of loading the tax burden on the little fellow. From the records of the Minnesota Senate we find that Tungseth was actively engaged in aiding the rich in putting over such a method. Altho the farmer-labor tax program sponsored by Governor Floyd B. Olson, which would have raised the income taxes in the higher breckets, levied gift and inheritance taxes on excess corporation profits was before the senate, Senator Tungseth preferred to support the vicious Omnibus Tax Bill advanced by the republican oligarchy. Let it be remembered that these taxes would be difficult for the rich to pass on to the poor because they are levied after the income has been accumulated while the sales taxes contained in the Omnibus Bill were direct taxes on the poor. According to the Senate Journal, Senator Tungseth voted against the amendments introduced by farmer-labor members of the senate which would include in the Omnibus Bill higher rates against higher incomes, inheritance taxes and corporation taxes and he also voted against the amendment which would have eliminated the sales tax from the Bill. To top off his 100 percent reactionary record he voted for the Omnibus Bill on its final passage. Except for the veto by Governor Floyd B. Olson whom Tungseth attacked two years ago as he is attacking Benson today, this vicious tax measure would have been saddled on the people of Minnesota.

An attack on the farmer-labor party because its candidates are being indorsed by the communists comes with poor grace from Senator Tungseth inasmuch as he was elected two years ago with very definite and outspoken communist support. The communists at that time very frankly advocated the election of Tungseth "because he was the worst of the two". They wished to make things as bad as possible, as soon as possible so that the capitalist system would collapse as quickly as possible. It was their contention that if Big Business was allowed to pick its own wrecking crew they would destroy their little play house so much the sooner. Inasmuch as the normal farmer-labor majority in this district in the past has been from 400 to 500 votes in the contest for senator, and Tungseth gained election by a majority of 101 votes, it is logical to suppose that the bulk of the 1302 communist votes cast in the primary decided the outcome in his favor in the fall election.

The threat of Fascism to democratic governments the world over has conviced the communists, evidently, that free speech, free press and equality at the polls are American institutions worth protecting. Farmer-laborites may justly feel proud of the fact that democrats, socialists, communists and all other groups who fight for better conditions for the common people have decided that the Farmer-Labor party is the united front part of the people, dedicated to the continuation of American liberty as voiced in the Declaration of Independence and are marshaling their forces behind its ticket and against the forces of reaction gathered under the republican banner where Senator Tungseth has done such valiant service.

Your truly,
R. M. AALBU

A Gentle Hint

"Darling," she sweetly murmured, "you always boast of your good memory, don't you?"

"Well," he smiled, "I pride myself on being able to remember most things that happen in our lives."

"And you remember things that happened years and years ago," she persisted.

"Most certainly, dear," he replied.

"How wonderful, darling!" she said, innocently enough. "And does your wonderful memory carry you back to the last time you bought me a new coat?"

CAPITOL NEWS REVIEW

Klan, prosecuted and convicted some of Campbell's Klan friends.

Just what is there to this talk about Republicans cutting down state expenditures by firing a great many state employees and cutting down the salaries of others?....

We knew that it was just plain tommyrot but we checked up a little on the figures. Here is what we find;....

If every employee in the state capitol who is paid his salary from the real estate tax levy were to be discharged forthwith, the state of Minnesota would have annually $2,057,000. This would even contemplate discharge of the governor himself unless he saw fit to work for glory as well as all of the important officials of the state, employees of virtually all state departments, as well as those working in the state institutions and even the teachers' colleges.

And then, with the state departments unmanned, state services demoralized, how much thereby would the average taxpayer save? For every hundred dollars in taxes he now pays he would save the grand sum of $1.89.

That is the kind of bunk the Republican Party is handing to the voters of Minnesota. A major political party, in this crucial period to campaign along these lines and offer not even a suggestion of a constructive program, is bankrupt both in ideals and in morals.

Senator Elmer A. Benson is continuing to tell the people of Minnesota what the Republicans are thinking about—and they don't like it. Senator Benson's latest was an attack on the Republican attitude on social security in general. He pointed out that behind all of this loose and insincere talk of extravagance lies a thrust at old age pensions, relief, unemployment insurance, etc.......

The Republican position in this campaign has been anything but enviable. They have refused to state what their program for tax reduction is, because they dare not let the people know, and Senator Benson's persistent challenge to them to reveal it has been very irritating. At the outset they took a hypocritical stand in favor of social security and now they have been compelled to say that government is not in a position to bring about social security....

Their entire professions of liberalism have been shot to pieces There is not a single specific, concrete, liberal proposal that they now are in a position to campaign on. About all that Mr. Nelson can continue to say is "I can not understand Mr. Benson's flagrant indifference to the frightful fix state finances are in"....

Well, Mr. Nelson, if the state's finances are in a "frightful fix," how about the approval of every item of state expenditure during the past six years by a Republican legislature? The state's finances are in a "frightful fix" only in Mr. Nelson's mind, but the chances are he is not losing any sleep about it.

Here is one for the books! Mr. Nelson now says that the Farmer-Laborites are the reactionaries. Is it possible that Mr. Nelson does not know to which party he belongs?

The parade of national liberal leaders to Minnesota to aid Senator Benson and the Farmer-Labor cause has begun in earnest....

Last week saw Governor Philip LaFollette, son of old "fighting Bob," and Senator Lewis Schwellenbach of Washington, speaking in Minnesota. Both pointed out the setback to progressive government should the Republican campaign succeed in Minnesota.......

More are coming. Senator Robert LaFollette of Wisconsin. . . Senators Nye and Frazier of North Dakota. . . Senator Wheeler of Montana. . . D. B. Robertson, prominent railroad brotherhood official, and others. This means only one thing—that the progressive movement in Minnesota is of national importance.

The eight Democrats who bolted the Party and formed a "Democrats-for-Nelson Club", have come out with the astounding assertion that "Martin A. Nelson is a liberal." What strange statements people make when they get mad!

School Board Holds Monthly Meeting Monday

A variety of miscellaneous items was considered. The purchase of three new band instruments was discussed and approved, it being decided to buy a bariton and two french horns. It was reported to the board that band instructions have been organized in all the schools. Mr. Riggs, band instructor, spends one hour a week at the Knox, Northrup, and Washington schools, three hours at the Central school, and practices three times a week with five periods a week for individual instruction. One hundred twenty-two pupils are enrolled for band instruction, with forty-one in the high school band, and eighty-one beginners in other schools.

The board decided to close school the 5th and 6th of November, to give the teachers an opportunity to attend the state convention of Minnesota Education association, which will be held in St. Paul, Nov. 5, 6, and 7. School will also be closed in the afternoon of Armistice Day, Nov. 11th, with classes in the morning and appropriate exercises at 11 o'clock. The board also approved Randall Noper's bond as gus driver.

Banquet Held By Young Republicans Club

At 7 o'clock Friday evening, the members of the Young Republicans club entertained at a banquet in the Palm Garden Cafe. The program consisted of several cowboy songs by Ray Ruprecht, and Mr. Harrison gave a number of piano solos, and also played for the community singing. Marius Waldal of Plummer, candidate for the legislature, gave a speech, and introduced George Jones of Bagley, who is also running for the legislature in this district. Sen. Henry Stiening of Moorhead was the speaker of the evening, and spoke on the state ticket, the amount of taxes and expenses of the government under the Farmer-Labor administration. About 65 were present.

Quale, 1933; Mrs. W. W. Prichard, Jr. 1934. Those of the past presidents that were present stood up and acknowledged the introduction.

Mrs. Charles Vorachek, president of the local Women's Club, then introduced the officers for this year, who are: Mrs. Andy Williamson, vice president; Mrs. Jack McKechnie, secretary; Mrs. Harold Rasmussen, treasurer. Mrs. Voracek also introduced the chairmen of the various groups, as follows: Mrs. Brattland, Current Events; Mrs. Gunder Legwold, Drama; Mrs. Paul Lundgren, Panates; Mrs. Chester Myrom, Music; and Mrs. Arthur Hamilton, Young Matrons. She then reported on the district convention which was held May 18 and 19 at Breckenridge, Minn., the theme of which was "Education for Living". The next district convention will be held in Fergus Falls.

Mrs. Voracek also gave a short summary of the state convention held at St. Cloud last week, the representatives from here being Mrs. Jack McKechnie, Mrs. Voracek, and Mrs. Jung. She concluded her speech by introducing Mrs. McKechnie, who reported on the various programs of the state convention at St. Cloud. The next state convention will be held at Stillwater.

The program was concluded with a short business meeting, which consisted of the reading of minutes of the last meeting, the reading of the board minutes, a short talk on the low observance department by Mrs. Levans, of Crookston, a report on the welfare work being done by Mrs. L. G. Larson; who stressed particularly the wonderful way in which the clinic for crippled children, which was held recently, was conducted. Mrs. H. A. Brumund gave a report on the Red Cross work, and a motion was made and corried that the Women's Club donate $5.00 for a Red Cross membership. Mrs. Voracek brought the meeting to a close by thanking the various committees that helped to make the meeting a success.

ils of drinking. He charged that the national administration had failed to protect dry sections against the sale of wet territory, of course forgetting the faults of early prohibition.

Dr. Day also asserted that present day conditions are far worse than those of the old saloon days, and made a request for the elimination of liquor advertisements from publications issued in the state.

Dr. Holsaple then praised Prof. Bye on the thorough temperance instruction in our schools, and said that he finds that young people as a whole are renewing their interest in remedying the problem, and that laboratory tests, which show them the effect that alcohol has on a human body, impress them greatly.

The women's section held a separate meeting following the luncheon in the Legion club rooms. Speakers at this meeting were Mrs. Bert Levins of Crookston, Mrs. Stuart of Tenstrike, and Mrs. J. M. Bishop of this city. Judge Brattland and Sen. E. L. Tungseth addressed a citizenship and good government session.

NATIONAL REEMPLOYMENT SERVICE

E. R. Stanghelle, Interviewer
Telephone 411

A nation-wide Reinterviewing program has recently been undertaken by the National Reemployment Service for the purpose of making a more intensive study of applicants' qualifications for positions and an increased effort to place qualified applicants with private employers is under way.

In order to satisfactorily accomplish the Reinterviewing Program and to justifiably handle the increase of activity, an additional interviewer has been added to the local staff.

The nation-wide Employment Service comprises 700 district or principal offices with 1,000 additional offices whose primary objective is to "Fit opportunity for each unemployed worker and fit placement in each unoccupied job."

Can the employer be reasonably sure to secure someone fitted for his vacancy? Yes, because every interviewer is equipped with a dictionary of information for all occupational abilities, tests the applicants on the basis of his past work experience, and because the interviewer is trained to detect characteristics of similarity among affiliated classes of work.

The U. S. Employment Service is an asset to local employers in three chief respects: cost, time and convenience. Suitable employees can be secured from distant points is necessary through the chain of offices established throughout the state and nation.

For the week ending October 3, 1936; 1277 men and 213 women were registered at the Thief River Falls office. Over 144 persons contacted the office for work, 26 persons were referred to jobs, 26 persons were reported placed, 11 placed with private employers.

From July 1 to September 12, 1936, 636 public employment placements were made by the local office. This figure constitutes placements made with the Works Progress Administration, the Public Works Administration, other miscellaneous governmental enterprises and chiefly with private contractors operating under the Bureau of Public Roads.

In anticipation of a new building program, persons skilled in the building trades should register with the local interviewer.

The local manager is proud to announce that many employers have commented on the satisfactory and convenient service they have received from the National Reemployment Service. We invite you to try this Service.

charged over center for five more. On the next play Milt Nesse passed to Mickelson, who made a beautiful catch and carried the ball over the goal line. Adkins made good his kick for the extra point, making the score 7 to 0.

The next tally came in the third quarter after the ball had been advanced to their own 44-yard marker. Milt Nesse took the ball and plowed through the line, not stopping until he had gone the 44 yards to another six points. The kick failed and the tally stood at 13 to 0.

The final touchdown was made in the last quarter. The locals took the ball on Grafton's 48-yard marker and staged a march down the field to the 5-yard line. From there Hill plunged over the line for the last score. The kick for extra point was low, making the final score 19 to 0 in favor of the golden-jerseyed Prowler's fourth consecutive victory.

INGVOLSTAD'S TALKS PLEASE BIG AUDIENCES

Noted Speaker Addresses Three Gathering Here Wednesday

European War Is Not Anticipated

European Traveller Gives Valuable Information On Conditions

Dr. Fred W. Ingvoldstad, noted speaker and world traveller, spoke to several local gatherings Wednesday while in this city. The speaker, a former minister, now devoting his entire time to lecturing about conditions in countries which he frequently visits, especially Europe, spoke to the high school students, the Civic & Commerce association, and to a big public gathering at the auditorium.

Dr. Ingvoldstad spoke in the forenoon Wednesday in the high school assembly hall. His speech centered mainly around the young people of Soviet Russia. He discussed the new young generations born and reared before the Revolution, that they have no memories of the revolution, and are in no way responsible for it. He stressed that all they know about it is what their parents tell them, and what they read. He discussed the young people in their high schools, universities, athletics, in industry, agriculture, culture, and education. He particularly pointed out the sense of humor in the young generation, and mentioned a number of humorous incidents.

At the Chamber of Commerce meeting, he discussed the European war situation, and first outlined the several arguments now advanced for the belief that a European war is near at hand, and presented a series of deterrents, as economic, political, domestic, mutual assistance pacts, non-aggressive pacts, and trade agreements. He stated that there are

Governor to Talk Over Air Saturday

The Governor of Minnesota, Hjalmer Petersen, will be heard in an address over the radio on Saturday evening, Oct. 24th, at which time he will discuss the work of the Railroad and Warehouse Commission. His talk will go over WCCO, WNAX, WEBC and WMFG, and will begin at 10 P. M.

Hjalmer Petersen, who has been editor and publisher of the Askov American for twenty-two years, became the 23rd Governor of Minnesota on August 24th, following the death of Governor Floyd B. Olson. He was lieutenant governor for one term and prior to that served as representative in the Minnesota legislature from Pine County, during which time he sponsored the net income tax on individuals and corporations. Revenue accruing from the net income tax is allocated to the public schools of the state and is a builder for more universal education. The governor was nominated for the office of Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner at the June primaries.

Immediately upon his induction to the office of Governor in August, he was confronted with the serious situation of a strike in the city of Minneapolis which involved wholesale grocers, mills, elevators, feed and seed houses and others. He put in days and weeks of arduous work in the effort to settle the controversy and without undue loss of time the workers returned to their daily tasks and the wheels of industry were again in motion.

Hear the Governor over the air Saturday evening at 10 o'clock.

LIVESTOCK SHOW WINNERS CHOSEN

The 4-H Fall Achievement Day for all boys and girls enrolled in Penningtotn club work with beef calves, fat hogs, market lambs, market poultry, and those raising potatoes, was held Saturday at the County Fair grounds here.

At this event the following boys and girls were chosen as winners of the trip to the Junior Livestock Show at South St. Paul in November: Leonard Yonke, River Falls 4H club, Market turkeys; Max Jensen, Highlanding 4H club, Individual Market Lamb; Roy Jensen, Highlanding 4H club, Individual Market Lamb; Stanley Bothman, River Falls 4H club, Market Barrow; Lloyd Johnson, Highlanding 4H club Beef Calf; Rueben Stock, Mavie 4H club, Individual Market Lamb; Dake Ayers, Norden 4H club, Market Poultry; Henry Bothman, River Falls 4H club, Market Barrow; and Isabella Nelson, Mavie 4H club, Pen of Market Lambs.

The following boys had the best potato exhibit: Olaf Dahlen, Erie 4H club Bliss-Triumphs; Wallace Ballangrud, Northfield 4H club, Burbanks; and Severin Barstad, Silverton 4H club, Bliss-Triumphs.

About sixty 4H boys and girls attended this Achievement Day and H. A. Pflughoeft, district club leader from the Northwest School at Crookston, judged the event.

City's White Way Is Being Extended

Improvements of the street lighting system are being made at this time which will add further to the beauty of the city in better lighted thoroughfares.

Many street lamps are being added to side streets leading off Third street and extension of the white way along South Main street is also in progress.

Hagen, Engen Speak To Farmer Labor Group

George Hagen of Crookston and Nels Engen of Warren gave two rousing speeches at the Farmer Labor meeting at the Courthouse Friday evening. The event was sponsored by the local F-L club. Ward Long was the chairman of the meeting. A good crowd attended.

Mr. Engen, who is superintendent of schools of Marshall county, spoke mainly on the welfare of the schools and the tax program of the two major parties in Minnesota, stressing the need of a united opposition to Amendment No. 2.

Attorney Hagen, who is chairman of the Ninth District Farmer Labor party, attacked the Republican gubernatorial candidate, Martin Nelson, asserting that his statement in regards to the sales tax was insincere and that the GOP favored a straight tax instead of a graduated tax based on ability to pay. He also stressed the need of good organization work in getting women as well as men out to vote.

DOWELL IS AGAIN CHOSEN HEAD OF R.R.V. DAIRYMEN

President of N. W. School Re-Elected at Crookston Meeting

1937 Convention Will Be Held At Detroit Lakes

Numerous Awards Made To Buttermakers In 1936 Contest

Dr. A. A. Dowell, superintendent of the Northwest school at Crookston, was re-elected president of the Red River Valley Dairymen's association at the election of officers which was the closing business of annual meeting.

Friday, Stuart McLeod of Ada was re-elected vice president. The association selected Detroit Lakes as the next meeting place.

At a session Thursday night an address by J. H. Evans, deputy minister of agriculture in Manitoba for 20 years, a concert by the Crookston high school band and announcement of contest winners were principal features.

The butter contest was divided into two departments with gold awards going to exhibitors showing butter with a 95 per cent or higher grade of butter, silver awards for butter 94.5 to 95 per cent and bronze awards for butter grading 94 to 94.5 per cent.

In the sweet cream butter division gold awards went to Alfred L. Vorgert of Bluffton, Theodore E. Olson of Shevlin, Herbert Holmgren of Upsala, and L. F. Olson of St. Hilaire.

Car Accident Injures Local Young Men

Richard Hammergren and Morris Melby were the victims of an automobile accident Saturday evening. The accident took place on the road leading to St. Hilaire, between the turn that leads into the Sanatorium and the turn leading into Kivle's farm.

As Richard and Morris were coming down the highway, they suddenly came upon a car parked on the highway with no parking lights on. There was also a car coming towards them, and Richard, who was driving, had to swerve abruptly to avoid hitting them. As he slammed on the brakes and turned suddenly to miss both cars, his coat sleeve caught in the light switch, which is located on the steering wheel, and plunged them into darkness. The car got out of control and tipped over.

Both boys are in a local hospital, Morris badly bruised and shaken, and Richard with his pelvic bone broken in two places. Morris is expected to come out in a few days, but Richard will have to remain for several weeks.

Cooperative Study Class Is Arranged

Several local business places, the Land O' Lakes Creamery, the Lakeshore Oil Association, and the People's Cooperative Store, are sponsoring an educational class in the co-operative study movement in our city.

This class will meet next Monday evening at 8 p. m. in room 210, upstairs in the Citizen's Bank building, and will continue for four successive Monday evenings, states the local men in charge.

This class is open to everyone. Ladies are especially invited. Other co-operative classes are being conducted at Middle River, Goodridge, River Valley, Clearbrook, and Bagley. V. N. Hegg of Minneapolis is the discussion group leader.

"Spillemand's Lag" Is Concluded Saturday

A large audience gathered at the Municipal Auditorium Saturday evening for the conclusion of the two day Hardanger violinists contest which opened in this city Friday. Several talented musicians gave selections on the Hardanger eight-string violin, and a trio of women presented Norwegian dances in native costumes. Bj. Bjornaraa was toastmaster of the evening's activities and gave and address to the audience. R. A. Trovatten, the state commissioner of agriculture, dairy and food, who had been listed on the program, was unable to come, since he had been slightly injured in an automobile accident the preceding day at Detroit Lakes.

The association of Norwegian violin players held two sessions Friday and another Saturday afternoon. All the sessions were well attended, many coming from far-off points.

Snow, Sleet Lash Many N. W. Areas

Driving snow and sleet lashed the northwest with wintry weather Tuesday that counted one death from hazardous traffic conditions.

While Thief River Falls and the immediate vicinity escaped a snowfall, the temperature dropped to 20 degrees above and lower the past three mornings.

Freezing weather encroached over much of the northwest for the first time Tuesday with snow flurries in its wake. At Marshall in southwestern Minnesota, four inches of snow fell. The territory around Bemidji and cities to the east also reported from one to three inches of snow.

A snowstorm raged at Lake Preston, S. D., where four inches had already fallen. The wind continued early Tuesday night, forcing farmers to house livestock for the first time this season.

Ram Exchange Day Considered Successful

Ram Exchange day, which was held Saturday, was the biggest success that it has been in many years, states R. M. Douglass, the county agent. Better than 60 head of purebred rams were exchanged or sold, and farmers coming in were well pleased with the results of the Exchange Day program. Frank Hardisty of Smiley Township sold six head of Purebred Hampshire rams. Some of the buyers were here from as far distant as Greenbush.

Farmer Labor Rally Wednesday Eve., Oct. 28

There will be a Farmer-Labor Rally Wednesday evening, October 28th at 8 o'clock, at the school house in school district No. 39. This is the Grunde-Austad school in Mayfield Township. Speakers are Bj. Bjornaraa and H. O. Berve.

PROWLERS ADD 4TH VICTORY

Local Grid Team Will Journey To Warren For Game There Next Friday

The golden-jerseyed Prowlers will have their unbeaten and untied record at stake when they journey to Warren tomorrow afternoon to meet the rejuvenated Ponies. The Ponies' record this season is not as imposing as that of the locals but they should be capable of giving the Prowlers sturdy opposition.

Striking with terrific force from the very beginning of the game, the Prowlers outcharged and outfought the Mahnomen Moleskinners Friday evening here and dumped the Indians from the ranks of the unbeaten by the score of 33 to 0. Coach Lee's boys scored in every quarter and surprised the spectators by winning easily over their highly touted rivals.

The Indians were obviously bewildered and demoralized by the power and versatility of the Prowler eleven. The Prowler line, led by Oleson and Adkins, piled up most of the opposing plays on the line of scrimmage.

Pomeroy Hill, a former Fargo boy, with swivel hips and perpetual motion legs, led the Prowler ball carriers by reeling off three touch

This year's show will be bigger and better than ever, with two full hours of acts every evening, some of which are the Duval Brothers, Cornella Troupe of comedy acrobats, the Perez LaFlor Troupe of Cuban aerial gymnasts, the Silver Lake trio the Melvin trio, the Fisher troupe of American acrobats, the Mann Brothers, the Aerial Butterflies, Sykes and His Cycles, and many others, not to mention a group of circus clowns. Also in the group are the Aerial Christianson due, high double trapeze artists, and Joe Madden, official greeter.

Citizen's Bank Depositors Form New Organization

Last Wednesday night a meeting was held by the officers of the Citizens' Depositors Incorporated, a newly organized corporation of former depositors to take over the building known as the Citizens State Banking block. The meeting was held in the offices of the Gilbert A. Brattland, special deputy examiner, in the basement of the block.

At this meeting final arrangements were made to comply with the court order in regard to the sale. The Citizens' Depositors organization was recently incorporated by a group of depositors for the purpose of taking over the title. The president of the new corporation is Rasmus Oen and the corporation counsel is H. O. Chommie.

Drum Corps Sponsors Benefit Dance Oct. 31

The Auxiliary Drum Corps will sponsor a dance Saturday, Oct. 31 at the Municipal Additorium. Edy Eastman of Crookston will furnish the music. The proceeds will be used to pay for the new equipment which the Corps purchased last summer.

The corps, which is now composed of 28 members, plan to increase to 32, which will include four more new bugles. They are now working on all new music to be used for next year's activities, and also will compete in Class A.

Seek Clues In Fire Death Near Argyle

Marshall county authorities are investigating the death of John Kosma, 55, whose charred remains were found in a burned hog house at the J. H. Griffin farm four miles south of Argyle which Kosma tenanted.

Kosma, a bachelor, was last seen in Argyle a week earlier when he purchased provisions. Neighbors who had not seen him around his farm for several days investigated. They found his house open and livestock, which apparently had not been fed for some time, tied in the barn. They later discovered the hog house in ruins and there found Kosma's body.

County authorities were notified and are investigating the case on the theory that Kosma may have been slain and an attempt made to destroy all evidence by burning his body. An inquest was held at Warren Monday but no definite clues developed.

Dates For Auto Show Will Be Nov. 12 To 14

The dates of the Thief River Falls automobile show have definitely been set for November 12 to 14. This was decided Monday at a meeting of the committee representing the local automobile dealers and the American Legion Post, which groups are sponsoring the activities. The automobile displays will be situated in the new Winter Sports building now nearing its completion. Dancing and other entertainment will be presented in the Auditorium. Representatives of the automobile dealers at the meeting Monday evening were C. D. Gustafson, F. A. Rinkel, and F. E. Tunberg, with E. O. Peterson, A. B Stenberg, W. E. Dahlquist and O. C. Paulson representing the Legion Post.

Kratka Farmer Is Called By Death

Elling Klementson, a leading farmer who has resided in Kratka township for 25 years, about 20 miles east of this city, passed away Wednesday morning from pneumonia from which he had been ill for nine days.

Funeral services will be held on Monday at 11 o'clock at the home and 12:00 at Telemarken Lutheran church at Mavie, Rev. Sabo being the pastor. He leaves his wife, four sons and five daughters.

MISS BJORNARAA BURIED THURSDAY

Unusually Large Gathering Attends Exercises Held At Trail Last Week

Funeral services for Thora Bjornaraa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bj. Bjornaraa of Trail, were held Thursday afternoon last week. There was a short service at the farm home in Hickory township at 1 o'clock with Rev. Sigurd Fladmark officiating, assisted by Rev. Halvard Lie of Fisher, Rev. O. K. Lerohl of Oklee, and Rev. V. O. Aaker of Gully. About 150 automobiles with mourners accompanied the remains from the home to Nazareth Lutheran church where final rites were held at 2 o'clock. More than 1000 persons from various parts of northwestern Minnesota, including many from Thief River Falls, attended the service. Only a small portion of those in attendance could be seated in the little country church, but a loud speaker provided by the Thief River Music Store carried the service to those outside. Rev. Fladmark officiated at the church, Reverends Lie, Aaker, Lerohl, and Rev. O. Kolstoe of Oklee, and Rev. Tjornhom of Fergus Falls participating. Olaf Neset and Judge M. A. Brattland of Thief River Falls and Arne Grundyson of Fisher also spoke, and Mr. Neset and Miss Anna Knutson of Thief River Falls contributed vocal numbers. Miss Christine Nelson of the Nazareth congregation furnished the organ music. The pallbearers were the deceased's brothers, Dreng of St. Paul, Olaf, Thorvald, Einar, and Sigurd, and her brother-in-law, Erick Johnson.

New Hockey League Is Being Organized

At a meeting of hockey team representatives held in this city on Sunday evening, Kenneth M. Wood of Grand Forks was elected president of a new six-team hockey league which will operate thruout this section this winter. A. M. Campbell of this city was elected vice-president, and A. Christopherson, also of this city, was named secretary-treasurer.

A representative from each team will be named later to form a six-man board of directors. Discussion of rules, by-laws, team rosters, and schedules completed the business session. The schedule, which is expected to start early in December, will be drawn up at a directors meeting set tentatively for November 1 in this city.

Teams represented at the meeting Sunday were Grand Forks, University of North Dakota, Roseau, Hallock, Emerson, Man., and this city.

It is expected that the new hockey rink will be available at the opening of the season for these games. Enthusiasm is growing here and good support of a local team is anticipated.

F-L CANDIDATE'S RECORD IS ASSET AS NOV. 3 NEARS

Lundeen's Stand On Social Security and Anti-War Is Outstanding

Senatorial Candidate Is Leading Progressive

Leads Drive For Soliders' Bonus To Success In Congress

If there is one man that Minnesota can tie to it is Ernest Lundeen, state his supporters in Pennington as the day of the election approaches.

Lundeen, the state legislator, the congressman, the party choice for the United States senate, has been a trail-blazer in the liberal movement. No odds ever were too great, no persecution ever too excruciating, no threats ever daunted him in his fight for the common people of Minnesota and the United States.

Nineteen years ago he voted against America's entry into the World War, against conscription, against foreign loans.

Introduced Soldiers' Bonus

Lundeen introduced the first soldiers' bonus bill in 1919. Even then he was persecuted for his vote against war, although he followed the dictates of George Washington in refusing to be involved in foreign entanglements. Persecution defeated him for re-election at that time, but he was returned to Congress in 1932, and in 1934 it was the Lundeen motion which brought the soldiers' bonus bill before the house. Lundeen kept on fighting for the soldiers' bonus until it was finally passed in 1936 bringing $80,000,000 into Minnesota to fight a Republican depression.

Lundeen blazed another trail in his fight for the farmers. Realizing that farmers never can become solvent unless they realize at least their cost of production, he

NYA Office Has Local Fish Project

A project that will mean much to nimrods in years to come has been undertaken by the National Youth administration in Minnesota. This has to do with the propagation of fish and is in charge in this part of the state of Marvin Benson at the local NYA offices.

The fish project consists of taking six samples of scales from the mid-body part of the fish noting the species, the lake where caught and the length of the fish. The scales are then placed in small envelopes which are furnished for that purpose and are sent to the University of Minnesota for laboratory examinations. The scales of fish have annual rings of growth similar to those of a tree and the age of any size of fish can be established. Information of this kind will help to determine the velocity of growth of fish. One lake may show a larger five year old fish than another which will at once show that some waters are better for propagation of fish than others. The next step will be to determine what the result is and the whole project has a bearing upon future rehabilitation for stocking of the lakes. The fish hatcheries need not place a species of fish in the lake therefore when it is known that the particular species will not thrive in those waters.

The taking of these samples is for scientific reasons, and the project is a joint one of the University of Minnesota, the State Conservation Commission and the National Youth Administration. The field work in obtaining the scale samples was done by a NYA youth at the Booth Fishery in Warroad, all the fish from which samples were taken being caught in the Lake of the Woods by the Booth Fishery.

The University of Minnesota, under the supervision of Dr. Samuel Eddy, Professor of Zoology, does the laboratory work in examining the scales under microscopes recording and compiling the data deducted from the examination of the scales.

Entered as Second Class matter April 27th, 1932 at the post office at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, and re-entered under new title at same office on February 21, 1936, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1897.

VOTE PROGRESSIVE!

Efforts are being made at the present time to lure citizens of Minnesota away from the progressive liberal policies which have made this state famous throughout the nation and which have resulted in less suffering during this depression than has occurred in any other state.

Republican candidates for office are now trying to get us to entrust them with power once more by saying that the depression is over and times are getting better. Four years ago the candidates of their party warned us that if we did not support them, grass would grow on our city streets. We did not vote them into office—no grass grew on our streets. In fact times became considerably better than they were under the administration of Hoover.

Today these same people are trying to frighten the voters of this state with the boogey man of increasing national debt forgetting to mention that the greatest loss in national debt occured under Hoover's administration when he cancelled $13,000,000,000 worth of foreign debts owed us by European powers.

They are also trying to raise a false issue of taxes. The greatest increase in taxes occured under the Republican administration of Theodore Christianson when state expenditures increased from 23 to 44 million dollars per year. The only reduction that has occured in state expenditures has occured under Farmer Labor administration when the reduction this year, in spite of increased cost of old age pensions, is nearly $2,000,000.

At the same time Farmer Labor proposals have been the only concrete and actual means of cutting taxes on individually owned farms and homes thru the Homestead Preferential law which has actually reduced the taxes on homes about thirty per cent. Martin Nelson himself has saved $37.07 when his taxes were reduced from $129.57 to $92.50 through the operation of the homestead exemption law. Had his program been in effect he would have saved only $5.52. Home owners in the state saved $9,000,000 through this act.

The issue in Minnesota however goes beyond any issue of taxes. It is fundamentally an issue between progress and reaction. Minnesota has today an opportunity to continue on its forward path or to succumb to the lure of the voices of the old guard and stumble and fall into the pitfalls and errors of yesterday.

All indications point to the fact that Minnesota is going to go forward. Members of the old guard are desperate in their effort to acquire votes. They are spending hundreds of thousands of dollars in Minnesota but they are making very little progress Citizens of Minnesota are going to vote for Ernest Lundeen for Senator, for Elmer A. Benson for Governor and the whole Farmer Labor ticket for state, congressional and legislative offices.

A SENSIBLE MOVE

One of the most sensible moves in recent Minnesota political history was the announcement Saturday that two Democratic state candidates had withdrawn from the race in favor of their Farmer Labor opponents. The stepping aside of Curtis and Delaney was an unusual example of public-spirited men giving up the possibility of personal advancement for the sake of their party, their state and country.

Very few conceded the Minnesota Democrats a chance in the state election—it has been seen for some time that the race is between Benson and Nelson—but the division of the liberal votes between two parties would have given the reactionary Republicans their best chance in several elections. We are confident that there are more forward-looking liberals in Minnesota than backward-looking conservatives, but the three-cornered fight might have found the reactionary minority the winner.

The decision of the two Democrats clears up the political picture amazingly. There is a black-and-white contrast between the platforms of the Farmer-Labor and Republican platforms and candidates which should leave the voters with no hazy doubts as to whom he should support. The decision of Curtis and Delaney eliminates the necessity of good Democrats deciding whether they should vote "regular" in the state election or support the liberal with the best chance of election. Very likely there would have been a sizable group from that party who would have cast reluctant votes for Benson, feeling that in so doing they were deserting their party. Now they need have no qualms of conscience. A vote for Benson will be a vote for Roosevelt as well.

It is in the national election that the new move will have its greatest effect. It is in the election of the president, above all, that there must be unity among the liberals, a clear cut division between liberals and conservatives. The great bulk of the Farmer Labor vote would undoubtedly have gone to Roosevelt in any event. The weight of the late Governor Olson's endorsement of the president was enough to convince many. But there are not a few within the ranks of liberal voters who are wavering on the verge of supporting the Union party, drawn by its fearlessly liberal platform. Last Saturday's move should convince many of these that politics is intensely practical. There are times when it is the part of wisdom to consider a party's chance of victory as well as its principles and platform.—New Ulm Review.

FOR THE UNBORN GENERATIONS

The Republicans seem to be so much concerned over the debt incurred by the present government which, they say, will have to be paid by generations yet unborn. The fact in the case is, however, that if the Republicans had been returned to power in 1932 and Hoover allowed to pursue his stubborn do-nothing policies there wouldn't be any future generations. The babies in existence under Hoover would have starved to death and no one could have afforded to get married so there wouldn't have been any prospects for any unborn generations.

ENDING THE BLACK LEGION

A routine investigation, caused by the discovery of a man's body, lying in a ditch near the suburb of Dearborn, shocked Michigan and the nation with revelations about the Black Legion, a secret order of night riders sworn "in the name of God and the devil" to exterminate "the anarchist, Communist, the Roman hierarchy and their abettors."

The story was amazing in its ramifications and the reverberations resounded as the trail of the order jumped state lines and threatened to involve prominent officials. Americans read with amazement about the strange growth of the organization and there were exaggerated tales of its size.

Recently, the trial of twelve members was concluded in Detroit. One man, who confessed that he fired the fatal shot, testified at the trial. The jury convicted seven of first degree murder, two of second degree murder, one was acquitted and two others were tried and convicted without a jury.

The conclusion of the trial, it seems, marks the end of the Black Legion and reflects credit upon the people of Michigan. Let us hope that no similar organization will attempt to gain power or prominence in the United States in the future.

RUSSIA SPEAKS OUT

The warfare in Spain between the liberal-minded government and the conservative-minded rebels proceeds, apparently with the advantage going to the rebels.

It has been charged, and seemingly with some truth, that both Italy and Germany helped supply the rebels with airplanes, munitions, and equipment, as these countries were interested in having a government friendly to them in authority over Spain.

France took the lead in securing pledges of neutrality from European nations and promises to abstain from supplying either side with any weapons or material for warfare. This step, perhaps, justified to postpone European war, was one against precedent, for hitherto a legitimate government has always had the right to purchase war supplies.

Russia is friendly to the present Spanish government. It agreed to the neutrality pact and promised not to supply any war material. Now, it boldly announces that if Portugal, Italy, and Germany do not live up to their promises along the same line, it will reserve the freedom to supply the government with its military needs. Russia, at least, does not intend to allow a friendly government to be defeated for lack of supplies while other nations, friendly to the rebels, supply them.

There is this much to be said for Russia's position—it is frank and out in the open. The Soviet, if it decides to supply Spain with military needs, will not hesitate to announce the fact, and will do so openly and publicly, a thing we must state as upright as any whether we like the Soviet rule or not.

WHY TAXES ARE AS THEY ARE

Over a period of years, the people have established the various and growing government services, not because they were "socialistic", or because they served the selfish ends of politicians, but because they were indispensable to the welfare of a growing society. Those who rail against government expenditures and high taxes would not abolish these vital government services. Our government spends millions in ship subsidies, in the promotion of aeronautics, and in the advancement of business not only in this nation but over the entire world. It is true that George Washington did not pay such high taxes as his posterity is now paying, but neither did George Washington get the services that the taxpayers are receiving today. There was no need for such services in his time.

Since selfish industrial and financial interests do the most complaining about government cost, it might be well to inquire more in detail as to the reasons for government costs. One of the very important reasons why taxes are high grows out of the predatory instincts of certain classes of people. The narcotic laws, the pure food, health and drug laws, the administration of which cost many tax dollars, are necessary, because the profiteers would sell injurious drugs or poisonous meats to the people if the government did not protect them. Wall Street gamblers became so avaricious in floating "blue-sky" securities, that the government was compelled to incur the expense of regulating these gamblers. In days gone by the principle of "the public be damned" so prevailed in the management and operation of our railroads, that the government found it necessary to outlay great expenditures in order to protect the public. Today, federal and state governments are placed at great expense to promote public safety and the safety of the working man during the discharge of his duties.

Even the most hardened rugged individualist admits that it is duty of the government to prevent the involuntarily unemployed citizen from starving to death. Certainly, no one who is informed of the facts will claim that the government has over-fed the people on relief. But even here, the selfishness of business increases the cost of government. An authoritative study of federal relief methods, revealed that the federal government could maintain the relief clients on one-third of the amount it was spending for relief, if it would employ idle factories and enable the needy to produce for their own needs. It further found that by spending less than half the amount the government was spending, by adopting a production-for-use principle, the living standards of relief clients could be raised 35 per cent, which would place their living standards above those of the average industrial worker. Here would be a great opportunity to save on government costs, but selfish profit-seekers so bitterly fought such a program, on the grounds that it was interfering with "free private enterprise" and with their opportunities to make profits, that the wasteful method of giving relief was continued.

YOUTH TURNS TO ROOSEVELT

If you are somewhere between the ages of 21 and 45, the chances are 6 out of 10 that you favor Roosevelt, and that you are, consequently, probably a horse thief and also slightly non compos mentis.

If you are from 45 to 55, you have somewhat better chances of being respectable. You are then as likely to be one thing as the other. The members of your age group are divided about equally between the two parties.

But if you are above 55 years of age, you are definitely on the respectable side of the fence. The chances are then exactly the reverse of what they were in youth —6 out of 10 that you vote Republican and hence that you spend your evenings at home with your house slippers and high blood pressure.

It is to Dr Gallup, director of the Institute of Public Opinion, that we are indebted for these figures. He made the compilation from 215,000 straw ballots, sent out to as many voters.

Worked out in percentages, as applied to the entire adult population of something over 70 millions, it gives us a little more than 54 per cent for Roosevelt, and a little less than 46 per cent for Landon.

At the time of the 1930 census, the adults in these three age groups in the United States were about as follows:

From 21 to 44	44,000,000
From 45 to 54	13,000,000
From 55 and up	15,000,000
	72,000,000

The alert Republicans were already aware of this disquieting situation, however. Quite possibly it was 'Alphabet' Hamilton, their campaign manager, who had made the discover. He may have gotten a hint of how matters stood by going to a Republican ball and finding that the entire feminine contingent consisted of dowagers of the dreadnaught type.

Anyway, the Republicans had organized 'Young Republican Clubs' a good while before Dr. Gallup announced his findings. They had made frantic efforts to induce the Nation's fox-trotters to "come into my parlor", as the spider is suppose to have said to the fly.

But it soon became apparent that if they would hope to have enough for at least a five-handed rummy game at their club meetings, they'd have to let down the age bars. And so they passed resolutions that you're only as old as you feel or thereabouts, and let it be whispered abroad that if you could drink a bottle of pop without getting hiccoughs and play a game of checkers without getting winded, you qualified as a 'young' Republican.

Dr. Gallup speculates interestingly on the reasons for this definite alignment by age groups. . .

"Is the younger generation's enthusiasm for Roosevelt merely an age-old sympathy for action, change and experiment?" he wonders, "or is it based on definite political and economic concessions for which the young voters are duly thankful? * * * If future administrations reflect the opinions of today's youngest voters, which way is government policy likely to tend?"

One theory may be advanced, to which there will be acclaim from the Democrats and violent objections from the Republicans. . . that the youth of today has enjoyed educational advantages which were denied the older voters and that it is by reason of his greater average enlightenment and knowledge that he follows the banner of Liberalism.

And in this, the older 'New Deal' followers will be quick to concur. They will be very ready to see it as a conflict between knowledge and ignorance. They may even claim that the most widely read and best informed members of a community are almost invariably Liberal; and that the world's great thinkers and writers have had few conservatives among their number.

But whatever may be the reason for this alarming trend of the young folks toward Roosevelt, your commentator feels that something ought to be done about it. Certainly this can't go on—'Young Republican Clubs', and no young Republicans.

For a moment your commentator thought he had the solution . . . change the name from "Grand Old Party" to "Grand Young Party"!

But the notion, while admittedly brilliant had to be dismissed. For the initials then spelled the unfortunate combination of GYP. . .

. . . Which wasn't to be thought of, of course. So it looks as if we'll have to shuffle along as best we can, hardened arteries and all, and hope for the best.

The Capitol News Review

By A. I. HARRIS

Senator Benson proved himself a good prophet when he predicted that the Republicans can be depended upon to trot the old "red scare" out before the campaign draws to an end. . .

The Republicans should know by this time that the "red scare" scares nobody any longer—not even the Republicans. One would think that political history of recent years in Minnesota would teach them something, but it does not. They still are of the opinion that we are living in the war-hysteria period . . .

They say that the Old Guard dies but never surrenders. The Minnesota Old Guard says: "We will never surrender to an intelligent discussion of issues."

In a speech at Hibbing last week Martin A. Nelson declared: "If the Farmer-Labor candidate for Governor is not trying to trick you, but really intends to do what he says (increase iron ore taxes sharply) you ought to organize a band of vigilantes to drive him from the borders of the state. . ."

Thus, in an unguarded moment, Mr. Nelson gave the people of Minnesota a true picture of his inner self. He presents a threat to law and order should he be elected governor. . .

A statement such as the above, calling for mob violence, for Klan and Black Legion methods, coming from a man who aspires to the highest executive office of the state, is shocking in this day and age. Were it not for the fact that it was printed in exact language in several of the Twin City dailies one would be justified in questioning the accuracy of the report. It is revolting to every sense of decency.

The Republican gubernatorial candidate in an advertised anti-sales talk stated that he thought he had made his position on taxes quite clear in his keynote address, and expressed surprise that anybody with a knowledge of the English language failed to understand him. . .

He did make this position quite clear, because he said: "As to the precise method this tax revision shall take, the Republican party has not nor will it express an opinion." If there is anything there which indicates opposition to a sales tax, such as the last Republican-controlled Legislature passed but which Governor Olson vetoed, it will require a magician to find it. . .

It is worthy of note that even in a talk which was supposed to be devoted to an announcement of opposition by him if the next Legislature should pass one. What he said was precisely this: that he will not recommend a general sales tax to the Legislature, and that he does not favor a general sales tax. A sales tax which exempts perfumes and chewing gum may not be regarded as a general sales tax. As Senator Benson points out, Mr. Nelson has left the door open to the passage of a sales tax, because a Republican legislature is certain to pass one, whether he recommends it or not. . .

The Republican party and Mr. Nelson in particular are fooling nobody but themselves. Evidence that they plan a sales tax is so conclusive that denial is, in vain. The truth of the whole thing is that the Republicans have made the distressing discovery that the sales tax has weakened Mr. Nelson and that Senator Benson seems a certain winner in the governorship race. For that reason Republican headquarters have become frantic. If necessary, the word is out, Nelson will even say that he will veto a sales tax, but this only as a last resort. . .

When he does say so, nobody will believe him, because his declaration will have all over it the stamp of dishonesty and insincerity.

First of all, we want to urge our precinct chairmen and their committees to see that their work is done in the respective precincts. See that all your literature is distributed. Make a special effort to see that all the posters are posted in good, conspicuous places. Do not let any of your literature, cards, and posters lay around and be wasted. We are depending upon the precinct captains and their committees to see that the work is done in all of the precincts. If you are out of cards, posters, literature and supplies, please call at my office for a new supply.

Tuesday evening of last week, we had the pleasure of listening to City Band playing for the Repub- City aBnd playing for the Republican rally. Needless to say, we enjoyed the music very much. We have one of the finest drum corps and one of the best bands to be found anywhere in the State. Our city is fortunate indeed to have such splendid musical organizations, and we hope that before the campaign is over, we may be able to have them with us at a Farmer-Labor rally.

We are especially pleased to know that so many of the members of both the drum corps and the band are Farmer-Laborites, whose hearts are in full sympathy with the mass of the people. It is very significant of the trend of the times, however, that even tho the Republican senatorial candidate had the assistance of both the drum corps and the band, still it was not possible to get out a large crowd for the Republican rally, and what is most interesting of all is that more than half of the crowd that attended the rally consisted of the best Farmer-Laborites we have here in the city. They attended the rally because they wanted to hear the Republican side discussed in this campaign.

Incidentally, it appears to us that the Republican Campaign organizations must have a liberal supply of campaign funds. The drum corps and the band cannot be secured for a rally without some reasonable payment. They would hardly come and play for the Republican rally for nothing. We are wondering if the Republican campaign managers in the state have been able to secure campaign contributions from the large mining companies and the large real estate owners throughout the state. The mining companies and the large real estate owners are the ones who will benefit most extensively by the passage of Amendment No. Two. The Republican platform favors the passage of Amendment No. Two, and we presume the large mining companies and other large investors in real estate contribute to the Republican campaign fund in order to secure the passage of this Amendment. It looks reasonable to believe that the large mining companies and

By B. C. HAGGLUND

Fascism Gets Setback

Sir Oswald Mosley, the fascist leader of England, wanted to stage a "demonstration" in London a few weeks ago; so, with five thousand of his black shirts, he paraded the streets.

All went well until he reached the Jewish quarter of London. There public indignation, which had been growing steadily, leaped its bounds and poured humanity into the street, in a crowd estimated at almost one hundred thousand people, who surrounded the little fascist "army" and began preparations for annihilating it.

Sir Oswald, bereft of his confidence, called hastily for the London Bobbies, Scotland Yard, the Army, and the Navy. The Bobbies got there first, and the perturbed Oswald asked them to help preserve the peace. After surveying the menacing mob, the Bobbies finally decided that Oswald and his Black Shirts were disturbing the peace. The fascists were advised to disband and go home, which they did.

England is balanced on a hair: in one direction lies fascism, in the other lies greater democracy. Her leaders now seem bent on turning Britain toward naziism (as witness Anthony Eden's overtures to Adolph Hitler); but judging from the above incident, the temper of the people seems to point the opposite direction. It is well said that events in Europe will depend largely upon which way England goes.

Lemke, the Landlord

"Practically everyone in North Dakota knows William Lemke dearly loves the farmers; he says so and whoever heard of a politician who doesn't tell the truth? . . What some of us have not known is Lemke is owner of half a million acres of land in Mexico, 570,000 acres to be precise."—McKenzie County Farmer, Watford City, N. D.

Lemke's 570,000 acres of land in Mexico have got him into lots of trouble in this campaign. It puts him in the same class with William Randolph Hearst, who has considerable silver holdings in Mexico.

Lemke cannot live down his book, "Crime Against Mexico," published in 1915, in which he urged President Wilson to declare war upon Mexico, for various reasons. Hearst had similar ideas at the same time. The fact that their property holdings in our sister republic seemed to be in danger at that time probably had no connection at all with the case. But it looks suspicious.

The Republicans Need Money

To all those who want fascism pretty soon now, less relief, less democratic rights, and more hell all around. Greetings!

John D. M. Hamilton, Republican Chairman, wants contributions. If you are a widow, put in your mite. If an orphan, rob yourself to complete the Republican war fund. The emergency is urgent.

A goal of $8,636,000 for combatting Communism and that American Stalin, Jim Farley (apologies to "Biceps" Macfadden, who originated the idea) was set by Hamilton, but to date only a mere $2,000,000 have been raised. "Those who are complaining loudest are not willing to put their protest against the evils of the New Deal in tangible form", the fight manager complains bitterly. Can conditions be as bad as the Republicans claim they have become under the New Deal, so that even an eight million dollar war chest is impossible? If that is so, things have come to a pretty pass.

Business Forecast

Roger Babson, the gent who makes business curves a career, sees fascism. "The coming national election," he declares, "may be the last one for many years to come." When Roger Babson, whose forecasts have been remarkably prophetic despite his big-business color, makes a statement like that, one sits up and takes notice. When Babson notices fascism, it automatically takes it out of the bogeyman class.

Plummer, Minnesota
October 21, 1936

Editor, Tri-County Forum,
Dear Editor:

Permit me to answer a couple of articles appearing in the columns of your paper, with the following heading, "Along the F-L Front", written by Mr. H. O. Berve.

In one issue, he asks why have we not heard about the Day-Waldal contest, or words to this effect. In the last issue, he again harps upon this same contest, quoting a part of the judge's decision.

I thought that this issue was settled and was as far as I was concerned, but since Mr. Berve insists upon dragging out the dead skeleton, I am forced and willing to go out and defend myself. I felt that there were clean-cut issues in this campaign and that there was no need of using personalities to cover up the issues.

Mr. Berve states in his article. I am quoting his statement: "In his conclusion of law in the same case. Judge Torrance says." This is being unfair to the judge, because the judge or anyone else could not apply law to the judging of the markings of some of the ballots. The judge said in passing upon the markings of some of those ballots that were disputed that he was trying to say how the voter had intended to vote. There was no way of applying the law. It was just a matter of judgment and guess work, as to who the voter had intended to vote for.

Before going any further, let me remind Mr. Berve of a few facts. Certainly Mr. Berve, as an attorney, should realize that the courts didn't have any jurisdiction in unseating me. Let me quote from the constitution of the State of Minnesota: "Each house shall be the judge of the election returns and eligibility of its own members." Of course, the constitution gives certain powers to the legislature. The legislature has passed laws as to elections, etc.; but it has not delegated the power of seating its members to the courts, nor has it given away its power to hear facts in a contest. They recognized this fact when they brought the contest before the House of Representatives.

As you know, I did not present any evidence before the Court in this contest and therefore the judge's decision was a one-sided decision. I did not present the evidence there, because as a poor farmer, I did not have the money to bring in the witnesses and the evidence required. I was an independent candidate and did not have any organization to collect money for me to fight the battle. Mr. Day's friends and the Farmer-Labor organization collected money from its members ranging from one to five dollars apiece. They also collected from state employees. Some of my good friends working for the highway department were forced to contribute money to unseat him, after they had been lifelong friends and voted for me. They did this for fear that they might lose their jobs.

I, therefore, presented evidence before the elections committee of the House of Representatives. Mr. Day was asked to do the same, but he refused to do so. Now, Mr. Berve, you were not present at these hearings and are therefore not qualified to present this contest fairly to the people of the 65th District. I think that it comes with poor grace and judgment for a man of your standing to use this as an issue in this campaign. Now let me further remind you of the fact that my attorney, Mr. Erickson, that contested the ballots in Clearwater County was not even at the court hearing. It was upon these ballots that the contest was mainly settled. Let me also inform you that I could also have brought in people who voted illegally for Mr. Day and I asked the committee for that privilege. I would have brought in evidence to prove that there were many illegal votes cast in behalf of Mr. Day.

I know that Mr. Day is using this contest against me. He came up to Thief River Falls and held a meeting and showed only one side of the contest. Mr. Day is President of the Publishing Company that publishes the "Farmers Independent", a Clearwater County paper. There was published in this paper a reprinted article from the "Minnesota Leader" wherein they said I stole my seat in the legislature, but neither Mr. Day nor the "Farmers Independent" dared to make this statement directly and I dare them to do so.

Now, Mr. Berve, if you and Mr. Day want to make an issue out of this contest, it suits me fine, providing you are willing to give both sides of the contest. There are a lot of things that can be said, some of them too rotten to put in print. If your friend, Mr. Day is willing to enter upon the platform with me for a meeting in each county and lay the facts of this contest before the people, I shall be glad to do so. There are things that I would like to say in this contest that I don't like to say, because it will bring in people whom I do not care to drag into this contest; but if Mr. Day is willing to do so, let him meet me on the platform and I shall do so.

Let me further inform you that the elections committee gave a very close study of the contested ballots. At their first meeting, in considering these ballots, they took an individual vote as to who these ballots, which had been disputed, should be cast for. There were seventeen members on this committee and there were seventeen different opinions. There were men representing both sides on that committee and I am sure they gave a fair and honest consideration of these ballots. This being the case, there is no use to harp upon the judge's decision which was based upon one-sided evidence.

Now, Mr. Berve, let me further remind you of the 1933 contest between Mr. Hilton and LaBissionere. In this contest Mr. LaBissionere got the election certificate. Mr. Hilton brought the contest and was declared elected by the ballot inspectors by 63 votes. This contest was also brought before the Court, but the Court refused to act upon it, feeling it did not have the authority and therefore turned it over to the legislature where it properly belonged. Let me further remind you that the 1933 Legislature was controlled by the group that Mr. Day belonged to. But that group refused to even go into the disputed ballots, stating that there was a possibility that the ballots had been tampered with, but they didn't even try to prove this. In the Day-Waldal contest, it was proven that the ballots had been tampered with. Mr. Day was asked to bring in witnesses to refute this fact. He had friends that were in position to know all the facts in the matter, but he refused to call them in. This was one of the closest contests that was ever brought into the House of Representatives. But even if Mr. Day feels that he did not get a fair deal, which he has no right to think, he is only getting a sample of his own actions in the Hilton-LaBissionere contest. Mr. Day and his crowd voted to retain Mr. LaBissionere after he was declared defeated by 63 votes. Mr. Day was asked why he voted that way and he answered that he had not studied the matter.

Now it has been said that this contest was different and they are holding up a certain mistake. You will recall that there were other mistakes and there no doubt were many mistakes in the Hilton-LaBissionere contest also. There would have been a contest, regardless of this Shevlen Township mistake, and the final result would have been the same.

Now, if you and Mr. Day want to drag this old skeleton out and make an issue of it, let us bring it out in the open and give the people all the facts.

Yours very truly,
MARIUS WALDAL

Oklee, Minn.,
Oct. 19, 1936

To the Editor:

My attention is called to a letter addressed to me which appeared in the columns of your paper and signed by Marius Waldal. May I request space for a reply thru the same channel.

Mr. Waldal is evidently very sore at me because Mr. Williams and other Farmer-Laborites criticize his voting record in the legislature. I haven't criticized his record, and I don't intend to do it now. In my opinion, Mr. Waldal although he voted on all major legislation just exactly opposite to the way I voted, voted right. And so did I. I voted according to the way the people who elected me, the common people of the 65th District wanted me to, and Mr. Waldal voted the way the Republicans who stole Mr. Day's seat and gave to Waldal, wanted him to. So we both served those whose servants we are.

I don't apologize for the Farmer-Labor platform. In fact, I am rather proud of it. It is a good platform and if we can carry it out, it will be of lasting benefit to the people. I haven't been in Russia (probably Waldal has), so I don't know what they practice there. But if placing the tax burden on those who are best able to pay it and get the most benefit from government; if helping the common people keep their homes and make a living, and raising their children and giving them a decent education according to American ideals is communism, I would be willing to go a little more of it.

I am sure Mr. Waldal is right when he says that people want to hear both sides of the story and I am holding meetings every day telling them my side of the story. If Waldal isn't doing that, he should not blame me. I don't go to Mr. Waldal's metings because I am too busy with my own, but if Mr. Waldal wants to come to my meetings, he is more than welcome.

Editor, Forum:—

Landon has now endorsed the dole system and "permanent jobless" theory of Roosevelt as well as endorsed the farm program of Roosevelt "parity of agriculture with industry," while both have been going broke except monopoly and the Internationalists who have now got about all there is. Therefore the Democrats had to make the next "get-to-gether" move, and Monday, Oct. 12, Roosevelt went on the gold standard again and grains lost from 1 to 7 cents every day all week, but the "money changers" demanded it.

This evening the Democratic Committee went back to their stock weapon, "He kept us out of War," only they changed it enough to use the present tense of the verb, so now it is Hearst's next move to come out for "Peace" and it will be the peace of 1917 in either case, but we have now the Union Party's candidate to vote for, and the FIRST plank in his platform is: "America shall be self-contained and self-sustained—No foreign entanglements, be they political, economic, financial or military."

All this was not enough, so they had to get together in State issues too, in order to try to elect this man Martin Nelson for governor since he advocated mob-rule which the "Solid South" generally likes. This was done by withdrawing the Democratic candidates for governor and senator so as to force these conservative Democrats who voted their own ticket in 1934 to vote for Nelson and Christianson last election because the liberal Democrats voted with us, and naturally had a cinch on the State Ticket now, so they were afraid and grasped at this straw, figuring this 72,000 plurality could be wiped out by the 177,000 regular Democrats going over to Nelson and Christianson. However, the trick was so mean that I feel sure most of these conservative Democrats will resent it, and not go to the Republicans.

We now have a chance to elect Lundeen to the Senate and thus be sure that the common folks' interests will have a 100 per cent aid from him.

We also have a splendid chance to elect Benson governor and all the F.-L. candidates who have always been with the people as against the International crowd or "Big Business".

Being that we have so big a plurality here I trust our real Farmer-Laborites will back Lemke and the Union party, and not be scared to vote for either of the old parties just because they try to make you believe one is better than the other. A vote for Lemke will do more for the common man than 40 million for either Landon or Roosevelt. Don't be a piker.

Dear Editor of the Forum:

Contrary to Republican music, if the republican LANDON held office at present and the dollar would have been again revalued, we would have had a triple import of all farm products. Is not the howl that the dollar is devalued another one that we are getting too many imports? Do we have to have horse sense to see that the higher the dollar the more imports from foreign countries of foreign products? What we farmers and laborers need is the passing of the Frazier-Lemke Bill, regardless of the Republican music about sound money. The sounder and the higher the value of the dollar the more imports. Do you remember selling oats at 12c under Hoover's administration? If this same administration without this drought would have been existing today we would certainly see the difference in low prices for farm products. There may be much to criticize under the present administration, but, let us remember the Republicans have never kept their promises to the farmer before. So why should we farmers look for something different this year? Think twice before indorsing LANDON. How about Lemke? Lemke and Roosevelt before any man with high rate gold bag to protect! We poor farmers are only interested in three square meals and a lunch when we work 24 hours a shift. We seldom have a neighbor who has any money to worry about, and if there should be let him take care of himself. That is what you and I, dear voter, will have to do regardless of how the vote tallies this fall. But think twice before indorsing Landon, Nov. 3, next.

Sincerely yours,
AXEL BURMAN.

(P. S. I have voted the Republican ticket except 1916 and 1932. I am no Communist and no Socialist. I believe in the Third Party, and I will vote it this year.)

Long Record of Liberal Acts Is Held By Lindsten

LIEUT.-GOV. CANDIDATE ON F.-L. TICKET REAL PROGRESSIVE

Gottfrid T. Lindsten, Farmer Labor candidate for lieutenant governor, has had a career closely connected with state legislative affairs. As lieutenant governor presiding over the state senate he would assure Minnesotans of capable, progressive conduct of matters pertaining to their best interests.

The forward thinking of Mr. Lindsten is aptly displayed by his record as a member of the Minnesota Crime Commission. At a time when the press and organizations were demanding that crime be "stamped out," Gottfrid Lindsten told the simple truth that if crime was to be successfully combatted, economic conditions, which were directly responsible for the deplored crime wave, must be corrected.

It is the same type of leadership in progressive thinking that caused Mr. Lindsten to be honored by the people of his ward in Minneapolis, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, federal officials, and numerous other groups who have elected and appointed him to high positions of responsibility. He began his public career in 1921 when he was elected to the Minneapolis City Council from his ward.

In 1922 he was indorsed for lieutenant governor by the Non-Partisan league and by the Working peoples Political League on the Farmer-Labor ticket, but declined because of his councilmanic incumbency. Mr. Lindsten has been legislative representative for the Minneapolis City Council and the Railroad Brotherhood at various times over a period of years.

Due to his intimate knowledge of state labor conditions, he was appointed during a special emergency period Assistant State Labor Director of the Works Progress Administration and devised a grievances appeal system for W. P. A. workers, one of the first such systems proposed in the nation. He was mainly instrumental in establishing the Minneapolis City Planning Board, which has proven of great service to the city.

PETERSON FAMOUS FOR MORTGAGE MORATORIUM LAW HE DREW, DEFENDED

Although best known throughout the state and nation for his successful defense of the mortgage moratorium law, which he drafted, Attorney-General Harry H. Peterson, who is a candidate for re-election on the Farmer-Labor ticket on his record of achievements has been identified with other outstanding legislation.

The four years that Harry Peterson has served as attorney general have been among the most important in the history of the state—years in which emergency measure after emergency measure was considered and adopted to meet with the difficult situations resulting from the depression.

But Harry Peterson and his staff of assistants were capable of every situation. They worked hard and long during legislative sessions aiding legislators in the drafting of measures.

Mr. Peterson successfully defended the state income tax law and the homestead preferential tax laws, in addition to the famous mortgage moratorium law. At present he is defending the chain store tax law. More than 6,000 opinions have been written by Mr. Peterson and staff during the height of the depression. The homestead tax exemption law reduced taxes for home owners by nearly $9,000,000 per year, while the chain store tax is designed to curtail unfair competition by large organizations with independent merchants, in addition to keeping nearly $1,000,0000 in taxes annually derived from the chains in Minnesota, instead of going to the large eastern operators.

Rasmussen Tells of Budget

Editor's Note:—The following article is the second and concluding installment of the radio speech given Sept. 24th by Paul Rasmussen, state budget commissioner, in which he explains the financial condition of the state, a matter of much concern to every voter in Minnesota at this time. Anyone wishing a copy of the first installment may obtain a copy of last week's Forum.

The Rural Credit department started going into the red in 1926 and it was only because of Republican politics and control that this extravagant use of state funds was tolerated. The scandal associated with the technique used by the secretary of the Rural Credit board in insuring farm buildings became so corrupt that it became necessary for the strong hand of the law to step in, make an arrest, a conviction, and place behind the bars a state employee in the Rural Credit department who was responsible for such irregularities under the Republican regime.

The farmers pay 5 1-4 per cent interest on their Rural Credit loans and the bond holders receive and average of 14.1 per cent. The difference between the interest which the farmers pay and what the bondholders receive is 1.15 per cent, and this amount goes into a maintenance fund which is used to operate the Rural Credit department.

By 1930, the depression hadn't hit very hard as yet, and the farmers were better able to pay their interest, consequently an $800,000 surplus had been created in the Rural Credit maintenance fund. In the Rural Credit reserve and interest funds the department, however, started losing money in 1926. It may be of interest to my audience to know that during 1930, the Theodore Christianson- Floyd Olson campaign year, $600,000 of this $800,000 surplus was spent by the Theodore Christianson administration in improving these farms. During this one year more money was spent on a Rural Credit farm building renovoting program than was spent during the entire three preceding years, and more than has been spent during the entire five years since 1930. I wish it were possible to take every taxpayer in the state and give them a record of the amount of money spent on the various farms and let them go out on these farms and determine for themselves if dollars were used or misused.

NON-CALLABLE BONDS

From a taxpayer's point of view, one of the most serious factors associated with the entire Rural Credit setup is the fact that the Rural Credit bonds are non-callable; that is, they cannot be paid or refinanced before they are due. There are $58,000,000 of such Rural Credit bonds, and some of these bonds do not mature until 1954.

These bonds carry an average interest rate of 4.1 per cent. The big financial interests, knowing the solidarity of Minnesota's credit, wrote their own ticket when the Rural Credit bonds were issued and saw to it that these bonds were non-callable. If on the other hand these bonds could be called prior to their maturity, the entire issue of 58 million dollars could have been refinanced six months ago at a rate of two percent. Such a policy would have made possible an annual saving for the Minnesota taxpayer of two percent on $58,000,000, or $1,160,000.

An annual saving of $1,160,000 on interest alone until 1954, making allowance for the fact that some of the bonds will mature in the meantime, would, however, result in a total saving of over 15 million dollars. I know it is very convenient for the large financial syndicates to have non-callable long term 4.1 per cent bonds, but, ladies and gentlemen, it is our purpose as representatives of the taxpayers of Minnesota to protect their interests and not accomodate the parasitical requirements of high finance.

I can almost hear some of the plutocrats who understand the technique of financial exploitation say that I should keep in mind that non-callable bonds carry a lower interest rate than callable bonds. That is exactly the issue. Four-and-one-tenth percent for the State of Minnesota to pay for bonds, some of them extending from 1923 to 1954, is altogether too high an interest rate.

In this connection I wish to advise my audience that from 75 to 80 per cent of corporate bonds are callable at the will of the company issuing them. The corporation sees to it that it doesn't pay high interest rates one day longer than is necessary. Most Federal bonds now being issued are callable thus making it possible to refinance them at lower rates of interest from time to time.

G. O. P. BUYING SPREE

The most conspicuous case of mismanagement and extravagance in the annals of Minnesota's history occurred when the Theodore Christianson administration, by means of the Rural Credit law, went on a buying spree at the taxpayer's expense, and relieved the capitalists of their poor farm mortgages.

In addition to the 65 million dollars of Rural Credit bonds and certificates of indebtedness, $4,606,354.15 of Rural Credit tax levy certificates have been issued. These tax levy certificates have all been redeemed by taxation. In plain words, the Rural Credit law in 1923 was the method employed by the Republican administration to accomodate the big financial institutions in liquidating the farm mortgages they were holding.

The financial institutions found themselves in a somewhat embarrassing position due to the fact that they had made loans on the basis of inflated land values because of the War, and the Republican administration during the years 1923 and 1930 very generously took the burden off the shoulders of the plutocrats and saddled these poor investments on the backs of Minnesota taxpayers.

The tragedy of this entire Rural Credit debt responsibility is very real, and the taxpayers won't be able to be relieved of this burden until 1954. The Rural Credit experience alone destroys any confidence people might have in Theodore Christianson and it causes all thinking people to refuse to turn over the affairs of the State of Minnesota to a Republican administration.

BONDS

An analysis of the $124,345,683.93 of state bonds shows that $110,844,769.93 of these bonds are self-liquidating. That is, they will be paid out of the receipts from the gasoline tax, motor vehicle tax, sale of Rural Credit land, and cashing the state-owned municipal bonds. This leaves $13,500,914 of state bonds to be redeemed thru tax levies.

At the close of the fiscal year on June 30, 1936, we made an analysis of the state bonds as follows: The total bonds outstanding —$125,808,288.21. The various trust funds of the state held $40,672,834.83 of these bonds; $85,135,453.38 of state bands were in private hands; $78,396,453.38 of the amount held privately were self-liquidating, leaving $6,739,000 of the privately owned state bonds to be retired by taxation. There was on hand in sinking funds $76,399.91, leaving a net state debt of bonds in private hands retirable from future taxation amounting to $6,662,600.09.

From a taxpayer's point of view the only serious problem in the state's financial structure is associated with the Republican's experiment in Rural Credit extravagance and waste. At least 30 million dollars of the taxpayer's credit was squandered between 1923 and 1930 because of the Rural Credit law.

COST OF GOVERNMENT

The permanent trust funds of the state have increased $11,488,264.30 since June 30, 1930. The income from the state's trust funds is used principally for aiding the state's educational institutions.

Occasionally we are forced to listen to Republican candidates indulging in vague generalities as to the actual cost of running the state government. A comparative statement of appropriations from the general revenue fund by the last four successive legislatures shows exactly what money has been available for administrative purposes. The state departments received in 1929, $8,672,870; 1931, $8,971,780.52; in 1933, $6,796,985.43; and in 1935, $7,614,568.89. The total appropriations from the General Revenue Fund for the entire legislative classification of appropriation bills for the past four bienniums is as follows: 1929, $42,518,782; 1931, $44,028,320.58; 1933, $37,242,000.85; 1935, $44,384,997.74. The 1935 appropriation included $2,750,000 allotted to the Old Age Assistance Division. You will notice that the appropriation in 1933, when the Liberals organized the House, was five million dollars less than it was during any other biennium of the last eight years.

From the facts I have used in my address this evening, my audience can understand and appreciate how conscientious the Farmer-Labor administration has been during the past six years in using the taxpayer's dollars.

We are giving these facts to the voters of the state at this early date in order that there may be ample time for anyone interested to make a critical analysis of any and all statistics used between now and election day. It is our purpose to give the voters the actual facts and let them come to their own conclusions.

A brief survey of the past six years of Farmer-Labor administration reveals some outstanding accomplishments. It has been the purpose of the Farmer-Labor administration to serve the farmer, the laboring man, the independent merchant, the professional man, and the mother in the home who buys the groceries. Let me enumerate a few of the Farmer-Labor accomplishments:

The Mortgage Moratorium Law, where the Farmer-Labor Attorney-General, Harry Peterson successfully carried the cause of the Minnesota farmer through the Supreme Court of the United States.

The Homestead Exemption law, which substantially reduced the taxes on both homes and farms.

The Old Age Assistance Law, which helps a little but is far from sufficient. The Unemployment Compensation law forcefully recommended by that great exponent of needed social legislation, the late Hon. Floyd B. Olson. The Farmer-Labor Income Tax Law, which has materially augmented our educational funds.

Extensive highway construction and grade crossing separations benefitting our entire citizenry.

Prevented the sales tax from becoming law, and constantly reminded the legislature that the mining companies are not paying their fair share of state taxes.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR ADELINE LINDBERG

Miss Adeline Lindberg was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given for her by Miss Ruth Bredeson Friday evening. The guests present were the Misses Helen and Ruth Wassgren, Margaret Stadum, Bernice Granum, Marion Erickson, Dolores and Verona Urdahl, Agnes Haug, Violet Rhodegaard, and Mrs. Alvin Christofferson. The evening was spent in playing Chinese Chess, and a late lunch was served. Miss Lindberg received many lovely gifts.

ENTERTAINS AT BRIDGE PARTY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Arnold was the scene of a small bridge party Saturday evening. The guests present included Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rasmussen, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Wheeler, Miss Katherine Ellis, and Gorman Thompson. Two tables of bridge were played, and at midnight Mrs. Arnold served lunch.

HILDA VRAA AND ARTHUR LUFKIN WED

Miss Hilda Vraa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gunder Vraa of Climax, Minn., and Arthur Lufkin, son of Fred Lufkin of 712 Main Avenue in this city, were united in holy matrimony last Wednesday, Oct. 14. The wedding took place at the home of Rev. Moen in Crookston at high noon.

Miss Vraa is a graduate of the Climax high school, and the St. Luke's Nursing School at Fargo, and had been employed at both the St. Luke's and the Physician's hospitals in this city for some time. Arthur Lufkin is a graduate of the Lincoln high school in this city, graduating in 1928. He is employed as a state patrolman of the Minnesota highway commission.

The bridal couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Orlanda Wold of Climax, sister and brother-in-law of the bride. The bride wore a street-length dress of brown crepe with gold accessories, and carried a bouquet of talisman roses. The bridesmaid wore a rust colored silk street dress with gold accessories, and carried a bouquet of roses and snapdragons. The men were attired in conventional dress.

After the wedding a 4 o'clock wedding dinner was given at the home of the bride's parents in Climax. About 30 guests were present at the candle-light dinner. The decorations were all in pink and yellow, and a beautiful wedding cake adorned the center of the table.

The newly wedded couple went on a trip which took them through Crookston, Bemidji, and then International Falls, where they will make their home. They were expected to return Monday from their trip.

STOLEN HEIFER SAVED

Frank Crume's heifer might have been hamburger now if it hadn't been for Sheriff Rosco S. Brown. Crume, farmer residing near Glyndon, reported to the sheriff that his young heifer had been stolen. The sheriff had a hunch. He took Crume to the West Fargo packing plant of Armour and Company, looked over the herd of cattle and there was Crume's bossy. The thief had been paid $25.50 for the 650-pound animal. Now they're looking for him.

COMMISSION APPROVES 11-DAY DEER SEASON

An 11-day deer season for 16 northern Minnesota counties and parts of four others was designated by the state Conservation Commission at its regular meeting last week. The deer season will be open from Nov. 15 to Nov. 25 inclusive.

At the same time the Commission asked Governor Petersen to issue an executive order providing for an 11-day bear season from Nov. 15 to Nov. 25 in all counties having a deer season. The Commission also requested Governor Petersen to eliminate the statutory bear season which extends from April 15 to May 15.

Fawns are not included in the deer season and will remain protected in all counties. The deer season will be fully open in Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Roseau, Lake, Cook, St. Louis, Beltrami, Hubbard, Cass, Clearwater, Itasca, Crow Wing, Aitkin, Kanabec, Pine, and Carlton counties. Deer may also be taken in Becker county, east of the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault St. Marie railroad; in Marshall and Kittson counties, east of the old Pembina trail, and in Mille Lacs county north of the Great Northern railroad through Milaca.

The Squirrel season will be open from October 15 to January 1, with a daily limit of seven and 14 permitted in possession. Raccoon may be taken from November 10 to December 1; mink from November 1 to February 15; and skunk from October 20 to May 1.

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of Minnesota

To be submitted at 1936 General Election

STATE OF MINNESOTA,
LEGAL DEPARTMENT

HARRY H. PETERSON
Attorney General

St. Paul, Minnesota, April 29, 1936

Honorable Mike Holm,
Secretary of State,

Dear Sir:

In compliance with the provisions of Section 46 of Mason's Minnesota Statutes of 1927, I herewith furnish you a statement of the purpose and effect of all proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota, which are to be submitted to the electors of said state at the general election in 1936, in accordance with certain acts adopted by the 1935 legislature.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 1.

By the adoption of Chapter 393 of the Laws of 1935 the legislature has proposed an amendment to Article 8 of the State Constitution. The proposed amendment, if adopted, will not alter the form of any existing section of the Constitution, but will add a new section to be known as Section 8 of said Article 8.

The proposed amendment reads as follows:

"Any of the public lands of the state, including lands held in trust for any purpose, may, with the approval of a commission consisting of the governor, the attorney general and the state auditor, be exchanged for lands of the United States and other privately owned lands as the legislature may provide, and the lands so acquired shall be subject to the trust, if any, to which the lands exchanged therefor were subject, and the state shall reserve all mineral and water and water power rights in lands so transferred by the state."

The Purpose and Effect of the Proposed Amendment.

The purpose and effect of this proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to provide for exchanging any of the public lands of the state for lands of the United States and land privately owned, such exchanges to be made with the approval of a commission consisting of the governor, the attorney general and the state auditor. Such exchanges of land cannot now be made because the State Constitution does not permit the legislature to authorize the sale of school lands, state swamp lands and state internal improvement lands except by public sale. One immediate purpose in granting such authority is to make it possible for the state to acquire compact areas of land for forestry and other conservation purposes by exchanging land outside of such conservation areas for lands of the United States and privately owned lands within such areas.

The proposed amendment requires that all mineral rights, water rights and water power rights in lands so transferred by the state shall be reserved. The land so acquired will become subject to the same trust, if any, as the land disposed of. For example, if school land is given in exchange, the land received will become school land.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2.

By the adoption of Chapter 394 of the Laws of 1935, the legislature proposed an amendment to Section 1 of Article 9 of the State Constitution.

This section now reads as follows:

"The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200, for each household, individual or head of a family, and household goods and farm machinery, as the legislature may determine:

"Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads."

If amended as proposed by the legislature, this section will read as follows:

"The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, and public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200.00 for each household, individual or head of a family, and household goods and farm machinery, as the legislature may determine:

"Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads.

"Provided further, that after January 1, 1937, no tax shall be imposed on any real or tangible personal property for any state purpose, except that authorized by Section 16 of Article 9 of this Constitution, and/or for the payment of indebtedness of the state incurred prior to January 1, 1937; but this proviso shall not limit, but the state shall have, the right to impose taxes upon royalties, occupations, sales, receipts, incomes, inheritances, gifts, privileges, franchises, or licenses, or upon property on the basis of gross earnings or tonnage, or upon intangibles of every kind."

The Purpose and Effect of the Proposed Amendment.

The purpose and effect of the proposed amendment is to prohibit the imposition of any taxes on real or tangible personal property after January 1, 1937 for any state purpose, except as hereinafter stated, without limiting the right of the state to impose taxes upon royalties, occupations, sales, receipts, incomes, inheritances, gifts, privileges, franchises, or licenses, or upon property on the basis of gross earnings or tonnage, or upon intangibles of every kind, said proposed amendment declaring that the state shall have the right to impose such taxes.

If the said amendment is adopted the state will retain the right to impose taxes on real or tangible personal property for either or both of the following purposes:

(1) To provide funds to be used to construct or improve roads and bridges in this state, as authorized by Section 16 of Article 9 of the State Constitution, for which purpose, under Section 16 of said Article 9, the legislature in its discretion is authorized to provide for an annual tax levy upon the property of this state, of not to exceed in any year one mill on all the taxable property within the state; and

(2) To raise money to pay indebtedness of the state incurred prior to January, 1 1937.

Respectfully yours,
HARRY H. PETERSON,
Attorney General.

CAPITOL NEWS REVIEW

an excoriation of President Roosevelt and the Farmer-Labor party, and departed, leaving Republicans here gnashing their teeth because the thing was done too raw for public consumption. . .

Reed never was charged with taking the truth too seriously, like the Hearst editor, he believes that the truth should never interfere with the story. Among other things, he said: "Lundeen (Congressman Ernest Lundeen) voted and consistently refused appropriations for ammunition, food and supplies to sustain the American boys who were battling upon the fields of France during the World War.". . .

It is true that Congressman Lundeen was one of those courageous men who voted against the war, but once war was declared he did not stand in the way of its successful prosecution. . .

Ernest was not in the city when Reed delivered his harangue, but his brother Dave was. He sent Reed the following telegram while the Missouri Senator was still on the platform. The telegram read: "As a World War veteran and brother of Ernest Lundeen, I demand a public apilogy of your base falsehood that Ernest Lundeen voted against the appropriations during the World War. Ernest Lundeen fought for the World War veteran during the war and after the war as no other man in Congress. When did you serve your country in time of war? And what gives you the right to question the loyalty of a man who offered his life for his country in time of war?". . .

Reed did not answer. . .

After the speech, some of the Republican leaders were quite nervous. They told Reed his remarks about Lundeen were in error. But Reed never detracts, nor does he apologize. He did not in this case.

Efforts were made to have that part of Reed's speech deleted in the newspaper reports. Hysterical voices called busy (maybe drowsy) city editors. But it was too late. The speech had been sent in in advance of its delivery and had already been printed. The milk was spilt, and there was no use crying in public over it. The best was made of a very bad situation.

The Republicans have adopted a most unique method of campaigning against Senator Benson. When they address a group of plutocrats it is Communist Benson; when it is a group of working people it is Banker Benson. Benson is both a capitalist and a communist at the same time.

A writer in the New York Post proves that Governor Landon is, after all, a communist, and that he and his fellow Kansan, Browder, are two comrades with but a single mind and purpose. After proving his case with apparent logic he asks: "Silly? Of course silly, but no more silly than the charge that Roosevelt is a communist."

The enthusisatic welcome extended President Roosevelt upon his brief visit to the Twin Cities was one of the highlights of the president's campaign tour to date. Fully 400,000 persons saw him at one point or another during his drive through the two cities and at the state capitol, where he spoke to more than 50,000 from a platform on the front steps. The President paid high tribute to the memory of Floyd B. Olson and spoke briefly on the need for world peace.

"Literally millions of dollars have been saved for the taxpayers of Minnesota by the state highway department in taking over 4,500 miles of county roads," N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner, declared this week. He pointed out that these roads formerly were supported in a large measure by local taxation. The highway department, he said, now administers, a system of 11,340 miles with less funds than were previously spent on only 6,700 miles.

the large investors in real estate may be contributing financially to the Republican party that favors the passage of this amendment which will relieve the mining companies and large investors of millions of dollars in taxes.

Just to show what is going on in other states, we want to quote from one of the leading national magazines, namely: The magazine "Time" for September 21, 1936, showing some of the campaign contributions that were made to the Republican party in the State of Maine during the campaign this fall. We take the following statements which are given in the magazine "Time", viz:

P. S. DuPont	$5000.00
Lamount DuPont	5000.00
Irenee DuPont	5100.00
Henry B. DuPont	2500.00
A. Felix DuPont	5000.00
Total for the DuPont family	$22600.00
John D. Rockefeller	$5000.00
John D. Rockefeller, Jr.	5000.00
Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr.	3000.00
Avery Rockefeller	8000.00
Total for Rockefellers	$21000.00
J. Pierpont Morgan	$5000.00
Alfred P. Sloan, Jr.	5000.00
A. Atwater Kent	1000.00

From the foregoing campaign contributions to the Republican party in Maine, it seems that the millionaires of this country have taken a special liking to the Republican party. If the DuPonts, and the Rockefellers, the Morgans, the Sloans and the Kents contribute so heavily to the Republican Campaign fund in the State of Maine, it is quite certain that they will be even more likely to contribute liberally to the Republican party in Minnesota in order to defeat the Farmer-Labor party. We can only guess at the exact amount that they contribute in this state, but we feel confident that the Republican party is not going to suffer from any shortage of funds in this campaign.

We say that the Republican party favors the passage of Amendment No. Two. In order to prove this, we want to quote from the Republican party platform to show what they say about Amendment No. Two. In the Republican platform in the paragraph on taxation, we find the following statement:

"We favor the elimination at the earliest possible moment of the state levy on real and personal property."

That is the purpose of Amendment No. Two-to take the state levy on real and personal property, and according to their own platform, the Republican party therefor stands committed to the passage of Amendment No. Two. The Republicans hate to admit that they are for the passage of Amendment No. Two, but after all, the Republican party's position is stated in its own platform, and Martin Nelson's photograph appears on the front page of the platform, so we take it to be a correct statement of Martin Nelson's position on this question. Martin Nelson does not like to admit this, but the fact is, that the leading Republicans of the state that control the party are also in favor of a sales tax to take the place of the revenues that will be lost in the passage of Amendment No. Two. The Republican party leaders will have to make up in some way for the loss of revenue, and their net scheme has always been a passage of a sales tax. So if Amendment No. Two passes, and if the Republicans are in control, we can be quite certain that we are going to have a sales tax in the State of Minnesota.

After all, Ted made a nice speech of generalities. He had many criticisms to make, but he never got down to brass tacks so as to show what he really thought should be done. Ted is a smooth, comfortable, natural-born aristocrat. He likes the people's vote on election day and would like to fool them with his generalities and with his wild cry of Socialism and Communism. Ted would no doubt like to have the votes of Socialists and Communists. After election day however, Ted forgets his friends and supporters quite readily.

Some of the voters may have forgotten, but it is a well known fact that many years ago, Ted was afflicted with a severe case of shivers whenever the Communists or Socialists were mentioned. In 1917 and 1918, he suffered so badly from this fear, that in the session of legislature of 1919 he was the author of a law called the Sedition Act, known as Chapter 93 of the Laws of Minnesota for the Year 1919. This law was passed by the Minnesota Legislature at the request of Theodore Christianson after the war was over. At that time Ted was one of the super-patriots of the State of Minnesota. He supported the crowd of super-patriots that loved to browbeat our Germans, Swedes and Norwegians during the war. He was so excited with the war hysteria that even then, after the war was over, he introduced and secured the passage of the so-called Sedition Bill, Chapter 93 of the Laws of Minnesota, to choke off free speech. We would invite every voter to read Chapter 93 and see just how Theodore Christianson thought back in 1919. The fact of the matter is that after Christianson secured the passage of Chapter 93, it is practically impossible to criticize the United States Government in time of war. If you say the least bit against the government, you are liable to be called seditious and disloyal, and in this law, Chapter 93, the punishment is made a $10,000.00 fine or imprisonment for not more than twenty years or both. Free speech is quite effectively choked off in Minnesota during times of war.

Theodore Christianson is not saying anything about this law, while he is campaigning around the state today. He is not proud of this war baby. Christianson today would like to have the Swedes, the Germans and the Norwegians froget the way they were treated in the State of Minnesota during the war by super-patriots like himself and others.

The Farmer-Labor party is opposed to war. Make no mistakes about that. The Farmer-Labor party stands for peace among the nations. Ted Christianson and the Republicans are at liberty to go out and make the most of this. We are opposed to compulsory military training in our state university. We believe in neutrality in war and in conscription of large wealth as well as of man power if war is forced upon us. We believe in free speech. Ted Christianson, it appears, does not believe in free speech, and does not believe in criticism of the government. That is why he secured the passage of Chapter 93 of the Laws of Minnesota for the Year 1919.

By the way, when it comes to state indebtedness, let us remember that Theodore Christianson was the author of the amendment to our State Constitution which made the Rural Credits law possible. The Rural Credits law was passed by a Republican legislature of which Christianson was a leading member, and during the first six or seven years, it was administered by a Republican administration. Whatever debts have been created by the Rural Credits department date back to Theodore Christianson and the Republican administration.

We notice in the daily papers that Martin Nelson, the Republican candidate for Governor is beginning to adopt the Farmer-Labor platform. He has now joined the Farmer-Labor party and has come out in opposition to a sales tax. He is in favor of an increase in income, inheritance, gift, utility and corporation taxes. This is the Farmer-Labor program. The Farmer-Labor party and Elmer A. Benson have advocated this all the time. The public sentiment at last seems to have forced Martin Nelson to adopt the Farmer-Labor platform, but the Republican leaders who control the party and who control Martin Nelson will still try to force a sales tax on the people of Minnesota if Martin Nelson should be elected. So there is joy in the ranks of the Farmer-Laborites, for Martin Nelson, the Republican candidate for Governor, has seen the light, and has repented at last, and adopted the Farmer-Labor principles and program.

Farmer-Labor Party Presents Constructive Program; Republicans Create Smoke Screen

REPUBLICANS DECLINE TO STATE POSITION; PLAN A SALES TAX

REACTIONARIES AGAINST SOCIAL SECURITY

Having failed to produce a constructive program to meet the social and economic needs of the people and refusing to divulge their secret tax program to aid the wealthy, the Republican party of Minnesota has created a smoke-screen issue on taxes.

Candidates of the Republican party are attempting to confuse the voters by cries of extravagance on the part of the Farmer-Labor administration. They conceal from the voters the important fact that every item of state expenditure of the past two years was approved by a legislature controlled by the Republicans in both the Senate and the House.

Their entire campaign has been grounded in dishonesty. They talk constantly about an increase in the millage tax rate, when they know that a mill today will raise in revenue only a very small fraction of what a mill raised in revenue six years ago. They refuse to say what appropriations for the various state departments have been because when they do it will be very plain to the voters that the state under the Olson administration operated for less than it did under the Republican "economy" Governor Theodore Christianson.

CHARGE INSINCERITY

Farmer-Laborites charged the Republicans with insincerity when they professed liberalism in their 1936 platform. That platform in effect says that the Republicans have been converted to the liberal policies of the Farmer-Labor party as pertaining to old age pensions, unemployment insurance, relief, widows' pensions, and social security generally — measures which the reactionaries fought tooth and nail.

That charge against the Republicans has now been conclusively proven. Both Martin A. Nelson and Governor Landon have in effect said that they were fooling when they expressed themselves in favor of social serurity.

The entire camouflage tax issue raised by the Republicans in this campaign has had only one purpose and that is to defeat all efforts on the part of liberals to aid those in need. The Republicans are always opposed—and their entire philosophy of government is opposed—to helping our citizens in need of relief, whether that need is the result of their own action or the result of a breakdown in the economic system.

OPPOSE SOCIAL SECURITY

Republican opposition to social security is the same as has been their opposition to all measures intended to help the farmer and the city worker. The Republicans have failed to present a single issue in this campaign. They have only one program and that is a program to aid the Steel Trust and the wealthy, and to slap a sales tax upon the home-owner, the farmer, and the great masses of the people. The prog[illegible] they are keeping a secret [illegible] date for [illegible] says that he does not have to tell the people [illegible] he proposes to reduce taxes. The reason is that he does not propose to reduce their taxes but only the taxes of the wealthy gang which owns the Republican party.

The Farmer Labor party comes before the people with a definite program. That program includes tax revision in the interest of the home owner and farmer which already started with the Hofestead Preferential law, put over by Governor Olson. It proposes to bring complete tax relief to the home owner and farmer through a tax upon wealth, which includes an increase in the monies and credits tax, increase in steel trust taxes, increase in inheritance taxes, corporation excess tax and the like. The Republicans defeated this program of the Farmer Labor party in the last legislature. HAD THEY APPROVED IT MR. HOME OWNER AND MR. FARMER, YOUR TAX PROBLEM WOULD BE SOLVED COMPLETELY.

PROGRAM CAN RAISE $28,000,000

This special program of the Farmer Labor party, according to tax experts, can raise $28,000,000 a year in taxes, which, used as a replacement tax, would completely wipe out the tax you pay on your home and farm. No sales tax would be needed to take more money from you out of one pocket and you would save from the other pocket, as the Republican party proposed to do.

The Farmer Labor program includes also support of the Frazier Lemke bill; guarantee to the farmer of cost of production; adequate old age pensions; unemployment insurance; an increase in the chain store tax to protect independent merchants; a civil service law for all state employes; a program to aid youth; continuance of state aid to schools in full; recognition of the right of collective bargaining for labor and other such forward looking measures. The Farmer Labor party comes to the voter with a record of accomplishments achieved by our late great Governor Olson, despite the fact that he was handicapped by a reactionary Republican legislature which fought every progressive measure he proposed with the utmost bitterness. This record of the Farmer Labor party includes:

F-L Progressive Record

The Homestead Tax Law, which lowers the tax levy on farms and homesteads by 20 per cent.

The Mortgage Moratorium Law, the first passed in the United States which established the principle that the common welfare supersedes property rights. This law has been used as a model for other progressive states.

The Old Age Assistance Law.

A statutory Income Tax Law, which is a replacement tax and levied in accordance with ability to pay.

A Relief Bill which, coupled with federal funds, saved thousands from destitution.

Increased aid to schools which made it possible for children of the poor to receive the same educational advantages as children of the wealthy and which [illegible]cal taxation.

Aid to high school and college students.

Pensions for the blind.

A chain store tax to aid the independent merchant in competition with chain stores.

Levy on oleomargarine, to protect the state's great dairy industry.

Legal regulation of the sale of state timber which broke up the monopoly held by powerful timber interests.

A conservation act which unifies all conservation functions of the state government into one department.

A college aid program for youth which has since been adopted by the federal government into what is now known as the National Youth Administration.

A block of laws to equalize educational opportunities for children in all parts of our state.

A record in the Highway Department which shows that more miles of concrete paving and more miles of road gravelled in six years of Farmer Labor administration than in the entire period of 61 years of Republican rule.

The Farmer Labor party comes before the voters not only with a record of achievement but with a complete and well thought out program for the future. The Republican party has failed to produce even a semblance of a program.

How To Reduce Varicose Veins

Rub Gently Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first-class drug store and apply it night and morning, as directed you should quickly notice an improvement. Continue to apply Emerald Oil until the veins and bunches are reduced.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful penetrator and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic sores and ulcers are often entirely healed. It has brought much comfort to worried people all over the country.

CURBSTONE BANKING SOLVES PARKING PROBLEM

Customers of the Central Savings Bank & Trust Company, Denver make deposits, draw checks, converse with the teller over a two-way telephone and see the whole transaction through a periscope, all contained in this sidewalk device in front of the bank.

MIDDLE RIVER

Mrs. B. O. Sathre has been quite ill the past two weeks, confined to her bed.

Lloyd Anderso nhas been helping out in Rem's place part time while Rem is devoting considerable time to uhnting.

John Neima attended a convention of Chrysler car dealers in Minneapolis last week. The co-operative store sells the Chrysler and Plymouth cars.

Miss Blanche Peterson, who is a business college student in Grand Forks, was home for the week end and was accompanied by Ruth Elda Loveld.

Mrs. Risberg has recently put in an up-to-date cabinet radio in her dining coach in place of the small one heretofore used, thus adding to the pleasure of her patrons.

George Wappula left October 5th for a visit at Hancock, Mich., and at this writing has not yet returned. His place in the Co-op. store is being filled by Raymond Maijaila.

Mrs. Harry Erickson and son of Ranier, came Saturday to visit her mother, Mrs. A. C. Breese. Sunday Mrs. Erickson and her mother went to Viking and visited two of the former Breese girls, now married and living at Viking.

Mr. Huertson Sr., an old timer in Rollis township, was in town Saturday. He is retiring from his Rollis farm and moving to Roseau where he has bought a home. The farm will be carried on by his sons.

The Campbell show company, who completed their engagement here Saturday night, drove out to John Thielings, 30 miles east of here to spend Sunday, and did not pack up and leave here until Monday. The Campbells are related to the Thielings. Campbells will be here again, November 13 and 14.

Harry Cook left last Friday to visit his parents in Waterloo, Iowa for a few days. He rode to the Twin Cities in one of Sorter's trucks which was transporting a load of cattle for market. He expects to remain with his parents about a week and on his return will make a stop at Wheaton where he lived before coming to this community.

Mrs. Henry Dau returned Wednesday of last week after having attended the funeral of her father at Council Bluffs, Iowa. She remained for an extended visit with her daughter Leona, who is taking a course in nurse's training at the Mercy hospital in that city, and with other relatives and friends at different points in southern Iowa and Nebraska.

The lunch and sale of articles by the Gleaners last Friday was quite satisfactory from all points of view. The food was exceptionally appetizing and thoroughly appreciated by the lunch eaters. The three prizes awarded to ticket holders were won by the following: 1st, a fine home-made quilt, Mrs. Blom; 2nd, pair of woolen socks, Sam Kezar; 3rd, an apron, Louis Anderson. The prize for the closest guess on the number of peanuts in a container was won by Mrs. Bernard Knutson.

Mrs. Joe aCrriere made a trip to Greenbush Monday.

We are pleased to report that Mrs. A. W. Peterson is receiving satisfactory benefit from her treatment at Pelican Rapids.

The high school will give a literary and musical program followed by a basket social Friday evening, Oct. 23 at the Woodman hall.

Democratic congressional candidate Brandon of Fergus Falls, was here Friday looking after his political interests.

Mrs. Danielson and daughters of Karlstad, former residents here, attended the Gleaners events at the hall Friday.

Monday being the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Victor Berg, Mrs. C. A. Berg entertained a party of Mrs. Victor's friends.

Improvements still go on. A. B. Isaacson is building a neat barn 28x40 and Evert Peltola is carpenter of the job.

A. P. Nelson of Gatzke was in town Monday. A. P. doesn't get to town very often as he is quite feeble in health.

The woman's club are arranging for an invitation Hallowe'en party to be given at the Woodman hall October 30th.

Mrs. H. J. Olson and children of Viking visited Mrs. Wright Sunday while Hans put in the day hunting.

Emil Peterson returned Sunday morning from Minneapolis with a big truck load of furniture.

Carl Rolland, substantial farmer of the northeast corner was in this village Monday.

A. W. Peterson went to Hallock Saturday to attend the wedding of a younger brother.

BEAVERS INVADE NORTH

Canadian beavers which refuse to heed the international boundary line have brought dismay to Riverside Drive dwellers near International Falls. Two beavers, living on the Canadian island in the lower Rainy river, have been extremely busy during the last three weeks storing up their winter's food supply, which consists chiefly of young poplars from the beautifully wooded American bank. With trees on the Canadian bank seldom being touched, the game warden remarked, "If immigration officials would stop the illegal entry of the animals, there would be no trouble." Of the ten trees cut down, some have been felled directly on the beach, while others are lying on the bank, parallel to the river. In each case carefully marked skidding trails have been made so the animals will experience little difficulty in dragging the wood down to the river, then floating it across to the island home. One tree, felled in ten minutes, was skillfuly marked off into equal lengths where the beavers would cut it for easy handling. Similar work has been done at Badger, it is reported.

GRYGLA

BEAVERS INVADE NORTH

Canadian beavers which refuse to heed the international boundary line have brought dismay to Riverside Drive dwellers near International Falls. Two beavers, living on the Canadian island in the lower Rainy river, have been extremely busy during the last three weeks storing up their winter's food supply, which consists chiefly of young poplars from the beautifully wooded American bank. With trees on the Canadian bank seldom being touched, the game warden remarked, "If immigration officials would stop the illegal entry of the animals, there would be no trouble." Of the ten trees cut down, some have been felled directly on the beach, while others are lying on the bank, parallel to the river. In each case carefully marked skidding trails have been made so the animals will experience little difficulty in dragging the wood down to the river, then floating it across to the island home. One tree, felled in ten minutes, was skillfuly marked off into equal lengths where the beavers would cut it for easy handling. Similar work has been done at Badger, it is reported.

CAR SUNK IN LAKE FOUND AFTER FIVE YEARS

An automobile, which was sunk five years ago in Red Rock lake for insurance, was discovered last week by three Alexandria duck hunters. The car was a 1929-Graham-Paige on which there was a $600 insurance against theft. The owner, after sinking the car in the lake to a depth of 25 feet five years ago, reported it stolen, and a year later the second man assisting with the crime related the story to the sheriff. Although the lake was dragged with a chain there was no trace of the car and the man's story was discredited. Now that the car was discovered, officials expected to catch up with the owner of the car, but found he had died during the last summer.

APPLE WITHIN APPLE

One of nature's freaks, an apple grown inside an apple, turned up at a Bemidji store when an indignant customer to whom the apple had been sold returned it to the proprietor, claimed it was rotten fruit and demanded a replacement. It was replaced, but on closer inspection the grocer discovered the center section which the customer had condemned as rotten was actually another apple grown inside the larger one.

IN SNAKESKIN'S EMBRACE

Pretty model encased in the tanned skin of a 15-foot Cingalese python, which in life could have crushed her instantly.

Records Show That Republicans Are Enemy of Farmer

BOTH LUNDEEN AND BENSON SUPPORTED FRAZIER—LEMKE BILL

Promises are made to be kept, and the only sure test of whether promises are kept or broken is the record. At election time Republicans are profuse with their golden promises to farmers, hoping to gain their support for the Republican program. They would like to have farmers forget the twelve long years of prosperity for financiers and growing depression for American farmers under Republican rule. They would like to have farmers forget their unrelenting rule. They would like to have farmers forget their unrelenting opposition to every measure that would have helped agriculture.

For the time being—until Nov. 3—they want their record forgotten, a black record of exploitation of farmers.

On the other hand the Farmer-Labor party is the only party that fought consistently against great odds since its inception for the welfare and material betterment of the farm population. Against a hostile and reactionary legislature, the Farmer-Labor Administration managed to force thru measures of crucial importance, as the Minnesota Mortgage Moratorium law.

HOOVER BIG BUSINESS GOVERNMENT

Farmers need but look back to 1920 when big business took charge of the government under Republican Warren G. Harding to find the real beginning of hardships that have borne on them so heavily during the past years. It was the real beginning of the sham battle Republicanism waged for the farmer and secured fattened profits for financial manipulators who duped many American farmers out of their independence and made tenant farmers of many of them.

The deliberate deflation of agriculture began with high tariffs dictated by big trusts under the pretence of protecting American farmers and labor. The tariffs protected eastern capitalists but not the farmer or worker.

As credit was withdrawn and farm prices were sent to new lows, the threat against the independence of American farmers became serious. Usurious interest rates on loans kept many farmers shackled to their owners.

VETO OF McNARY-HAUGEN BILL

The McNary-Haugen bill was brought forth in congress. It meant salvation to the American farmer. But the Republicans killed it. Twice it was passed in both houses, and twice it was vetoed by Republican Coolidge. Again its sponsors attempted to put it through over the presidential veto AND WOULD HAVE SUCCEEDED HAD IT NOT BEEN FOR THE EFFORTS OF REPUBLICAN GRAIN GAMBLERS FROM MINNEAPOLIS AND THEIR CONGRESSIONAL SERVANT, WALTER D. NEWTON.

During the years that Herbert Hoover held the presidency and bowed to the command of a Republican financial oligarchy the Smoot Hawley bill was passed and foreign markets for American agriculture were practically wiped out.

It was the same Hooverism, the same Republicanism, that brought the American farmer to the threshold of complete ruin in 1932, wrecking homes, families, lives, bringing want, bewilderment and despair.

F.-L. FARMERS' CHAMPION

The record of the Farmer Labor party is the reverse. On one side was arrayed vast wealth seeking more power and wealth. Against this monied power the Farmer-Labor party took its stand and fought the battle for the farmer.

The record shows that the Farmer Labor party is the active champion of farmer's welfare and that it sponsored and supported every piece of legislation that would have aided agriculture—the McNary-Haugen Bill, the Frazier-Lemke Bill, rural electrification, taxes on synthetic foods, protection against eviction, tax relief—the Minnesota Homestead Tax Preferential Law. In the Senate Elmer A. Benson voted for the Frazier-Lemke Bill as did Congressman Lundeen in the House.

Simply and clearly the question before the farmers November 3 is a choice between the proven friendship of the Farmer Labor party and a party which has opposed all legislation for the benefit of the farmer.

NEW TRAIN-FERRY ROBS THE ENGLISH CHANNEL OF ITS HORRORS TO TOURISTS

At a cost of $5,000,000 in steamship and terminal construction, British and French railroads have perfected a through service enabling London-Paris travelers to make the trip without change of trains. Powerful cross-Channel ferries have a capacity of twelve railroad cars, which are run directly upon the steamers at Dunkirk and Folkestone. Heretofore a 25-foot tidal range made loading and unloading hazardous, but is now controlled by locks similar to those used on canals.

The Platform of the Union Party

says:—

I AM a candidate for President because the people of this nation have a right—and desire an opportunity—to vote on some of the fundamental issues confronting this nation. Issues, if not disposed of now and disposed of rightly, will wreck and destroy this democracy. I know that, among other fundamental issues, the people desire to vote upon the question of whether or not Congress shall assume its constitutional power to "coin money and regulate the value thereof." In other words, whether the government of the United States shall control the money and the credit for all the people in place of giving that power to a few international bankers.

Some three-quarters of a century ago this nation was at the crossroads. The issue of human slavery confronted our people. A decision, as to whether the nation should remain half free or half slave, had to be made. Political parties of that day temporized with the issue of human slavery and brought about the Civil War and incidentally the formation of a new party headed by Abraham Lincoln, dedicated to the preservation of the Union and the elimination of human slavery.

Today we are again at the crossroads and the issue again is slavery—economic slavery. Today we are in the midst of another war—a great war against a man-made depression. It has reduced our nation to the lowest economic state in its history, leaving a trail of suffering, starvation and want in a land of plenty. Two major parties have had ample opportunity to seriously attempt to remedy the economic ills of our nation. They have been found wanting.

There is only one solution and that is through a strong, virile and forward-looking third party—The Union Party—the aims, ideals and high purpose of which will bring a new political, economic and financial freedom to all our people.

1—America shall be self-contained and self-sustained—no foreign entanglements, be they political, economic, financial or military.

2—Congress and Congress alone shall coin, issue and regulate all the money and credit in the United States through a central bank of issue.

3—Immediately following the establishment of the central bank of issue, Congress shall provide for the retirement of all tax-exempt, interest-bearing bonds and certificates of indebtedness of the Federal Government, and shall refinance all the present agricultural mortgage indebtedness for the farmer and all the home mortgage indebtedness for the city owner by the use of its money and credit which it now gives to the control of private bankers.

4—Congress shall legislate that there will be an assurance of a living annual wage for all laborers capable of working and willing to work.

5—Congress shall legislate that there will be an assurance of production at a profit for the farmer.

6—Congress shall legislate that there will be an assurance of reasonable and decent security for the aged who, through no fault of their own, have been victimized and exploited by an unjust economic system which has so concentrated wealth in the hands of a few that it has impoverished great masses of our people.

7—Congress shall legislate that American agricultural, industrial and commercial markets will be protected from manipulation of foreign monies and from all raw material and processed goods produced abroad at less than a living wage.

8—Congress shall establish an adequate and perfect defense for our country from foreign aggression either by air, by land, or by sea, but with the understanding that our naval, air and military forces must not be used under any consideration in foreign fields or in foreign waters either alone or in conjunction with any foreign power. If there must be conscription, there shall be a conscription of wealth as well as a conscription of men.

9—Congress shall so legislate that all federal offices and positions of every nature shall be distributed through civil service qualifications and not through a system of party spoils and corrupt patronage.

10—Congress shall restore representative government to the people of the United States to preserve the sovereignty of the individual States of the United States by the ruthless eradication of bureaucracies.

11—Congress shall organize and institute federal works for the conservation of public lands, waters and forests, thereby creating billions of dollars of wealth, millions of jobs at the prevailing wage, and thousands of homes.

12—Congress shall protect small industry and private enterprise by controlling and decentralizing the economic domination of monopolies, to the end that these small industries and enterprises may not only survive and prosper but that they may be multiplied.

13—Congress shall protect private property from confiscation through unnecessary taxation with the understanding that the human rights of the masses take precedence over the financial rights of the classes.

14—Congress shall set a limitation upon the net income of any individual in any one year and a limitation of the amount that such an individual may receive as a gift or as an inheritance, which limitation shall be executed through taxation.

15—Congress shall re-establish conditions so that the youths of the nation as they emerge from schools and colleges, will have the opportunity to earn a decent living while in the process of perfecting themselves in a trade or profession.

THE UNION PARTY

The Union Party does not run a state ticket in Minnesota, so that gives us Farmer-Laborites a chance to support this splendid western man, Wm. Lemke, for president without interfering with our own splendid ticket, headed by Ernest Lundeen for U. S. Senator and Elmer Benson for Governor. You will notice there is nothing in the Union platform inconsistent with our F-L platform, and we had a plurality of 72,000 votes in 1934, so if we stick together we can lick "Old Wall Street Control", both in state and nation.

Thieves Loot Two Local Business Places

Thieves entered two business places here Tuesday evening and escaped with a considerable amount of merchandise. In both cases entry was made by unlocking the doors.

Cigarettes, cash, and two shotguns were taken from Joregnson's restaurant, and knives and shotgun shells from Lanager's Hardware store. As yet the thieves have not been apprehended.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hofius and family, of Blooming Prairie, Minn. arrived Tuesday to attend the funeral of A. H. Thornton.

Roy Halseth of Grand Forks, N. Dak. visited relatives here Thursday.

Due to the illness of the teacher, Miss Rachel Toulouse, school has been closed in Dist. 234 for the past week.

Mrs. W. C. Peterson pleasantly entertained the members of the HYlo Bridge Club at her home on Thursday evening, Oct. 15th. The evening was spent playing bridge. High score was won by Mrs. W. G. McCrady and low by Mrs. Lars Hage. The hostess served a delicious luncheon at the close of the evening. The HYlo Bridge Club is a newly organized club and the members are as follows: Mesdames Albert Martin, A. M. Ripple, John Norby, Alcid Morrissette, J. W. Pahlen, W. T. Lonergan, Lars Hage, W. C. Peterson, S. J. Rice, G. A. Krueger, Karl Rossberg, and W. G. McGrady.

S. J. Bredeson of Red Lake Falls called on friends here Thursday evening.

Ben Froiland of Thief River Falls was a visitor Saturday at the home of his omther, Mrs. Ida Froiland.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schmidt Jr. plan to leave this week for LaCrosse, Wisconsin, where they will make their future home. Mr. Schmidt purchased a tavern there recently.

Sheriff Kankel of Red Lake Falls was a business visitors in Plummer Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Versick and children of Virginia, Minn., were dinner guests at the Theo. Lemieux home Sunday.

Misses Joyce Pahlen and Mae Hansel of Red Lake Falls were week end visitors at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pahlen.

Mr. and Mrs. Keough Lemieux and family of Red Lake Falls visited relatives here over the week-end.

R. M. Aalbu of Thief River Falls spent some time in Plummer Monday campaigning in the interests of the Farmer-Labor party.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Rossberg and family, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Richards and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vatthauer and family were entertained at the August Glewwe home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Craft, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thibert visited friends and relatives in Terrebonne, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Piorier of Red Lake Falls visited at the Theo. Lemieux home, Saturday evening.

The first of a series of twelve card parties was held Sunday evening in the St. Vincent's church basement. Prizes for high score were won by Mrs. Theo. Lemieux and John Schaack and for low score by Mrs. Math Schaack and L. J. Hesse. Lunch was served by Mesdames W. T. Lonegran, Theo. Lemieux, Henry Moonen, and Mike Fehr.

SCHOOL NOTES

The big event of the week was the initiation party given in honor of the freshmen class by the sophomores. Everyone was in high spirits and the program of entertainment moved along smoothly and rapidly. The freshmen were first finger-printed and then put thru a series of stunts which brought howls of glee from the upper classmen and exclamations of surprise from the freshmen. They all enjoyed their part in the program, however, and exhibited excellent sportsmanship. The last part of the program was a series of stunts by members of the freshmen class, either individual stunts or stunts performed by small groups. These had been well planned and most of them consisted of a thorough "razzing" of the sophomores, who had to stand by and take it. It was hard for them to grin, though they took it for the most part very good naturedly. The freshman class apparently is a group that is much better organized than the sophomore class and can be expected to take care of itself very well.

Patrons of the school carnival to be held in the Municipal Auditorium on October 30th are sure to get their money's worth of entertainment. The vaudeville skits alone will make it an evening to be remembered, and the play, "Squaring It with the Boss", is a rollicking comedy from start to finish. There's not a dull moment in it.

Mr. Jaspers and his room have a number that is still a dark, dark secret. Everyone suspects that it is a clever "take-off" on some group and its activity in school but no one has any definite information.

Mr. Ohnstad in the privacy of his room one day last week sang a very clever parody to one of the modern catchy tunes. He performed for just a few who can be counted on to say nothing.

Prizes to be awarded that evening have all been purchased. There isn't a cheap or shoddy article in the lot. All are most desirable and the lucky person who secures one of them will have a fine souvenir of the occasion. There are many prizes, so your chances of being one of the fortunate ones are good. Make plans now to attend the carnival.

The six weeks' tests are all over and the second period is under way. All who have done well are off to a fine record for the year and all who haven't yet "hit their stride" have ample opportunity to catch up and make good.

Miss Burke was unable to return last week and so Mrs. Davison remained and filled her place. Miss Burke is expected to return this week.

Mr. Ohnstad has substituted official targets on the rifle range. Some scores are very good and it is expected that the club will have a number of sharp-shooters before the end of the school year.

The camera club is completing the making of albums and the mounting of pictures. Some very attractive covers have been made. The next project is the making of negative albums and the indexing of negatives. This makes all readily available and allows comparisons to be made of exposures when data is kept of the same.

The first issue of the school paper will be ready for distribution this week. Jack Ripple, who is editor-in-chief, has secured some interesting copy and it is hoped that the subscription list will more than equal that of last year.

Arrangements have practically all been completed for the serving of hot lunches in the near future. Most of those bringing lunches to school will welcome the addition of a hot dish to the lunch brought from home.

The library has been rearranged and brought up to date under the direction of Miss Maki. It is open for general use with pupil librarians in charge several hours every day. Demand for books is brisk.

Prowlers Add Fourth Football Victory

downs. Milt Nesse also proved to be a difficult back to bring down. Donald Glass, peppery, [illegible] halfback had little chance to show his wares, though he was their most elusive ball toter.

The first Prowler touchdown came early in the first quarter with Hill scoring on a reverse play from Mahnomen's 26 yard stripe. Adkins kicked the goal. The next tally occurred when M. Nesse, powerhouse fullback, plunged over. Adkins again kicked the goal with a perfect placement.

A completed pass in the second quarter put the ball only two yards from pay territory. Hill scored on a center plunge. The Prowlers led 20 to 0 at half time.

The Prowler's score in the third quarter was made by Hill, again on a center plunge after a twenty-five yard gain on the previous play. Adkins booted a placement for the extra point.

A brilliant sprint by Dicken around end from his foes twenty-six yard marker resulted in the final touchdown of the game.

While the game with Warren may be an upset local fans are looking for the most crucial battle of the season when the Prowlers play at Bemidji, Oct. 30th. Both teams are evenly matched according to comparative scores and are expected to be undefeated up till that time.

Lineup and summary of Friday's game:

Prowlers Win From Crookston Cathedral

The Prowlers fought through to their sixth consecutive victory on Tuesday evening when they defeated the Crookston Cathedral high school football team 26 to 0 on the local field.

The visitors were outplayed by the local boys through the entire game and because of this fact Coach Lee put in much of the reserve strength to give them needed experience in actual play

The first score of the contest came in the opening quarter when Wessling plunged over from the 1-yard line. The kick for extra point was blocked. Hill, on an off-tackle play, tallied for the Prowlers not long after the first touchdown, but the try for extra point again failed. There was no more scoring in the first half, the two remaining touchdowns coming in the third quarter when Bud Nelson snatched a long forward pass and Hill again smashed over. Adkins kicked both points, making the final score 26 to 0.

A LETTER

Thief River Falls, Minn.,
Oct. 22, 1936

Dear Editor:—

In January, 1937 the General Session of the Legislature commences. Preparations on behalf of the Rural Credit tenants, borrowers and contract holders to again press the passage of a fair liquidation bill is on the way. This is one of the most important issues to be solved which concerns about 12,000 farmers directly effected and all the tax payers in the State of Minnesota.

You can kill off men but you cannot kill ideas. Bill was passed the last session of the House by a vote of 104 against 9 for a plan that satisfied the people. The Senate brought in a bill which forced the issue into the Conference Committee where the original bill was killed and the passed plan of the house was nulled. Contact your representatives and commit them to the plan. You can secure information from me as to the plan. There should be a powerful lobby at the next session to assure passage. Let the people be heard. Contact Rural Credit farmers over the State. This is a non-political economic issue. Commit your co-operatives and your farm organizations. Let's go.

Gilbert A. Brattland,
Thief River Falls, Minn.

Local Baptist Church Has Dedication Sunday

Last Sunday the local Baptist church members dedicated their newly purchased parsonage, when people from several neighboring Baptist church were present.

Rev. P. Lovene of Detroit Lakes spoke on "The Call and Message of Peter." At 10 a. m. Rev. Berntson of Lengby spoke on "Christ's Great Invitation," and a fellowship dinner was served by the local Ladies Mission Circle. The dedication message was delivered by Rev. Lovene at 2:30 p. m., after which the crowd went to the parsonage where the dedication prayer was offered by Rev. Lovene. Special music was rendered by Albyn Christofferson and others. Rev. Lovene and Rev. Bjorklund spoke at the evening service.

An enjoyable day was reported by all who attended and a liberal offering was taken for the Parsonage Fund. The congregation states, "We want to say a word of thanks to the business men of Thief River Falls, and to our many friends who have contributed to our Building Fund, which has made it possible for us to buy this house."

Indian Pair Held On Attack Charge

Two Gonvick Indian youths, one 14 and the other 17 years old, were in jail at Bagley awaiting trial on charges growing out of the alleged attack and beating of Rev. C. G. Eidnes, pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church at Gonvick. Rev. Eidnes, according to witnesses, had protested against the Indians throwing rocks at the windows of his home, and the youths resented the protest. Intervention of George A. Beito, a neighbor, prevented more serious injury to Rev. Eidnes. Mrs. Eidnes was beaten about the head and their 10 year old son Earl, suffered a sprained ankle in the melee.

It is reported the two youthful Indians were seeking revenge on a neighbor of the pastor and had attacked the wrong residence, not knowing where their intended victim resided.

Parents Day Will Be Held Crookston Oct. 31

Formal invitations have been issued to parents of Northwest School students to attend the Annual Parents' Day festivities to be held on the campus Saturday, Oct. 31. Due to the record enrollment, school officials are making plans for the largest group of parents ever assembled on the Aggie campus. Classes will be held during the forenoon so that parents may visit the various class and laboratory rooms and see the school in action.

At noon, the parents will be guests of the student body at the annual Parents' Day dinner to be held in the school dining hall. At 2:00 p. m. a special program, including a one-act play, will be presented by the students in the school auditorium.

A special feature will be the Home Project Fair at which students will exhibit the results of project work carried on at home the past summer. Exhibits will include pureseed potatoes, weed collection, rocks and minerals herd management, tractor operation records, dressmaking, art work, canning, and baking.

Parents are also invited to remain for the sound picture program to be presented in the auditorium during the evening.

Last year, nearly four hundred parents from fourteen counties were in attendance.

NORTHERN MINNESOTA HOSPITALS RATE HIGH

Many northern Minnesota hospitals were placed on the approved list of institutions in the United States by the American College of Surgeons. The announcement was made at a meeting of the board of regents of the organization at the 26th annual clinical congress held in Philadelphia, last week.

The hospitals include: Lutheran hospital, Bemidji: St. Vincent's and Sunnyrest sanitorium, Crookston; St. Luke's, Thief River Falls, and Warren hospital, Warren.

PIG AT DANCE; JOKE FOLLOWS

A prank played at a public dance at Vining in Otter Tail county, recently almost resulted in the arrest of a youth. While a dance was in progress, someone conceived the idea of lifting a 40-pound pig from a nearby pig pen and turning the animal loose on the dance floor. The pig squealed and the women screamed as all sought refuge. As a young man, who had missed the excitement, entered someone remarked, "Catch that pig, Johnson, and he's yours." Johnson, being young and nimble, immediately decided to enlarge his livestock assets to the extent of a juvenile porker. He caught the pig and later took it home. When the farmer who owned the pig learned what had happened he became indignant, notifying the sheriff, who found the pig at the Johnson place. Johnson tiok the animal back at once.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish by this means to thank all those who attended the surprise on our Silver Wedding anniversary, and for the sum of money and gifts given to us.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hanson.

64 CCC Camps To Operate During Period In State

Continuation of 62 civilian conservation camps in Minnesota and re-establishment of two others for the eighth six-month period of emergency conservation work was announced by Director Robert Fechner, Tuesday in St. Paul.

This period will be the last for Fechner's organization unless a new congressional appropriation is forthcoming. The present appropriation is scheduled to expire on March 31.

The program which started October 1 included 27 national forest camps, 14 state forest, one biological survey, 12 soil conservation and 10 state park camps.

Fechner said 50,132 Minnesotans had been given jobs under the CCC program since its establishment in 1933.

Continuation of North Dakota's 11 civilian conservation corps camps for the eighth and possibly the last period of emergency conservation work was announced also.

Five of the camps are engaged in establishing migratory wild life refuges under the supervision of the biological survey, two are in state parks and one is a soil conservation camp.

Brother of Local Lady Is Fatally Injured

Olaf Olson, 50 years old, of Fargo, a brother of Mrs. Algot Johnson of our city, died last Thursday, Oct. 15, as a result of an accident at the N.P. Round House at Dilworth. Mr. Olson had been a pipefitter at the round house for 14 years, and the accident broke a record of 2,309 days without a mishap. Mr. Olson was engaged at a vise in the machine shop, while Al Grondahl, another workman, was grinding a locomotive crosshead gib on a bench 4 feet away with a portable air-driven emery wheel. The stone, heated by the friction, exploded with fragments scattering about the room, one entering Olson's head and causing a compound fracture. Mr. Olson was rushed to St. Ansgar hospital in Moorhead, but died enroute at about 10:30 a. m.

Others besides Mrs. Johnson surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Olaf Olson of 1314 Third Avenue South, Fargo, a son Marvin of Fargo, a brother Martin of Chicago, two sisters, Mrs. Elleck Johnson of Eagle Bend., Minn., and Mrs. Johnson of this city. He also leaves his 84 year old mother, Mrs. Bertha Olson, of Eagle Bend.

Funeral services were held Saturday at 2 o'clock at the O. J. Hanson chapel in Fargo, with the Rev. W. P. Gerberding conducting the services.

Those from this city who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Carlson, and Bernice, Ruby, and Ruth Johnson, nieces of the deceased.

Sons of Norway Lodge Initiates 35 Members

The Sons of Norway lodge initiated its biggest class of new members at its regular meeting on Monday evening at the lodge hall. Mr. Laukness, district supervisor, presided at the ceremonies. Following the usual exercises the gathering enjoyed a lunch and a social hour at which a number of ladies, wives of the members, attended.

FORMER CROOKSTON WOMAN CRASH VICTIM

Mrs. Edmund Ransom Walsh, former resident of Crookston, was killed and her husband seriously injured in a head-on collision of two cars near International Falls, over the week end. Mr. Walsh, who is an electrician at the International Falls paper mills, and his wife were residents of Crookston until about 20 yeors ago when they moved to their present home at International Falls.

Ross Leonard, a passenger in the Walsh car, suffered such serious injuries he died a few hours later.

FEELS PERFECTLY WELL

J. A. Hudak, Punxsutawney, Pa., writes: "My wife used to suffer from stomach distress and severe headaches caused by faulty elimination. After using your medicine Kuriko, the headaches are gone and she feels perfectly well." Kuriko is a valuable family medicine compounded from herbs, roots, leaves, barks and seeds of recognized medicinal value. It tones the stomach, regulates the bowels, increases the urinary flow and eliminates injurious waste matter from the system. It is not sold in drug stores but can be obtained only through authorized local agents. For information write to Dr. Peter Fahrney & Sons Co., 2501 Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Adv. 29

Miss Thora Bjornaraa Is Buried Thursday

Interment was made in the Nazareth cemetery. A large number of beautiful floral tributes banked the casket and a memorial fund to a Norwegian Lutheran children's home was presented by neighbors and friends.

The body was brought from Thief River Falls Thursday morning by the Larson Funeral Home.

A group of friends gathered at the Bjornaraa home Sunday afternoon to present a memorial purse to the parents of the departed.

Thora Bjornaraa was born in Hickory township, Pennington County, March 10, 1914. She was graduated from the Thief River Falls high school with the class of 1933. In the fall of 1935 she completed a course at Paul's Beauty Academy in Minneapolis and had been employed at the Elite Beauty Shoppe in Thief River Falls since May, 1936. On Monday morning, October 12, she had gone to Middle River to relieve the beauty shop operator at that place for one week, and in the evening accompanied a Middle River couple, Margaret Moen and Palmer Johnson, on a ride to Karlstad. Returning from Karlstad just before 11 p. m. the Johnson Ford coach turned over just after the driver, Miss Moen, had passed the curve on Trunk Highway No. 59 one-fourth mile north of Strandquist. The driver lost control of the car as it passed the curve and the sudden application of the emergency brake resulted in the machine turning over several times on the edge of the ditch. The occupants were thrown out of the car through the door in the left side, and Miss Bjornaraa suffered a fractured skull from which she died while being rushed to Karlstad for medical aid a few minutes after the accident occurred. Miss Moen was taken to a Thief River Falls hospital to be treated for a broken hip and collar bone, while Mr. Johnson received minor injuries.

A large circle of friends mourn the passing of Miss Bjornaraa and join in extending their sympathy to the bereaved family, consisting of the parents, four sisters, Mrs. Erick Johnson, Borghild, Anna, and Solveig, and five brothers, Olaf, Thorwald, Einar, and Sigurd, at home, and Dreng of St. Paul.

Ingvoldstad's Talks Please Big Audiences

only two nations in Europe who could finance a modern war, England with her vast empire, and the Soviet Union, one-sixth of the planet, with her unlimited resources, and the largest mechanized army in the world.

In the evening Dr. Ingvoldstad spoke at the city auditorium on the theme "I Speak As I See." This was an educational lecture on significant fact sobserved in a re-visit to Soviet Russia. The speaker outlined the development industrially, agriculturally, culturally, educationally, and the National Health Program. He especially stressed the new constitution so widely debated in the Soviet Union, the new government structure, the constitutional rights, religious freedom, and the place of women and children. The lecture was filled with human interest, incidents which occurred to a traveler, and was non-political, being a regular Forum Educational address, for which Dr. Ingvoldstad is well-known in relation to all European affairs. The speaker lectured two weeks at the Minneapolis Adult Forum before coming to this city.

All meetings here were well attended and his audiences were much pleased in the manner he spoke and the information he revealed.

DAUGHTERS OF NORWAY GIVE PLAY

The members of the Daughters of Norway lodge of Grand Forks were in this city Tuesday evening and presented a play 'Kitchen Band," at the Sons of Norway hall. Although the crowd was not as large as it mght have been, those that were present said that the play was exceptionally good. A dance followed the play.

FOR MRS. L. B. HARTZ

Mrs. L. B. Hartz was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given for her Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Gunder Legwold. There were about 36 guests present, most of which were teachers from the various schools in this city. Decorations were made up of hearts, and the guests played Hearts during the evening. A late lunch was served.

ANVINSON-MAGNESON NUPTIALS

Miss Irene Magneson and Orville M. Anvinson were united in marriage at the Grygla Lutheran parsonage, with Rev. S. T. Anderson officiating. Oct. 10 was the date of the wedding, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Holthusen attended.

led the battle for the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage refinancing bill.

According to the record; Lundeen went to Europe in 1932, to study social security administration and unemployment insurance in England, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, Germany and Russia. Returning, he wrote and introduced the Lundeen Social Security, Unemployment Insurance and Old Age pension bill, which now has been acclaimed as the most practical measure of this kind so far offered in Congress. In 1933 and again in 1935, and in 1936 he collaborated with Senator Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota in writing the Frazier Lundeen bill. It is the same as his original bill, but somewhat more explicit in the matter of financing.

$10 Minimum Payments

It provides for minimum payments of $10 a week to the unemployed with $3 a week for each dependent, and a maximum of $20 a week for the unemployed and $5 a week for each dependent. It also carries provisions for old age pensions, care of the disabled and hospitalization for mothers. It was indorsed and sent to the floor of the house by the house labor committee and has been indorsed since by literally hundreds of labor, fraternal, political and other organizations.

To finance this measure, Lundeen proposes a tax upon those best able to pay. Repealing the exemption on tax exempt securities he holds would make some scores of millions available to a reasonable tax. Corporate surpluses represent between 35 and 40 billions and they also could contribute adequately to social security. In addition, there are the huge incomes and inheritances, which certainly should pay their share. In a country which has a billion acres of farm land, half a billion acres of forests, 100 million acres of mineral lands, 100 million acres of city territory, 185 million head of livestock, 700 million installed horsepower and the machines that go with it, and a potential market of domestic consumers which never has been supplied even in the most prosperous Republican era, Lundeen holds that the financing of social economic security not only is possible, but inevitable.

Fight for Education

Still in the record is Lundeen's fight for education. He introduced a bill providing for a federal appropriation of $25 per pupil for school purposes. When the U. S. Chamber of Commerce started its propaganda for the closing of schools and the curtailment of education, Lundeen fought for the maintenance of teachers' salaries on the floor of Congress.

Lundeen has carried on an "America First" battle from early youth. He saw the inevitable conflict between top-heavy capital and impoverished farmers and workers when he went to Carleton College in Northfield, nearly 40 years ago. Even in this early day he led the fight for cooperatives.

Rural Electrification

He has fought for the rural electrification cooperatives, and the record of his speeches in Congress, never published by the reactionary daily press, show that he submitted a mass of authoritative statistical data on the need for electric power on farms.

Lundeen also fought for the railroad pension act; he voted for the death sentence for unnecessary holding companies like those headed by Howard Hopson: he voted for publicity for income tax returns; he fought the dissolution of the M. & St. L. R. R.—in fact, Lundeen's record rates 100 per cent for the people.

PLAIN TALK, a nationally circulated magazine, has kept a "score" on members of Congress, and rates Lundeen as one of the few who voted 100 per cent. The same magazine rates his Republican opponent, Theodore Christianson, only 38 per cent.

Congressman Lundeen was drafted by his party this fall following the death of that peerless leader, Floyd B. Olson, to make the race for the U. S. Senate. He is the foe of reactionaries like Christianson, who voted against the bonus, against social security, against railroad pensions, against the Frazier-Lemke bill. In fact, Christianson voted against practically everything Lundeen voted for. This is the record. And Lundeen stands on that record, today, just as he did in 1917.

Celebrate Silver Wedding Anniversary

A beautiful Silver Wedding reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. R. Thompson of Grygla was held at the Valle church Sunday, Oct. 18. The church which was fully decorated for the occasion was packed with relatives and friends. After the regular morning services the pastor, Rev. S. T. Anderson, made a short talk, explained the reason for the unusual large audience, thanked the Thompsons for all they had done for the church and community and presented the honored guests with a beautiful silver set and a sum of money from their many relatives and friends. After congratulations were extended the Thompson family and their pastor and his wife were placed at a table where a delicious dinner was served and lunch was served to everybody.

No. 8 McCormick-Deering Tractor Plow. The Ace of Tractor Plows. Combine rugged construction and easy, efficient operation. Simple design, great strength and rigidity. Great Beam and Bottom Clearance, and now available in the new type of bottom known as "KA" bottoms, which are built for fast tractor plowing with a long mouldboard and tail piece extension, same as used on braker bottoms. You cannot appreciate this plow until you have operated one. Daily praise is heard from hundreds of our customer owners.

McCormick-Deering No. 8 Little Genius Tractor Plow

FEED GRINDERS

We have a very large number of satisfied customers on McCormick-Deering Feed Grinders, and any one of them will tell you that you cannot go wrong on a grinder investment of any of the different types of McCormick-Deering. Type "C", "B" or "B" in the regular grinders in several sizes to meet your needs besides the Hammer Mill and Roughage Mill. We can supply your needs in the type and size feed grinder you need. We also have some second hand mills most always, and now includes one Howell Roller Mill at $35.

ENGINES

Perhaps there is no handier chore-boy on any farm than where you find one of the new type McCormick-Deering "LA" Engines, which is all enclosed and runs in oil. The small size is a combination of 1½—2½ H. P. and the larger 3-5 H. P. These engines have proven universal satisfaction, and a surprise to all owners. If you need a small stationary engine, be sure and try out one of these new McCormick-Deering "LA" engines.

MANURE SPREADER

The No. 4A McCormick-Deering Spreader is All-Steel construction throughout. Steel bracing, steel box, steel wheels and a strong steel frame. Large galvanized, rust resisting non-warping, copperized heavy guage steel box of 70 bu. capacity. With eight heavy antifriction roller bearings. It is the spreader that will prove 100 per cent satisfaction.

CREAM SEPARATORS

It is not wise to try and get along with an old cream separator that will not skim clean, because with but a small herd of cows a new McCormick-Deering can be bought for the saving of the loss you are taking with the old machine. The McCormick-Deering Cream Separator is outstanding, in ball bearing construction, rustproof stainless steel discs, durable, mirror-like finish, automatic lubrication system and CLOSE SKIMMING.

I MARE—1 COLT

That's all right now, and we are anxious to close out on horses at once. The mare is 9 years old and weighs about 1450 pounds, black, and should be worth about $125, but $70.00 will buy her if taken at once. The colt is 2½ years old, ready for work next spring. Actually should be worth over $100, but $85.00 buys him now.

USED CARS & TRUCKS

Several outstanding bargains in both used trucks and cars. Especially in the low priced bracket. Two of the trucks we have been using in our own work are now for sale and will be priced right. We invite your inspection.

Biggest Fire In City's History Destroys Oen's Store Friday

"Get Out to Vote" Is Slogan For Tuesday

Opposing Parties Will Muster Voters To Voting Booths

Odds Favor President Roosevelt's Re-election

Lundeen, Benson Appear To Have Lead In Minnesota's Election

"Well, you're going to vote next Tuesday, aren't you?" is the question being asked of people on the streets these days. The attitude of people is generally known so they don't ask for whom they are going to vote but to ascertain whether they are going to do their duty and go to the polls to cast their ballot.

Drives to get out the vote are being planned in this city. A check-off will be made at the polling places and the opposing parties are planning on rushing the missing ones to the voting booths.

In the country precincts, this cannot be done as easily so it depends mainly upon the voter to do his own rushing in getting his highest duty as a citizen fulfilled. The urging of all parties to such is "Get out and Vote!"

Predictions as to the outcome of the election vary greatly. While straw polls point to varying results, national prognosticators point to Roosevelt's re-election by a narrow margin. Minnesota, by virtue of the Farmer-Labor party supporting Roosevelt, is expected to turn in favor of the president instead of Landon.

The contest for state offices, between mainly the Farmer-Labor and the Republican parties, is anticipated to be very close, each party's leaders predicting victory for their candidates, Lundeen and Benson having a slight lead according to disinterested observers. Speculators are offering bets of 10 to 4 on the re-election of Roosevelt and 10 to 7 on the election of Benson for governor of Minnesota.

Congressman Buckler appears to have a lead over Elmer Haugen for congress, the outcome bearing on how strong the people get out to vote. Buckler is strong in the northern part of the Ninth District while Haugen is a favorite in the southern part.

Day and Melby, the endorsees of the Farmer-Labor party, will have a close race with Waldal and Jones, the Republican endorsees, for the state legislature from the 65th District. Due to the fact that many think Mr. Day was unjustly deprived of his seat by the House controlled by the reactionaries he is conceded to have a fair show to win again this time at the polls.

Amendment No. 2 appears certain of defeat in the rural districts according to reports. The rural counties benefit greatly by the present set-up so the general opinion here is to vote "No" on this proposed amendment to the state constitution.

Precinct officers are urged to

Local Boy Heads Faction At Concordia Party Rally

Fiery political speeches by student "Demosthenes" ended the Concordia College presidential campaign Monday night at a rally precedent to the straw vote election held Tuesday.

Oreal Halland, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Halland of this city, spoke for the Democratic party, Freeman Holmer of Fargo for the Republican party, Reuben Gustafson of St. Paul, for the Socialist party, and Lawrence Blumer of Kindred, N. D., for the Union party.

The election was sponsored by the Concordia society and directed by the International Relations club. Members of the election committee were Bernard Graydal of Milnor, N. Dak., Alford Setness of Park River, Freeman Holmer of Fargo, Norman Scheide of Hendrum, and Oreal Halland of our city, who is a Junior at the college.

At the time we go to press the Forum has been unable to get the return of the poll at the rally.

Former Resident Dies At Minneapolis

Martin Wold, an old resident in this city, died Wednesday afternoon in Minneapolis. The remains will be removed to Thief River Falls for interment. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Erickson & Lund Funeral Home, with Rev. R. M. Fjelstad conducting the services. Mr. Wold was formerly connected with A. A. Wangenstein in the jewelry store here.

A complete obituary will appear in this paper next week.

DEATH TAKES KNUD WEFALD FORMER SOLON

Former Congressman Dies Sunday Evening at St. Paul After Long Illness

Knud Wefald of Hawley, former representative in congress and railroad and warehouse commissioner, died Sunday night in St. Paul.

Wefald was elected to the railroad and warehouse commission in 1932, for a term of six years. He resigned as executive secretary of the commission of administration and finance to become a candidate for the commission.

After representing Clay county in the state house of representatives in the 1913 and 1915 sessions, he was elected to congress from the ninth Minnesota district, serving during the 68th and 69th sessions.

Born in Norway in 1869, he received his education in the high schools of that country, and came to the United States in 1887.

Going to Hawley, he established a retail lumber business in 1896 and lived there since with the exception of two years. 1929 and 1930 when he was editor of "Normanden," a Norwegian language newspaper, published at Fargo.

Wefald served seven terms as president of the Hawley village council. In 1889, he married Sarah Skree of Hawley. Ten children were born to them.

He received the appointment as executive secretary of the 'big three' February, 1931.

Commissioner Wefald dropped dead from heart disease. He has been in ill health for several years.

The children include Harald, Nome, N. D.. Egil, Glenwood; Mrs. Karen Wall, Sturgis, S. D.; Mrs. Martha Hammel, Minneapolis; Ole, St. Paul; and four unmarried daughters, Nana and Elsie of Los Angeles; and Sarah and Anna of St. Paul.

FARMER HOLIDAY UNIT OPENS MEET TODAY

Annual meeting of the Minnesota Farmers Holiday Association will be at Granite Falls today and Friday, John Bosch of Atwater, president announces. Governor Hjalmar Petersen will be a principal speaker. Other speakers will include Harold Pederson of Willmar, Walter McNutt of Minneapolis, on the Spanish situation, and A. F. Whitney of Cleveland, an official of the National Railroad Brotherhood group.

BIRD REFUGE AT MUD LAKE NOW CERTAIN

One Of Best Sanctuaries In Northwest Available For Marshall County

Fed. Fund of $7000,000 Is Now Made Available

Individual Land Owners Now Being Reimbursed At County Seat

The release last week of federal funds totalling $170,000 for land acquisition in the Mud Lake area in Marshall county will give Minnesota one of the best waterfowl sanctuaries in the northwest, states E. V. Willard, commissioner of conservation.

With the completion of land acquisition and the construction by the U. S. Biological Survey of control works to flood the lands, the Mud Lake area will be the largest and most desirable sanctuary in the state.

"This project was approved by the U. S. Biological Survey as a migratory waterfowl feeding and nesting grounds early in 1933," Mr. Willard stated.

"Because of the policies governing the purchase of lands by the Resettlement Administration and the manner in which the titles to the lands were involved by reason of tax delinquencies, the state was asked to acquire the lands by condemnation, later to be deeded to the government under an agreement whereby the government reimbursed the state for any moneys expended in these proceedings.

"The funds now released are the first actually paid by the government and will pay for approximately 45,000 acres out of a total of about 53,000 included in the original agreement between the state and the federal government. On the remainder, negotiations for title are being carried on by the state and the deeds should be ready for submission to the federal government within a short time."

The funds have been turned over to the Marshall county district court for payment to individual land owners whose lands were acquired by the state of Minnesota and subsequently deeded to the federal government.

Moorhead Has $100,000 Fire Monday Morning

A $100,000 fire completely destroyed two business buildings in Moorhead Tuesday. The heat from the fire was so intense that it melted a trolley car power wire out in the street.

Buildings destroyed by the flames were the Evenson Grocery and the Moorhead Hardware Company. The two other buildings which were damaged were the Neubarth Jewelry store and Milo Matson Fur store.

F.-L.'s To Hold Olson Commemoration Here

Friday evening, October 30, a special non-political meeting in memory of Gov. Floyd B. Olson will be held in the court rooms of the Court House. A speaking program, consisting of talks by Rev. Snyder and Fred Spencer, both of Crookston, and H. O. Berve of this city, has been arranged, and entertainment featuring Leroy Rupprecht has also been arranged for. The meeting is under the joint direction of the local Farmer-Labor Club and the Ladies Farmer-Labor Club. All interested are invited to attend and join in this commemoration meeting in honor of our departed governor. Members of the different Farmer-Labor clubs of this county and all other progressives are urged to attend.

A similar meeting is being scheduled for the entire state at a monsterous rally at the auditorium in Minneapolis.

Red Lake Receives Additional Base Acres

Red Lake county will receive a 6 percent increase in their Soil Depletion base, Mr. Palmer, county agent, who attended a state county agents' conference in St. Paul last week, received the information from Harry Muir, state conservation chairman, that Red Lake county would receive a total of 6,000 acres.

Farmers will receive this addition to their base as a straight percentage. This means that a farmer who had a 100 acre base will now have a 106 acre base. This will aid many farmers as it will give them a larger acreage to work from.

It is estimated by the county conservation committee that this addition will more than take care of the entire office and measuring expenses of the program. The additional amount derived from this added base will amount to better than $8,000, figured conservatively.

Red Cross Chapter Prepares For '36 Drive

The Pennington County Red Cross chapter is planning an extensive drive for membership beginning Armistice Day, Nov. 11th, and continuing until Thanksgiving, when solicitation will be made in every sub-division of the county.

Mary V. Shaw, the publicity chairman of the local chapter, has issued the following statement:

"The Red Cross calls the roll and invites your membership from Armistice Day to Thanksginvig. The Red Cross does not discriminate, it simply aids. This is true of the local Red Cross serving this community.

"If you want to help your less fortunate neighbors, the underprivileged everywhere, do so by joining forces with this active agent for the relief of suffering through membership drives. Volunteer workers are the backbone of the Red Cross".

PROWLERS WILL BATTLE BEMIDJI

Crucial Battle Between These Two Undefeated Elevens Will Be Decided

The Thief River Falls football team will close the 1936 football season in a game Friday at Bemidji that is expected to be the toughest battle in high school circles in the northern part of the state this fall. Coach Lee's team has played a schedule of six games without a defeat so far and the Bemidji team has played an equal number of games without a defeat. There is therefore as much at stake for the two teams and their followers as is the case of college or university elevens. As the cold weather has hindered practice the past week for both teams the style of play may not be as smooth as one would like to see it at this time of the season. From indications the outcome of the game may be a toss-up for either team.

Many Thief River Falls fans are planning on driving to Bemidji for the game, expecting to be there to assist their team in what way they can to bring home the bacon".

BIG AUTO SHOW IS PLANNED FOR CITY NOV. 12-14

All Models of 1937 Cars Will Be Here For Exhibitions

New Sports Building Will House Big Event

Auto Dealers And Legion Post Will Sponsor Unusual Entertainment

The tenth annual Northwestern Minnesota automobile show and exposition, which is sponsored by the Thief River Falls automobile dealers and the American Legion Post, will be held in this city Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, November 12 through 14 inclusively, chairman of the entertainment program, O. C. Paulson, announced Thursday (today).

It is estimated that at least 12 or more cars will be displayed by local dealers in the winter sports building, now about ready, final details being completed at this time. The building affords 14,000 square feet of space for the displays, and is 80 by 175 feet in dimensions. The New York auto show is also going to be given at the same time, with the Minneapolis show a week later.

A vaudeville program of one hour and thirty minutes duration will be given in connection with the auto show on the evenings of the 13th and 14th. A musical extravaganza, known as the All-American Revue, will be the feature attraction, and will be presented under the direction of Al Sheehan of the WCCCO Artists bureau of Minneapolis, and includes four episodes, the New Orleans Mardi Gras, Manhattan Greenwich Village, Wyoming Rodeo, and Banff Winter Carnival.

A civic testimonial program will be held Thursday evening, November 12, at which time honor will be paid to public organizations and officials, this being sponsored by the Civic & Commerce association.

Dancing will wind up the evening's entertainment Thursday, and Friday, and Saturday evening will be the gala occasion, with a big dance in the winter sports building. Music will be provided by Allyn Cassell and his eleven-piece recording orchestra. They will play at the testimonial meeting on November 12, and at the automobile show during the afternoons. Vaudeville numbers will also be presented in the winter sports building during the afternoon, with no admission charged.

The sports building will be heated for the occasion, and will be open until midnight every night in order to give all visitors an opportunity to inspect the 1937 cars either before or after the programs at the Auditorium.

Bank Robbers Get $4,000 At Winger

Robbers early Tuesday looted the Farmers State Bank at Winger and obtained $4,000, all the money there was in the bank safe. Winger is in Polk county, 10 miles south of Erskine. The robbery was discovered about 7 A. M. Tuesday when bank empolyes went to the institution to begin work.

Sheriff Spokely at Crookston, informed of the theft, sent Deputies O. K. Bolstad and Ed Kelley there to investigate and Melvin Passolt, superintendent of the state bureau of criminal apprehension, ordered a bureau agent to assist in the sift. The robbers left none of their equipment and authorities believed finger prints would be the only available clues.

The bandits gained entrance to the building through a basement window. Once inside they forced a trap door leading into the banking rooms. They then used an acytelene torch to cut their way through the door of the vault and then hammered the combination of the safe.

Oen's Arranges For Temporary Quarters

In order not to inconvenience his numerous customers too long, Mr. Oen has arranged for temporary quarters for the various departments of the store. The furniture department will be housed in the former Johnson Furniture store quarters next door north of the Larson Company store. The hardware department will be housed in the Odegaard building immediately south of the Trinity church. Quarters for the dry goods and men's furnishings department are being arranged for at the Curtis Drug store. Goods are arriving daily for the new quarters and the places will be opened before this paper is in the hands of its readers.

The office force, under the direction of Mr. Reierson, has opened quarters in the basement of the Citizen's Bank building, across the hall from the Forum office. People who are indebted to the Oen's Department store should feel a special obligation at this time in settling their accounts as, no doubt, such favors will be much appreciated in this time of distress.

LOCAL FOOTBALL TEAM WINS FROM WARREN 14 - 0

Prowlers Are Heavily Taxed In Game Friday at Marshall County Seat

Coach Lee's Prowlers played the toughest game to date last Friday afternoon on a slippery, snow-covered gridiron when they met the Warren Ponies and defeated them by 14 to 0. This is the smallest score that the Prowlers have yet made against an opponent. The game was played at Warren.

There was no scoring in the first half, neither team being able to force its way down into scoring territory and for the first time this season it began to look as if the undefeated Prowlers had met their match. Warren opened up with a barrage of passing plays, alternating them with their big 195-pound fullback, Harry Hulls, crashing through the forward wall on line bucks, while the local backs slipped, stumbled, and slid, being continually outgained by their rivals. However, in the closing minutes of the third quarter, the locals finally found themselves and started the old familiar march toward the defenders goal line. Hill carried the ball over on a wide end sweep after a fake lateral pass to score the first six points of the game, and Adkins came through with his end, making good his kick for extra point. The tally now stood at 7 to 0.

Later, in the last quarter, they pushed the ball to Warren's 1-yard line from where Milt Nesse crashed over. Adkins again succeeded in his kick, making the final score 14 to 0. and the Prowler's record was still unblemished. During the game Warren made 4 first downs to the Prowler's 6.

Elks Circus Is Well Attended Last Week

In spite of the fact that the Oen department store building burned, causing temporary interruption in light service, and cancellation of the Friday evening performance of the Elk's Circus, officers of the Elk's lodge stated that there was a substantial profit. Thursday and Saturday evenings were uninterrupted and were attended by large crowds. Music was furnished by Abbie Andrews and his band of Fargo.

$250,000 LOSS IS SUSTAINED IN CONFLAGRATION

Flames Are Beyond Control At Building When First Notice

Intense Heat Causes Fire Across Streets

Mr. Oen Plans Immediate Rebuilding Of Former Quarters

The most devastating fire that ever struck Thief River Falls did a damage of approximately $250,000 last Friday evening as a fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the Oen Mercantile building and its entire stock, and did much damage to nearly all business places.

The intense heat from the fire at Oen's store caused fires at several buildings opposite the streets which the fire department found difficult to control. Windows bursted and wood frames burned in such brick buildings as the Northern State bank, which houses the bank, the B & B Style shoppe, and the Elizabeth shop. The Caldis building to the west, housing Al's Coffee shop and the Woolworth store, the Red Owl grocery, the Ben Franklin store and Rolland's grocery suffered much damage to the fronts of their business-places. Buildings east of the Northern State bank, such as the Palace cafe, Hartz bakery, Hardy North Dairy, Thief River Falls Seed house and Curtis's Drug store also suffered losses. mainly from bursted front windows and water applied to keep the buildings from getting aflame.

Lieberman's Clothing store, adjoining Oen's to the south, suffered $8,000 damage to goods from smoke and water. As the same brick wall was used by Oen's and Lieberman's the fire department had difficulty in preventing flames from starting at the latter place. Much of the stock was removed to places of safety. Even the Citizen's Bank building, wherein is housed the Sorenson cafe, the Thief River Pharmacy and the Forum Printing office, suffered $600 damage in cracked windows.

More Fire

The fire at Oen's department store was first noticed at about seven o'clock. As the fire alarm sounded the flames bursted big windows in the northeast and southwest corners of the buildings, clouds of black smoke rolled out and, as air came in, the flames spread in short order.

The fire department was immediately on the scene but the flames were beyond control at Oen's so efforts had to be confined to preventing spread of the fire to nearby buildings. The flames reached a height of more than a hundred feet, and at times when portions of the interior fell the fire leaped up to two hundred feet. People from twenty miles away reported seeing the flames leap up into the air as the fire was at its worst.

The origin of the conflagration is a mystery. Employes of the

Outline Red River Conservation Plan

A plan proposing to assure a constant flow of water in the Red river has the approval of the water resources committee of the national resources board.

Drafted at a Fargo conference, where a tri-state water authority was established, the program proposes widespread water conservation projects on rivers and creeks in the Red river basin. It affects three states, South Dakota, North Dakota and Minnesota as well as the province of Manitoba.

It was pointed out that the water resource committee approval was highly significant in that committee comprised of chief of the U. S. soil conservation service, the head of the biological survey, chief of the United States engineers and the acting chief of the U. S. reclamation bureau among other notables.

A FITTING MEMORIAL

The reactionaries of Minnesota laid plans, when the death of Governor Olson was announced, to bury with his mortal remains the movement to which he devoted his life. They are perhaps finding out that Floyd Olson did not live in vain, that the spirit he left behind will remain a vital, potent factor in the affairs of Minnesota.

The hundreds of thousands of his followers have pledged themselves to carry his works to completion. This is to be their monument to their departed leader—the monument he himself would have wanted.

Years ago there was a great football player at Notre Dame, George Gipp—The Great Gipp, they called him. The Great Gipp was stricken down in the height of his glory—when he meant so much for Notre Dame.

The day of the critical Army game arrived and Notre Dame had to carry on without Gipp. The first half—and Army was leading. Rockne called his gridders together: "Go out and win for Gipp," he said. "Gipp wants you to." The spirit of Gipp won that game. And since that time Notre Dame is mentioned whenever and wherever national football is the topic of conversation.

The Farmer-Labor party has lost its great leader. He was stricken in mid-campaign. He left no political will. But his life and actions are more inspiring than any death bed statement could possibly be. He never quit. He did not know the meaning of party bitterness and selfish factionalism. He received praise for the accomplishments of the Farmer-Labor party, but such praise was not of his own seeking. He was merely the man who carried the ball. He wanted credit to go to the rank and file, the line which cleared the way for victory.

The Farmer-Labor party is going to carry on for Floyd Olson—a united, determined movement which can overcome all obstacles in its path. The memory of this great man will live on in the victories of the party. We are facing the first test next November. We must win because in this way only can we show that Floyd Olson's spirit is still with us and guides us. We cannot make of him a hollow memory.—Minnesota Leader.

Every progressive voter in the state should, therefore, dedicate themselves to the task of going to the polls next Tuesday and cast their ballot in the memory of Floyd B. Olson.

CHRISTIANSON EXPOSES 1934 FUSION PLAN

Fulminations over the fusion of liberals in Minnesota to defeat reaction on November 3 continue. A perusal of these fulminations discloses that the crocodile tears are shed not by those who are interested in the fate of the Democratic party, but rather by those who are interested in the success of reaction.

Just when the Republican newspapers are trying to build up an idea of betrayal in the minds of the public in regard to the withdrawal of the Democratic candidates for United States Senator and Governor in favor of Farmer Labor candidates, quotations are appearing in the press, showing that the fusion of candidates in 1934 was part and parcel of the Republican program for that year. And the man who reveals this fusion is no other than Theodore Christianson, Republican candidate for senator.

On page 519 of Volume 2 of Theodore Christianson's History of Minnesota appears this passage:

"Before the primaries and after, there was a definite movement for fusion between the Republicans and Democrats for the avowed purpose of defeating Governor Olson. When Martin A. Nelson was nominated by the Republican indorsing convention, it was with the understanding that he would withdraw in the event that the Democrats should put in the field a candidate for governor acceptable to the Republicans.

"John E. Regan filed for the Democratic nomination, but it was generally felt that he had become so involved in the factional fight within his own party that he could not command enough Democratic support to make him, in the event of his nomination, a formidable candidate against Governor Olson. . . ."

The attempted 1934 fusion was proposed by the Republicans and engineered for the benefit of the Republican party. The 1936 fusion was proposed by liberals of all groups who carried it out for the purpose of making secure the victory of progressive government.

THE UNDOING OF A HERO

The present ruler of England, King Edward the VIII, used to be a very popular character with his people until a few weeks ago. Known previous to his father's death as the Prince of Wales, still a bachelor and not known to have the intentions of ever getting married, he was a favorite of the entire English people. The role he played as a peacemaker among the various subdivisions of the English empire and even among his own country and foreign countries had never been equalled by anyone in the world's history. His pleasing personality and happy disposition spread good feeling wherever he chanced to be.

When he ascended the throne the social circles of England began immediately to promote schemes to have their bachelor king married to some royal princess. The heads of kings had been falling fast since the first of this century so there was little to choose from for the new monarch. It seemed he was disgusted with what he found.

But how the situation has changed! In the matter of only a few weeks the English people have turned away from him by the millions. The bachelor king has revolted and, it appears, will enter into a morganatic marriage with a woman twice divorced. The entire affair bids fair to end up in a scandal as notorious as that of Henry VIII.

What is the cause of such a change? No doubt the new king is partly at fault. He had been free and did as he liked to. He felt as he became king that his freedom of action was gone to a large extent, so he has revolted. The nobility of England wanted an heir of the royal family to make his debut at some future time. But King Edward VIII cannot see it that way. The throne has lost prestige and where the affair will finally end up at is uncertain to predict.

CHURCHES MUST RESIST WAR-INCITERS

A ringing challenge to the churches of the country to refuse to be the tool of war mongers and military propagandists was voiced last week by Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, in an address before the Pan-American Conference of Anglican Bishops at Chicago. Rev. Freeman is a former pastor of Minneapolis.

"The maintenance of world order and peace is the most vital concern of the church," the Bishop told his audience. "War is the deadly enemy of the church; never more so than today."

Proclaiming the present world situation as "a condition bordering on chaos" caused by "an excess of nationalism coupled with the demand for more economic advantage," Bishop Freeman expressed the hope that in the face of this emergency, "we may firmly resolve that never again shall the church lend itself to a propaganda that whipped the passions of men into a frenzy of zeal for a cause that has yet to be justified."

In conclusion he brought forward five proposals for which he urged that the church stand resolutely: The Kellog-Briand peace pact; the suppression of exaggerated nationalism; defense of the under-privileged; encouragement of "right and equitable" relations between the nations of the world; and the prevention of "over-accented class consciousness".

WHY TAXES ARE AS THEY ARE

When all the facts are considered, there are two outstanding conclusions to be drawn from the propaganda of the selfish groups that are condemning the high cost of government. First, we must realize that the government today is giving far more for its tax dollar than ever before in history, and is furnishing services which are not only indispensable to modern civilization, but which could not, in the interests of the public, be furnished by private enterprise. Secondly, a great part of government costs go for the protection of the very interests that are complaining about high government costs, and are necessary because these interests are so predatory in search of private profits, and so oblivious to the requirements of public welfare.

Where today we have large modern city water systems which supply drinking water that is sterilized and free from germs, a hundred years ago the old well and bucket supplied the needs of the people. Where today we have modern bath rooms and sewage disposal systems, in earlier days when government costs were small, the people had only the institution that was made famous by Chic Sales. It is true that government costs more today than ever before in history, but it is also true that government obligations and the services afforded by government are far greater today and more indispensable to our civilization than ever before in history.

Those who complain of government costs, should be honest enough to present the full picture, and should state explicitly which of these indispensable government services they would eliminate. Those special interests which are responsible for so large a part of government costs, including war costs, do not oppose governmental expenditures from which they benefit. The assault upon high government costs, then, is essentially an attack upon those government expenditures which benefit the masses of the people.

COMMUNISM CHARGE IS G. O. P. SMOKE SCREEN

"The issue of communism was raised by the Republicans in this campaign for the purpose of detracting attention from their own shallow program and platform," Senator Elmer A. Benson charged in a talk delivered Friday night at St. Cloud.

"I need not tell the people of Minnesota I am not a Communist, he stated. "They know I am not a Communist. The members of my church, which I served as treasurer for many years, know I am not a Communist, and they know further that I do not believe in communism. And neither are my colleagues on the Farmer-Labor ticket communists; nor do they believe in communism. And my party has not a communist program.

"I say that the only political movement in our state and nation which can prevent the growth of Communism in this country is the liberal movement such as the Farmer-Labor party. Communism flourishes only in a state of society where extreme injustice prevails, where the rights of man are flaunted, where social and economic liberties are denied. It grew in Russia only because Russia was governed by a benighted absolute monarchy which trampled upon the rights of its subjects — which stifled human rights and which denied opportunities to the invividual.

"And if the forces of reaction were placed in control of our state and our national government today, Communism would receive the greatest impetus that this country has ever known. Place our government in the hands of our Landons, our Knoxes, our Hearsts, McCormicks, DuPonts, and our Martin A. Nelsons, and I predict that in four years we will have a Communist movement in America which will really be a threat instead of the Communist movement today which is so puny as not even to constitute a problem."

The reason why communists endorse the ticket, as given to the Forum editor by a communist in our city, is that human liberty is at stake. They see that the all-important issue now is human liberty or dictatorship. The Republicans, they hold, have shown plainly that individual liberty will be denied if they are elected, but that the Farmer Labor party is a guarantee against this oppression. The manner, therefore, in which the communists look at it is a question of which is the lesser of two evils. The communists never endorsed the F-L platform.

The Washington Commentator

By E. C. STENGELSEN

A FORECAST

Your commentator felt very sorry last winter for the muskrats. They probably had a tough time of it, for they had built very thin houses. We have the word of an old Chippewa chief, Ants-In-His-Pants, for it. . . "Um mild winter coming!" he grunted last October. "Mushrat build thinhouse!"

. . . Which was very dumb of the muskrats, as every one will agree who remembers last winter.

Your commentator hopes they will let it be a lesson to them. But if they don't and another hard winter comes, he'll have no time to feel sorry for them. He expects to be kept far too busy feeling sorry for the Republicans.

Until lately, your commentator, following the Literary Digest poll, and reading the Republican press, had been confident that everything was going very well and that ere long, the White House chair would be polishing the seat of the budget balancer's trousers.

But then the Democratic campaign manager, Farley, began claiming that Roosevelt would carry every State, and also the foreign possessions of Pago Pago, Hawaii, and New York. . .

. . . While Bill Lemke was shouting that both the other candidates were completely cuckoo, as it was he who was going to be the next president.

It quickly threatened to become such a tangle that your commentator decided he had better take a little time off and unravel it. The readers of this column, at least, are certainly entitled to the small favor of reliable advance information on how the election is going to turn out.

First, a method had to be chosen. This required a moment or two of thought. Obviously, a straw vote wasn't the answer. There were already half a dozen of these, and none agreed.

A committee of experts, then, perhaps? Your commentator thought so. He set about choosing its members: a barber, a bartender, and himself. Barbers know practically everything. Bartenders also know practically everything. And you commentator, while perhaps not quite so expert as the other two gentlemen, isn't exactly a slouch either.

The Committee went briskly to work.

The six Northeastern States were easily disposed of. They fell to Landon by acclamation. New York was the first real problem. But it went quickly to Roosevelt when the barber remarked that his girl friend in New Fork, who was employed in a beauty parlor there, had written him that all the girls in the shop were going to vote for Roosevelt because he is cutest.

Pennsylvania also went to Roosevelt, because the Committee agreed it wasn't likely the Pennsylvanians, who are themselves oil producers, would vote for a rival oil magnate for a Western state.

Working thus gradually westward, the Committee disposed of one state after another. However, it all took time; and by late evening, when only four states west of the Mississippi had been disposed of, the remainder were all lumped together and the barber and the bartender shot craps to decide the outcome. The Democrats won.

The results were then summed up. It was proved that the Literary Digest was completely cockeyed. Following is the real and true division between the candidates:

LANDON	Electoral Votes
Connecticut	8
Indiana	14
Kansas	9
Maine	5
Massachusetts	17
New Hampshire	4
New Jersey	16
Rhode Island	4
South Dakota	4
Vermont	3
Wyoming	3
	87
ROOSEVELT:
Remaining 37 states	444
LEMKE:—
Virgin Islands	0

The Republicans will of course claim that the Committee is all wet on its estimates; that its they who'll win.

. . . To which your commentator snappily retorts: "Remember the muskrats, boys!"

The Capitol News Review

By A. I. HARRIS

Martin Nelson is still trying to explain his stand on the sales tax. First, he declared it was none of the people's business whether he was for or against a sales tax. Then he said nobody wants a sale tax "if it can possible be escaped" Everybody knew it was the position of the Republican party that it could not be escaped. But, as the storm and fury gathered around his head, he insisted he was always misunderstood and that he would not recommend a sales tax to the Legislature. ......

But the merchants and consumers of this state have risen up in arms against him and they are not satisfied with his evasive answers. At no time has Mr. Nelson stated positively that he will veto a sales tax bill if one is submitted to him.

Mr. Nelson's latest (he is becoming quite a contortionist) is that he COULD administer the state government without a sales tax "if"—and then he proceeds to give three "ifs." One of the "ifs" is stimulation and revival of business under "Republican policies." This, he evidently believes, will bring back special taxes, such as the gross earnings tax on railroads to where they were before the depression, thus making it possible to reduce the state real estate levy.

But there is a fly in the ointment, and that is the fact that it was these Republican policies under Hoover which brought about the depression and consequently the droppage in special taxes. In other words, he is trying to sell the people a gold brick.

Latest efforts of the Republicans to blast the state Highway Department because of the purchase of land on Trunk Highway 56 near Columbia Heights revealed that State Auditor Stafford King had personally approved the land purchase.

The complaint was that the Highway Department should have purchased the land by condemnation proceedings. But the department saved money by not going to court and Stafford King approved the deal. The original amount asked for the property was $19,000 but the Highway Department negotiated until the figure was reduced to $16,400. The Highway Department had no authority to purchase the land without the state auditor's approval. He approved!

A lot of loose statements are being made these days about the finances of the Conservation Department. These statements are, of course, for political purposes, and a certain amount of latitude must be allowed. Nevertheless, here are the cold, bald facts:

The Department is better off financially than at any time in its history. During the six years of Farmer-Labor administration (Olson administration) funds diminished $374,427. To offset this the Department expended in permanent improvements such as land acquistion for conservation purposes $671,200. This remarkable showing was accomplished despite a dropping off in revenue from hunting and fishing licenses of from $100,000 to $200,000 a year; expenditure of $30,000 in stream pollution studies by the State Board of Health; and diversion of $168.626 in wolf bounties and $35,000 for forest fighting purposes.

Attorney General Harry H. Peterson has been driving hard the fact that the platform of the Republican party says nothing about public utilities.

In a recent speech he pointed out that St. Paul telephone users have saved $700.000 as a result of efforts of his office. He added, "Telephone users in Minneapolis are entitled to a reduction of over $1,000,000 a year in telephone rates. Many other cities, and other local communities are entitled to a similar reduction."

Gradually the union of progressive forces in the nation becomes more definite. United States Sen-

Along the Farmer - Labor Front

By H. O. BERVE

The end of this campaign is approaching and our journalistic efforts will soon be over. We have rather enjoyed the work as campaign manager. We have tried to discuss some of the outstanding issues of the campaign, and to call attention to fundamental principles.

In closing, we again wish to request our precinct committees to get busy and do their work in the few remaining days. See that every Farmer-Labor voter is urged to go and vote.. See that our campaign literature and cards are all distributed. Every Farmer-Laborite should go out and do his part. IT DEPENDS UPON YOU. Do not leave it all to the committee. Do your part and speak to every Farmer-Labor voter and urge them to go and vote on election day. Please see every Farmer-Labor voter and urge him to go to the polls and cast his vote on election day.

"Old Faithful," Senator Tungseth, chore boy for the Republican organization did not like the response to his letter in the newspapers. He comes out now and tries to play the role of the martyr and claims that he has been abused. Senator Tungseth should understand that he has donned the mantle of a Republican. He has placed the brand of the Republicans upon himself by his persistent criticisms of the Farmer-Labor movement. In the face of his repeated criticisms of the Farmer-Labor movement and the Farmer-Labor candidates, including Governor Olson, he cannot be a friend of the movement, nor can he possibly be a Farmer-Laborite. From his newspaper communications, we take it for granted that he is a Republican, unless he is a Democrat, or a Socialist, of a Communist or an I. W. W. At any rate, he apparently thinks that he can still ride the fence, politically speaking.

The trouble is that the Senator sufferes from an exaggerate Ego. The Republicans have patted him on the back, and flattered his vanity until they have gotten him to go and say and write things which they themselves did not want to say or write.

Of course, this is a free country. Senator Tungseth has just as much right to his opinions, and to exthem as anyone. That is his privilege as an American citizen, but when he enters the public Forum

VIEWS AND REVIEWS

Vote for Progress

The election issue this Fall may be summed up as a struggle between progress and reaction. In Minnesota this is especially true. The Farmer-Labor party, standing for a preservation of the democratic rights, the maintaining or the bettering of the standard of living, and the freeing of the human animal from economic bondage, points the way to progress. The Republican party, which calls outright for reduction of expenditures for relief, leading the way to curtailment of personal liberty, more economic slavery, a lower standard of living, leads the way to black reaction and fascism, which in turn needs war as the only way out. Fascism is not a bogeyman imported by communists to scare staid conservatives. It is a fact, recognized by authorities in high places. Roger Babson, big business prognosticator, sees the signs that have been pointed out by radicals for years. Fascism can be forestalled by voting progressive A vote for progress is a swift kick for war and fascism.

"Life Begins In '40".

This election should see a few Farmer-Labor congressmen elected. Farmer-Labor slates are up in a number of states. The year 1936 should be a beginning of a great rank-and-file movement that will unite radicals and liberals in a united front such as is impossible in an undemocratic, demagogue-ridden conglomeration of opportunists as the Union party has turned out to be. Rank and file control is the only answer to the old parties. It is poor criticism to denounce hand-picking of candidates and practice the same thing yourself. With a strong rank-and-file party in the field four years from now, representing all sections of radical and liberal movements, it may well be said for everyone that life begins in '40'.

Lewis Giant

The C. I. O. unions, who were authorized to organize steel, under the leadership of John L. Lewis, have done a noble job, although hampered somewhat by the cowardly, treacherous actions of William Green and his henchmen. The new steel union now has a membership big enough to swallow the American Federation of Labor, claw and feather; evidently William Green realizes this, for he has suggested pacifying measures to bring the new union closer to the A. F. of L., from which it was unceremoniously cut off last summer.

The father who kicked the child out into the street now comes and begs forgiveness from the young giant who has to bend down to hear what his parent has to say.

The New Spanish Army

With the rebels relentlessly driving inward to Madrid, swallowing up all the outposts and suburbs, the situation looks black indeed for the first democratic government in Spain. The loyalists have had to train their own army from the students, clerks, professional men, stenographers, and bookkeepers of the nation. The rebels had the advantage from the first by retaining all the trained forces. In the open field, therefore, encounters between the two forces, often resembled panic-stricken routs more than battles.

When the loyalists retire to the actual defense of Madrid, their field will become compressed, they will come into closer contact with one aonther, and better organization will result. Too, every day that passes is valuable experience to the green troops. The loyalists may show the rebels a trick or two yet.

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES IN NATIONAL CAMPAIGN, 1936

Marshall County Residents

Vote For . . .

CARL A. JOHNSON

FOR

REPRESENTATIVE

MARSHALL COUNTY 67TH DISTRICT

I FAVOR . . . . . .

Sound, Progressive Legislation for the benefit of the Farmer, Home Owner and the local businessmen.

Strict economy in state governmental affairs, including the elimination of extravagance in the existing departments of government.

A more equitable distribution of the tax load so as to lower taxes for the farmer.

I do not favor a sales tax.

A liberal and progressive program of state aids for the operation of the public schools, feeling that the education of our children is a state as well as local obligation.

State assistance for the construction of farm to market roads.

Encouragement for cooperative enterprises through beneficial laws.

Encouragement to industry and business so as to employ more labor at decent yearly wages.

An Adequate Old Age Assistance program is desirable and necessary and I heartily favor a program that will insure happiness and security for our people at the eventide of their lives.

I am Independent and as such my efforts will be spent in working for all of the people and not for any individual, clique or party.

PLUMMER

Lloyd Jorgenson spent the week end in Minneapolis.

Miss Burke visited friends and relatives at Bemidji, Minn., over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Theroux and family of Crookston visited at the home of Mrs Gertrude St. Louis, Sunday.

Supt. A. M. Ripple and son Jack and Alcid Morrissette spent Sunday hunting near Bejou, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Rossberg visited in Thief River Falls Friday evening.

Miss Evelyn Lonergan and John Schuiling of Red Lake, Minn., were visitors at the W. T. Lonergan home Friday evening.

Miss Crescenz Enderle, assisted by Mrs. Lars Hage, entertained at her home Tuesday afternoon, October 20th, from four to six o'clock in honor of her sister Laurette's sixth birthday anniversary. The guests present included: Lila Ripple, Estelle Hovland, Theresa Mack, Jackie Lemieux, Arleen Norby, Roger Thibert, Jeanne Robillard, Betty Sorenson, Donna Rossberg, Phyllis Kjos, Trine Hage, Russell Johnson, and Miss Ann Neudecker. The afternoon was spent in playing games and at six o'clock a delicious luncheon was served by the hostess.

The Library Club met at the home of Mrs. Lars Hage Thursday afternoon, October 22nd. After the business meeting whist was played at four tables. High score was won by Mrs. John Norby and low by Mrs. Hans Haaven. At the close of the meeting the hostess, assisted by Miss Crescenz Enderle, served a delicious luncheon.

Miss Joyce Pahlen, who is employed at Red Lake Falls, had the misfortune to sprain her wrist while visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pahlen, Sunday.

The second of the series of card parties given in the basement of St. Vincent's Catholic church was held Sunday evening. Prizes for high scores were given to Mrs. G. A. Kreuger and Mike Fehr and those for low scores went to Juanita Ripple and Karl Rossberg. A lunch was served by the Mesdames F. J. Mack, H. Robillard, H. Thibert and A. Schiefert.

Mr. and Mrs Arne Kantola returned Saturday from a visit with friends and relatives in the Twin Cities.

Anton Peterson of Hazel was a business visitor in Plummer Monday. He was here in the interests of the Bray Mutual Insurance Co.

Miss Lydia Rasonen, daughter of Mauno Rasonen and James Waldal, son of Alfred Waladl of Emardville, were married at Oklee on Wednesday, October 21st. They were attended by the groom's sister, Miss Selma Waldal and the bride's brother, Wayne Rasonen. Mr. and Mrs. Waldal will reside on the Rasonen farm in Emardville.

Miss Marcella Willett left Saturday evening for St. Paul where she will be employed.

Mrs. H. C. Maynard returned last week from a visit with friends and relatives in the twin cities and at Stillwater, Minn.

SCHOOL NOTES

Miss Burke returned last Monday after a week's enforced vacation. Everyone was glad to welcome her back because Miss Burke is depended upon for direction of the musical numbers and novelty acts of the school carnival Friday night.

By the way, the carnival will be all that is expected of it. Enthusiasm remains high in the student body and everyone is taking his assignments seriously. Practices are "sandwiched" in here and there in the day's program of activities. New posters advertising the concessions appear every day. June Norby has shown much ability in water color work and has produced some advertising for the Poco Loco Beauty Shop that is most convincing. Visit it at the carnival Friday night, October 30th at the Plummer Municipal Auditorium.

Tuesday, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. LaVoi, who were in charge last year, served hot lunches for the first time. Hot lunches will now always be available and, with snow in the air and colder weather inevitable, most welcome and appreciated.

Several of the lad teachers who are evidently considered capable of great physical exertions received an invitation last week to a furniture moving social. Miss Burke was the hostess.

The local P. T. A. held its regular meeting last Thursday. It was well attended. Interest in it is increasing.

In the talk of the evening, Mr. Rippel explained to parents and patrons the advantages of the six-six plan of organization and the benefits that come to a school that has this set-up. He also touched on other matters pertaining to school life and activity.

Mr. Jaspers with his group of singers again served with several numbers which appealed greatly to the audience and brought forth vigorous applause for director and group.

A boy scout play well put on and well acted contained some clever characterizations and had all in the rear of the room on their feet to see and hear in order not to miss anything. The humor in it was not lost on the audience and all enjoyed it very much.

Ardith Rossberg and Muriel Sorenson closed the program with a piano duet.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bainbrdge arrived Tuesday evening from Kingsley, Iowa, to visit at the H. R. Allen home and with other friends. They also attended to business matters at Goodridge. They left for Grand Forks Saturday morning, where they visited until the following day at the home of their cousin, while enroute for their home at Kingsley, Iowa.

Lester Olson, manager of the local Land O' Lakes creamery, won a gold certificate award and gold cup at the Red River Valley Dairymen's association convention held at Crookston last week in the Sweet Cream butter class. Only nine awards were given. His score was 95.0.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Swanson and family of Wylie were Sunday dinner guests at the Fred Dobsin home.

Richard Larson and Myles Jackson attended a merchant's meeting and banquet Tuesday evening at Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hallstrom and family moved last week from Thief River Falls to the residence formerly owned by Mr. Hallstrom's father, P. A. Hallstrom, on Water street.

Mrs. Amanda Pearson went last Monday to a hospital at Thief River Falls to take treatment for an eye trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wilson and mother, Mrs. A. S. Wilson of Warren, visited here last Monday evening. The two former returned to Warren the same evening, while Mrs. Wilson remained until Wednesday. She will visit at Warren before going to Minneapolis.

Frank Sweet left Friday for Alexandria where he visited at the home of his parents. He returned Wednesday. Mr. Paulson was relief agent here at the Great Northern station.

Word was received here recently by Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Wilson that their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wilson of Montana, were the proud parents of a son, named Billy.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jenson and son Garmo were Sunday dinner guests at the Martin Erickson home at Thief River Falls.

Lee Beebe returned to his home Wednesday from a hospital at Crookston where he had been recovering from an operation.

Mrs. Knute Kolstad and son Harold returned last Monday evening, after having accompanied Mrs. Kolstad's brother, Jorgen Nomland of Fisher, to Little Falls, where they visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Hovet and family and at St. Paul at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Gigstad.

WELCOME SENATOR BENSON

When United States Senator Elmer A. Benson, Farmer-Labor candidate for governor, gave his address at Wabasha Oct. 19, the Rev. E. Scharlemann (left), pastor of the Lincoln Trinity Lutheran church, introduced Father A. F. Palen (right), hospital chaplain at St. Joseph's orphanage (Catholic) at Wabasha. Father Palen in turn introduced Senator Benson (center). The Lutheran pastor is chairman of the Wabasha county Farmer-Labor organization. The Catholic priest remarked in his introduction that Senator Benson's heart, "both physically and morally, is in the right place."

Editor, Tri-County Forum:

WHICH IS WORSE?

We note that Ex-Senator James A. Reed of Missouri in a recent speech at Minneapolis is reported to have relieved himself of the following:

"The platform of the Farmer-Labor party of Minnesota and the platform and utterances of Socialists are as much alike as twin rattlesnakes."

—In my humble opinion, it would not be a bit more "inciting" to bellow out:

In meaning, or intent, the "platform" of stand-pat Democrats and the "platform" of stand-pat Republicans are as much alike as twin rattlesnakes.

Respectfully submitted,

To the Editor:

Kindly permit me a little space for a reply to the three column-long broadside of poison gas directed at me, among others, by Pastor Tungseth in the last issue of the Times.

Inasmuch as I am not a candidate for office the abuse heaped on me can very readily be ignored. It is interesting to note, however, that the reverend parson is still considerably agitated over the possibility that the great state of Minnesota employing something like 17,000 persons may even have some position which I could fill. His concern at this time brings to mind his letter in the Times during the fall of 1933 when he stated that if he could have his way I would never have a job, or words to that effect. A desire to see me and my dependents, of which there are seven, deprived of a livelihood because of our political opinions, is to say the least the most unbecoming sentiments I have ever heard from the lips or pen of a minister for the gospel. We are indeed fortunate that Rev. Tungseth has so little influence with the Deity which he professes to represent, for we are still eating three meals a day.

I have fought this political battle in the ranks of the progressive movement since 1908, and I am frank to say that never in my life have I ever before encountered anyone who has so little regard for etics or propriety; se devoid of any regard for the truth; so thoroughly saturated with ego as the Reverend Tungseth. I quite freely admit that I am no match for him in hurling invective. I have never pulled my punches. Neither have I ever asked for mercy. Let me point out however, that never have I ever publicly nor privately in my speeches nor in my writings expressed a desire that those with whom I disagree or whose political ambitions I may wish to thwart shall suffer injury in body or spirit from violent attack nor by starvation.

Yours truly,
R. M. AALBU.

To The Voters of Pennington Co.:

In our column entitled "Along the Farmer-Labor Front", which appears elsewhere in this issue of the Forum, we neglected to warn the voters against last minute rumors and gossip. The end of the campaign is approaching. It frequently happens during the closing days of a campaign, that all sorts of wild and false rumors are being circulated. Do not be misled by last minute gossip which time does not permit to be answered or corrected.

It is possible that the Republican organization, under the leadership of their campaign manager, Elmer B. Berg, will put on a last minute drive throughout the county. The Republican organization has a number of workers, and is well able to put on a spurt during the last two or three days. Our guess is that the Republican workers will be very active during the last three or four days. There may be a lot of misleading information circulated among the voters. Do not be misled by such last minute campaign thunder.

The Farmer-Labor organization in Pennington County has no paid workers. We must depend on the voluntary efforts of the friends and supporters of the movement in the county who are donating their time and efforts to the cause. What little campaign funds we have, have been contributed voluntarily by the friends and supporters of the movement here at home in the county. We have no large campaign funds. We have no millionaires like the DuPonts, the Rockefellers, and the Morgans to contribute to our campaign fund. If we had had the money to do so, we also would have liked to have staged a rally headed by the band and the drum corps, like the one put on by Elmer B. Berg's Republican County organization two or three weeks ago. On account of limited funds, our efforts have had to be limited, and we have had to depend on the voluntary efforts of the members of the movement throughout the county. Do not be frightened by the cry of Socialism or Communism. The calling of names is not going to hurt anyone. The Farmer-Labor program is sound and for the best interests of all the people. The Farmer-Labor candidates are all good, clean, capable men, who will make splendid officials.

In conclusion therefore, we want to again caution the voters not to be mislead or deceived by last minute rumors and gossip that cannot be answered. In conclusion also, let me ask every voter to do his duty and go to the polls on election day.

Yours very truly,
H. O. BERVE,
Thief River Falls, Minnesota,
Pennington County Farmer-Labor
Association Campaign Manager

VETERANS WANT BUCKLER

Dear Veterans—U. S. Representative, Richard Thompson Buckler of Crookstotn, the present Farmer-Labor congressman from the Ninth District of Minnesota, is a candidate for re-election to a second term in the National Congress. I hope every veteran and his wife will vote for him.

Congressman Buckler has supported every bit of legislation in behalf of the veterans, widows of veterans, and their children. He was an active member of the special Steering Committee in the House of Representatives, which led the fight for the passage of the bonus bill in the last session of Congress. You can always depend on "Fighting Dick" Buckler to support and vote for legislation desired by the Veterans.

Here is the favorable bonus voting record of Congressman R. T. Buckler, casting a "yes" vote on each of the following:

1. Patman Bonus Bill—March 22, 1935.
2. Passage of Bonus Bill over Veto—May 22, 1935.
3. Vinson Bonus Bill H. R. 9870—January 10, 1936.
4. Passage of Bonus Bill over Veto—January 24, 1936.

Congressman Buckler did his part to help the Minnesota Veterans receive their adjusted service certificate payments or the so-called "Bonus". He is a friend of the Service Man. Elect your friends. Vote for Richard Thompson Buckler for re-election as the U. S. Representative in Congress from the Ninth District.

A Veteran.

Dear Editor:—

In the October 22nd issue of the Forum, H. O. Berve comments on the use of the city band and drum corps in connection with the Republican rally at which Theodore Christianson and Arthur Nelson, candidates for United States Senate and Lieutenant Governor, respectively, spoke. As usual, he spreads his moss-covered lingo on the vast campaign funds used by the Republicans. As usual, he is utterly uninformed and false in his accusations and conclusions. I am glad, however, for the opportunity which this article gives me to inform our people that all the funds necessary to pay the expense of this meeting, including the band and the drum corps was solicited from a group of local citizens. All contributions were voluntary and made by citizens interested in good government. Mr. Berve did not contribute. He, therefore had a free treat. On the other hand, the Farmer-Labor Party collects its funds by an unjust tax upon payrolls, which the state employe is forced to pay or lose his job. The total proceeds of this tax has been placed at seventy-two Thousand ($72,000) dollars per year and not denied by the Farmer-Labor Party.

Mr. Berve would serve our people better by explaining why the Farmer-Labor party does not collect all the taxes due the State of Minnesota from the big liquor organizations. Perhaps Otto Bremer has a good reason for belonging to the Farmer-Labor Party. Mr. Berve might also explain to the people the Seventy thousand dollar rent contract awarded to Charlie Ward for the Drivers License office.

I hope it is true what Mr. Berve states about many Farmer-Laborites attending this said Republican rally. No doubt all of them who were there were glad to get the truth, which the kept Farmer-Labor Press denies them. Mr. Nelson exposed a lot of the corruption practiced by the "Mexican Generals" of the Farmer-Labor Party. He challenged anyone in the audience to disprove him. Even though men like Berve were there, no one accepted the challenge.

Very truly yours,
ELMER B. BERG

FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER
First District, Pennington County

I was a candidate for County Commissioner from the First Commissioner District of Pennington County, at the Primary Election, and lost out by only Five Votes. A large number of friends and supporters throughout the district and especially in my home township have now urged me to again come out as a candidate for Commissioner on stickers. At this request I have consented to make the race once more, this time on stickers. I trust I may have your vote and support. I will try to see as many of the voters as I can personally, but if I fail to see you, remember that your vote will be appreciated. My stickers will be thoroughly distributed, but if you fail to get one of my stickers, you can write my name in on the ballot. If elected, I pledge myself to be fair and impartial to all parts of the district, and to give fair and efficient service to all the people of my district. Hoping I may have your active support and vote, I am.

Very respectfully,
CHRIS NORBECK.

PAID ADV.: Prepared, published and circulated in his own behalf by Chris Norbeck, Thief River Falls, Minn., candidate for County Commissioner, for which the sum of $1.85 has been paid.

WOMANLESS TOWN AWAITS FIRST BRIDE

Dale, a hamlet near Lake Park, with a population of six bachelors, is awaiting the coming of the first bride. While the bachelors were lamenting the lack of a feminine touch, that it was too lonesome and that "darning socks ain't no fun", Jerome Ulven, 30 and the youngest man in the womanless hamlet, told his neighbors that he planned to be married. He thinks he may have to add women's apparel to his stock of store goods, and that is something new to this town with its grain elevator, several potato warehouses, a garage, a church where services are held every two weeks, the general store and the depot where three trains pass daily.

and writes articles for publication in a political campaign, he should remember that he is not in church. He is not then in the pulpit and he must not exepect to find people humbly accepting his opinions without objections or criticisms. He cannot expect to be a Czar or a dictator, but must be satisfied with the give and take of an open public discussion. No mention had been made of the Senator in this campaign until his letter appeared in the newspapers. No one had thought of him in connection with this campaign. He freely and voluntarily entered the Forum and started a discussion, so why should he try to play the role of a martyr, because he does not like the discussion which he has started?

Senator Tungseth thinks the voters had to vote for him in the last campaign because "there was not much choice." See his letter in the Times. The exalted ego of the man creeps out very plainly in this letter, but he should remember that he was elected senator by a slender margin of only one hundred votes in this district. The other voters who voted for Mr. Harris must have thought there was a lot of choice. Just remember, Senator, that by riding the fence and pretending to be a Progressive and begging your Farmer-Labor parishioners to vote for you, the best you could do was to get a lead of about one hundred votes all three counties of the 65th Legislative District. You received 5,538 in the three counties, and Mr. Harris received 5.437 votes in the three counties. You had a lead of 101 votes. It sure takes a lot of ego to say or to imply that the voters did not have much choice, under such circumstances.

There is one significant thing that all voters should notice in regard to this campaign. The Republican party and the Republican candidates do not dare to go before the voters and dispute the Farmer-Labor platform. That platform is sound. From time to time in the discussion in this campaign, as well as prior thereto, the Republicans had been forced to adopt the principles of the Farmer-Labor platform. Martin Nelson, the Republican candidate for Governor has repented according to one of his late speeches and has now adopted the Farmer-Labor platform. He comes out against a general sales tax now and he comes out in favor of increased income taxes, increased inheritance taxes and for gift taxes and corporation taxes. Public opinion has now forced Martin Nelson, the Republican candidate for Governor to try and stand on the Farmer-Labor platform in order to have any hope of election for Governor. But where does Martin Nelson secretly stand?

What will Martin Nelson do if he should be elected to office? Where do Martin Nelson's staunch Republican friends stand on these questions? What will they do to Martin Nelson if he should be elected? Roy Dunn, Senator Rockne and many others are among the staunch Republican friends of Martin Nelson. They control the Republican party. What will they try to do if the Republican party should get into power? Will they give us a sales tax?

All of the nations outstanding Progressives have come to Minnesota and are campaigning and speaking for the Farmer-Labor party and its candidates. We have Senator Shipstead, Senator LaFollette, Governor LaFollette, Senator Schwellenback, Senator Nye, Senator Frazier, and many others. They have all been here in Minnesota and spoken on behalf of the Farmer Labor party and Elmer A. Benson, Ernest Lundeen and other Farmer-Labor candidates. These men are the veterans fighters in the Progressive movement in United States. Of course, this does not mean anything to Senator Tungseth. He is bitterly opposed to the Farmer-Labor candidates, except Hjalmer Peterson, because he seems to hate and dislike the Farmer-Labor movement so completely that he cannot keep still.

We again invite the voters to read Martin Nelson's record as given in the Forum for last week. Mr. Nelson is a man without any experience whatsoever in public office. Mr. Nelson, the Republican candidate for Governor has been a candidate for a large number of different offices. He has been turned down by the voters every time. He has never been appointed to any office of any kind as far as we know. He failed to carry his home precinct in the last campaign. Evidently the voters of his home community and the surrounding territory have little or no confidence in Martin Nelson.

Senator Tungseth tries to again make the claim that the state expenditures have increased during the Farmer-Labor Administration, but he failed to tell why. He fails to tell you about the $57,000,000 Rural Credit Bonds issued by the Republicans under the administration of Theodore Christianson, who is now the Republican candidate for United States Senator. He fails to tell you about the top-heavy loans made by the Rural Credits Department under the Christianson administration. He fails to tell you that the big banks, and the loan and insurance companies were the ones to really benefit by these top-heavy loans. He fails to tell us that tht farmers get little or no lasting benefit from the loans under the Christianson administration. He fails to tell us that in the 1935 appropriations, $2,750,000 was allowed for Old Age Pensions. Does Senator Tungseth want to do away with the old age assistance? Does the Republican party want to do away with the old age pension? He fails to tell us about the money that had to be spent for relief during the last two or three years in order to help out the needy and to lessen the burden of our cities, villages, towns and counties. Does the Senator want to do away with relief? Is he going to leave the poor and destitute to shift for themselves? Senator Tungseth fails to tell the voters that in 1933, under Speaker Munn, when the Farmer-Laborites had some little control in the house, the appropriations were five million dollars less than for many years last past. There are a lot of things the Senator fails to tell and explain. Why not tell all the truths, Senator? Read Paul A. Rasmussen's address one or twice again and get the full truths, Senator, and then be fair enough to tell the people of Minnesota the truth about the appropriations and the expenditures the last five or six years. Tell them the Republicans have been in complete control of the Legislature that voted the money for years.

We notice that our friend, Marius Waldal, candidate for representative from this district, has a reply to my charges in the last weeks issue of the newspapers. The decision in the contest case between Day and Waldal in District Court of Red Lake County is a public record. It is open to inspection by anyone. Mr. Waldal was well represented by attorneys in this action. Mr. Waldal in this contest case was represented by Attorney F. A. Grady of Crookston, Minnesota, and Paul A. Lundgren, Esquire, of Thief River Falls, Minnesota. Mr. Theodore Quale also sat in during all of this contest and assisted Messrs. Grady and Lundgren. We think that Mr. Waldal was well represented by Attorneys, who were able and competent.

Every vote cast in the district was counted and inspected by three inspectors. These three inspectors were Paul A. Lundgren, for Mr. Waldal, E. L. Prestemoen, for Mr. Day, and Adolf Eklund, as a neutral inspector. These three inspectors inspected every vote and every ballot. The disputed ballots were submitted to Judge Torrance for a decision. All the proof and evidence Waldal has was introduced. The attorneys on both sides inspected the ballots and made known their claims as how they should be counted and when Judge Torrance had heard all the evidence which was introduced by both Waldal and Day, and had heard the arguments, he made the following decision which we have quoted several times:

"And from the foregoing, I do find that the total number of legal votes cast for each one of the respective candidates at said General Election is as follows:

Melby	5301
Day	5225
Waldal	5214
Jones	4289

Bear in mind that this was a trial in Court before an impartial tribunal. It was not a political trial or a political farce such as we had when the House elections' committee proceeded to determine the result of the election. The Court and Judge Torrance had a perfect right, as it has been done in many cases before, to hear an election contest and to count the votes, and report their findings to the legislature. That is what was done in this case and when everything was considered, Judge Torrance after hearing all the evidence from both Waldal and Day makes the following report on his conclusions of law:

As conclusions of law, I find:

First: "That said contestant, plaintiff, W. E. Day received one of the two highest total votes legally cast for representative in said 65th Legislative District at the General Election held November 6, 1934, and that said W. E. Day was duly elected as one of the representatives from the 65th Legislative District in the State of Minnesota.

Second: "That the certificate of election heretofore issued to Mr. Waldal is null and void and that said contestant, plaintiff, W. E. Day is entitled to receive a certificate of election for the office of Representative from the 65th Legislative District in the State of Minnesota, together with his costs and disbursements in this proceeding, to be taxed and inserted in the Judgment to be entered herein."

This is a public record which can be inspected at the Clerk of Court's Office in Red Lake County. In the face of this record and after W. E. Day was found to be fairly and squarely elected why did the Republican controlled house allow Mr. Waldal to retain his seat in the legislature? The voters of this district will have to judge for themselves and decide the issue between Mr. Waldal and Mr. Day. Walter E. Day received a raw deal from the Republican Elections Committee in the House. The voters will correct this wrong done to Mr. Day.

In conclusions, with all respect to the opposition, we again want to urge every voter who believes in the Farmer-Labor platform and Farmer-Labor principles to go to the polls on election day and vote the Farmer-Labor ticket straight. Of course, if you do not believe in the Farmer-Labor principles and platform, then we cannot ask you to do this, but if you believe in the Farmer-Labor principles, then we ask you to go to the polls and vote Farmer-Labor straight, rather than to vote for people who try to ride the fence and get themselves elected to office by pretending to be something which they are not. There is no use if you believe in the Farmer-Labor platform and program to elect men who, like Senator Tungseth, bitterly hate the Farmer-Labor movement and oppose its candidates. With these final words, we submit the matter to the Judgment of the voters of the district, for their determination. We predict the election of Elmer A. Benson for Governor, Ernest Lundeen for Senator and the entire Farmer-Labor ticket with large majorities.

AMERICANS LEAD IN TELEPHONING

There are yodelers in the United States and telephone calls in Switzerland—but the Swiss are famed for their yodeling and this country leads the world in using the telephone.

Americans use the telephone more than all the rest of the world. In this country, fast, clear, accurate and far-reaching service is provided at a price within reach of a larger percentage of the population than in any other nation.

For more than half a century, the Bell System has worked constantly to improve telephone service and to keep down its cost. The Bell System organization is well fitted to this task. CAPITOL NEWS REVIEW ator Henrik Shipstead, veteran Farmer-Laborite, came out strongly for Roosevelt and the Farmer-Labor party last week.

"The present goal", he declared, "is a liberal government controlled by all the people." As more and more liberals forget state and personal differences to unite for the election of President Roosevelt and the defeat of reaction, the power of the people to control becomes apparent.

Senator Shipstead's statement that an analysis by the National Industrial Relations Board that the last three years of the Hoover administration cost American wage earners 37 billion dollars in lost wages, American businessmen 47 billion dollars in lost dividends and rents, and American cooperative corporations 23 billions more, amounting to a total of 100 billion dollars for three years or 33 billion dollars a year, is startling when compared with the so-called excesses charged against the Roosevelt administration.

The total national debt which includes 14 billion dollors for liberty loans and world war bonds, is only a little bit more than the amount that the Hoover administration cost the American people in one year. If government spending continued at the same rate as at present with the government deficit growing correspondingly it would take thirty years of Roosevelt's administration to cost the American public as much as Hoover's administration cost in three.

The Republican party in Minnesota and its candidates for office, having exhausted every possible issue which they could raise during the campaign and having been defeated on every one, are trotting out the threadbare red scare again.

In a last minute desperate effort to frighten voters, they are obtaining lists of ministers and churchgoers throughout the state and sending them scare literature, obviously prepared and circulated by the Republican party in the interests of Republican candidates.

Every person enrolled in Sunday school in Hennepin County has received an unsigned postcard, presumably coming from another church member, asking them to vote for candidates who will protect the home and church, the implication being that only Republican candidates will do this. Every priest and minister in the state has been already circularized by letters and pamphlets which intimate that only through electing Republicans can the state of Minnesota be saved from communism and a civil war.

Resentment is high among many persons concerning these tactics. The clergy themselves feel that they are being taken advantage of unfairly and that these letters and pamphlets are an insult to their intelligence. Many of the letters and postcards are unsigned or are signed merely, "churchgoer," or "member of your congregation," which makes them doubly unwelcome.

One church member in Minneapolis last week who had received three post cards in four days began to do some investigating. He compared the mimeograph type on the unsigned post cards with the mimeograph type on letters he had received from the Republican headquarters and found them to be identical.

Shipstead Pleads for Support of Roosevelt AndFarmer-Laborites

Senator Henrik Shipstead, veteran Farmer-Laborite and pioneer among liberal forces in Minnesota, called on all his followers to support President Roosevelt, Ernest Lundeen, Elmer A. Benson and the Farmer Labor ticket in a radio address last week.

"For too long", he decared, "have the privileged few ruled our nation. The present goal is a liberal government controlled by all of the people."

Henrik Shipstead defended the New Deal policies as, on the whole, tending toward achieving a more equitable distribution of wealth although he said that he did not agree with all of them.

"Some people complain," he stated, "of the cost and waste of recovery under the Roosevelt administration. What about the waste and cost of preceding administrations? The waste and losses caused by the three administrations prior to Roosevelt cost the American people so many billions of dollars that they have never been able to count them.

"However, the national Industrial Relations Board, which is considered an authority by all political parties, has stated that the last three years of the Hoover administration cost the American wage earners 37 billion dollars in lost wages. The American people's loss in produced income to persons in business for themselves and income for rents and royalties and for interest and dividends on invested capital is given at 47 billion dollars, with business losses to individual owners and corporations amounting to 23 billions more, making a total of over 100 billion dollars the cost of the Hoover administration."

The Ladies Aid are serving pie and coffee Saturday, October 31, from 2 o'clock until 5:30 at the Salvation Army Hall. Everyone welcome.

IDA GULSETH WED TO HERBERT NELSON

A marriage of interest to the people of this community occurred Sunday when Miss Ida Gulseth of this city was united in holy wedlock to Herbert Nelson of St. Hilaire. The ceremony was conducted at the Zion Lutheran parsonage, with Rev. E. L. Tungseth officiating, and the couple were attended by Miss Caroline Lillivold of this city, and Ronald Nelson, brother of the groom, also of this city. The bride wore a street length dress of green silk.

Miss Gulseth was a graduate of the Lincoln high school in 1932, and has been staying at home since her graduation. The newly wedded couple are planning to go to Minneapolis.

A wedding dance was given for the young couple Monday evening at the Bilden and Olson hall in St. Hilaire.

FAREWELL PARTY

A large group of friends and neighbors gathered to surprise Miss Irene Gustafson at her home in the River Valley community on Saturday evening. Miss Gustafson left the following evening for the southern part of Minnesota. The guests present were the honor guest, Miss Gustafson, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Gustafson, and Mildred and Jeanette Gustafson, Mrs. Mabel Stenvold and family of Trail, Russell and Adeline Thompson of Plummer. Carl Hillstad and Roy Burke of Bagley, Mr. and Mrs. C. Gustafson, Mr. and Mrs. A. WOMENS CLUB GROUP MEETS

Several groups of the local Women's club met early this week, among them the Penates, Young Matrons, Music, and the Drama groups.

The Music group met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Gaston Ward. Plans for the coming year were discussed, and a program consisting of contests, stunts, and singing was given. There were 22 ladies present, 19 of them members, and 3 guests. The guests were Miss Lenore Lieberman of this city, Mrs. Sadie Nason of Lengby, and Miss Violet Rhodegaard, of this city. Lunch was served late in the evening.

The Penates group met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Dr. Orrin Lynde, with Mrs. B. O. Norby assisting. This year's topic is "The Problems of Our Times," and a mock election was held. Those who took part in the program were Mrs. Norby, Mrs. R. S. Selover, Mrs. Morris Bye, Mrs. Paul Lundgren, and Mrs. Ralph Woolhouse.

The Young Matrons group met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Arthur Hamilton, with Mrs. Clifford Storholm assisting. A short business meeting was held, and plans for the year's activities were discussed. The evening was spent socially, and lunch was served by the two hostesses.

The Drama group held its meeting at the home of Mrs. Gunder Legvold, with Mrs. Lloyd Bennes assisting. It was the first business meeting of the year, and plans were talked over for the work which is to be done this year. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Andrew Bottelson, with Lincoln Arnold assisting.

ADELINE LINDBERG BECOMES BRIDE OF MINNEAPOLIS MAN

Miss Adeline Lindberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Lindberg of this city, became the bride of Donald Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Danielson of St. Ansgar, Iowa. The ceremony took place at 1 p. m., October 25th in the parsonage of the Trinity Lutheran church, with Rev. R. M. Fjelstad officiating. Miss Helen Wassgren, daughter of Mrs. J. A. Wassgren of this city, and Kenneth Lindberg, brother of the groom, attended the couple.

The bride and bridesmaid were both dressed in beautiful gowns of blue silk crepe, and the groom and best man in conventional attire.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school in 1932, and the Eitel School for Nurses in 1936, and has been employed as a nurse at the St. Luke's hospital in this city. The groom is a graduate of the St. Ansgar high school in 1932, and the Dunwoody Institute in 1935, and is employed as a machinist at the Cornelius Manufacturing Company in Minneapolis.

Immediately after the wedding there was a dinner given for the newly wedded couple at the home of the bride's parents, with only members of the family and a few immediate friends present. The bride is well known in this city, having lived with her parents here for 14 years.

The bridal couple left for a short honeymoon trip to Canada, and on their return will make their home in Minneapolis.

OEN'S Will Rebuild

The disastrous fire which destroyed the building and stock of the Oen Mercantile Company Friday night did not destroy the Oen Mercantile Company.

The organization, which has served this community since 1889, has survived. While our loss has been a heavy one, we fortunately are able to continue in business, and are pleased to announce that steps have already been taken to replace the old building with a structure that will be a credit to our city.

Considerable time will be required to complete this new building. In the meantime we will continue to serve you to the best of our ability in temporary quarters.

Our Ladies Ready-To-Wear, Men's Clothing and Shoe departments will be located in the building on Third Street formerly occupied by the Curtis Drug store.

Our Furniture department will be conducted in the north half of the building occupied by Odegaard & Sons Feed store at 315 North Horace Ave., north of the Soo cafe.

The Hardware and Implement business will be located in the Johnson building on Main Ave., south of Borry's garage.

A fuel office will be maintained at our bulk oil station on Atlantic Ave., at 8th Street. The phone number is 57.

Our general office will be maintained in the basement of the Citizen's Bank building, Phone No. 1.

Up to the present time no location has been found for our Grocery department.

We realize that under this scattered arrangement it will be difficult to maintain a satisfactory service. It will, however, enable us to maintain our contacts, and, more important, provide continuous work for our twenty-five employees. These temporary quarters will be established as quickly as possible. Your consideration during these few months of inconvenience will be greatly appreciated by us and by the employees.

We will appreciate it very much if those to whom we have extended credit will make every possible effort to settle their accounts promptly. Naturally we will need all the cash we can get to meet the cost of building and re-stocking our store.

In conclusion we wish to thank our friends and patrons for their many expressions of good will. It is because we believe the community wants this business to be re-established that we are going forward with the resolve to give Thief River Falls a bigger and better Oen Mercantile Company.

Sincerely,

RASMUS OEN

Short Career in Senate Reveals Benson as Ally Of Farmers, Merchants

Six short months at Washington were sufficient for United States Senator Elmer A. Benson to establish himself as one of the outstanding figures in the nation thru his progressive action in behalf of the farmer, the worker, the businessman, the professional man, youth and the common man in general.

He introduced, advocated, and supported innumerable measures intended for the betterment of American life as a whole.

He was one of seven senators who voted for passage of the Frazier-Lemke bill for low-cost refinancing of farm debts when it came up in the senate as an amendment to an appropriations bill.

Other highlights in his short, but brilliant senatorial career include:

YOUTH. The Benson-Amlie Youth Bill was the first comprehensive program for American youth ever attempted. Senator Benson became the recognized national leader in the youth movement.

NEUTRALITY. One of the nation's outstanding opponents of war, his resolution for a new national defense policy won the praise of Jeanette Rankin, international figure in the world peace movement, and many other leaders for peace.

ANTI-WAR PROPAGANDA BILL. Aimed at the roots of the causes of war, this bill provides for making it a criminal offense to purposely write, print, publish, or otherwise disseminate false information with intent to bring our country into war.

ROBINSON-PATMAN BILL. Senator Benson was one of the leaders in the fight for passage of this bill which, now enacted into law, prevents certain unfair trade practices by chain stores. He was chosen to represent the independent merchants in the only nation-wide radio debate held on the subject.

SEED LOANS. Obtained presidential allocation of nearly $20,000,000 for seed loans to farmers throughout the northwest, making it possible for about 30,000 Minnesota farmers to obtain seed in time for spring planting. Senator Benson did this by going direct to the President after his veto of the bill.

M. & St. L. RAILROAD DISMEMBERMENT PLAN. Introduced resolution for its investigation, resulting in the saving of present railroad facilities for about 100 Minnesota and Iowa towns, and preventing the loss of about $1,750,000 yearly payroll to the state and throwing out of employment of approximately 2,500 men.

FEDERAL HIGHWAY AID. By clearly portraying to the Senate the disastrous effects of having the $125,000,000 Hayden-Cartwright Federal Aid Highway funds for 1937 cancelled, he prevented the loss of $7,500,000 to Minnesota in highway improvement which would have meant throwing 5,000 men out of work.

DROUTH RELIEF. After a personal inspection tour and conferring with farmers in the Minnesota drouth area during the height of the recent drouth, he presented his Eight-point Drouth Relief program which was practically all adopted by the federal agencies.

PROCESSING TAX BILL. Introduced to recover from the processors $20,000,000 which the Supreme Court refunded to them, but which they never paid or earned, and to have these monies either restored to those who originally paid them, or restored to the public treasury. The latter method was adopted by the President in his windfall tax levy in the Tax Bill which was passed.

FINNISH CLAIMS BILL. Passed after the matter had been blocked for seventeen years and had prevented Finnish ship owners from collecting damages for vessels impounded by the United States during the World War while all other nations had been granted this right.

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE. Elmer A. Benson was one of the first in Minnesota to urge passage of this measure.

Minnesota merchants benefited by his successful fight to restore Fort Snelling as the purchasing center for Minnesota CCC camps. This business amounts to millions of dollars annually.

FARMERS AND WORKERS RIGHTS AMENDMENT TO THE FEDERAL CONSTITUTION. Senator Benson was the author of this measure, which would give Congress the power to abolish child labor, regulate wages and hours, protect collective bargaining, provide for old age, sick and unemployment benefits, as well as to own and operate natural resources and enterprises essential to social and economic welfare of the people.

LABOR. Senator Benson worked diligently for the Walsh-Heely Federal Contracts bill, the 30-hour week bill, the Pettingill Long and Short Haul Repeal measure, the Wheeler-Crosser bill and every other measure sponsored and supported in Washington by organized labor.

LARGE ARMY AND NAVY APPROPRIATIONS. Senator Benson opposed and voted against the huge appropriations for army and navy in peace time.

WATER CONSERVATION. Senator Benson played a leading part in the demand upon the federal government for the Lac qui Parle and Boise de Sioux flood control and water conservation projects, the Red River Valley water conservation program, and similar measures to restore and control the lakes and streams of this state.

THE NEELY BILL. Senator Benson won the commendation of all independent theater owners and officials representing more than one quarter of a million members of parent-teachers associations by his fight to banish block-booking and blind selling of motion pictures. He served as a member on the sub-committee which held hearings and recommended this bill to pass.

RAKE IS BETTER WEAPON THAN GUN

Kittson county's agent, Jim Salisbury, has gained reputation as an expert duck hunter in that he uses a common garden rake as weapon. Three Hallock men went to Lake of the Woods to hunt ducks, another group went to Detroit Lakes, but Mr. Salisbury, who remained at home, has a record that beats that of the other hunters. While he was working in his garden two ducks lighted beside him, he reached for his rake and bagged a big mallard. The three men who went to Lake of the Woods also came home with one duck, but the Detroit Lakes men brought none. After a day's work they had wounded one duck, but it rested on the water for an hour and then flew away.

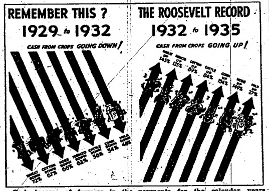
Farm Income Rise From 1932 Low



Cash income of farmers in the United States has risen steadily since 1932. In that year the farm cash income of $4,328,000,000 was the lowest on record, and farm prices had declined to the lowest level since the Civil War. Beginning with 1933 farm cash income has risen steadily. The latest official figures of the United States Department of Agriculture give the farm cash income for the years 1932 to 1936 as follows:

Farm Cash Income
1932	$4,328,000,000
1933	4,955,000,000
1934	5,831,000,000
1935	7,090,000,000
1936	7,850,000,000 (Estimated)

These figures show that since 1932 farm cash income has been increased $3,522,000,000, or an average of more than $880,000,000 a year.

Included in the figures are benefit payments under the Agricultural Adjustment Programs. These benefit payments for the calendar years were:

1933	$162,000,000
1934	556,000,000
1935	583,000,000
1936	470,000,000

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration was created by Act of Congress in 1933. Since it began operations and until January 6, 1936, when the Supreme Court invalidated certain provisions of the Act, more than 3,000,000 farmers voluntarily participated in each year's programs. Farm prices began to bound upward almost immediately after the AAA started to function.

The net farm income, that is, income available after deducting production expenses, has more than doubled since 1932. In that year the net farm income was $1,473,000,000. In 1933 it had risen more than one billion dollars, or to $2,548,000,000. In 1934 it was $3,257,000,000, and in 1935 $3,550,000,000. The year 1936 will show a further increase.

Says Dangerous Varicose Veins Can Be Reduced At Home

Rub Gently Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice for home treatment that anyone in this world can give, is to get a prescription known as Moone's Emerald Oil.

Simply ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you should notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are no longer troublesome. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic sores and ulcers are often entirely healed.

MIDDLE RIVER

Big Hunting Stories

At this time of year when our nimrods are out with their guns and dogs day after day shooting ducks with varying success, it is a common occurrence to see small groups of them talking together, relating tales of their present and former experiences in hunting.

Dick Sjoberg is an inveterate hunter and a pioneer in the sport in this locality, having hunted ever since he was big enough to tote a gun and before the existence of Middle River. He has undoubtedly shot more game than any other man in the community and has had enough exciting experiences to fill a good sized book. Among his most thrilling hunting experiences he tells of a morning's shooting on the ice on Thief Lake about the year 1902 or 1903 when both he and his brother Orie were boys in their teens. It happened in November. A sudden severe cold snap froze the lake sufficiently to bear the boys up on skates and prevent the late ducks and the immense northern flight then enroute from finding open water to light in. The air above the ice on the lake was black with flying ducks and geese, hundreds of which were lighting down on the ice.

The two Sjoberg boys and a couple of other boys all on skates, after keeping concealed in the surrounding rushes until the opportune time, skated into the sitting and flying horde of game and emtied their pump guns into the birds, which were so thick that it was not necessary to take aim to kill. The boys kept on shooting for the few minutes required for the birds to rise off the slippery ice and after the birds had gotten out of gun range they gathered up 47 geese and over a hundred ducks.

Co-Operative Discussion Every Tuesday Night

The stockholders and other interested in the several co-operative enterprises of Middle River are meeting each Tuesday evening for a study and round table talk on the subject of co-operation, under the leadership of V. N. Hegg, of Minneapolis, who has been engaged to conduct the class here for six weeks under the sponsorship of the creamery association, the cooperative oil company, and the cooperative store. Last Tuesday night's meeting was quite interesting and coming meetings promise to be better attended and of vital interest to all progressive citizens.

Ole Dengerud, who lives two and a half miles from Newfolden, was in town Thursday circulating sale bills for an auction sale of his stock and implements preparatory to giving up the active management of his farm which he has rented out. He will continue to live on the farm, however.

Harry Cook returned Wednesday from the cities, having changed his mind in regard to continuing on to Iowa as we announced in a previous announcement.

Mrs. Clay of Greenbush called on friends here Wnedesday.

Both daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Hall visited their parents over the week end. Miss Alice came down from Warroad Friday evening and Mr. and Mrs. Empie came Saturday evening. Mrs. Hall, who is not at all well, went with Mr. and Mrs. Empie on their return to their home at Farmington. Mr. Hall received a letter from his daughter Tuesday announcing that Mrs. Hall is already feeling better.

Mr .and Mrs. Philip Anderson of Crookston were in attendance at the final Campbell show last Saturday night and were Sunday guests of the Carriere and Herman Young families.

The school program, basket social, and dance Friday night is reported to have been quite a successful affair. The playlet was well received. The CCC boys were well represented at the dance, their orchestra furnishing the music, assisted by Miss Peterson on the piano.

Miss Geda Risberg was home for the week end and in company with her brother visited Thief River Falls Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Overvold went to Grygla, Friday.

The Finnish Lutheran church have gotten out tickets for their annual Thanksgiving dinner at the West hotel.

Carpenter Elbert Peltolo is making some much needed minor improvements on the Woodman hall. Entrance steps and a small porch is being built at the rear door and the projection booth is to be improved somewhat, we are informed.

Mrs. Selby, nee Alice Grobey, who lived here when a school girl, but has for a number of years lived in Washington, arrived here on Monday and is visiting among old friends of her girlhood. She holds the position of postmistress in a small Washington town and had been attending a convention in the cities before coming here.

Dick and Gene Sjoberg left early Saturday morning for Lac qui Parle county to shoot pheasants. They only stayed two days, returning home Sunday night but brought home their limit of twelve birds, which they say they shot in thirty minutes of their time.

Margaret Moen, who was recently hurt in an auto accident, was more seriously hurt than was at first thought. In addition to a broken collar bone her hip was injured which will confine her to the hospital for some time to come. A subscription list circulated in her behalf in Middle River brought in over $100 in cash.

Mr. and Mrs. Ludvig Lorentson spent the weekend with relatives at Minot and Fairdale, N. D.

MAVIE

Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Baumann and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Parnow of Erie motored to Winnipeg Wednesday, returning here the following day.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rosett, Anna and Edwin of St. Hialire attended the confirmation services Rosett at the Germantown Zion Lutheran church Sunday.

Mrs. Allen Rehm received medical attention at a hospital in Thief River Falls last week.

Ludvig Rosett attended to business matters in Thief River Falls Friday.

A number of ladies of Thief River Falls were entertained by Mrs. E. W. Baumann at her home Thursday evening in the form of a bridal shower in compliment to Mrs. Karl Kollitz, a bride of last June. A very enjoyable evening was spent after which a delicious lunch was served.

George Styles and Lawrence Phillip will leave this week for California to make their home during the winter months.

Alfred Olson and Art Von Volt of Silverton called at the Melvin Sabo home Friday.

Miss Huldah Stock and brother Lehart were visitors in Thief River Falls Friday.

The Allen Rehm family recently left for Thief River Falls to make their home.

Jens Johnson transacted business in Thief River Falls Saturday.

Mrs. A. W. Oski and infant daughter returned from Thief River Falls, Saturday.

Mrs. Delman Cote of Thief River Falls spent a few days last week with her brothers Alfred and Melvin Olson.

Mrs. John Phillip visited with her daughter, Miss Estelle, at T. R. Falls, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Ristau of Goodridge visited relatives in Mavie, Sunday.

BEMIDJI TO BUILD MODEL CITY TO SOLVE HOUSING

Construction of a municipally operated low rent model village for needy families in the Bemidji area seemed assured with the approval of the project by the state WPA office. Building will start as soon as the project is approved by President Roosevelt.

Needy families will be able to rent a house in the model village for not more than $10 a month, Walter Miss, city engineer who planned the project, declares. Each of the prefabricated homes will cost $1,500 with the total cost of $45,000 and the city's share $$1,000.

Basements will be excavated and foundations set as soon as final approval is received. It is thought the work can be completed before cold weather arrives. The houses will be built in sections and assembled on the foundations. Each house will have a full basement, bedroom, combination living and dining room, and kitchen, automatic pump and running water.

Miss points to the plan as an example of the modern housing possible at low cost in this section of the state. The project is of great economic and social value as a means of alleviating the present suffering of those in low income brackets and relief families, he said.

Re-elect BUCKLER To CONGRESS

Has Fine Record

His record, both as State Senator and Congressman stands as an open book. Such legislation as would benefit the greatest number of people has always received his support.

In Congress, the record shows he has supported all legislation for the benefit of the farmers, the workers and the small businessman.

His Record is 100% for the People

Buckler voted and fought for the Frazier-Lemke Farm Refinancing Bill and all other legislation in behalf of the farmers.

Buckler was a member of the Steering Committee and a co-author and sponsor of the Robinson-Patman Equal Opportunity in Business Bill.

Buckler voted for the bank deposit guaranty law.

Buckler voted for stock market regulation to curb the gamblers.

Buckler voted for the bonus and supported all veteran legislation.

Re-elect Buckler and Send a Farmer to Congress

Congressman Richard Thompson Buckler is the Farmer-Labor nominee for U. S. Representative in Congress. He deserves your Vote and Support. He fearlessly led the farmer's fight in the State Senate and in the U. S. Congress. He voted for you. YOU vote for HIM now! When the farmers prosper, business and labor prosper.

Buckler Pledges Continued Support of and Advocates:

—a solution of the money question in behalf of the people.

—a living annual wage for labor and jobs for the unemployed.

—greater opportunities for young men and women.

—government ownership and operation of munitions plans as a means to peace and to the prevention of encouragement of war for private profit.

—stoppage of the issuance of tax-exempt securities.

—the Frazier-Lemke bill plan which would provide farm and home loans at 1½ per cent interest and 1½ per cent amortization payments.

—the bill fixing guaranteed minimum price for farm products.

—adequate aid and relief for the drouth-stricken and needy.

—more liberal and adequate national federal old age pensions.

—fairer treatment for disabled veterans, widows and orphans.

—further legislation in behalf of the independent merchant and the small business man.

—a general federal aid for rural, village and city schools.

—federal government control of money and credits.

—favor additional silver legislation to raise agricultural prices.

—extension of rural electrification.

For character and honest, courage and fearlessness, ability and efficiency, aggressiveness and experience, vote for and send R. T. Buckler back to Congress for a second term.

CONSERVATIONISTS URGED TO APPROVE AMENDMENT NO. 1

All persons interested in conservation are urged to vote for Amendment No. 1 to the state constitution at the general election next Tuesday, states Theo. F. Meltzer of the State Conservation bureau.

The amendment will authorize the legislature to permit the exchange of state lands for federal or privately owned lands in order to bring about better forest management.

There are more than 300,000 acres of state-owned lands within the Chippewa and Superior National forests and conservation officials agree that it is very difficult for the federal and state governments to cooperate efficiently in the management of these scattered holdings.

Passage of Amendment No. 1 would permit such state lands to be exchanged for federal lands more accessible to state control. The state, however, will reserve mineral rights to all lands exchanged.

The amendment would also permit more efficient management of more than 2,000,000 acres of tax delinquent lands which will revert to the state to be used for forestry and other conservation purposes.

MINNESOTA MUST NOT TURN BACK! IT MUST GO FORWARD, FORWARD with the Farmer-Labor Party, FORWARD with Ernest Lundeen for U. S. Senator, FORWARD with Elmer A. Benson for Governor.

Under the inspired leadership of Minnesota's greatest governor, the late, beloved Floyd Olson, his indominitable courage in his epic fight for human rights, and with the backing of the people of this State, the Farmer-Labor Party will Carry On the high principles to which it has been pledged. As a Party born of Minnesota, it will protect and promote the interests of its people economically and socially, and aim to conserve the wealth of this great State for Minnesotans. VICTORY will be its glorious monument to its lost leader—VICTORY for the Welfare of All People.

Excerpts from U. S. Senator Elmer A. Benson's 1936 Keynote Address:—

Our program for the future is based on the principles of security at home and neutrality abroad. We believe the federal government should have a very definite neutrality policy which will not embroil us in any foreign wars. We believe that our bankers should not be permitted to make loans to warring powers. We advocate government ownership of munitions factories and conscription of wealth, as well as men, in times of war.

We favored the Frazier-Lemke bill for refinancing farm credits in order to keep the owners of farms on their land. Farmer and consumer cooperatives have made excellent progress in Minnesota. We advocate the extension of government credit to the creation of new cooperatives. We urge leniency in collection of seed and feed loans.

The question of care for the aged and the unemployed is of paramount importance. We advocate unemployment insurance, sickness and accident insurance and adequate old age pensions, according to the general principles laid down in the Frazier-Lundeen social security bill.

We advocate an extension of vocational training for youths, state employment and aid to needy students, in high school and college. The principles laid down in the Benson-Amlie or American Youth bill which I introduced in the Senate should be incorporated into our state law.

Our general program of state aid to schools is not complex. It favors equalization of educational opportunity for children—hence, it favors more state aid and the payment of those aids in full. It insists that the distribution of that state aid shall be so arranged that it will be more clearly felt in the districts where poverty and need is great. The Farmer-Labor program assumes that competent teachers should have security in the pursuit of their profession and be paid adequate salaries for the vital task they are performing.

The home owner and farmer today bear a tax burden altogether too heavy and unjust.

If I am elected Governor, I propose to submit a program to the legislature which will bring the needed tax relief to them. This tax program will be based on the fundamental tax theory of the Farmer-Labor Party that taxes should be levied in accordance with ability to pay. It will shift the burden of taxes from those who are economically oppressed to those who possess the means to pay. The Republican tax program of a sales tax would shift the burden from the wealthy onto the backs of the poor.

I propose to bring about tax relief for the home owner and farmer through an increase in inheritance, estate and gift taxes; an increase in income taxes in the upper brackets; an increase in the tax on monies and credits; an increase in the gross earnings taxes on railroads and corporations; a corporate excess tax, and an increase in iron ore taxes.

Enactment of this tax program would enable us to carry out the plan of the Farmer-Labor Party for real instead of fictitious tax relief. We are opposed to a sales tax.

LABOR LAWS

Labor has been in the forefront of the progressive movement since the beginning. I pledge myself to support all workers in their struggle for higher wages, shorter hours, and better working conditions. I pledge myself, if elected, to use every legal instrument in my power to prevent the importation of thugs and strike breakers in labor disputes. I believe not only that labor is entitled to collective bargaining, but I add that the workers are entitled to collective bargaining through unions of their own choosing.

Aligned against us in this campaign will be the greatest array of wealth and privilege this movement has ever faced. They will use money with reckless abandon to try to destroy us. Entrenched wealth is determined to bury with his mortal remains the movement to which Floyd Olson gave his life. We will not let them.

Do Not Turn Back —to the dark years of selfish Republican rule that brought years of prosperity to stock market gamblers but growing depression for farmers, workers, independent merchants, teachers, professional workers, the common people who form the very foundation upon which the greatness of this State and the Union is built.

DO NOT TURN BACK to the autocratic reign of financial manipulators, war makers, the predatory interests who control the Republican party and whose system has made TENANT FARMERS of almost half of Minnesota's farm population. DO NOT TURN BACK to a system forever to be known for its high interest rates, its mortgage foreclosures, and its beating the farmers out of fair and equitable prices for their products.

DO NOT TURN BACK to the same selfish interests who condoned coercion, slugging, yes, even killing of workers, to subdue them to their will; who have plunged this great country into its greatest depression, creating want, bewilderment and despair in this land capable of producing an abundance for everyone; who have robbed the country of its vitality through ignorant, misguided methods; who have nurtured war for their own gain—WHO HAVE STOPPED SOCIAL PROGRESS.

November 3rd is the time to relegate such control of the Republican Party to the limbo of forgotten ills.

SOCIETY

ENTERTAINS FOR SISTER

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Thor Sorenson of this city was the scene of a birthday party in honor of Mrs. Sorenson's sister, Mrs. John Radnieki of Trail. The guests present included the honor guest, Mrs. Radnieki, her husband, John, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gjernes, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Berg, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jeffries, and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Radnieki, all of this city. A 2 o'clock dinner was served, and the afternoon was spent socially.

GLADYS AND ALICE WOLD ENTERTAIN

The home of J. Wold of this city was the scene of a 7 o'clock dinner Friday evening, with the Misses Gladys and Alice acting as hostesses. The guests present were the Misses Ethel Rambeck, Stella Stadum, Edla Erickson, Eileen Rhodegaard, Harriet Jung, and Viola Bredeson. The house was gayly decorated in colors of orange and black. The evening was spent in conversation, and playing Chinese Chess.

COOPERATIVE CLASS WILL NEXT MEET NOVEMBER 9

The Cooperative Study group met Monday evening in the former Elk's Hall. Although the attendance was not very large, discussions were held, and Leroy Ruprecht delighted his audience with several songs, to which he played his own accompaniment. This school is being conducted by V. N. Hegg of Minneapolis, who instructs in the various phases of the cooperative business enterprises.

The meeting scheduled for Monday, November 2nd, will be postponed until Monday, Nov. 9th.

BOY SCOUT TROOP WILL HOLD PARTY

Troup No. 49 of the local Boy Scouts is holding regular weekly meetings at the Great Northern depote at 7 o'clock every Monday evening. Next Monday there will be a party in conjunction with the business meeting and all members are urged to attend, states C. W. Sande, scoutmaster.

Unusual interest is being shown in the Scouting being done in this group, and considerable progress is being made.

ENTERTAINS AT DINNER

Sunday guests at a 12:30 dinner at the Rev. Schroeder home in this city Sunday were Mrs. A. P. Brende, and the Misses Margaret Aasen and Bernice Albertson, formerly of Crookston. The afternoon was spent socially.

RUTH JACOBSON BECOMES BRIDE OF ELWOOD LUNDQUIST

Miss Ruth Jacobson, daughter of John Jacobson of Dassel, Minnesota, and Elwood Lundquist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Lundquist of Warren, were united in holy matrimony at the Covenant Parsonage in Warren, October 24, at 8 p. m. Rev. T. W. Danielson conducted the ceremony, and they were attended by Mrs. T .W. Danielson, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, and Harry Lundquist, brother of the groom, as best man. Young Shirley Lundquist, niece of the groom, acted as flower girl, and scattered rose petals in the path of the bride. The bride was escorted bride. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, as Lohengrins wedding march was played by Miss Linnea Lundquist. The ceremony was performed under an arch of ferns and flowers, in a room beautifully decorated with pink and white streamers, and lighted with pink tapers. Miss Elizabeth Lundquist rendered piano solos before the ceremony, and also accompanied Rev. Danielson as he sang "O Promise Mee', and "I Love You Truly."

The bride was graduated from the Dassel high school and Normal Department, and taught school for three years in the Dassel vicinity. The groom, formerly of Warren, is employed as a car salesman at C. Gustafson and Son, Inc., in this city.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white satin with lace trimming, and a long tulle veil held in place with a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms. The matron of honor wore an ankle-length gown of deep emerald green silk crepe. Both carried lovely bouquets of roses, white pompoms, ferns, and babies breath. The flower girl wore a floor-length dress of pink crepe.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Danielson, with a program consisting of toasts and music, and Dr. A. E. Carlson of Warren acting as toastmaster. There were about 30 guests present at the wedding and reception.

The bridal couple went on a honeymoon trip to Winnipeg and other Canadian points, and will make their home in this city upon their return, on November 1st.

KITCHEN SHOWER IS HELD

Mrs. Carl Kollits of this city, nee Clarice Travillion, was the guest of honor at a kitchen shower given for her last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Rev. Baumann in Mavie. The guests present included the honor guest, Mrs. Kollitz the Misses Gertrude Bakke, Dorothy Norlander, Eva Robarge, Mary Otmar, Anne Lappic, Helen Wassgren, Hilda Wilson, Rhodella Angell, and Mrs. Art Wilson mother of Mrs. Kollitz. Mrs. Baumann acted as hostess, and the evening was spent socially. A delicious lunch was served at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Kollitz received many beautiful gifts from those present.

MISSION CIRCLE MEETING

Mrs. Oscar Arndtson of this city entertained the Mission Circle meeting at her home Friday afternoon. The group of guests, which included both members of the Mission Circle and neighbors, were the Mesdames Otto Parbst, Alfred Haugen, M. M. Johnson, August Johnson, Lewis VeVea, Nelius Nelson, Oscar Stadum, Clause Wiebe, Ingaborg Bjoland, T. Fossum, Oscar Ostmoe, H. Haugum, and Mrs. Lura. The afternoon was spent in scripture reading, prayer, singing, and a paper on foreign missions by Mrs. Parbst. A delicious lunch was served at 4:30.

The Mission Circle holds its meetings once a month, and the next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Alfred Haugen.

MISS EVELYN SAMUELSON WED TO HAZEL MAN

Miss Evelyn Samuelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Samuelson, who live 8 miles west of this city, was united in the bonds of holy matrimony to Alvin Peterson of Hazel. The ceremony took place last Sunday morning at 9 a. m. at the parsonage of Rev. R. M. Fjelstad with Miss Ida Samuelson, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, and Lloyd Rustad of this city, as best man.

The bride was graduated from the local high school, and has since been teaching in rural schools in this territory. The groom operates a farm near Hazel.

The bride was dressed in a traveling suit of grey-blue color, and the bridesmaid was dressed in a navy blue silk dress.

After the wedding ceremony the newly wedded couple went on a honeymoon trip to Chicago, where they expect to stay for another week or more. On returning to this community, they will make their home on the groom's farm near Hazel.

EASTERN STAR LODGE MEETS

The Eastern Star Lodge held its annual Halloween party Wednesday evening in the Masonic Hall. Many members and their guests were present, and dancing and card playing were the diversions of the evening. The hall was decorated in orange and black Halloween colors. Music was furnished by the local Campus Freshman. The serving committee served a late lunch, and a successful evening drew to a close.

LOCAL GIRL WEDS EDINBURG MAN

Miss Justine Kivle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Kivle of this city, was united in wedlock to Peter Fingarson of Edinburg Saturday morning, November 24th. Rev. G. L. Halmrast of Edinburg read the service, and the couple was attended by Miss Alice G. Loe and Arnold Olson, also of that city.

The bride attended the Lutheran Bible school in Grand Forks, and the Mayville Teachers college. After a honeymoon trip to Chicago, the couple will make their home on a farm near Edinburg, N. D.

Biggest Fire Here Destroys Oen's Store

store left at 6:30 after the day's work, and it was half an hour after this the flames were noticed. It is believed that a smoldering cigarette or spontaneous combustion caused the fire. When first seen the flames appeared to be coming from the basement through the big stairway near the southeast corner of the building.

Mr. Oen estimates the loss of the building at $50,000 and of the merchandise at $75,000, making a total of $125,000. Insurance was carried to the extent of $90,000 on the entire establishment, giving a personal loss toss to Mr. Oen of $35,000.

A material loss is felt by everyone in the Thief River Falls trade area as Mr. Oen has been a prominent merchant here since 1889 and enjoyed trade from an immense trade territory. He has been conceded to be the largest independent merchant in Northwestern Minnesota.

But no one needs to feel disheartened for any length of time. In spite of his 70 or more years of age, Mr. Oen is making preparations to begin immediately the construction of another building of the same dimensions as the former and modern in every respect to house a department store second to none in northern Minnesota. Removal of the debris has already begun and construction of the new building will be in progress shortly.

We have the Kadette line of radios, electric and battery sets, a full line of R C A tubes, batteries, etc. We also have a complete Service Dept.

REV. GULBRANDSON WILL GIVE "BACK TO BIBLE" LECTURES

Times change and men come and go. Elsewhere in this issue of the Forum is an advertisement calling the readers' attention to the "Back to the Bible" lectures to begin in the Methodist church, Sunday evening, Nov. 1. The lecturer, David Gulbrandson, has now lived two months in Thief River Falls, and has made many local acquaintances. He is a man of wide experience, having lectured in various parts of the United States and the Dominion of Canada, and in foreign countries. Although he has been a teacher of languages in theological institutions, he has made an intensive study of the Bible itself and loves to give to others what he himself has discovered. He comes from southern Minnesota where he for several years made his headquarters at Hutchinson. His associate, James Ward, who leads the music, comes from Duluth. These live preachers will present a living message in speech and son.—Contributed.

Market Reports Steer Prices 25-40c Higher

South St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 28. 1936: (U. S. D. A.) Only a small quota of fed steers and yearlings were on hand and these sold fully steady today or around 25-40c higher for the week to date, with good and choice kinds largely $8.50 to 10.00, including medium weight steers at the upper figure. Bulk of the supply, however, consisted of lower grades, with medium grade short-feds mostly under $8, and plain grass kinds $5.00-6.50. She stock was slow, steady to weak, with a few good fat heifers at $8.00-9.00, with medium kinds down to $6.50 or less and plain grassy kinds $4.25-5.50, while very thin light sorts sold down toward $3.25. Medium to good fat cows earned $4.50-5.75, the bulk of common down to $4.00 and low cutter and cutter cows $3.00-3.75. Medium to good bulls turned at $4.75-5.25, lower grades $3.50-4.65. Vealers were steady to weak, better grades mostly $8.00-9.00, strictly choice $9.50 and odd head $10.00, with grass killer calves $3.50-5.00. Better grade stocker and feeder steers sold at $5.50-6.50, a few at $7.00, and lower grades $3.75-5.00.

Hog trade was fairly active at steady to strong prices. Bulk of the better 180-280 lb. butchers scored $8.65-9.10, 160-180 lb. $8.25-8.75. 140-160 lb. $7.50-8.40, 100-140 lb. killers $6.25-7.75 and good sows $7.85-8.65

Steady terms prevailed in the sheep and lamb trade with best lambs 10c higher in spots. Bulk of the good and choice lambs earned $8.75, choice grades $9.00-9.10, common to medium $6.00-7.00 and culls down to $5.00. Slaughter ewes sold downward from $3.25 to as low as 50c for culls. White-faced range feeding lambs cleared at $5.00-7.25.

report their precinct count as early as possible Tuesday night.

The six presidential candidates will quietly cast their ballots next Tuesday and retire to the privacy of their firesides to await the will of the voters.

While the No. 1 men of each party spend the zero hour in comparative seclusion with family and friends, their campaign managers and champions will be at desk and telephone, testing the political winds for the first sign of victory.

President Roosevelt, under tentative arrangements, will make a flying visit to Democratic national headquarters in New York and then withdraw to Hyde Park.

Governor Alf M. Landon, his Republican opponent, will cast his vote in Independence, Kan., and then return to Topeka to learn the answer of the electorate.

Congressman Lemke, Union party presidential candidate, will spend election night in his home at Fargo, N. D.

Socialist headquarters in New York reported Norman Thomas will be at home and possibly "around Greenwich Village."

Both Dr. D. Leigh Colvin, Prohibitionist and Earl Browder, Communist, will seek home and hearth to listen to the returns, their headquarters declared.

Progressives Score Overwhelming Victory In Election!

Show of 1937 Cars Opens Here Thursday

Auto Dealers And Local Legion Post Sponsor Anuual Event

Minneapolis Group Will Appear On Stage

New Winter Sports Building Will House 3-Day Entertainment

The Municipal Auditorium and Winter Sports arena in this city will be the scenes next week of the 10th Annual Auto Show to be shown in this city. The local show will be given at the same time as the New York show, which opens the early part of next week.

In addition to the evening performances of the vaudeville show, to be given Friday and Saturday, November 13 and 14, which include a musical extravaganza, "The All-American Revue," presented under the direction of the WCCO Artists Bureau of Minneapolis, and including four episodes, the New Orleans, Mardi Gras, Wyoming Rodeo, Manhattan Greenwich Village and Banff Winter Carnival, there will be a free matinee Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock for all grade pupils of the city. Another free performance will be given Saturday afternoon, November 14, at 2 o'clock, for children of the surrounding rural community who are cordially invited to be guests of the town merchants at this time. The vaudeville show will continue for one hour and 30 minutes in the Municipal Auditorium Friday and Saturday evenings, while the automobile displays will be shown in the Winter Sports building.

Next Thursday evening, the first night of the auto show, a civic testimonial program will be presented in the city auditorium, the purpose of the program being to pay tribute to civic groups and public officials.

Dancing will wind up the evening's entertainment Thurs., and Friday and Saturday evening a gala dance will be held in the winter sports arena, which will be heated for the occasion. Music will be furnished by Allyn Cassel and his 11-piece orchestra, who have made a great name for themselves where ever they have played. They will also play at the testimonial meeting on November 12, and at the automobile show during the afternoons. Vaudeville numbers will be presented in the winter sports building during the afternoon with no admission charged.

The winter sports building will be open until midnight every night to give visitors an opportunity to see the 1937 cars on display there.

Automobile dealers are decorating spaces for their own special displays, while the sponsors of the affair are joining together in obtaining decorations for the remainder of the sports arena.

Come to the Auto Show, November 12-13-14th.

The Music Group will meet at the B. M. Krogstad home next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Mrs. C. H. June is the assisting hostess. All members are urged to be present.

Hunters Warned To Observe Game Laws

A warning to hunters that game laws are being strictly enforced was issued last week by A. C. Hanson, director of the division of game and fish.

Mr. Hanson pointed out that many hunters trying to rush the deer season have recently been arrested and heavily fined.

During the past week three residents of Deer River were fined a total of $200 in addition to costs for shooting deer, according to reports received by the division of game and fish. A number of hunters have also been arrested for spotlighting deer.

"One of the most common game law violations of recent weeks has been carrying guns set-up and loaded in motor vehicles," or for attempting to shoot game birds from cars. Wardens have been instructed to watch all automobiles to see to it that guns are taken down and properly cased."

Northwestern Minnesota Escapes Heavy Snowfall

Two or three inches of snow fell in the Thief River Falls vicinity Sunday afternoon and Monday so that the ground is again white after a warm spell Thursday and Friday melted the white covering received a week earlier.

Northwestern Minnesota escaped the heavier precipitation of snow the first of this week which covered Central and Northwestern Minnesota to a depth of 7 or 8 inches. Bemidji, Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls and Alexandria reported a snowfall well over six inches and drifts in places several feet high. Predictions point to it being with us for the next several days if not for the entire winter.

PENNINGTON IS DECIDEDLY FARMER-LABOR

County's Voters Turn In Vote of 2 To 1 For Progressives

Pennington county voted overwhelmingly for the progressives at the polls Tuesday. Roosevelt carried the county by a vote of 3 to 1, Lundeen and Benson, the Farmer Laborites, carrying by a vote better than 2 to 1. Mike Holm was the only GOP candidate able to dent the avalanche. Holm lost Pennington county by 347 votes. Slightly more than 5,100 votes were cast in the twenty-seven precincts.

Andrew Bottelson received a 2 to 1 vote of his opponent, Lars Backe, for judge of probate. Frank Race carried the First District in the race for county commissioner. Paul Roy was re-elected in the Third District and O. M. Mandt won out in a close race in the Fifth Commissioner's district.

BEMIDJI BEATS PROWLERS 13-6 IN GAME FRIDAY

Thief River Falls Football Team Loses In Season's Final Game

Bemidji's fast-stepping football team carried too many guns for the invading Prowlers, Friday evening, and chalked up a 13 to 6 victory to complete the Prowler schedule for the season and administered the first defeat for Coach Lee's boys this year.

The Prowler's battered eleven put up a terrific fight all the way but the greater weight and drive of the Black and White squad made the fight a futile one. There wasn't much doubt about the outcome after Bemidji evened the score in the first quarter. The Prowlers did by dint of hard battle, keep the Lumberjacks at bay during the entire second half. An injury to Hill's ankle and Milt Nesse's weakened condition, resulting from his recent illness, hampered their play considerably but their brilliant offensive threats gave the Jacks much worry, nevertheless.

"Snake Hips" Hill scooted around right end for the first score of the ball game but Adkin's kick failed as the strong wind carried the oval away from the uprights. The Lumberjacks fought back with a devastating aerial attack which netted them a touchdown, Lippincott, a left half, scoring. M. Nesse blocked the attempted placekick.

In the second quarter a blocked punt gave the possession of the ball to the Lumberjacks on the Prowler's ten-yard stripe, from which point another forward pass completed to Clark on the goal line placed Bemidji in the lead 12 to 6. Olson, who replaced Clark in the backfield, scored the extra

Grygla Boy, Aged 13, Passed Away Wednesday

Roy Mandan Nelson, 13 years of age, who lives north of Grygla, passed away Wednesday at the Grygla hospital. His funeral will be held Monday at 1 o'clock at his home in Grygla and at 2 o'clock at the Grygla Lutheran church, with Rev. Anderson officiating. A full obituary will be given next week.

Thanks to You All

At this time we wish to extend a word of thanks to the people of our county for the splendid vote given to the Farmer-Labor candidates in this county. To the County Committee, to the various precinct captains, and their committees and workers, we especially want to extend our thanks. After all the splendid result of the election in this county, and in the entire state of Minnesota is due to the splendid work of the various county committees, the precinct captains and their workers, and could not have been accomplished without them.

Now that the election is over let us all forget any feeling or bitterness that may have been aroused by the great struggle. What we need now for a time is peace and rest and quiet. Let us all go to work and forget about political campaigns for a time at least. I am confident that all the elected Farmer-Labor officials will do their level best to give the state a good, efficient, sane and progressive administration for the benefit of all of the people of the state as a whole. Let us now give to all of our elected officials regardless of party our united co-operation and support in the administration of the affairs of state.

With sincere thanks to all both workers and voters who helped to make the victory possible.

Sincerely yours,

PENNINGTON COUNTY FARMER-LABOR ASSOCIATION

Langer Victory Is Expected in No. Dak.

A heavy influx of returns from western North Dakota Wednesday night melted the lead held by Governor Walter Welford earlier in the day so that former Gov. Wm Langer had a lead of 1,444 votes in a three corner fight. Figuring on the late returns, Langer may have a majority of over 3,000 at the final count.

Returns from 2,140 precincts of 2,245, gave Welford 92,504, John Moses, Democrat 77,771, and Langer, 93,948.

It marked another intense struggle between Welford and Langer, the former defeating Langer by only 695 votes in the June primary election for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

The two head separate factions of the Non-Partisan league within the Republiacn party, and Langer, following his primary loss, filed as an independent against Welford, who has held office for nearly two years as acting governor.

At the same time there was a lively race for the two seats as congressman-at-large with Congressman William Lemke, who was also the Union party presidential candidate, drawing away from Usher L. Burdick, Republican incumbent, Henry Holt and J. J. Nygaard. On the basis of returns from 1,578 precincts the vote was Lemke, 92,210; Burdick, 81,483; Holt, 70,861, and Nygaard, 58,368.

Roosevelt, Lundeen, and Benson Defeat the GOP

Farmer-Labor Party Wins Five or Six Seats in Congress; Electoral Vote Favors President 523 to 8

The progressive-minded people of the nation and in particular the State of Minnesota won an overwhelming victory at the polls Tuesday. President Roosevelt swept the country in the biggest landslide in the nation's history and the Farmer-Labor party swept Minnesota with an unprecidented majority, leaving only one position on the state ticket in doubt with the GOP, that of secretary of state.

President Roosevelt, it appears, will have a majority of ten million votes over his opponents, Landon, Lemke, et al. The electoral vote will be 523 for the president and eight for Landon, Roosevelt carrying all but two states, Maine and Vermont. Lemke, the Union Party candidate, is expected to poll only half a million votes. The president's popular vote is expected to reach twenty-seven millions. Ernest Lundeen and Elmer A. Benson, the Farmer-Labor candidates for U. S. senator and governor in Minnesota, respectively, have majorities that may reach far above 200,000 on the final count.

It is also apparent that the Farmer-Labor party had elected six of the nine congressmen from Minnesota. Elmer Ryan, a democrat, was re-elected, as were two republicans.

Minnesota returns still incomplete gave Mr. Roosevelt a margin of about 265,000; U. S. Senator Elmer Benson a majority of about 192,000 for governor and Rep. Ernest Lundeen about 198,000 for U. S. senator.

August Andresen and Harold Knutson, both Republicans, were re-elected in the first and sixth congressional districts respectively while Farmer-Laborites elected the following representatives in congress:

Henry Teigan, third; Dewey Johnson, fifth; Paul John Kvale, incumbent, seventh; John T. Bernard, eighth, and Richard Buckler, incumbent, ninth. Bernard, indorsed by the Townsendites, defeated Rep. William Pittenger, incumbent Republican. Johnson, indorsed by both the Townsendites and the National Union for Social Justice, defeated Walter H. Newton (Rep) secretary of former President Hoover.

Rep. Melvin Maas (Rep) and Howard Y. Williams (F-L) indorsed by the Townsendites, were in a nip and tuck race in the fourth congressional district with three precincts missing with Williams in the lead.

The only other doubtful race was that of state treasurer where C. A. Halvorson (F.-L.) held a 5,785 lead over Julius Schmahl (Rep) incumbent, in a close contest. Of the 3,728 precincts 868 were unreported.

In the ninth district, (305 precincts out of 627) Buckler (F-L) had 22,392, Elmer A. Haugen (R) 11,493 and Martin O. Brandon (D) 8,002.

MARSHALL COUNTY

The following are the complete returns from Marshall county as reported from the county auditor's office at Warren:

Day And Melby Win In Legislative Contest

J. O. Melby and W. E. Day won the election as representatives from the 65th District (including Pennington, Red Lake and Clearwater counties) defeating Marius Waldal and Geo. E. Jones by majorities of over a thousand votes. The total of the entire district:

W. E. Day	5.755
J. O. Melby	6,189
M. Waldal	4,709
Geo. Jones	3,308

Death Of Marshall Man Held Accidental

Death of John Kosma, Argyle farmer, who was found burned to death in his hog house, was accidental, a coroner's jury decided at an inquest held at Warren last week.

One of the principal witnesses at the inquest, Sheriff O. C. Toftner testified his investigation indicated Kosma kept his money in the hog house and that returning from Argyle the night of his death he probably went to the hog house, lighted a match to find his way and dropped sparks in the loose material. This, the sheriff believed, blazed after Kosma went to bed and seeing the fire Kosma ran out without dressing to save his money and likely was overcome by smoke before he was able to get out of the burning building.

His body was found by neighbors. The first theory, later discarded, was that Kosma may have been killed by robbers and his body burned to cover up the crime.

Senator Norris Wins

Senator George W. Norris, 75, Nebraska's liberal leader in congress for 33 years, slept Wednesday morning while the election count piled up an apparently safe lead for him. He had a plurality of approximately 10,000 when half the state's precincts were counted. The victory, his fifth for senator following five terms as representative, was based on his support of Roosevelt's policies.

Borah also won his race for re-election in Idaho.

What New Governor Said After Election

"They can forget now that I am a Communist—if any sensible people ever did believe it," said Governor-Elect Benson, after the avalanche of Tuesday's vote.

"Sure. I have a program, but I don't care to go into its details now. I have a number of things planned, all along the line of improving conditions for Minnesota and its people. Feeling confident that I was going to be elected, I have made some important general plans and even worked out a lot of details.

"But the people will have to wait awhile before I outline them. All they need to know now is that no individual or business man need be alarmed, as long as he obeys the laws and shoots square with the public.

"I judge from returns so far that the liberal candidates for the lower house of the Minnesota legislature

THE COMMON PEOPLE'S VICTORY

Tuesday's election was the biggest victory ever won by the common people of the United States. Franklin D. Roosevelt was re-elected president by the biggest popular and electoral vote ever recorded.

We say it was the biggest victory in behalf of the common people because President Roosevelt has shown decidedly that he is the friend of the poorer classes of people, the downtrodden, the forgotten men and women of the United States.

Predatory interests, as big business, organized to defend the system that exploited the common people to make millionaires out of the oppressors at the expense of the American public. The reactionaries resorted to every available means in order to defeat the president. They had the help of 80 per cent of the newspapers, an equal percentage of the ministers, practically all of the disgruntled politicians and all the funds that they could find use for.

Wild charges of radicalism, communism, boondoggling, etc., indeed every kind of vituperation and deceit were resorted to. The attack was so vast and offensive that it took the best characters to tolerate such absurdities. The president was called a scab, a liar, and numerous other terms designed to drive the people away from the president. Father Coughlin, Jim Reed, Al Smith, Old Age Townsend, Hoover, and other villifying personages of lesser importance joined hands in the attack.

Now, that all this filthy smoke has rolled away and we find Roosevelt re-elected by a majority of more than ten million votes, we cannot say other than that much credit is due the American people. In spite of all this deceit in the newspapers, from the pulpit and the platform, the voters refused to be swerved from their course. They refused to be fooled and the reaction that resulted was a bigger vote than ever against the offenders.

Popular government may have had set-backs in many ways, but when we consider Tuesday's election we do not need to feel that dictators will readily get a foot-hold in the Good Old U. S. A. or that popular government will be succeeded by anything else.

ARMISTICE DAY, 1936

Eighteen years ago this month the Armistice was signed and the World War ended. Just what is an Armistice? An agreement satisfactory to the stronger nations? That is about all that was, for the settlement made was certainly not satisfactory to the defeated countries.

But the ironical tradition that armistices settle disagreement rankles in our minds. If armistices are so powerful, why can they not be signed in the form of satisfactory trade agreements before armed conflicts break out? Do ten million human beings have to be murdered before we can reason clearly enough to sign an armistice? Do homes have to be broken, must starvation and disease and pestilence stalk upon a nation before it can force its statesmen to sign an agreement to end the butchery of war? What is this mad war craze that seizes peoples, and makes them seem powerless to defend their rights as free citizens? Are we, as a people, so steeped in the traditional way of living that we believe wars have to be, just because they have always been?

Today the headlines cry of another threatening world war. Can we not realize what such a war would do to civilization? Do we need to be told again that the gas, the guns, the planes of modern science could destroy entire cities in a night, could make the world a blazing hell?

"What can we do about it?" you wonder. We can protest an armament program of a billion dollars a year. We can ask, "Is it not possible to educate nations to live in peace? Would not this money have been much better expended for peace education than for war preparation?"

HIS DUE SHARE

It's a far cry from the day when the average farmer raised his produce, sold it for whatever he could, and knew nothing about organization.

The up-to-the-minute producer should belong to an agricultural selling cooperative. His cooperative management, elected by the members, helps him to better producing method. It studies markets, existing and potential. It makes its voice heard in legislation. It bargains with distributors—not in an attempt to overly boost prices, but to see to it that the farmer gets his due share of the eventual consumer price, for what he has to sell. It keeps its members informed on all manner of issues that affect agricutural welfare.

The result is that today's little farmer is in a sounder economic position than yesterday's farmer, big or little.

ROOSEVELT ISSUED HIS CHALLENGE

It was generally considered that organized big business was actively engaged in campaigning against President Roosevelt. The president was fully aware of it and "girded his belt" accordingly for the election fight. He has become known as the most unflinching in his fight when he felt he had a scrap on his hands.

No president has spoken in more certain terms and issued a sterner challenge to nefarious economic forces in the country than did President Roosevelt Saturday night when he spoke from Madison Square Garden. There was little mincing of words when he said:

"For 12 years this nation was afflicted with hear-nothing, see-nothing do-nothing, government. The nation looked to government but the government looked away. Nine mocking years with the golden calf and three long years of the scourge. Nine crazy years at the ticker and three long years in the breadlines! Nine mad years of mirage and three long years of despair! Powerful influences strive today to restore that kind of government with its doctrine that that government is best which is most indifferent.

"For nearly four years you have had an administration which instead of twirling its thumbs has rolled up its sleeves. We will keep our sleeves rolled up.

"We had to struggle with the old enemies of peace—business and financial monopoly, speculation, reckless banking, class antagonism, sectionalism, war profiteering.

"They had begun to consider the government of the United States as a mere appendage to their own affairs. We know now that government by organized money is just as dangerous as government by organized mob.

"Never before in all our history have these forces been so united against one candidate as they stand today. They are unanimous in their hate for me—and I welcome their hatred.

"I should like to have it said of my first administration that in it the forces of selfishness and of lust for power met their match. I should like to have it said of my second administration that in it these forces met their master."

WEALTHY BUT STILL LIBERAL

The death of Senator Couzens of Michigan, just after his defeat for reelection, ends the career of one of the most courageous, useful, and honest members of the Senate. The amazing romance of his career—a fortune of $30,000,000 acquired as a result of his investment of $1,000 in Henry Ford's car and his subsequent organization and brilliant management of the Ford Motor Company—never threw him off his balance or gave him an inflated idea of his own importance. He refused to be bound by narrow party ties. Indeed, he told the electors last summer that the reelection of President Roosevelt was the most important matter confronting the nation, and that the outcome of his own candidacy for the Senate was "neither important to the nation nor me." His long experience in the affairs of a large corporation made it possible for him to meet on equal terms the business men who appeared before Congress, notably when he was chairman of the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce. They could pull no wool over his eyes, nor baffle him by any intricate points they raised. The Michigan Democrats who backed him last spring characterized him as "one who cannot understand the fight of the Republican Party for the almighty dollar and its disregard for human rights." A great fighter, Senator Couzens never hesitated to oppose rich men and the big business interests. He will be remembered for the fight he waged against Secretary Mellon and the tax favors which he charged Mr. Mellon with granting to the big corporations. Throughout his term of office he fought for increasing the income-tax rates in the higher income groups. Without being a progressive himself, he was often of the greatest value to the progressive bloc in Congress.—The Nation (Weekly).

SUPER-PATRIOTS VIOLATE PERSONAL RIGHTS

In speaking of the many incidents that have developed out of the heat of the national campaign Current History magazine for November cites one of the most absurd instances in the arrest of Earl Browder in Terre Haute, Ind. The magazine contends that this was an incident where "intellectual racketeers" violated the constitutional rights of others. The article states:

"Of all the incidents of the campaign, Browder's arrest is easily the most suggestive in its implications. One need not sympathize either with him or with his cause to realize this. When all is said and done, the fact remains that the Presidential candidate of a legally recognized party was put in jail to prevent him from making a scheduled speech. If that can be done in one case and the precedent stands, it can be done in another. If local or even nationwide sentiment justifies the police chief of a small town in jailing a Presidential candidate on trumped-up charges, and if neither State nor national authorities have power to intervene quickly enough to prevent the rightful expression of free speech, we have come to a critical situation.

"Mr. Browder was scheduled to make an address in Terre Haute, Indiana, on the evening of Wednesday, September 30. When he stepped from the train that afternoon, he and two companions were arrested as vagrants. They were held in jail for twenty-six hours. When appealed to for relief, both State and national authorities replied that they had no power to intervene. Next morning the case was dismissed, of course, just as those making the arrest knew it would be.

Communism has nothing to do with the issue. There probably never was and never will be a situation in this country which does not involve overwhelming antagonism to some Presidential candidate in certain communities. We never have had, and probably never will have, a political party which does not represent a hopeless minority in some sections. If the prevailing sentiment can justify the chief of police in preventing a candidate from speaking by merely arresting him, we might as well admit that we are up against a serious problem. While democracy functions through the rule of the majorities, it is sustained by the protection of minorities, no matter how small, as long as they are legally recognized.

"If the Communist Party is not worthy of legal recognition, there is a way to outlaw it. At present, however, it enjoys legal recognition, will appear on the ballot, and, therefore, is entitled to such protection as the law affords. But the law seems to have been powerless in this instance. For one day the chief of police of Terre Haute ruled this country. For one day he jammed the nation's entire machine. If he can do that on the grounds he took, what chief of police cannot? What minority party is safe, and what do our boasted Constitutional guarantees mean?"

The Washington Commentator

By R. C. STENGELSEN

OUR NOTIONAL DEBT, PER CAPITA

Your commentator is pained to remark that while his neighbor, in all sincerity, doubtless believed himself to be truthful, actually he was a liar!

The neighbor, himself, was wholly unaware of it. Indeed, he was certain he was one of the world's most truthful men. And he strove to live up to that reputation. He would not even lie to his wife! And that, as one and all will agree, is certainly carrying the virtue of truthfulness to extremes.

Back in the early summer of 1933, at about the time Hoover and his Republicans moved out and the Democrats moved in, he told your commentator that while he had been out of work for a year or two, he could still say that he didn't owe a cent to anybody on earth.

But he was a liar! Actually, he owed $179.32. . his wife owed $179.32. . and each of his three kids owed $179.32. . a total for the five of them of $896.60.

This was their part of the national debt of about 22½ billion dollars, a good share of which the out-moving Republicans had left, as a sort of nest-egg, for the in-moving Democrats.

The Republicans, it will be remembered, had been Uncle Sam's bookkeepers for a matter of 12 years or so. Possibly they, like the grocer and the butcher and the coal man should have sent a statement to the neighbor. But they didn't. They kept very quiet about it.

But from 1933 until now, in 1936, the neighbor's share of the debt has increased $100.68. It has climbed to $280.00. The whole family's share has increased $503.40. It is now about $1,400.00.

Which, admittedly, is terrible! The Republican ex-bookkeepers say so! They've been yelling it throughout the campaign till they are as hoarse as Pop-Eye, the Sailorman.

When the neighbor owed $179.32, it was so little that it wasn't even worth the bothering of mentioning. But when he owes $280.00, he's ruined!

That he probably got something in return for the $100.68 increase isn't the point, say the Republicans. He should have gotten much more!

And the neighbor thinks this sounds reasonable. He is going to look into it. But first he is going to check up on the debt of $179.32 the Republicans left him and see what he got for their share of that.

He lost his job under the Republicans, so he knows he got that much, at least, for his money. He has a hazy recollection of Teapot Dome, the Daughterty nation-wide injunction, the alien property custodian scandal and the bayonetting and machine-gunning of the ex-service men at Washingtton. He concedes that a big bunch of benefits like that certainly should have a lot of value.

He knows he got his job back under the Democrats. But, very likely, it is as the Republicans claim — it wasn't worth anywhere near the $100.82 the Democrats ran up on him.

So he's going to look into it. He isn't going to be made a liar of again!

P. S. He has looked into it. And last Tuesday he told the world—and the Republicans—what he thought of it!

Indiana Mayor Defies Utility Trust; Serves Time in Jail

The following article by Judson King, managing director of the National Popular Government league; deals with the career of C. H. Bangs, the mayor of Huntington, Ind., who defied the power companies. Because of his fight with the "power trust" Mayor Bangs is being considered one of the prospective leaders in the progressive movement in behalf of the common people. The article:

Mayor Clare H. Bangs of Huntington, Ind., has twice gone to jail rather than submit to injunctions by county judges ordering him to cease giving electric service to some 700 customers of the city-owned light plant.

The metropolitan press, the Liberty League, and standpat political leaders who profess grave concern lest Washington bureaucracy crush state and local self government, have shown no interest in this injunction secured by the northern Indiana Power Company, an Insull subsidiary, which also operates in Huntington, a city of 14,000 population.

Anything but Demogogic

It has been broadcast that Mayor Bangs is a demagogue, a cheap notoriety seeker who could have successfully defended the city's rights in other ways. That did not seem quite convincing to me. Graduate of the Law School of Columbia University, ex-college presidents and mayors are not as a rule fond of prisons for any reason, and Mayor Bangs is all of these, and then some. He holds the degree of A.B. from Tri-County College, Indiana; L.L.B. from Columbia; the degree of Doctor of Law from the University of Paris, France, his thesis being a two-volume work on international law written in both French and English. He was for six years president of Huntington College, founded by the United Bretheren Church. He has practiced law in Huntington since 1924.

He is a cultured gentleman, with no blemish on his public or private life.

It had struck me that a man with that background did not spend over five months in contact with commonest kind of criminals in a typical county jail for light reasons. And so, returning from the Progressive conference at Chicago, I stopped at Huntington last week and, accompanied by City Attorney Arthur D. Saylor, called on Mayor Bangs in his cell—or rather, in the corridor outside, as the cell was dark even in the day time and had no electric light.

I found him a clean cut, handsome man of 46. The conversation was interrupted by trains thundering by a few rods from the prison. We sat down on a plain bench in front of a small kitchen table where he conducts his official business and I led off by asking him bluntly: WHY are you in jail?

Bangs replied in essence:

Redeems Pledges

"I am keeping faith with a large majority of our citizens who elected me mayor on the pledge that I would give them immediate service from their own electric light plant, deliver them from the extortionate rates of the Insull company and its political domination of our city and not permit the company to hold us up, perhaps for years, by interminable injunctions and lawsuits. We have 700 new customers for our city plant and I can only continue service to them and protect our plant by staying in jail until the Supreme Court of Indiana decides our case, which I am certain we will win.

"Beyond that, I am defending effective home rule for Indiana municipalities and protesting against unwarranted judicial interference at the behest of utility corporations, with the orderly functioning of government throughout the United States."

The Mayor spoke quietly. There was no heroics, and I concluded that if this man was grand-standing he was posing in company with 28 progressive United States Senators and 81 progressive Congressmen who last May issued a statement, "The Utility Issue of 1936", warning the American people of the very evils against which Mayor Bangs is battling.

Outside I went over the case with Attorney Saylor and Judge W. H. Eichhorn, Bang's counsel; interviewed other city officials and citizens, and came away with a brief case full of legal documents, newspapers and notes. Boiled down, here are the governing elements of this simple case.

In 1885 Huntington established the second municipally-owned electric light plant in the United States. In 1914, complying with the Shiveley-Spencer act of 1913, creating the State Public Service Commission, the city obtained a certificate of convenience and necessity, voted bonds by 5 to 1 to build a new plant, continuing the right to sell current commercially as well as light the streets, etc.

A private company had been permitted to sell current commercially. This company was bought up by the Insulls in 1923. They junked the local private plant, brought current over high tension lines from the south, charged the citizens of Huntington 9 cents per kwh, but sold the same current in Fort Wayne at 5 cents, 25 miles further up the line to meet competition with a municipal plant.

When the company sought an increase in rates, the city rebelled, and in 1929 elected a mayor and council pledged to extension of commercial service by the city plant. Through Power Trust influence, they betrayed their trust and in 1934 Mayor Bangs and an entire city council of seven were elected on a platform pledged to extend city plant service immediately.

In less than three hours after they were sworn in on January 1, 1935, Mayor Bangs, the council and the Board of Public Works had connected up several new customers and were serving them current at 6½ cents per kwh top rate, as against the company's 9-cents, before the company could get an injunction.

The company brought injunction proceedings and County Judge Sumner Kenner issued a temporary restraining order and then stepped out of the scene. Since then Special Judges David N. Smith and Huber M. De Voss, from adjoining counties, have made the injunction permanent and ordered Mayor Bangs to cease connecting up customers or serving them until the Supreme Court decided the case.

Knowing the disreputable tactics the company would pursue in corrupting the city and smashing his effort and denying the legal right of the courts to interfere, Mayor Bangs kept on building lines and pushing the city plant until he was serving 700 new customers.

For this, he was sent to jail for contempt of court three months in the summer of 1935 and was again committeed on July 6th last and is still in jail.

Meantime the company has reduced its rates to 6½ cents, the same as the municipal plant charges.

The legal crux of the case is just this. The city had the legal right to serve commercial customers, whether it exercised that right or not, and shows that it has so served to some extent; that it is not seeking to construct a new plant which would require a popular vote but merely to extend the service of its very old plant. The Insull company lays claim to a monopoly of commercial service, which to a layman seems the sublime height of absurdity.

TALKING BOOK MACHINES AVAILABLE FOR THE BLIND

103 talking book machines are now ready for distribution free of cost, to the 1600 adult needy blind of this state. These machines are specially designed phonographs with books recorded on slow-playing records. Those who do not read braille will be given preference. This opportunity has been made possible through a WPA project under the supervision of the Library of Congress in cooperation with the Division of the Blind of the State Board of Control.

These machines will be distributed to the 1600 adult blind through public libraries in the following cities, each of which has been allotted a certain quota based on the adult blind population in the district: Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth, Virginia, Faribault, St. Cloud, Thief River Falls, Redwood Falls, Brainerd, Grand Rapids, Winona, Worthington and International Falls.

Will any blind man or woman, wishing to borrow one of these machines, who is not able to buy one for him or herself, apply to that public library which is nearest him.

Information concerning conditions under which machines are to be loaned and instructions for operation and care will be furnished the borrower by the library to which he applies.

One point should be remembered. These machines are electrically run, have no earphones or radio and can be used only on alternating current.

The recorded books are furnished through the Minnesota State School for the Blind Library, which acts as the distributing center for the Library of Congress. They are sent post free through the mails. Write the Librarian, State School for the Blind at Faribault for a list of recorded books or for any information concerning the records.

For the machines apply to the public libraries designated. No one is issuing the machines except the fourteen public libraries listed.

VIEWS AND REVIEWS

By R. C. HAGGLUND

After the Election

More people went to the polls Tuesday than ever went before in the USA. Women who scorned to vote in previous elections cast their ballots with acute political precision; youth who were not old enough to vote before ballotted with a bitterness engendered by depression. All these new votes were bound to make a difference in prognostications; they are the intangibles of the political game.

This is written before the final outcome is known; but this much is certain—capitalism is still safe. Roosevelt pledged to save it, is still favored; Landon, plainly a candidate of big business and organized war-makers, is not so well favored—perhaps because his measures in Kansas have not found much sympathy with the people.

Who can tell, however, what a Roosevelt will do after election? He has no set program—his actions are dictated by circumstances. It is true that he is more flexible than a Landon might be, for Roosevelt can be either conservative or liberal, as it seems to be of advantage to himself, and to the class he represents.

Great gains were made on the progressive front—that much is also certain. But we travel so slowly toward equality of opportunity and the "more abundant life", with so many excursions into the side-track; and so many stoppages and going back for something we forgot, that one sometimes is discouraged.

There will be a national Farmer-Labor party in 1940; this party has had a fairly good send-off in this election, and ought to sweep the country by that time. This is not merely optimism, but the honest belief of scores of liberals and progressives.

One thing is certain—Americans have at last emerged from the apathy which has always gripped them between elections. The fight has only begun; and they will be reminded plenty of times from now on that the goal is not won.

Physical and Mental Health

Depression shows an increasing amount of ill health and insanity among Americans, The conditions leading to physical and mental breakup all have their origin in capitalism—long hours of work under unhealthful conditions, under a strain of speed and noise, and a maximum cause for worry, that great bogeyman of the human race.

On the other hand, look at the flood of corroborations of another picture—that of Soviet Russia. Scores of people have added to the paen of praise for the Soviet method of living, which make for the highest physical and mental health. Shorter hours of work under the most healthful conditions, reduction of speed and noise, and a MINIMUM cause for worry—all have their effect. In such an environment optimism abounds, the people push forward to greater victories, and life has some meaning.

The difference of the two pictures is that between day and night.

Are Married At Wylie

Miss Hulda Ulrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ulrich of River Township, and Clarence Craft, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erick Craft of Gervais, were married Tuesday afternoon, October 27th, at the Lutheran church at Wylie. Rev. Paul H. Burgdorf officiated. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rewertz, brother-in-law and sister of the bride. The newly-weds will make their home on the groom's farm in River Township.

Carnival Proves Successful

Last Friday the Municipal Auditorium was packed to the doors with a crowd that came to the school carnival. Apparently the efforts on the part of the school to have something of interest for everyone were successful, for the carnival and Halloween spirit was in the air and all enjoyed themselves, leaving reluctantly only when the music stopped and the concessions closed down for the night.

The school wishes to thank all who helped to make the carnival a success for whatever part they had in it; especial recognition is given and especial appreciation extended for donations of material and supplies.

It is hoped that next year the school may again be host and give all another pleasant evening.

Basketball Practice Begins

Last Monday Mr. Jaspers and a few of the high school boys put up the west basket at the Municipal Auditorium. The squad has worked out three or four times last week and managed to get in a little practice in spite of the many other activities that conflicted with it. With these out of the way, practices will be more regular and sustained. They will have to be, for the opening game of the season is not far away.

Plummer opens with Clearbrook here on November 13th. This will be a good game. It was last year, and, although Plummer won by a decisive score, it was not an easy game by any means. Those who saw the game last year feel that Plummer will have to play real ball to take the game from the Clearbrook quint, which suffered little in material strength through graduation.

Turkey News
from Highlanding Creamery

We will be buying from November 4th to 14th. We are equipped to dress your turkeys for you. Our dressing charge will be 7c per bird. We handle turkeys on a very close margin of profit, and cannot possibly dress your turkeys free of charge.

Only birds that are well matured should be dressed for Thanksgiving.

It is impossible to predict what the prices will be this year. We have had some correspondence with firms we sold to last year and some have made personal calls. They are all of the opinion that prices will be somewhat lower than last Thanksgiving.

Lincoln-Zephyr Shows "First Anniversary" Series

AUTOMOBILE SHOW

Just another week and the first Minnesota show of 1937 models. It is in our own town, so we will be there and so will you. We will be proud of our new models and so will you. The Chrysler line is outstanding, with a New Chrysler Royal in the low priced field. And it's "Tops".

The 1937 Plymouth has met with unusual comments of public acceptance in our show room during the first two weeks we have now displayed, demonstrated and sold them. We hape to be able tto save one from our Plymouth supply for the show next week.

We shall also show the new 1937 Nash-Lafayette "400" at the automobile show. This automobile is really a new kind of low-priced car. It's a bigger automobile in the low priced field. A Beauty and a wonderful value.

USED AUTOMOBILES

In our recent trades we have added some great used car values in low priced cars and some later models. Here's the line-up:

1934 Plymouth 4-Door Sedan
1934 Plymouth Business Coupe.
2—1934 Plymouth 2-Door Sedans
2—1929 Dodge 4-Door Sedans
2—Model A Ford Sedans
1929 Plymouth 4-Door Sedan
2—1926 Ford Coupes
1929 Whippet Sedan
1929 Buick Coupe
Others will be added soon.

USED TRUCKS

We have an exceptional bargain to offer in a "C1" International Pannel truck. The one we have been using in our own sales and delivery. It is in perfect shape but not suited for our purpose. There is no better truck bargain in it's class.

We are also going to replace our big warehouse truck with the new type International truck that has cab over engine, just as soon as it is available. Opr present big truck is in very fine condition. It's a "C35" 1½-2 ton with dual rear wheels and 160 inch wheel base. To any one wanting a truck of this size, watch for this deal.

We have other truck bargains:

1934 International Pickup with stake bed.
1936 Ford "V8" Pickup truck, just like new.
1929 Chev. with good box type bed.
1933 Chev. with dual wheels, long wheel base and gravel box.
1932 Ford with duals and bed.
1930 Ford with bed.

Used cars and trucks take up room and this time of year we need space for storage and 1937 models now here means more trades most every day, so we are very sincere in stating our willingness to give special bargains in our used trucks and cars.

Ella Olson and Carl Mandt were married Thursday evening, October 29 at the Lutheran parsonage with Rev. Bjorgan officiating.

The bride, whose home was at Kratka, was gowned in blue silk crepe with harmonizing accessories. Her attendant was Miss Petra Larson. The groom was attended by Harold Gran.

They will make their home in Goodridge, where Carl is associated with his father in the Farmer's elevator.

Miss LaVonne Mandt returned home after visiting three weeks at the home of her brother, Leland of Kratka.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tofsley and son Carl and daughter Mrs. L. E. Berg of Climax, spent Sunday at the Joe Christianson home.

Ludvig Larson from Portland, Ore. was in town Monday enroute to Esplee. He is a former resident of this community.

Olaf Eide of Thief River Falls was a caller in our village Tuesday, posting advertising for the auto show.

Mrs. Frodahl's auction sale was well attended, and articles sold well. Mrs. Frodahl is a guest at the Hoppe home. She leaves soon to make her home at Long Beach, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Mandt called at their parental home Saturday evening.

Louise Frodahl was given a farewell party at the Louis Quam home Wednesday evening. She was presented with a purse of money as a token of the esteem in which she was held.

Friends were shocked to learn of the sudden death of an old time resident, Theodore Gilbertson. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the bereaved family.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Mandt spent Sunday at the Frank Krbechek home.

Mr. and Mrs. V. C. McLeod had as their dinner guests Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. J. Payne, Mrs. Henry Rockne and children, and the Misses Sogan and Peterson.

Marguerite Urdahl spent the week end with her parents. She is an instructor in the Karlstad schools.

AMERICA'S FIRST AUTOMOBILE SHOW 36 YEARS AGO

New Yorkers flocked to this small display of horseless carriages in old Madison Square Garden in 1900, prepared to scoff—and remained to praise. From 300 makes a few years ago, this year's show, which opens next week in Grand Central Palace, New York, with two overflow displays nearby, will feature some thirty makes and occupy several floors of space.

NEWS of the WEEK

Congress Lost Sight Of

Washington, D. C.—Amid the smoke of a hot Presidential campaign, many political workers have lost sight of the fact that at next Tuesday's election the people of the country will also vote for 35 Senators and 435 Representatives. Leaders generally admit that regardless of the Presidentiol outcome, the division in the lower house will be a close one.

The Business Outlook

New York City—Steel operations stood at 76 per cent of capacity, against 52 per cent last year. Commercial loans by banks in 101 cities rose $43,000,000 over the previous week. Electric power consumption increased 16 per cent over the same period last year. Cigarette production increased 33 per cent over 1935 in the month of September.

Queen Mary Shaken Up

Cherbourg, France—In the roughest crossing since her launching, the Queen Mary on her arrival at this port reported 30 persons injured during the trip.

Water Front Strike Looms

San Francisco, Cal.—A vote to be taken this week may call out on strike 37,000 maritime workers at Pacific Coast ports. Every effort is being made by State and Government labor officials to compose the differences between the workers and employers.

King's Marriage Denied

London, England—A dispatch published in a New York newspaper stating definitely that King Edward VIII would marry Mrs. Ernest Simpson, his American friend, in June next, met general denial in well-informed circles here. Following her divorce, it is said that she will travel extensively, possibly including a trip to the United States.

German's Reading Curbed

Weimar, Germany—Ushering in Book Week at this cultural center, Hans Johst, President of the Reich Chamber of Literature, announced that the German people would be compelled "with loving force" to read only books produced by National Socialist authors.

Queen's Hope Revives

London, England—Ex-Queen Victoria of Spain returned from the United States where she visited her eldest son, the Count of Cavadonga, ill in a New York hospital.

A spokesman for the former Queen stated "Her Majesty is a very happy woman," and predicted the restoration of the monarchy in Spain, with her third son Don Juan III, on the throne. Both of her elder sons renounced their succession to marry commoners, and the imminent capture of Madrid by the "White" forces have raised high the Bourbon hopes.

Miner's Big Contribution

Washington, D. C.—The largest single contribution thus far made to the Democratic campaign fund is that of the United Mine Workers of America, headed by John L. Lewis, with total donations of $342,148.

Pacific Volcano Erupts

Los Angeles, Cal.—Radio advices from a steamship anchored near the scene tell of a spectacular eruption of a volcano on Fernandino Island, one of the Galapagos group off the coast of Ecuador. The noise of the explosions as millions of tons of red-hot lava flow into the sea was said to be deafening.

Freak Will Promises Trouble

Toronto, Canada—When Charles V. Miller died in 1926 he left a curious will. To every Protestant Minister in Toronto he left one share of brewery stock; to the ministers of three other towns, one share each of race-course stock; to the Toronto mother who in ten years produced the greatest number of children the residue of his estate, now valued at $750,000. The "baby marathon" ends this Saturday and five mothers with ten entries each plan to fight for the big prize. The real leader, Mrs. Martin Kenny, has twelve entries, but isn't sure that all of them were properly registered, a condition of the contest. Provincial authorities may intervene to prevent the waste of the estate in litigation.

Food From Forests

Pensacola, Florida—Government officials and scientists learned of new chemical transformation of vegetation at a conference sponsored by the Farm Chemurgic Council. They heard of artificial wool made from cotton-seed, yeast and glycerine extracted from wood, and cornstalks converted into sugar. Forestry experts urged a still wider cultivation of the Chinese tung tree, which has been used for centuries in mixing paint and varnish in the Orient. Some 75,000 acres of tung are already planted in the South.

True To Form

Shenandoah, Iowa.—A local promoter induced Frank Trummer, ex-convict, to deliver a lecture on "Crime Doesn't Pay". Next day the sponsor swore out a warrant for his "star's" arrest; he had collected his fee in advance and departed for parts unknown.

Capital News-Notes

Washington, D. C.—The President approved allotments of $9,031,751 for 97 PWA projects in 34 states, total cost to be $17,777,000. During September private industry absorbed 355,000 workers and payrolls increased more than $2,500,000 per week. Relief projects sponsored by local, State and Federal agencies employed 4,000,000 jobless. The Treasury has received $108,980 on a loan of $12,167,000 made to Greece in 1929 to help post-war refugees. Out of 70,587 applicants for Government jobs during the last fiscal year, 1,630 were rejected because their finger prints revealed criminal records.

Field Hockey Popular

New York City—Sports writers estimate that field hockey, which they call "shinny with a college education", now has 10,000 devotees among the athletic-minded young women of the country. Leader in the sport is Anne Townsend, 36-year-old Philadelphian who looks like Amelia Earhart. Perennial captain of the all-star American team, she estimates in 22 years of play she has whacked a field hockey ball a total of 3,960 miles.

Rushing Business

Detroit, Mich.—Drawing the number from a hat, an announcer at the Detroit-Oklahoma A & M football game shouted through the amplifier that the holder of program No. 3090 would be given two tickets for Detroit's next game. Beaming faces began to arise all over the field. A jammed numbering machine had stamped 250 programs with the lucky number.

Tax Collections Top Billion

Washington, D. C.—For the first time since 1928, the Internal Revenue Bureau announced tax collections for the first quarter of the fiscal year in excess of a billion dollars. The total was $1,009,994,628, with income and excess profit taxes increasing $81,463,201, alcohol beverages increasing $28,566,082 and miscellaneous taxes gaining $95,275,333.

Condition of the Treasury
(For Last Fiscal Week)

Receipts	$59,096,549

POLO MOVES OUT TO PACIFIC COAST

Each year, with the closing of the Eastern polo season on Long Island, New York, the sport attracts many followers to the Pacific Coast. Here is a late-October contest on Beresford Field, San Mateo, California, in which the Freebooters triumphed over the San Mateo team by 12 goals to 10. Tevis (Freebooters) is trying to ride off Pepe (San Mateo).

RIVER VALLEY

Three of our industrious coworkers constructed the temporary building for our Forum, in eleven hours of work last week. To them we extend our most hearty congratulations for their achievement.

The hall building committee has applied for a grant to build our hall as a W. P. A. project. Here is hoping that the application will be granted. But, regardless of the outcome, construction will be resumed in the spring.

The last regular meeting of the River Valley Forum was held at the temporary Forum building, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 27. The meeting was called to order by the chairman Dick Kolstrand. It was decided that Fred Ingvolstad should be asked to lecture on Russia at the Oak Park church because of the little room space in our temporary hall. A discussion was held for the purpose of submitting correspondence to the following newspapers: Tri-County Forum, Thief River Falls Times, Oklee Herald and Red Lake Falls Gazette. Peter Mandt was appointed editor-in-chief and Mrs. G. Bremseth, Mrs. R. Gordon, Mrs. Nels Foro and Henry Dahlen as assistants. The following officers were elected for the next meeting: chairman, Edwin Gordon; v-chairman, A. T. Lunden; secretary, Mrs. A. T. Lunden. Mr. Denning then spoke on the political situation, and brought it up for discussion.

Edwin Gordon gave the financial report on the hall fund. It was decided to appoint a new treasurer in place of Irene Gustafson. Mrs. A. T. Lunden was elected for that purpose. The meeting adjourned until Tuesday evening, Nov. 10th.

Miss Vivian Bremseth is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs G. Bremseth.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rodniecki and sons Virgil and Richard were visitors in Thief River Falls, Friday afternoon

Mrs. A. T. Lunden and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Hovet of Erie, were visitors in Gully Monday.

Visitors at the G. Bremseth home last Sunday were Donald Brown and Wesley Clow of Humbolt, Miss Juliet Archambeau, Scott Matthew and Irvin Maxwell of Thief River Falls.

Friday afternoon a Halloween party was held at the Oak Park School Dist, No. 52. A program was given by some of the children and games were played. Those present were Mrs. Emil Lundeen and son Muriel, Mrs. Frank Lundeen and Mrs. Henry Van Altvorst.

Miss Leon Bremseth returned to her home Sunday from Thief River Falls, where she has been under a doctor's care for the past week, with a broken arm, due to a car accident. We all wish for her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eisbreenes were Thief River Falls shoppers Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gordon attended the Parent's Day celebration N. W. S. last Saturday. They were accompanied home by Arthur Gordon and Nora Howard, who returned Monday to resume their studies at the school.

A group of neighbors and friends gathered at the Henry Van Altvorst home Saturday evening, Oct. 31 to pay them a farewell reception.

Rayno Lethinen is employed at the River Valley Co-op Store until another clerk is hired.

Miss Alice Hedlund of McIntosh is visiting with her sister, Mrs. O. M. Mandt for a few weeks.

Mrs. Rodahl, tenant at the Severt Halm farm, is fortunate to have a new well dug on the place. Water was struck at a depth of eighty feet.

Death of Floyd Wroolie

A news item in the Minneapolis Journal of October 28th announced the tragic death of Floyd M. Wroolie, of Minneapolis, who was the husband of the former Velma Wicklund, grand-daughter of Mrs. A. C. Breese and niece of George Breese. Mr. Wroolie was killed in an auto accident. He was driving his car returning home from Delavan, and at 1 o'clock A. M. his car hit a road sign and spun off the road. He was thrown 60 feet and his body struck the foot of an iron piping which held up three rural mail boxes.

Besides his widow he left an infant son. Mrs. Wroolie grew up here and has the sympathy of many friends who know her.

As this correspondence is mailed the election is still in progress here. Despite the general heat of the campaign the public of this village and surrounding territory has remained calm and unexcited, up to and through election day. This does not mean however that there has been no local interest in the campaign or its result and the majority of our citizens will be listening in tonight for radio election returns.

Saturday night's wedding dance, given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Dau was a very successful affair. The orchestra, altho made up of local talen, led by that master of the occordian, Oscar Johnson, discoursed harmonious music that it was a pleasure to listen to even though one did not dance. Much of the music was for old time dances which just suited a large percentage of the dancers.

Educational Advisor A. P. McKinstry and his assistants, did themselves proud in their current issue of "Peat Smoke", the CCC camp paper. Altho mimeographed from typewritten copy, the little paper was printed in colors, the reading matter and display ads embellished with artistic hand made ornaments and borders and the whole production neatly bound in magazine form. We are informed that "Peat Smoke" ranks away up at the top among hundreds of camp papers.

Henry Remilard was rushed to Thief River Falls today for medical attention on account of a bad hemmorrhage he experienced this morning. He was taken down by Art Sorter.

We learn that another dance is to be held here Saturday night, given by Ed Henning and his oil company at which time a radio is to be given away.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Evans and Mrs. R. D. V. Carr attended the Parent's Day program at the N. W. S. of A., Crookston last Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Evans' two children, Marshall and Dorothy are students of the school, hence the program was of special interest to the Evans'. Both Marshall and Dorothy participated in the program and acquitted themselves creditably, Marshall having a prominent comedy part in a play put on by the students. Mr. and Mrs. John Thieling of Grygla, who also have two children attending the school, were among the attendants. Miss Dorothy Gunstad, of the Middle River school faculty, was a passenger with the Evans' as far as St. Hilaire, her home.

Largest Parents' Day Crowd at Aggie School

Over 500 parents took possession of the Northwest School Saturday at Crookston, the occasion being the seventeenth annual Parent's Day celebration. This was the largest gathering of fathers and mothers ever assembled on the Aggie campus. Ideal weather and good roads played an important part in the day's activities, as many parents drove nearly two hundred miles to attend the gathering.

The forenoon was devoted to a visitation of classes, and all parents were guests of the student body at a Parent's Day dinner in the school dining hall at noon. A special student program was presented during the early afternoon.

Following the program, parents inspected the home project exhibits which were on display throughout the day. This work was completed by the students at home during the summer months as a part of their regular school assignments. Project winners included the following:

Bread Baking: Sylvia Fort, Erie. Cakes: Alvina Olson, Gully; Dorothy Evans, Middle River. Pies: Faith Thielling, Grygla; Effie Stenehouse, Oklee.

Wash Dress Ensemble: Delsie Filipi, Angus. Wool Dress: Irene Tasa, Trail. Thrift: Helen Hemmestvedt, Goodridge. Embroidery: Irene Tasa, Trail.

LIBRARY NOTES

Two new contracts for library book service have been signed during the past month. These were for districts 116 and 148. Jessie Bickley teaches in district 116 and Jessie Joyce in Dist. 148. Almost all former members have taken out libraries but there are still a few who have not called for them. It is always advisable to come in as early in the year as possible for in this way only, can the book needs be anticipated and satisfaction assured. With the return of all former members, there are now 41 schools entitled to this service. Any others expecting to secure their books in this way are urged to fill out contracts without delay.

Puppet shows are being given each Thursday afternoon at four o'clock and are open to the public. Enthusiasm runs high among the children as a general rule although one small boy in disgust did inform his father that the show was no good. "There wasn't even one pup."

Recent books in greatest demand are: "Gone with the Wind", by Mitchell; "Drums along the Mohawk" by Edmonds; "Live Alone and Like It", by Hillis; Brande's, "Wake Up and Live"; "Rich Land, Poor Land", by Stuart Chase. The following are also being reserved: Aldrich, "The Earth Never Tires"; Buchan, "Man from Norlands"; Morrow, "Let the King Beware"; Undset, "Gunnar's Daughter"; DeKruif, "Why Keep Them Alive?"; "Around the World in Eleven Years"; Van Etten, "I am the Fox"; Gibbs, "The Need We Have"; and Lindbergh, "North to the Orient."

OBITUARIES

CHRISTINA MARTINSON

Christina Martinson died at 8:15 a. m. Friday, October 30, at her home in township of North, at the age of 75 years. She was born March 19, 1861, in Malmchusland, Sweden. On Nov. 5, 1890, she was married to John Martinson at Atwater, Minn. She came from Sweden to Grove City, Minn., in 1888, and later lived at Lake Lillian and Atwater. In 1904 she moved to Excel township, Marshall County, where she lived until three weeks ago, when she moved to the township of North, where she has since made her home.

Her husband, parents, and one brother preceded her in death. Surviving her are one son, Morris Martinson at home in North, one sister, Elna, and one brother Nels Okeson, both of Sweden.

The funeral was held at the Erickson and Lund Funeral Home Monday, Nov. 2, at 1 p. m., and at Silver Creek Lutheran church at 2 p. m. Rev. Hanson of Holt conducted the services. Interment was at Silver Creek cemetery.

THEODORE GILBERTSON

Theodore Gilbertson passed away Sunday, Nov. 1, at his farm in Cloverleaf township at the age of 64 years and 11 months. He was born Oct. 20, 1872, in Sunberg, Minnesota.

Mr. Gilbertson was married Feb. 1, 1896, at Sunberg, to Beret Ellingson. They moved from Sunberg to Brooten, Minn., in 1897, and in 1904 moved to Roseau. In 1910 they moved to this city, where they lived until 1914, when they moved to Goodridge. They operated a general merchandise store there from 1914 to 1932, when they moved back to this city, where they have since made their home with Mr. Gilbertson's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Solheim.

Two daughters and one son preceded him in death. Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Beret Gilbertson, three daughters, Mrs. Thelma Nelson of Red Wing, Mrs. Guida Solheim of this city, Mrs. Emma Nelson of Brooten, one sister, Mrs. George Suckstorff of Grafton, N. Dak., and one brother, Olaus Gilbertson of Alberta, Can.

Funeral services were held Thursday (today) at the Trinity Lutheran church, with Rev. R. M. Fjelstad of this city conducting the services. He was assisted by Rev. B. O. Bjorgan of Goodridge. Interment was at Greenwood cemetery in this city.

REUBEN BURSTAD

Little Reuben Burstad, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Burstad of Erie, died at a local hospital October 31. Reuben was born March 31, 1933 in Star Township, Pennington County.

Surviving him are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burstad, one brother Robert, two sisters, Ruby and Eunice, and his grandfather, Ole Burstad, all of Erie.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Eklund church in Erie, with Rev. Bjorgan of Goodridge conducting the services. Interment was at the Eklund church cemetery in Erie.

NATIONAL REEMPLOYMENT SERVICE

E. R. Stanghelle, Interviewer
Telephone 411

(Crowded Out Last Week)

Private employers are reminded that skilled applicants living in outlying counties are registered at the local NRS office and can be secured through this office.

A new administrative building program is anticipated in this territory this fall. Foremen, carpenters, cement finishers, mixer operators, and other skilled workmen are urged to contact this office.

Wages of women employed in laundries in Ohio increased 86 per cent between May 1933 and July 1934.

Farm hands, especially older men for winter jobs, should contact the NRS office.

For the week ending October 17, 1936 the local office reported an active file of available applicants of 1,256 men and 221 women. Many of these persons have temporary employment or are employed in positions which they would leave for better employment.

For September 1936 the local office referred 194 persons to jobs; 170 were verified placements.

The state office reports an opening for a registered pharmacist. Qualified applicants can apply at the local NRS office.

Register now for rush season and holiday employment. Early registrations will enable the local interviewer to contact prospective employers on the basis of the applicant's qualifications.

Women interested in chicken picking openings should apply now.

Several exceptionally qualified stenographers are now available. Call your local employment interviewer.

Bemidji Beats Prowlers 13 to 6 In Game Friday

point by running the pigskin over.

The Bemidji forward wall braced in the third quarter after Bredeson recovered a blocked punt and play was almost at a standstill for the remainder of that quarter.

Both teams took to the air frequently in the last quarter. The Prowlers endeavored to erase the lead and turn the tide of battle in their favor while Bemidji sought to increase the seven-point lead. The Prowlers apparently had solved the Lumberjack's aerial attack and also made two completed passes to Lorentson, but only for meager gains.

Captain Milt Nesse, Jack adkins, Bud Nelson, James Peterson, Selmer Dickens and Helmer Sahl donned the gold and blue Prowler togs for the last time as gridiron representatives of the Thief River Falls high school.

Only five earned first downs were made in this contest, three for Bemidji, and two for the Prowlers.

The lineups and summary:

Bemidji (13)		T. R. Falls (6)
Wilcox	LE	Lorentson
Bucklin (c)	LT	L. Stadum
Swisher	LG	Bredeson
Bruggeman	C	Hanson
Mahler	RG	Adkins
Hakkerup	RT	Peterson
Tweeten	RE	Nelson
Bust	QB	Wessling
Lippincott	LH	Hill
Bennington	RH	Dicken
Clark	FB	M. Nesse (c)

Score by quarters:

Bemidji	6	7	0	0—13
T. R. Falls	6	0	0	0—6

Scoring: T. R. Falls, Touchdown, Hill. Bemidji: Touchdown, Lippincott. Point after touchdown, Clark.

Substitutions: T. R. Falls: Mickelson, Johnson, Caldis and L. Nesse. Bemidji: McPortlin, Kerr, Olson and Stewart.

The Prowlers played eight games during the season, winning all but the last game. They amassed a total of 179 points to only 19 for their opponents. The tally sheet shows the following:

Opponents	T. R. Falls
Red Lake Falls—6	33
Crookston—0	15
East Grand Forks—0	33
Grafton—0	19
Mahnomen—0	33
Crookston Cathedral—0	26
Warren—0	14
Bemidji—13	6

Total: Opponents—19; Thief River Falls—179.

NATIONAL Re-employment Service

The local NRS office has just received notice of a standing order for wood mill workers. These openings are with one of the largest sash and door factories in the world. Persons with at least three years 'experience in Sash and Door Mill work should contact the local office for further details.

This is the first time in two years that August private placements have topped July's for the national system of United States Employment Offices.

The National Reemployment Service in Minnesota for the month of August registered 4,877 new applicants; filled 7,494 openings from an active file of 67,265 registered applicants.

The North Carolina State Employment Service enteres into the seasonal business of recruiting berry pickers to growers in that state. When the market officially opened and the rush season began, the Service proved its value to the growers by rounding up 2,000 pickers and placing them with the growers within a period of three days.

Similar attempts in other states as that of North Carolina have been made with big success. The employment offices offer the widest range of labor supply. The same service is available to private employers in every community in the country.

Dozens of persons who are anxiously waiting to get odd jobs such as putting on storm windows, doing odd repair jobs, shoveling snow, and in general ready for winter, can quickly and conveniently be secured by telephoning 411, the local NRS office.

The National Reemployment office will not be open for business on Armistice Day, November 11.

RED LAKE FALLS TO SINK 12-INCH WELL

Ever since Red Lake Falls has had a city water system, more than 20 years, the source of supply has been the Clearwater river and the water has been pumped uphill for seven long blocks to the water tower. Last summer in an effort to secure a better supply a test well was sunk right at the base of the water tower itself, and the drillers at a depth of 148 feet struck a vein of pure soft water of sufficient quantity to justify the drilling of a larger well and consequently a drilling machine will shortly begin to sink a 12 inch well. If an ample supply can be secured there will be a minimum expense to connect up a pump, there being no mains to lay. The pump will be installed in the stand pipe warminghouse.

FOUR MEN SENTENCED TO 'WIPE OUT' ROBBER MOB

A robber gang which operated throughout north central Minnesota was considered "wiped out" on Thursday by Wadena county authorities with sentencing of four men to prison terms. John O. Hein and Leroy Dorry, both of Wadena; Leo Robbins, Alexandria, and Fred W. Moske, Wadena county farmer, received sentences after the quartet pleaded guilty before Judge Byron Wilson to a charge of robbing the general store at Aldrich last week. Hein, who admitted it was his fifth offense, was given a life term. Robbins drew a term not to exceed seven years, Moske up to five years, and Dorry up to three years.

New Pontiac Cars Shown By Dealers

The 1937 Pontiacs have been placed on display in the show room of the Thronson Motor company.

Pontiac starts the ensuing year with two lines of cars, the de luxe six and de luxe eight. They are longer in wheelbase, roomier, and lower.

Claimed also for the new cars are improved riding qualities, larger and more powerful engines, faster acceleration, higher top speed, additional economy and brilliant all-around performance.

Seven styles of bodies will be available in seven colors with striping that provides a harmonizing contrast. The bodies have solid steel turret top and are said to be of 100 per cent steel construction throughout.

WPA Projects To Be Closed Armistice Day

WPA projects in Pennington County will not be operated on Armistice day, Nov. 11th. Word to this effect was received early this week by Merle Webb, engineer in charge of operations in Pennington County, from the district office of J. B. Kovarik, district director, to whom instructions were given by Victor Christgau, state administrator.

Arrangements will be made on each project, Mr. Christgau said, so that this lost time may be made up and thus enable all project workers to receive full pay.

Chevrolet Sales Force Attend District Meeting

The sales force of the Northern Chevrolet Company, which is composed of seven men, motored to Grand Forks, Wednesday. The purpose of the trip was in connection with the 1937 Chevrolet sales program.

HUNTERS ASKED TO PROVIDE DEER DATA

Big game hunters this year are asked to cooperate with the division of game and fish in obtaining information about deer population on several hunting areas within the state and national forests.

Checking stations will be established at all points of travel into these areas, and hunters will be asked to report their success and to permit certain measurements to be made of deer taken.

Hunters killing deer bearing ear tags are requested to report the number of the tags and the location of the kill to the division of game and fish. This information will facilitate the gathering of data as to distances normally travelled by deer and will eventually provide a standard for establishing the size of game refuges.

Hunters will also be asked to report the approximate number of deer seen, the number of days spent in hunting, and the distance covered.

BUSINESS IN NORTHWEST CONTINUES ON UP SWING

Retail business over the Northwest is continuing its upward swing and all signs point to a big and perhaps record volume of fall and holiday trade, John H. De Wild, trade extension manager of the Minneapolis Civic & Commerce association, reported on his return from a tour of several states. At a two-day institute at Moorhead, attended by more than 300 Red River Valley merchants, most reports were that business is well ahead of a year ago, despite drouth that reduced harvests, particularly of potatoes, he said.

It was still Ernest Lundeen, "Member of congress, the new Farmer-Labor senator quickly pointed out to visitors Wednesday, and after he set callers right on this point his first act was to declare a moratorium on political conversation.

While overjoyed at reaching the highest office the state can give him, he preferred to talk about hi. principal hobby—rifle shooting—and his two children, Joan 13, and Ernest Ward, 15.

For 50 days, he said, he campaigned for election, the shortest campaign he has ever engaged in while seeking office. Now he wants to rest for a couple of days before commenting on the election.

HARVEST CLOVER ALONG ROADSIDE

Little of the sweet clover crop in Star township is going to waste according to reports coming from Thief River Falls. Two men have been harvesting seed along the roadsides with a scythe and then threshing it with a small machine perfected by themselves. They have netted as much as four dollars a day for their efforts. Another man went out with a washtub and pulled the seed off with his hands, letting it drop into the tub.

PHEASANTS PLENTIFUL IN WESTERN COUNTIES

Reports received by the division of game and fish indicate that pheasants are very plentiful in counties in the west central portion of the state in which the longer open season is in effect.

This section of the state was not so severely affected by the heavy snows and blizzards last winter and bird loss was relatively small.

Counties in which the pheasant season remains open until November 13 are: Wilkin, Ottertail, Traverse, Grant, Douglas, Pope, Stevens, Big Stone, Swift, Chippewa, Lac Qui Parle, and Yellow Medicine.

Astronomy and the Bible

A Popular Non-Technical Lecture on ASTRONOMY

Its Aim—to impress upon the minds the vastness of the unfathomable regions of space and to corroborate the Bible statement, "The heavens declare the glory of God". Psalms 19:1.

One hundred of the latest photographs of the starry heavens taken through the telescopes of Heidelberg, Lick, Yerkes, and Mount Wilson observatories will be shown. Marvelous views revealing entrancing glories in the amazing deeps of interstellar space. People who hear this lecture request that it be repeated. It has been given in Colleges, Churches, High Schools, Y. M. C. A.'s, and Theatres.

This lecture will be given by Professor M. N. Skadsheim of Grand Forks in the Methodist Church Sunday night

Special Features. Some Christian University students and others will render a beautiful musical program beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Come early as seats will be at a premium and standing room hard to find that night.

Commission Orders Lake Of Woods Fishing Probe

The Conservation Commission recently directed Commissioner E. V. Willard of the conservation department to conduct a complete investigation of commercial fishing in Lake of the Woods.

The action was taken following reports that game fish in the lake were rapidly disappearing as a result of commercial fishing operations. The Commission plans to adopt a definite policy for Lake of the Woods on the basis of the investigation.

POSTOFFICE TO INITIATE SOCIAL SECURITY PLAN

All Employers Must Return Completed Blanks By Nov. 21st

Contemplated Changes Will Not Affect Return

Employees Of All Industries Will Be Asked For Labor Reports

Postmaser Anderson of Thief River Falls, along with all other U. S. postmasters, will begin next Monday or soon thereafter to deliver a circular to every employer who must register under the recently enacted Social Security act. This act provides for Old Age pension under which it is expected that 26 million workers will participate. Postmaster Anderson states that the blanks contained in the circulars must be filled out by the employer and returned to Walter Smith, the assistant postmaster, by Saturday, Nov. 21st.

The pension accounts, through which every eligible employe will be given a numbered card, take effect with the taxes on January 1. The records are to be kept up to date, showing constantly the amounts of money earned. Monthly pensions when the worker retires after he reaches 65 will depend on how much was earned ranging from $10 a month to $85.

List Registration Plan

Among these not covered are domestic servants, government workers and farm labor. Employers will receive an "application for identification number" asking them to list the number employed, to describe their business, and to name the headquarters office if their shop is a branch.

The employes in turn will be asked beginning November 24 to fill out a blank stating their age, sex, parent's names, and the business of their employers. Those reaching 65 before January 1 are not included. The applications must be returned to local postmasters by December 5.

While this administrative work is being started, there is some consideration being given to actual provisions of the social security measure by congress and by various organizations. But changes which the new session of congress may make will not affect the information asked in the forthcoming blanks.

Most discussion of the law has centered on the provision for an ultimate reserve fund of $47,000,000,000, and whether some exemption allowances might be made for firms with private pension plans. Also, American Federation of Labor leaders are planning an attempt to supplant the tax on workers' wages with one whereby the employer would bear the whole financing burden. As the law stands, both pay equally for the old age pensions.

Junior Class Will Stage Play Nov. 20

The Junior Class of the Lincoln High School is presenting "The Nut Family", a three-act comedy written by John C. Brownell, at the Municipal Auditorium, Friday, Nov. 20th, at 8:15. The play is under the direction of Helen Margaret Olson, and centers around Hollywood and the motion picture world.

The cast consists of eleven Juniors as follows: Fae Belcher, Gordon Caldis, Robert Quale, Roger Wessling, Harriet Simonson, Mary Chommie, Floyd Melby, Robert Smith, Jerome Salveson, Evelyn Tungseth, and Marion Odin.

The committees consist of the following groups: prompters, Lorraine Amundson, and Eileen Rolland; advertising and publicity, Clifford Olson; stage manager, Dayton Silk, Robert Hanson, Clarence Haug, and Lowell Nesse; properties, Oleen Skaar.

The students and director of this play have worked long and hard on the Junior Class play for this year and would feel as if their work was well awarded if there was a large attendance at the Auditorium on the night of Nov. 20th. Plan to attend!

Highlanding Pioneer Passes Away Suddenly

Elo Sanders, one of the prominent pioneers of the Highlanding vicinity, died suddenly Monday afternoon following a stroke. His death was a shock to the numerous acquaintances of the family.

He was born at Bloomington Prairie, Minn., and was 56 years of age at the time of his death. In 1905 he married Anna Johnson at Red Lake Falls, and in 1907 settled on a homestead in Highlanding, where he has since made his home. He was clerk of Highlanding in the year 1911, and supervisor from 1921 to 1928.

Surviving him are his wife and two sons, Sverre and Alvin, all at home, one sister, Mrs. E. P. Maynagh of Minneapolis, and one brother, Sander Sanders, also of Minneapolis.

Funeral services will be held on Friday, Nov. 13th, at 2 o'clock, at the Highlanding church, with Rev. Sabo officiating at the services. He will be buried at the Highlanding cemetery.

MANY PENNINGTON FARMERS ATTEND F. U. CONVENTION

Eleven Delegates Go To State Meeting In Session Now At Madison

The annual state convention of the Farmers Union of Minnesota is being held at Madison, this state, the latter part of this week. The two factions that split the organization a year ago are expected to re-unite and as a result elect one set of officers.

Pennington county has over 600 members in the organization and a score of delegates left Wednesday to attend. Each local is entitled to one delegate and additional delegates are allowed on larger memberships.

Among those who went and the local they represent are the following: Einer Jenson and Anton Kotebra from Highlanding—Star local, Carl Anderson from Black River local, Gordon Olson and Victor Erickson from Norden, Edwin Roy from West Rocksbury, Albert Walberg from Hazel, T. S. Iverson, Otto Rehm and Ben Semenski from Kratka, Fred Luke from Silverton, and L. Stenseth from Smiley local. J. V. Hoffman and Otto Parnow of the Highlanding-Star local are in attendance as observers.

The delegates are expected to return Saturday evening. Mr. and Mrs. E. Jenson left Sunday with their two sons, Roy and Max, and Lloyd Johnson, who are 4-H club entrees at the Junior Livestock show in South St. Paul, all of them spending the first of the week in the Twin Cities.

Postoffice Will Remain Open All Saturday

Postmaster Anderson announces that beginning next Saturday the local postoffice will remain open all day, every Saturday, opening at 8:00 A. M., and closing at 6:00 P. M. The longer service is made necessary because of the numerous farmers and non-boxholders who wish to transact business at the regular window Saturday afternoons.

The Current Events group will hold its next meeting Tuesday evening, Nov. 17, at the home of Mrs. H. A. Brumund, with Mrs. J. Provencher acting as assisting hostess. Mrs. Andrew Bottelson will give a discussion on "The United States—Melting Pot". A short business meeting and roll call answered by giving a current event will be the order of the meeting.

NESLAND, LOCAL CONTRACTOR, IS FOUND KILLED

Body Is Found In Woods Near Thorholt Monday Evening

Is Believed Victim Of Accidental Rifle Bullet

Funeral Services Will Be Held On Saturday Afternoon

Thos. Nesland, prominent building contractor in our city, was found dead Monday near Thorholt, 50 miles east of the city. Investigation seems to prove that he was accidentally killed by a rifle bullet.

It is reported Mr. Nesland had gone to the reservation to look for carpenters and that he had taken the rifle with him. People near the reservation investigated after the Nesland car was seen parked in the woods longer than usual. Relatives here were informed and upon their investigation it was found he had pursued deer tracks through the snow in the woods. A distance away his body was found, his rifle nearby.

It is held by authorities here that the rifle discharged accidentally, the bullet striking Nesland under the chin and emerging from the top of his head.

Mr. Nesland was considered an able carpenter and during the past summer had been unusually busy. His crews of carpenters are at work on several projects in this city at present.

Thomas Nesland was born Feb. 19th, 1903, in Benville Township, Beltrami County. He moved from Beltrami to Kenosha, Wis., in 1922, and in 1927 married Letha Burns there. In 1932 he moved to this city, where he since made his home.

One sister and one brother preceded him in death. Surviving him are his wife, and two daughters, Audrey and Carol Jean, all of this city, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gunder Nesland of Silverton Township, two sisters, Mrs. Inga David of Neilsville, Wis., and Tillie Nesland at home, five brothers, Knute of McVille, N. Dak., Ole of Cushind, Wis., Andrew of this city and Halvor and Swen at home in Benville Township.

Funeral services will be held at the Erickson & Lund Funeral Home Saturday, Nov. 14th, at 11 a. m., and at the Grygla Lutheran church at 1:30 p. m. Rev. E. A. Cooke of this city, and Rev. S. Anderson of Grygla will conduct the services. Interment will be at the Grygla cemetery.

Amateur Contests Will Be Held Wednesday

An amateur contest will be held at the Sons of Norway hall Wednesday evening when violin and accordian players will compete for three prizes in each division. A description of the contests will be found in an ad in these pages.

Northern Trading Company's Warehouse

Above is a picture of the new warehouse of the Northern Trading company, of which Charles Fitterman is the manager. Mr. Fitterman has been a trader of hides, furs, wool, and pelts in this city for 27 years. The warehouse has storage room for 100,000 pounds of hides, a carload of sheep pelts and two trucks.

This warehouse, located on Atlantic and Ninth, was recently built for the purpose of storing merchandise, although the company's office is still located in the old church building across the street from the Evelyn Hotel.

Film of European Coops To Be Shown Next Week

The showing of a film, "Cooperatives in Europe", will feature the meeting Monday evening by the Cooperative Group at the Old Elks hall in the Citizens Bank building. V. N. Hegg, who has been addressing a group of people associated with local cooperative establishments, will be present to talk on cooperatives in the Scandinavian countries and explain the film as it is shown. The public is welcome in attending, with no admission charged.

The film will also be shown at the regular meetings held weekly at Middle River Tuesday evening, at Goodridge Wednesday evening, at Clearbrook Thursday evening, and at Bagley Friday evening.

Douglass Booren Elected Head of Jr. C. & C.

The members of the Junior Civic and Commerce association of this city held a meeting Thursday evening in the Civic & Commerce rooms. During the meeting, Chester Myrom, president of the organization, officially resigned his position due to his leaving this city. He presented various projects in which this group is now active. Douglass Booren was elected the new president, and he accepted his new office. Mr. Booren had been holding the office of vice president prior to his election.

STATE HOUSE WILL BE CONTROLLED BY FARMER-LAB'RITES

Late Returns Show Liberals May Control By Two-Thirds Vote

Liberal leaders of the state house of representatives today claimed 76 definitely pledged to their side, one more than the majority needed to wrest control of the house from the independent-progressive faction, led by Representative Roy E. Dunn.

At least six additional members, classed as independents, probably will vote with the liberals for organization purposes, it was reported.

Liberals, headed by Representative Harold Barker of Elbow Lake, who will be advanced for the speakership, were going ahead with caucusing plans, with a call tentatively issued for Wednesday at the Lowry hotel, St. Paul.

Late returns from this caucus indicate that the liberals may command a two-thirds majority as more independents have signified that they will cooperate with the Farmer-Labor faction in most instances. R. M. Aalbu, formerly editor of the Tri-County Forum, has been slated for assistant clerk in the house.

Among those from this district in attendance at this caucus were: W. E. Day, J. O. Melby and R. M. Aalbu.

On the basis of returns from 123 of the 131 legislative contests in the state, the conservatives were assured of only 50 votes, including eight whose alignment was not definitely determined.

Conservatives went down to defeat in all parts of the state to make virtually certain the complexion of the house will be changed from a top-heavy "independent-progressive" control to a substantial liberal majority.

Among the conservatives who were defeated are George W. Johnson, Duluth, speaker at the 1935 session; R. T. Hart, Moose Lake, chairman of the tax committee which brought out the ill-fated omnibus tax bill; H. L. Wahlstrand, Willmar; Henry E. Horwitz, St. Paul; O. K. Dahle, Spring Grove veteran; William Syreen, Ironton, and a dozen others.

MYSTERY OF "PICKLED" HAND IS SOLVED

The mystery of the "pickled" human hand, found by a group of small boys in the back yard of a local hospital and which caused a stir as the news spread about the city, has been solved.

The hand was one preserved in the usual liquid at the hospital for a considerable time but that one of the new servants at the institution, not knowing the routine, had put it away for discard as a matter of daily cleanup.

OEN'S ANNOUNCE OPENING OF NEW DEPARTMENTS

Ladies' Ready-to-Wear And Gent's Clothing Opens Saturday

Grocery Store Will Be Opened In Seed House

Shipments of Furniture Are Expected Within Next Week

The Oen's Mercantile company whose large department store was completely destroyed by fire recently, has made arrangements for the opening of three more temporary locations for the various departments, the opening of which has been announced for next Saturday.

The Ladies Ready-to-Wear and shoe department and the men's clothing department are being made ready for opening at the former Curtis Drug store, third door east of the Northern State bank.

The grocery department has leased quarters in the Thief River Seed House building, this division being housed in the east half, occupied in season by the seed department. Messrs. Haugen and Parbst have been busy putting in a complete line of Fairway groceries and they state everything will be in readiness for both old and new customers Saturday.

The hardware department, with Luther Haugen as manager, opened two weeks ago in the Johnson building, south of Borry's garage on Main Avenue. Olaf Solheim, the manager of the furniture department, states that goods for his department are to arrive here to be put into place at the Odegaard building just south of the new Trinity church edifice.

Land O' Lakes Ships 10 Cars of Dresse dTurkeys

As the Forum goes to press, ten carloads of dressed turkeys have been shipped by the Land O' Lakes headquarters in Thief River Falls. As more than 2,000 dressed turkeys are packed into each of their refrigerator cars, it is anticipated that nearly 25,000 dressed turkeys have been sent to adorn the tables of people in Chicago and New York vicinities Thanksgiving Day.

The Land O' Lakes, Inc., are handling this trade through a turkey pool which closes Saturday. Truckload shipments have come here from all directions within a radius of more than a hundred miles. While turkeys will be taken in next week it is expected this will be only for local Thanksgiving feasts. A Christmas Turkey pool will be announced later.

Pennington 4-H Club Members Attend Junior Stock Show

Stanley Doten, assistant county agent, Einar Jenson of Highlanding, and Gerald Yonke of St. Hilaire accompanied the 4H club boys and girls to the Junior Livestock show at St. Paul Sunday morning. The show is being held the first part of this week, ending today.

Mrs. Andrew Bottelson entertained the Drama group of the Women's Club at her home Tuesday night. Mrs. Lincoln Arnold was assisting hostess. The group discussed the play "First Lady" by Dayton and Kaufman, the plays that had been written before by these co-authors, why they liked to combine their talents into one play and other facts about their lives.

Annual Auto Show is Now in Full Swing

Red Cross Chapter Opens Local Drive

Between November 11th and 26th, 1936, the American Red Cross will conduct its annual Roll Call. During that period of time, public-spirited citizens everywhere will carry the agency's message to the nation. Mrs. H. A. Brumund, campaign manager of this city, will supervise a house-to-house drive, which should help considerably in doing its bit toward the 5,000,000 memberships needed in this year's Roll Call. Of the total, 113,000 enrollments is Minnesota's proportionate share.

"The Red Cross may be expected to carry on when disaster strikes, if it receives the cooperation and financial support to which it is entitled, from the people of the country. As Governor of Minnesota I urge every adult resident of this state, financially able to do so, to assist in furthering this noble cause," States Hjalmer Petersen, governor, in his proclamation issued this week.

DEER HUNTERS PREPARE FOR BUSY SEASON

Red Lake Reservation May Be Closed To Usual Hunting

Many nimrods are planning on opening the deer hunting season Sunday in grand style. A season of eleven days, beginning Nov. 15, and ending Nov. 25, was declared recently for sixteen northern Minnesota counties by Governor Petersen on the recommendation of the state Conservation Commission.

At the same time the Commission asked Governor Petersen to issue an executive order providing for an 11-day bear season from No. 15 to Nov. 25 in all counties having a deer season. The Commission also requested Governor Petersen to eliminate the statutory bear season which extends from April 15 to May 15.

Fawns are not included in the deer season and will remain protected in all counties. The deer season will be fully open in Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Roseau, Lake, Cook, St. Louis, Beltrami, Hubbard, Cass Clearwater, Itasca, Crow Wing, Aitkin, Kanabec, Pine, and Carlton counties. Deer may also be taken in Becker county, east of the Minneapolis, st. Paul and Sault St. Marie railroad; in Marshall and Kittson counties, east of the old Pembina trail, and in Mille Lacs county, north of the Great Northern railroad through Milaca.

What is considered as meaning that no hunting of deer can be made on the Red Lake Indian reservation east of Pennington and Polk counties is contained in the following letter from the Red Lake agency:

"Be and it is hereby resolved that hereafter only members of the Red Lake Band shall have the privilege of hunting on the Indian Reservation, and no member of the Red Lake Band shall assume to have the right to individually allow or act as a guide to hunt on the reservation, excepting that non-members who are married to members of the Red Lake Reservation may have the privilege as well as employees of the Red Lake Band who may hunt in company with members of the tribe in accordance with the State laws of Minnesota."

New Winter Sports' Building

Where Auto Show Is Being Held

All Principal Makes of Cars Here For Local Exhibition

Good Vaudeville Show Is Presented Evenings

Winter Sports Arena Is Made For First Show In Northwest

The tenth annual Auto Show in Thief River Falls will open tonight in all its glory at the Winter Sports Arena for a three-day exhibition. It promises to be the most outstanding of its kind as this is the first showing of 1937 cars in the Northwest.

Local dealers have secured models of the makes they sell and it is expected that a dozen different makes of cars will be on exhibit. Several types of cars will be seen in the various makes, making it a possibility that more than 25 1937 cars will be seen.

A vaudeville program of one hour and thirty minutes duration will be given in connection with the auto show on Friday and Saturday evenings. A musical extravaganza, known as the All-American Revue, will be the feature attraction, and will be presented under the direction of Al Sheehan of the WCCO Artists bureau of Minneapolis, and includes four episodes, the New Orleans Mardi Gras, Manhattan Greenwich Village, Wyoming Rodeo, and Banff Winter Carnival.

A civic testimonial program will be held tonight at which time honor will be paid to public organizations and officials, this being sponsored by the Civic & Commerce association.

Dancing will wind up the evening's entertainment tonight, and Friday, and Saturday evening will be the gala occasion, with a big dance in the winter sports building. Music will be provided by Allyn Cassell and his eleven-piece recording orchestra. They will play at the testimonial meeting tonight, and at the automobile show during the afternoons. Vaudeville numbers will also be presented in the winter sports building during the afternoon with no admission charged.

The sports building will be heated for the occasion, and will be open until midnight every night in order to give all visitors an opportunity to inspect the 1937 cars either before or after the programs at the Auditorium.

Among the cars to be shown are the Chevrolet, Chrysler, Plymouth, Nash, Ford, Pontiac, Lincoln Zephyr, Dodge, Oldsmobile, Buick, DeSoto, and Terraplane.

The various models as shown at the exhibition are described as follows:

Pontiac's 1937 cars—the DeLuxe Six and DeLuxe Eight—are longer in wheelbase, lower and have more interior room than the 1936 models. Engine power has also been increased. Seven body styles are offered in each line, although both two-door and four-door sedans

Farmers Union Has All-County Meeting

An organization meeting of the various officers of the Farmers Union locals of Pennington county was held at the courthouse Thursday last week. A board of directors was chosen, with the following persons elected members: L. Stenseth, Smiley local; Isaac Wilson, Kratka local; C. R. Melin, of Black River local; J. V. Hoffman, Highlanding-Star local, and Gordon Olson of the Norden local.

Speakers at the session were: Gus Senske of Fisher, president of the F. U. Oil company of Crookston; Edw. Reitemeir, secretary of the same group; Art Marcot, manager of the F. U. Oil company of Red Lake Falls, and A. R. McLaughlin, fieldman of the Farmers Union Activities of St. Paul.

All of them spoke on the various phases of cooperative buying and selling of certain products handled by the Farmers Union activities. The board of directors was instructed to make plans for the opening of a building wherein Farmers Union products can be handled.

ROOSEVELT'S AVOWED COURSE

Much explaining is being done these days as to what course President Roosevelt ought to pursue as a result of the general election. Political commentators, such as Walter Lippman, Frank R. Kent, David H. Lawrence, Paul Mallon, all reactionary prostitutes, are profusive in their suggestions.

Yes, all these gentlemen, include the Jones of the Minneapolis Journal, the Murphys of the Tribune, also the disgraced William Randolph Hearst and Bertie McCormick of the Chicago Tribune, they were profuse in suggesting matters before the election. They thought they knew what was good for us—and they think yet we don't know what is good for ourselves or even that we don't know what we want.

But the American people spoke in no uncertain terms on Nov. 3rd. President Roosevelt has set about to change the so-called American grab system. The vote showed that they want that change to continue. Only the rich and a few otherwise misled are concerned about balancing the budget, bonds selling below par, or whether the New Deal policies are constitutional or not. Even the nine old saints sitting as the U. S. supreme court would be overwhelmingly voted out were the voters to decide upon them.

Roosevelt's course is to continue his trend to the left. They want security for a living, bread and butter for their families, some assurance for a home and annuity if they need it in their old age. They want rights and privileges but they plainly saw they enjoyed them better under Roosevelt than they would under Landon.

The course is therefore to curb special privilege, such as the public utilities, Wall Street speculation and unjust profiteering. Big fortunes and big corporations, with their unwarranted surplus must be reduced. Call it radicalism or socialism! It is the mandate that President Roosevelt received at the polls last week.

Topeka, Landon's home town, is an Indian name meaning the place of the small potato. The election proved it!

G. O. P. REPUDIATED IN MINNESOTA

The Republicans of Minnesota suffered in the same manner as the national party. They were wholly repudiated at the polls in favor of the Farmer-Labor party. The many charges of extravagance brought against the Farmer-Labor party didn't hold water as the people associated the Republicans with the rural credits debaucle and other episodes of the Ted Christianson administration.

The Minnesota G. O. P. is too closely associated with big business to come out to appeal to the common people of Minnesota. The iron ore and the Backus-Brooks interests are too prominent in the voters' mind as yet for any charge of malfeasance in office on the part of the present party in control of the state offices. Republicans were in control of at least one branch and most of the time both branches of the legislature so that if there was any charge of extravagance the G. O. P. was in part responsible for the charge. But the G. O. P. charges were so fantastic and inconsistent that anyone can deduce the fact that the Farmer-Labor party was fully reindorsed in last week's election.

Harry Peterson, the attorney general, has stated the results in the following manner:

"This election is a repudiation of the Republican party and its leadership. The results of the election demonstrate that the people of Minnesota appreciate that the Farmer-Labor party is their party. People who have gone through the hunger, fear and suffering of this depression will not be content to accept the stone—the empty program—which the Republican party offered them in answer to their cries for a new deal; nor are they, after the terrors which they have experienced, to be frightened by lies and bogey men such as the communism scare."

The reactionaries used to say "As Maine goes so goes the Nation." The rest of us say, "As Maine goes so goes Vermont."

THE PROSTITUTION OF THE PRESS

The Republican party may have suffered overwhelmingly from the election last week and other reactionaries suffering along with the GOP, but the class that suffered the most in prestige is that group known as editors.

That group has prided itself as being the moulders of public opinion, the various editors imagining they are the prominent leaders of every movement in their communities, the god-fathers of everything.

But last week's election clearly demonstrated that the so-called members of the fourth estate have little influence with the public. While more than 85 percent of the newspapers were praising Landon and the other Republicans to high heavens, and charging Roosevelt and other progressives with un-Americanism, Communism, reckless spending, etc., the public went to the polls and voted generally overwhelmingly against the newspapers' politics.

Editors have an opportunity to sense the public pulse to a large extent. Unless editors are too violently one-sided in their editorials their readers will come around and discuss the political situation. But editors were too abominably reactionary. They offended their readers to such an extent that no one but their recationary friends came around, or probably a few of the offended readers who came around to cancel their subscription.

It is a pity to confess that the writer of these lines is a member of this so-called fourth estate. But we don't want to be classed as the big recationary majority which sold out to the G. O. P. campaign funds. We feel like the large group of American people did last week that the Republican party is opposed to the best interest of the common people. And that is why we supported President Roosevelt.

These rawhide reactionary editors have a thing or two to explain. Their prostituted editorials have degraded the whole profession to such an extent we have all suffered from it.

What will these editors do to explain the filth and lies they spread? Nothing, absolutely nothing! The great majority of them will expect the public to forgive and forget, and, when the next election comes around, they will be ready to throw some more dirt.

The sentiment of a newspaper reader is appropriately expressed in these words: "The prestige of the press has received a terrific blow. The landslide came in spite of the practically unanimous opposition of the newspapers outside of the solid south. It would seem to me that a revision of editorial methods is in order. We, the people, have proved that we do not believe a word you said."

You all heard of the Literary Digest and its famous straw polls. That's now causing all Republicans serious indigestion.

CONSIDERS "QUEENS" OBSOLETE

There is a lot of small factors in our daily life that is ordinarily overlooked by the public, things that appear insignificant yet exercise a predominating influence in our daily life. We may refer to such as children playing with tin soldiers making them later supporters of warfare, playing with toy guns making the mcriminal, etc.

But a contributotr to the Minneapolis Star considers another item that may equally contribute to our attitude regarding supposedly obsolete conditions. He writes:

"Here is something absolutely un-American. Two or three times a week I see news stories about this girl and that girl having been crowned queen of something or other. Here are a few: "Queen of Wheat," "Style Queens", or "Queen Kolacky."

"But here is the most insulting one to true Americans. Central high school in Minneapolis at the homecoming celebration of their football team crowned Russell Mork king and Evelyn Hanson queen of the celebration.

"What kind of teachers of these young people can teach them that it is right to have kings and queens crowned in public school buildings? How about the school board? Our forefathers fought the revolution to get rid of kings and queens.

It looks as though there is a premeditated plan to educate the American people to accept a king and queen."

Some editors have the misconceived idea that Minnesota is entirely in the hands of the Farmer-Labor party. Such is not the case. The senate is still dominated by the G. O. P. It will take another two years before we are free from this—unless something unforeseen happens.

TEACHERS DEMAND ACADEMIC FREEDOM

The right and duty of teachers to delve into controversial issues in schools was upheld by the Minnesota Education association convention in St. Paul last week.

J. Paul McGinnis, a teacher in Detroit Lakes high school, pleaded for academic freedom for teachers, at the same time warning teachers to "guard ourselves against defending those whose personal unfitness brings discredit to the profession."

He said, "The discussion of controversial issues is essential to any modern program of social science education but if unwisely handled may do more harm than good."

Roy W. Hatch, head of the department of social studies at State Teachers college, Montclair, N. J., said teachers teach too many facts and not enough thinking processes on social issues. The association adopted a resolution condemning teachers' "loyalty" oaths as a threat to freedom of learning and of teaching.

HOW THE G. O. P. PLANNED IT

Not all reactionaries felt as disgusted as Herbert Hoover, Al Smith, the Du Ponts and the Mellons, or even Hearst felt after last week's election. Someone, probably disgusted with the manner in which the Republicans conducted the campaign, cynically analyses the election in the following manner:

"The Roosevelt landslide is no surprise to Republican stalwarts. You see, we planned it that way. We wanted the present administration to be indorsed, and so we picked a comparatively unknown small town, mild and inoffensive character to head a national ticket.

"We put our campaign in the hands of amateurs. We had our candidate travel miles and miles of tortuous campaigning, so as to exhibit him to gaping crowds, who came, saw and were convinced. We had him make speeches of a "canned" variety in different sections of the country, all to the effect that that the administration of Roosevelt was putting us deeper and deeper into the depression and ruining American business and farmers and labor.

"On the news pages that carried the text of his speeches we ran news articles of rising stock-markets, improved business conditions, farmers happy, labor better paid and more largely employed, dividends to stockholders being resumed, and top heavy gains by industry being reported on all sides.

"Yes, we planned it that way. Why? Well, doggone it, Roosevelt put us into this, and we wanted to make it unanimous that he would get us out of it. We set the stage in such a manner that he couldn't lose with his audience, even had he tried not to perform so as to receive its acclaim."

NEWS of the WEEK

Nation's Costliest Election

Washington, D. C.—Final reports of campaign expenditures show the election just held to be the most expensive battle ever waged for the Presidency, with a total outlay of about $13,000,000. The Republicans spent nearly $7,000,000, the Democrats $3,500,000 and minor parties more than $2,000,000. In 1932 both major parties spent only $4,378,000 and the previous high records of 1928 was $11,598,000.

Seamen's Strike Spreads

New York City—The walk-out of maritime workers starting on the Pacific Coast has now spread to Atlantic seaboard ports, including this city, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, as well as Gulf ports. Already seventy-seven American registry ships are tied up. Asked if the United States Navy might intervene by supplying crews, Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, declared such action required only a Presidential order.

First January Inauguration

Washington D. C.—For the first time, the President will be inaugurated for his new four-year term on January 20th, instead of the traditional March 4th. This is in accordance with the Norris "lame duck" amendment to the Constitution. Electors will meet in their States on December 14th, and their ballots will be opened at a joint session of the House and Senate January 6th.

"It Can't Happen Here"

New York City—Sponsored by the WPA Federal Theatre Project, 21 companies scattered from coast to coast began presenting "It Can't Happen Here", Sinclair Lewis's play based upon the possibility of a Fascist Government in the United States. "Commercial theatre men", mused author Lewis, "would be afraid to present the idea. The movies bought the novel, and they were scared to make the picture."

Emperor Wants An Heir

Peiping, China—Disappointed in the failure of his wife, Peng Chi, to bear an heir to the throne of Manchukio, Emperor Kang Teh, frail and 29, has commissioned a learned mandarian to select from 100 candidates "a comely but sturdy concubine," whose divine duty it will be to present him with a son.

British Flyer Breaks Record

London, Eng.—First aviator to fly the Atlantic from America to this city. Capt. James A. Mollison arrived here 13 hours, 17 minutes after leaving Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, in an American-made Bellanca. He is the first flyer to cross the Atlantic four times, and smashed all speed records for the crossing.

Queen Mary Loses Skipper

Southampton, Eng.—Two hours before he was to command the big Queen Mary on her regular voyage to New York, Capt. Sir Edgar T. Britten was stricken with apoplexy in his cabin and died shortly afterward. His place on the bridge was assumed by Capt. Reginald V. Peel.

Motor-Refrigerator Merger

Kenosha, Wis.—First big industrial merger of the present business cycle is that of the Nash motors Company and the Kelvinator Corporation. The latter produces a fifth of the refrigerators sold in the country, and it is expected that Kelvinator's President, George W. Mason, will head the merged concern.

Uncle Sam Ultimate Winner

Washingtton, D. C.—Of the $8,000,000 in prizes distributed by the latest Irish Hospitals Sweepstakes, $4,274,265 came to this country. While tax experts are still busy with the lucky winners, it is estimated that the U. S. Treasury's share in levies will be upwards of $2,000,000.

Capital News-Shorts

Washington, D. C.—The Treasury estimated that 3,000,000 individuals and 257,000 corporations will pay $2,303,363,000 in Federal taxes on 1936 incomes, an increase of nearly a billion dollars over 1935 .... In its first year of operation, the National Labor Relations Board reported action in 1,405 cases involving 291,408 workers. It issued 98 decisions, reinstated 1,429 workers after discriminatory discharge, settled 103 strikes and averted 78 impending strikes .... The Census Bureau estimated the population of the country as of July 1st at 128,429,000, nearly 5,654,000 more than recorded by the 1930 census. Largest ratio of increase was in the District of Columbia, from 486,869 to 619,000. In the fiscal year 1936 there were 899,956 more births than deaths.

The Stay-At-Homes

However large the vote cast at the recent election, it still falls short of the possible maximum. Despite the keen interest in the contest which was generally manifested, and the effort made by both parties to get out the vote, a surprisingly large number of citizens remained at home.

This indifference is much more marked in some sections of the country than in others; and while complete 1936 returns are not yet available at the time this is written, it is probable the differences do not vary greatly from those of 1932. In the table below, the latter figures are used. Based on the 1930 census, they show the percentage of the population in each State which discharged this duty of citizenship.

Bear in mind that for the United States as a whole, about 55 per cent of the population is qualified to vote.

The average for the entire United States was about 32 per cent, which was approximately 28 per cent less than the possible maximum.

The greatest voter apathy is evident in the 'Solid South.' But there are recognized factors which explain this condition.

Voting by the colored people and by the 'poor white trash' is discouraged by the more dominant class. To give effect to this disapproval, many of the southern states have devised the ingenious scheme of requiring that no citizen may vote unless he has paid the State poll tax of usually around two dollars. Probably by design, the authorities rarely make an effort to collect this tax. Payment, if made, is voluntary. And few negroes or poor whites deem the right to vote of sufficient value to warrant paying the required two dollars.

Nor is this device open to legal challenge. For the U. S. Constitution provides that, subject to certain exceptions, each State shall be the sole judge of the qualifications of its voters.

In the South, there is another element which makes for a low percentage of votes. Except in the primaries, contests are rare. Endorsement of the dominant Democratic party is usually tantamount to election. The stimulating influence of conflict is almost wholly absent.

This is not to say, however, that in the South, colored people may not take part in politics. In South Carolina, for example, negroes are not barred from membership in Democratic clubs. However, the requirements for admission may, admittedly, be a bit troublesome. The rules provide:

"Every negro applying for membership in a Democratic club, or offering to vote in a primary, must produce a written statement of ten reputable white men, who shall swear that they know of their own knowledge that the applicant or voter voted for General Hampton in 1876, and has voted the Democratic ticket continuously since. The said statement shall be placed in the bollot box by the managers, and returned with the poll lists to the county chairman. The managers of election shall keep a separate list of all negro voters."

A Lot of Boloney

Due to the shortage of meat in Naziland, Hitler has ordered that henceforth only one kind of sausage may be manufactured. Germany, being limited to one kind of sausage, is learning what a fascist dictatorship really is.

But that wasn't the entire picture. Fat burghers, whose mouths watered at the memory of by-gone days, full of baloney and beer, weren't helped any by the fact that when Hitler announced his decree, a Moscow radio station broadcasted the cheering news that the Soviet Union is now making 143 varieties of sausage.

As a capitalist would say, that's a lot of baloney!
